When the Webb Street Gang roamed the streets

It was an age of innocence — a lifetime ago. We called ourselves the Webb Street Gang. There was no malicious purpose, just a bunch of neighborhood kids playing after school, on weekends and all summer long.

It was a time when that's what kids would do — just hang out. Sometimes we played badminton, sometimes baseball and sometimes we just let our imaginations take us to scenarios of running businesses off the sidewalks using non-existent lines to define the boundaries.

What mattered was having the time to play, forging friendships and settling disputes. We learned the fine art of compromise and negotiation, knowing we had to come up with solutions that were fair and tolerable for everyone. It could be a very long summer if you "won" the disagreement but lost the friendship.

Looking back on those days, I realize how lucky I was to grow up on this street. At that time, it represented stability in the fact that very few families moved in or out of the neighborhood. When your surroundings don't change much it can add a sense of continuity that, I think, many kids don't get now.

The parents on our street pretty much stayed in the jobs they had until the day they retired. I was fortunate that my parents enjoyed their work, and I'm making a big assumption that the neighborhood parents enjoyed theirs as well. It's not something that I ever contemplated in my youth. At the very least, they found no reason to move on. I can't even remember how many jobs I've had over the years. Some were good and I wanted to stay, but the constant flux of business life would not allow that. Some were awful and I couldn't wait to leave, but the opportunity to move on wasn't always available when I was itching to go. If anything, the stability of my childhood years and home life left me ill-prepared for the world I face as an adult. I'm not complaining; I'm truly grateful for that idyllic childhood and the memories I made with the Webb Street Gang, and I'm no worse off for the varied employment experiences.

As the gang grew up, we all moved away to seek our adventures in different areas of the world. I'm the only one who moved away and returned to my childhood home. For me, it was the right thing to do. I've had plenty of adventures, and it was important to move back to a place that has held so many happy memories for me and to spend time with my parents easing their transition from this world to the next.

Fifty years ago, our neighborhood changed as a family with four kids moved in and became part of our unofficial gang. We loved them from the start and made a pile of memories.

As adults, they moved on to different states but came back to celebrate the life of their mother who passed last week. Many of our original gang were able to attend the service. Memories are the ties that bind our hearts together with love and friendship. It was good to see the "kids" again and fun to reunite with other kids from our gang. Stories were told — some embellished, some not so clear, but there is something about reliving your childhood that is good for the soul.

Of all the neighborhood moms and dads, there is now only one mom still living, and I'm grateful for every chance I get to visit with her.

The neighborhood has completely transformed, and the houses on our street are once again filled with children. I can only hope that their Webb Street Gang will give them as many fond memories as mine did.

WBSD votes to spend money on capital projects

Budgeted money and Fund 46 will be used

By MIRIAM NELSON
News Editor

WITTENBERG — The Wittenberg-Birnamwood School District approved six projects totaling $339,624 at the Feb. 24 board meeting.

The money for these projects is coming from two separate funds.

Three projects that were budgeted for in the annual school budget total $112,246 and can be started at any time. The three projects totaling $227,378 are being funded through Fund 46 and cannot start until after July 1, which is the first date money can be drawn from that account.

Five years ago, the state of Wisconsin passed a law allowing school districts to establish a fund where any remaining revenue after each fiscal year can be deposited in a separate fund which can only be allocated toward capital project expenses. Another stipulation was that the fund could not be accessed for five years.

This is the first time that WBSD will be allowed to withdraw from that account which, according to Superintendent Garrett Rogowski, has about $2.5 million.

Now that the five-year hold has been met, WBSD will be able to add to and withdraw from Fund 46 as needed. To access the money, a plan needs to be turned in to the Department of Public Instruction indicating how the funds will be used. It is audited and reported every year.

The interiors doors in the high school will be replaced at a cost of $80,982 from Fund 46. Rogowski noted that many of the doors are not similar or standard sizes. The door frames are in good shape and will be able to be reused for the project said Dan Johnson, maintenance supervisor.

Also, at the high school will be a resurfacing of the track for $66,546 — which is less than what the board expected because the contractor has a similar project in the area and was able to offer a better price. Rogowski noted that it is important to do this project this summer to protect the integrity of the track and is a good use of the Fund 46 money.

The blacktop paving project at Wittenberg Elementary and Middle School will use Fund 46 and will cost $79,850. The plan is to extend the parking lot on the west side of the school from the road to the fence line of the playground. This will allow for more angled parking spots. There is currently only room for parallel parking in that area. A new parking area will extend from the storage garage to the playground, which will offer additional parking spaces. The existing parking lot on the north end of the school and in front of the storage garage will be resurfaced.

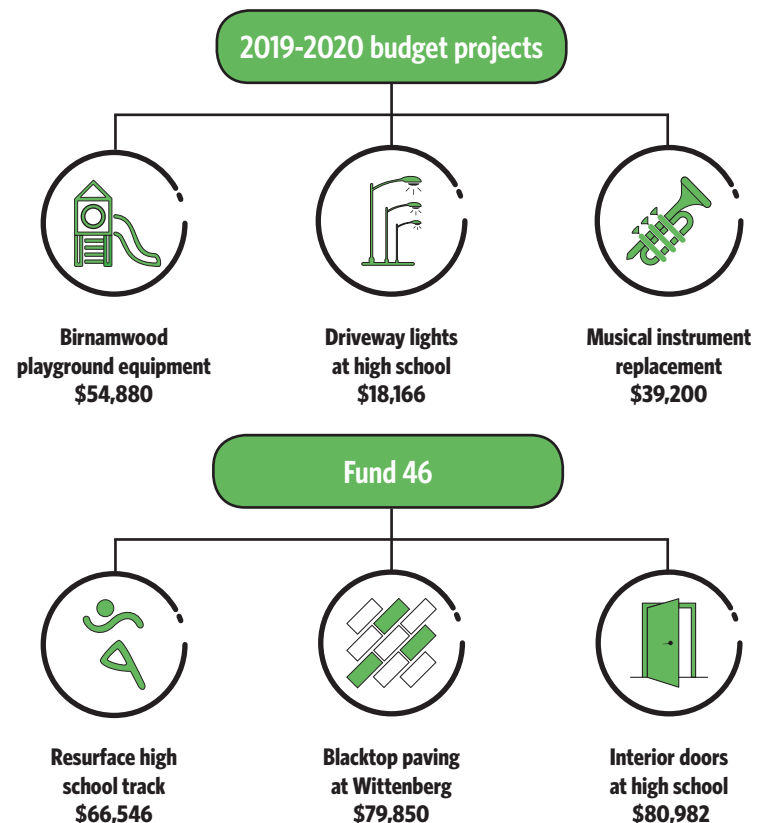

The board approved three projects that were part of the annual school budget totaling $112,246.

The music departments at all three schools will be getting new pianos. Rogowski said the estimates for the pianos are about $6,000 per piano.

The rest of the allotted $39,200 will be used to purchase replacement instruments for student use. Rogowski noted that even though a number of students own their instruments, a number of students use the ones the schools provide, which is especially helpful with the younger students who may want to try out several instruments.

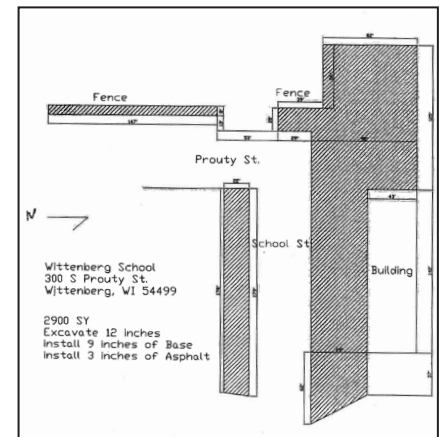

Driveway lights at the high

CAPITAL PROJECTS APPROVED AT WBSD FEB. 24 BOARD MEETING:

school will be purchased and installed for $18,666. Krueger Electric, the company that handles the lighting needs for the district, submitted the lowest bid, which includes posts with the attachments to hang banners or planter baskets. The four posts will be on the east side of the road and will draw power from the concession stand at the ball field. They will add additional lighting for the flag pole in between the ball diamonds.

The Birnamwood playground equipment will include installation and will feature a play structure and a spinner for $54,880. It will be added on the side of the new addition and will serve the 4K through second grade students.

Wittenberg Elementary and Middle School will be getting additional parking spaces. The Wittenberg-Birnamwood School Board approved a blacktop paving project, which includes creating new areas near the fence and resurfacing the existing parking lots along School Street.

Multiple murders are wrapped up for Christmas

The cold, raw winds lately really put me in the mood when I read "Festive in Death" by J.D. Robb.

It is only days before Christmas when Lt. Eve Dallas is called to the scene of a murder. The victim was Trey Ziegler, a very successful personal trainer. He died from damage done by two blows to the head with one of his trophies. Additionally, a large knife is stuck in his chest holding a sign saying "Santa says you've been very bad. Ho Ho Ho." It doesn't take Dallas long to learn that Ziegler may have been a great trainer, but a total jerk otherwise.

His "love 'em and leave 'em" attitude toward women made him a long list of female enemies. Men disliked him because of his arrogance and ultra-competitive behavior. Dallas and Detective Peabody tackle the long list of people who knew Trey Ziegler, hoping to find a way to connect the dots and identify the killer before Christmas.

Christmas and all its frenzied gift buying and decorating are still completely foreign to Dallas. Her childhood held no happy holiday memories. Even her various foster homes fell short in teaching her Christmas cheer. Her dearly loved husband, Roarke, takes great pleasure in giving gifts and holding fabulous parties. So as much as she tries to avoid it, Eve is honor bound to find "the perfect gift" for those closest to her. Being Eve, she manages to put off shopping until the last minute.

Luckily, she has a good relationship with a former street urchin/criminal named Tiko. He's now legit and has connections with a couple who soon have Eve loaded with just what she needs, but she still has to wrap them. That's when she makes a deal with Summerset, the butler. He'll wrap them if Eve will help with preparations for the big Christmas party.

Putting that out of her mind, Eve returns to the case. They have learned that Ziegler was offering in-home massages that include his special herbal tea, incense and sex. Each session earns him a fat fee plus a little extra to keep him quiet. Analysis of the tea and incense proves that the women were being drugged.

Eventually Eve narrows the list to J.J. Copely and Natasha Quigley and her sister Martella and husband Lance Shubert. Ziegler had drugged and blackmailed Martella, but Natasha had slept with him willingly and often. A little more digging reveals that J.J. Copely has been siphoning money from his wife's company and has been keeping a young dancer in a luxury apartment. Did Ziegler try to blackmail Copely, too?

Eve hates to do it but supervises some of the party prep, submits to Trina's beauty and dress up for the party. The party is a big success and even fun, but after a few hours rest they are on the job. Then Eve gets a report that Natasha made a 911 call that J.J. was attacking her.

They find J.J. Copely fuming, the Shubert's social secretary Catiana DuBois at the base of the fireplace and Natasha Quigley with a serious head wound. The call is enough for Eve to arrest J.J. for both murders. While Natasha undergoes surgery, Eve blasts Copely with "proof" that he killed Ziegler and Catiana and tried to kill his wife. Copely insists that he's innocent on all accounts.

By the next morning, Eve has figured out what has nagged her from the start and confronts Natasha. By the time she is finished, she spells out how and why Natasha killed Ziegler, Catiana and nearly killed herself trying to frame J.J. Closing the case can't bring back the dead, but it should give their families some closure and Eve's team a chance for a pleasant Christmas.
