It's shared interests that help define us

We all have our preferences, the likes and dislikes that form our sense of identity. Some find it in political parties, others in sports teams and others in performers we like to watch.

I'm not impressed with either political party at this time. So rather than managing my expectations, I find myself managing my disappointment in each party.

We all know I'm not much of a sports fan. I'll claim I'm a Packer backer, but when I lived in Minnesota I did waver — but only because I look better in purple than I do in green. It was never a question of loyalty for me but rather where was I at that moment in time.

I do have performers I like to watch. I've been to several Rod Stewart concerts and his "rogue rather than rebel" persona appeals to me. I have a friend in Minneapolis who is a professional actor, and I try to go see whatever show he's in because I know he works in quality productions.

Last weekend, I had the opportunity to see Garrison Keillor do a show at the Mabel Tainter Theater in Menomonie. It was a bonus show on so many levels. First of all, I got to go to the show with a dear friend of mine — she's got a great laugh, so I definitely enjoy going to shows with her.

Second, I got to see a theater I'd heard much about over the years. It's been beautifully restored but I'm not sure it was the best venue for Keillor fans, most of whom were elderly and not incredibly mobile. Although it was handicap accessible, it wasn't exactly handicap friendly.

Third, I got to see a performer who over the years has made me laugh and cry and lose myself in the midst of his stories from Lake Wobegon.

My longest reign of employment was due to this man and his performances. When I lived in Minneapolis, I worked for 14 years at a store that sold primarily merchandise related to his radio show, books and other adventures he has shared along the way.

Working retail is not for the faint of heart and working at the Mall of America, at least when it first opened, was unique just in the sheer volume of people who passed through those halls. I think what kept me working there for so long was the fact that anyone who shopped at the store had a good sense of humor. It was something you could share and be a better person because of it.

My parents were Keillor fans as well and benefited from my ready access to purchase his CDs. I remember bringing home one of the newest collections of Lake Wobegon stories, and we listened to them in the van during our last trip together. The man has a way of weaving a tale that is unlike any other. At one point, I had to pull over as I was laughing too hard to see the road ahead of us.

I have a lot of fond memories shared with my parents and customers and friends thanks to the craft of a performer. I suppose whether it's working toward common goals through a political party, celebrating victories of a team effort or bonding with the tales of quirky man with an overactive imagination, a life well lived is a life well shared.

Appreciation goes out for school board's work

I'd like to take this opportunity to recognize your local school board leaders, as Oct. 6-12 was officially recognized as Wisconsin School

GARRETT ROGOWSKI

School District.

A little about school board membership: In our state, members are chosen by their communities, and Board Week throughout the state. Please join me in thanking our local education leaders for their contributions and commitment to the children of the Wittenberg-Birnamwood voting constituents to manage local schools. They oversee multi-million dollar budgets which fund education programs for more than 867,000 students in more than 420 public school districts. The decisions they make affect nearly 1,200 students in our district annually, 170 staff members and countless families as a direct result.

Primarily, our board members are responsible for formulating school district policy, approving curriculum, maintaining quality school facilities and adhering to state and federal education law. In addition, they spend many hours educating themselves on the complexity of school finance, legal issues surrounding public education and other comprehensive matters in working for the good of our students.

If you get the chance, please extend your appreciation for the nine men and women who truly serve in the best interest of our local school district and those in our care. Please join us in saying thanks to the following school board members of the Wittenberg-Birnamwood School District: Chuck Wendler, president; Tammy Wendler, vice president; Tammy Pestka, secretary; Laura Magee, treasurer; Dennis Rew; Chris Pietz; Kristy Meredith; Bree Krueger-Schmidt and Dan Stewart.

Garrett Rogowski is the superintendent of the Wittenberg-Birnamwood School District.

Q&A WITH MIRANDA BORGEMOEN

Thrivent Pinnacle Team opens office in Hatley

By MIRIAM NELSON
News Editor

Editor's note: The Enterprise & News recently chatted with associate representative Miranda Borgemoen at the new Thrivent office in Hatley.

Q: What is your work/education background?

A: I attended University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point where I received my Bachelor of Arts in Spanish and my Bachelor of Science in business administration with a concentration in investments, finance and real estate. Once I graduated, I moved to Minneapolis, Minnesota, where I worked in commercial banking for the last few years.

Q: Where are you from?

A: I grew up in Hatley, specifically in St. Florian's Catholic Church, and my parents are Jason and Jenny Resch. As a kid and teen, we would attend Mass, my brother and I would spend our summer decorating and cleaning the school for vacation bible school, and once I became confirmed, I helped out with Sunday School until I moved to Stevens Point for college.

My husband and I were married at St. Florian's, and we have a golden retriever named Gaston. I like to call him my "golden" child. In my free time, I enjoy bowling at Resch Lanes in Wittenberg, cooking, traveling and spending time with my friends and family.

Q: What does your job entail?

A: My job is to be a comprehensive financial asset for people. It includes retirement planning and choosing appropriate short- and long-term disability insurance, mutual funds, money market and life insurance. Everyone is different, and we all have different financial goals and activities that are important to us. It's my job to be a judgment-free zone to help individuals and families achieve their unique goals.

Q: What's your philosophy for the need for these products and services?

We all have dreams that can range from going on vacation, to retiring or buying a new car, maybe helping our grandchildren or children go to college. We need to prepare for the unexpected via life and disability insurance to protect our loved ones. The products and services we offer help families have control over their finances to make these items more attainable and prepare for the unfortunate curves life can throw at us.

Q: Does Thrivent work via territories, or can you sell anywhere in Wisconsin or nationwide?

A: Thrivent has a nationwide presence in the financial services industry. Our Thrivent Pinnacle Team office is currently registered in Wisconsin, Minnesota, California, Florida, Arizona, Colorado and Michigan. There are four of us who make up the Thrivent Pinnacle Team. Travis Rose and Jean Greening work out of the Antigo office, Tyler Jozwiak works in the Green Bay/De Pere area. I chose the Hatley area to open an office as I'm familiar with the area and have clients in Wausau and Stevens Point.

Q: Who or what was the inspiration for you becoming an agent?

A: Working in the corporate world, I would have to put on a different "hat" depending on where I was. Therefore I had a "hat" for wife, daughter, Christian, employee and Thrivent gives me an opportunity to get to wear all my "hats" at once and just be Miranda.

Travis Rose shared with me a great opportunity to join the Thrivent Pinnacle Team that was looking to expand its reach in Central and North Eastern Wisconsin. Together our team has more than 38 years of combined experience with a certified financial planner on staff in helping Christians to be wise with their money in even the most complex financial situations.

BOOKS AND STUFF

A tangled tale of friendship and betrayal

It must be something primal, but I really do enjoy reading almost anything when I'm snuggled in a warm blanket with the wind howling outside the house. As long as the power stays on, I'm good to go.

JAN JONES

Scary story lines might not be the common choice for snuggle time books, but who could resist Sue Grafton's kind of scary? "Y is for Yesterday" was a multi-level mystery.

It's 1989, and Kinsey Milhoun is an established private investigator in Santa Teresa, California. She's 39, single and comfortable in the tiny bungalow she rents from her neighbor, Henry. She's a bit surprised to get a call from the mother of the recently paroled Fritz McCabe. The family has received an extortion threat, and they want to hire Kinsey.

AT A GLANCE

BOOK: "Y is for Yesterday"

AUTHOR: Sue Grafton

PUBLISHER: Marian Wood Books/Putnam

PUBLISHED: Aug. 22, 2017

PAGES: 494

As the story bounces back and forth between 1979 and 1989, we are introduced to the students at the elite Climp Academy. Most but not all come from wealthy families. Iris Lehman and Troy Rademaker were the exception, yet they managed to become part of clique that included Austin, Fritz, Steve, Bayard, Sloan, Poppy and Roland. What happened that fall started a deadly chain of events that would echo 10 years into the future.

Since Iris was an outcast, she was desperate to keep her friends Poppy and Troy in school. So she gave them stolen copies of an important test. The school got a tip about what she'd done, so Poppy, Troy and Iris were expelled. Soon Austin Brown said that Sloan Seays had been the "snitch," but she was innocent.

Beneath the swagger, Austin was just a bully who loved finding out secrets and using them to manipulate people. When he got a video camera, he convinced his friends to help him make a porn tape using a very drunk and stoned Iris as the "star." Bayard told Sloan about the tape and suggested she steal it to use as leverage over Austin. So she did.

Things go bad when she refuses to return it and Sloan is murdered. The tape was never found, Fritz was convicted of the murder and sent to juvenile care for 10 years. Troy was convicted of obstruction and served five years. Austin disappeared without a trace, and the others all picked up the pieces and went on with their lives.

Now Fritz is out, and a black-mailer is demanding $25,000 in exchange for the missing tape. If the police get it, Fritz will be charged with rape, so his parents are conflicted about handling the situation.

They want Kinsey to sort things out and fast. She isn't getting much cooperation.

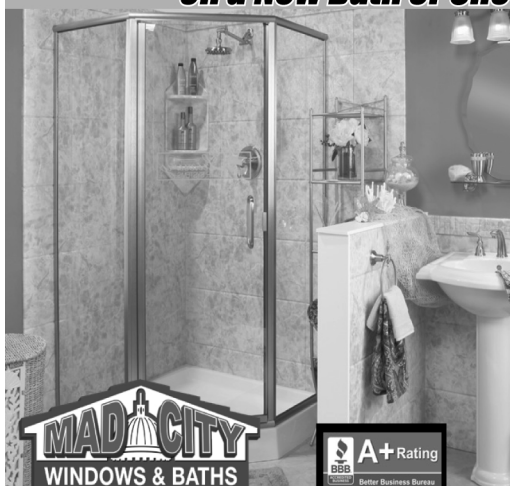

Most of the clique members even use the same words in describing the tape as "a lark." Kinsey is skeptical when she hears that Austin has suddenly been sighted. She can sense there is more to the story than any of the so-called friends are willing to share. All she needs is one thread, and she will be able to unravel the whole sordid mess.

Meanwhile, Kinsey has to be very careful. The serial killer who nearly killed her a year ago has returned, and he is determined to retrieve the souvenirs he took from previous victims. This psychopath is smart, devious and seems to blend in whenever he wants to disappear. Toss in a pair of homeless souls, a protective dog, a pregnant distant relative and several former lovers, and you have a real tangled tale.

I don't know how Sue Grafton does it, but I hope she keeps it up for a long time.

Brief Facility Description and Summary of Proposed Changes: The Bowler wastewater treatment plant treats domestic wastes generated within the village. The single largest user is the K-12 public school. Treatment consists of two aerated lagoons in series with a surface water discharge to the North Branch of the Embarrass River. Aeration is provided using 19 medium bubble diffuser plates, 14 in the first lagoon and five in the second. Lagoon effluent is pH adjusted (as needed) using sulfuric acid to meet daily maximum ammonia limitations. Lagoon effluent is also seasonally disinfected using ultraviolet radiation. The system was designed to treat an average flow of 0.0336 MGD and BOD5 loading of 133 #/day. The system was originally constructed in 1971 with upgrades in 1987 and 2012.

Fecal Coliform: A weekly geometric mean limit of 656#/100mL was added for May through September.
Ammonia Nitrogen: Weekly and monthly limits were added.
Total Nitrogen Monitoring (NO2+NO3, TKN and Total N):

Legals
WNAXLP

Annual monitoring in rotating quarters required.

Phosphorus: A calculated mass discharge reporting requirement was added.

Acute WET testing: No longer required.
