County board approves new broadband applications

$500,000 matching funds OK'd to improve internet access in four northern county towns

By WARREN BLUHM

Editor-in-chief

The Oconto County Board has approved two more applications to the state Public Service Commission for projects developers say would improve broadband internet access to businesses and residents in the northern part of the county.

The PSC recently announced another round of broadband services grants of up to $100 million for unserved or underserved homes and businesses. Bertram Communications and the Oconto County Economic Development Corp. (OCEDC) approached the county board July 22 with projects to provide improved service in the Lakewood-Townsend area and the towns of Riverview and Mountain.

The Lakewood-Townsend project would serve an estimated 400 homes and businesses and would be completed in 2022-23. The project would cost $1.445 million, and the application is for a $945,710 grant that would be matched with $250,000 each from Bertram and from the county.

The Riverview-Mountain project would serve about 500 homes and businesses and is also targeted for 2022-23. The $2.095 million project would require a $1.595 million state grant with the county and Bertram again contributing $250,000 each.

The county's share would come from the $7,367,458 that Oconto County is slated to receive through the federal American Rescue Plan.

The grant applications were approved after supervisors were briefed on the projects by Paul Ehrfurth, executive director of OCEDC, and Mark Dodge, director of business development for Bertram.

Ehrfurth said he's learned a couple of things in the years he's been working on broadband applications.

"No. 1, what a daunting task it is and what a challenge it is and how inadequate service is throughout Oconto County, and I've also learned the complexity of the problem in terms of technologies, topography, geography," Ehrfurth said. "We have been fortunate to work with Bertram with these past two applications, and I gotta tell you: With all those providers out there, the only provider that has approached us and we're working with on broadband is Bertram Communications."

Bertram currently has 14 sites providing internet access throughout the county — 10 with the support of the county board and OCEDC, Dodge said.

His father is a heart patient who lives in northern Oconto County, and the family learned firsthand how hard it is to get online, he said.

"We were driving a half-hour to either Shawano or up in Lakewood to a coffee shop for us to be able to transmit his health information, and in 2021 you shouldn't have to," Dodge said.

The PSC announced its latest round of grants on June 1 with a deadline to submit applications by July 27, a quick turnaround, Ehrfurth said. Another $130 million in grants is expected to be made available in the fall.

Bertram brought four proposals in all to the county this time around, and the Finance/Personnel Committee voted to bring these two forward, holding back for now on projects to serve the towns of Doty and Brazeau, Ehrfurth said.

Supervisor Don Bartels Jr. urged the board to approve the applications.

"The northern part of the county is horribly served," Bartels said. He urged the supervisors to pass "anything you can do to boost the economy of not only northern Oconto County, but the entire county."

The resolutions passed on identical 27-1 votes.

Extra funding OK'd for New Beginnings project Construction expected to begin in September

By WARREN BLUHM

Editor-in-chief

The Oconto County Board has approved an additional $350,000 for the New Beginnings construction project in Gillett after bids came in much higher than expected.

The 6,000-square-foot facility on West Park Street, adjacent to the existing New View Industries campus, is designed to house a retail store — replacing the existing store in Oconto Falls — as well as a computer lab, small group meeting rooms, a kitchen commons, multipurpose activity room and a counseling room, along with associated storage and other facilities.

Originally estimated as a $1.38 million project, after general contractor the Samuels Group reviewed the bids, it revised the cost to $1.732 million — including a total of $1.5 million for construction, $165,500 for engineering, $45,000 for furnishings and $20,000 for administration.

Ziese Construction, of Green Bay, was awarded the project for $1.477 million, which will be paid from the county's Community Development Block Grant account. The county had allocated $50,000 in matching funds and took the extra $350,000 from its federal American Rescue Funds allocation of $7.367 million.

Construction is now expected to begin in September with completion sometime next year, County Administrator Kevin Hamann said.

Sentencing set in double murder

Vannieuwenhoven found guilty of 1976 crimes after weeklong trial

By NEW MEDIA STAFF

Marinette County Judge James A. Morrison has scheduled sentencing for Aug. 26 for an elderly Lakewood man convicted in the shooting deaths of a Green Bay couple 45 years ago.

A jury deliberated for about two hours July 27 before finding Raymand L. Vannieuwenhoven, 84, guilty of killing David Schuldes, 25, and Ellen Matheys, 24, at the McClintock Park campground in the Town of Silver Cliff in Marinette County.

Matheys had also been sexually assaulted, and a man's DNA from her clothing was irrefutably matched to

VANNIEUWENHOVEN

Vannieuwenhoven, who was arrested in March 2019. The trial was delayed in part by the COVID-19 pandemic but also because the defendant sustained a health setback and was ruled incapable of helping in his own defense for several months.

In March 2018, Marinette County sheriff's investigators had enlisted the help of Parabon NanoLabs, a Virginia firm that uses DNA and genealogical research to identify crime suspects. Within three months, Parabon told lead detective Todd Baldwin that "the suspect's DNA had ancestry mainly from the northern European area. The suspect has fair to very fair skin color, blue eyes, reddish brown hair color and some or few freckles," according to the original complaint.

By December, further research narrowed the list of possible suspects all the way down to the sons and grandsons of Gladys Brunette and Edward K. Vannieuwenhoven, a Green Bay area family, the complaint said.

After eliminating two of Raymand's brothers, Baldwin enlisted the help of Oconto County Chief Deputy Darren Laskowski, who came to the Lakewood home and asked Vannieuwenhoven if he would fill out a short survey about policing in the various townships, further asking him to seal the completed survey in an envelope.

The crime lab was able to develop a DNA profile from the saliva on the envelope and conclusively match it to the profile that had been collected all those years ago.

Testimony in the trial lasted about a week before the case was placed in the jury's hands. Morrison set sentencing for 11 a.m. Aug. 26.

City of Oconto Falls seeks to buy land for substation from school district

The 4.9-acre site is well south of potential middle school complex

By WARREN BLUHM
Editor-in-chief

The Oconto Falls School Board has agreed to pursue the sale of some of its land along County Road I to the City of Oconto Falls for use as a new substation.

Public Works Director Greg Kuhn appeared at the board's June meeting to outline the city's request. At the July 12 meeting, Superintendent Dean Hess reminded the board that the city is maxing out capacity of its current substation and anticipates that the load will only grow as the community grows.

The land in question is about 4.9 acres on the southern end of property the district purchased about two years ago, across the county highway from the campus that now includes the high school, Oconto Falls Elementary School and ST Paper Stadium.

"The district purchased 100-plus acres in this area, as you know, and that was to allow the district at its discretion the opportunity — if you ever felt the community would support potentially putting a school somewhere — you would have an option of where to put it," Hess said. "Regardless of how the district moves forward, I don't see that honoring this (potential sale) would in any way preclude the district from doing the things that you would have an interest in doing in the future."

The concept of a new middle school complex, one option to deal with building issues at the aging Washington Middle School, is well north of the substation site on the property, he said.

Board Vice President Jan Stranz supported working with the city.

"I continue to think that it would be a good thing for us to consider selling some negotiated price, whatever that would be, to the city for the use of that substation," Stranz said. "It's important for the city. The reasons why they're doing it are sound, and I think what Dr. Hess said now about the fact that it would not jeopardize, the fact that we still have property and have plenty of opportunities to use it in some fashion, is good."

The board planned to meet in closed session, either at a special meeting July 28 or its regular Aug. 9 meeting, to discuss negotiation strategy for the sale.

Highway 32 Pulaski-to-Gillett project begins

The Wisconsin Department of Transportation Northeast Region Office reminds motorists that work on state Highway 32 from the north village limits of Pulaski (South Chase Road) to state Highway 22 near Gillett begins July 26. Construction is expected to continue through the end of October.

The plan is for the highway to remain open using lane closures and flagging operations in the work zone. There may be short durations when access to side streets and driveways is restricted for pavement operations. The contractor is required to notify property owners 48 hours in advance of any driveway restriction.

The project aims to resurface 14.2 miles of state Highway 32 using cold-in-place recycling and hot mix asphalt, apply new shoulder and centerline rumble strips and apply a polyester polymer concrete overlay of the Pensaukee River bridge. Other work includes culverts, beamguard, shoulders and pavement markings.

The $8.6 million project is expected to provide a smoother driving surface for motorists and extend the life of the existing pavement. New centerline and shoulder rumble strips are included to enhance safety. Drivers can follow construction progress and traffic impacts for this project on the Northeast Region Weekly Highway Construction Update at <https://projects.511wi.gov/weeklyupdates-ne/>.

James S. LaChapelle

James Stuart LaChapelle, 87, was welcomed through heaven's gates on July 24, 2021, with family by his side.

James (Jim) was born Jan. 23, 1934, to the late Stuart and Lillian (Riebe) LaChapelle. Jim was born in Green Bay and graduated from West High School. Following high school, James proudly joined the United States Navy and served during the Korean War. Upon his completion of service, Jim joined the workforce and retired as a laborer in construction.

Jim will be remembered as a great storyteller who loved hunting and observing nature at his home along the Oconto River. He also loved a good fish fry, caring for his dog, Elvis, and spending time with his family. Above all, in his later years his most cherished role was that as a grandfather. He emphasized to them the need of knowledge, an education and realizing their full potential. He was always there for them, and he was so proud of their successes and of the adults they became.

Jim is survived by the "love of his life" (his words) Nanci LaChapelle. He was preceded in death by one son, Gregory Peter LaChapelle.

The family would like to thank Unity Hospice and their staff. We could not have asked for better people to care for and help Jim transition to his eternal home.

Funeral services for Jim were held at 11 a.m. Wednesday, July 28, 2021, at Faith United Lutheran Church, 11465 Old U Road, Gillett, with Pastor John Laatsch officiating. Military honors took place immediately after.

Kuehl Funeral Home is honored to serve the family.

Marvin 'Pete' N. Strehlow

Marvin "Pete" Norman Strehlow, 88, of Suring, passed away on Wednesday, July 21, 2021. Pete was born to the late William and Clara (Guelker) Strehlow on Feb. 17, 1933, in Hayes. In 1951, Pete graduated from Suring High School where he was the quarterback of the football team. On Feb. 14, 1953, Pete married Clara Firgens.

Pete was the bookkeeper and manager of the Suring Co-Op. As if working 50 hours a week and having five children wasn't enough, Pete spent his spare time raising steers, pigs, chickens, and sheep. He enjoyed playing softball with his brothers and friends. He enjoyed fishing trips to Canada and Minnesota and hunting out west. Pete's favorite week of the year was Wisconsin deer season.

When the five Strehlow brothers got together, the room was filled with stories and laughter.

They were a close-knit family, always helping one another out. Pete had amazing problem-solving skills. He never owned a new piece of equipment, but he could fix all the old stuff he had. Haying was always an adventure because the baler broke down after every round. He took apart an old barn and reconstructed it on his property.

Pete didn't believe in being idle. He loved tapping maple trees. Every spring, Pete and brother, Curtis, along with nieces and nephews, kids and grandkids, would carry on the 100-plus-year-old Strehlow tradition.

Pete is survived by five of his children, Rhonda Strehlow (Bob Guyette), Ellen (Jim) Meverden, Vicki (Jerry) Fischer, Marlin Strehlow, and Gail (Bob) Thomas; three grandchildren, Valerie (Chris) Brooks, Amanda Thomas and Marisa Thomas; two great-grandchildren, Kaitlin Brooks and Dylan Brooks; two sisters, Fern Cramer and Fay (Tom) Stache; sister-in-law, Audrey Strehlow. He is further survived by many nieces, nephews, other relatives, and friends.

Pete was preceded in death by his wife, Clara; daughter, Audrey; grandson, Matthew Meverden; seven siblings, Lewellyn "Lew" (Virginia), Gaylord "Bub" (Melanie), Roland "Park" (Helen), Curtis, Betty "Poots" (Norman) Saffron, Beulah Lazansky, and Kay (Tom) Dhein.

Services were held on Saturday, July 24, 2021, at Suring United Methodist Church at 11 a.m. with Pastor Kate Kvidera officiating. Pete will be interred in Pleasant Hill Cemetery.

Gruetzmacher Funeral Home in Suring is assisting the family with arrangements. Online condolences can be expressed at www.gruetzmacherfuneralhome.com.

The family would like to thank the outstanding staff at The Cottages at Meadowlands Memory Care Unit in Oconto Falls.

In lieu of flowers, a memorial fund has been established.

Pete loved a good joke, although he always laughed too hard to retell it. We'll miss his sense of humor and that happy-go-lucky smile.

Lena is center of off-road racing world this weekend

Dirt City Duel runs through Sunday

Off-road racing fans and drivers from all over the nation will come together in Oconto County starting July 31 for the third annual Dirt City Duel weekend at the Dirt City Motorplex racetrack in Lena. The event is part of the new, innovative shortcourse racing series — the Amsoil Championship Off-Road.

"The Dirt City Duel has quickly become a favorite summer celebration for Oconto County," said Samantha Boucher, tourism manager, Oconto County Economic Development Corp. "The 2021 event promises to be the most exciting one yet, showcasing the best in short-course off-road racing, with an array of drivers in specially modified vehicles competing for glory."

Opened in 2019, the Dirt City

Motorplex is a motorsports facility featuring a one-mile-long, short-course off-road track, designed in consultation with several drivers — including Johnny Greaves, a veteran champion driver from the area. Dirt City's natural viewing area holds up to 10,000 spectators, and the course allows vehicles to fly high in front of the crowd. Races include Pro4, Pro2, Pro Lite, Sportsman and SxS (Side-by-Side) competitions.

The action for this year's Dirt City Duel begins Saturday morning. For those not able to attend in person, races will be livestreamed throughout the weekend.

Dirt City is family-friendly and offers off- and on-site camping right outside the racer pit area for those who want to make a weekend of it. In addition to campsites amenities, the Dirt City Motorplex complex also features a gas station, LP gas, race fuel, Bumper to Bumper Auto & Race Parts Store and The Dairy Barn Restaurant. Spectators are asked to bring their own chairs for seating. Concessions will be available, and no carry-ins are allowed.

Shawano native will be interim UW vice president

University of Wisconsin System President Tommy Thompson has named Jeff Buhrandt as Interim Vice President for University Relations, replacing Scott Neitzel who is resigning his position after helping guide UW System during the coronavirus pandemic.

“Scott’s budget and management experience was key to helping me navigate the many challenges presented by the pandemic this past year,” Thompson said. “His senior leadership enabled us to do many things we would never have been able to do without him accepting this role. He has my sincerest thanks and appreciation.”

Neitzel, whose last day will be July 18, was instrumental in helping craft UW System’s community and student testing program and the Sys-tem’s legislative budget approval. Buhrandt, who begins his new role July 21, has a bachelor’s degree from UW-Stevens Point and a master’s degree from UW-Milwaukee. He has served in a variety of roles at UW System since 2014, most recently as the Associate Vice President for Government Relations in which he oversees the System’s interactions with the executive and legislative branches of state and federal government.

The Office of University Relations oversees corporate relations, government relations, and communications.

Prior to joining UW System, Buhrandt worked for eight years in the Wisconsin Senate after beginning his career working in the office of longtime Wisconsin U.S. Rep. David Obey. Buhrandt grew up in Shawano.

Vintage plane fans fly Ercoupe

A member of the Ercoupe Owners Club supports the club's mission to keep the vintage flying as he participated in a 21-plane fly-in to the Shawano Municipal Airport on July 23. Club members flew from Wausau to Shawano, ate lunch at the Lighthouse, then flew to Clintonville and back to Wausau. Club members then plan to fly to Oshkosh for the Experimental Aircraft Association convention.

Ercoupe vintage airplanes line up at Shawano Municipal Airport before taking off for Clintonville and Wausau on July 23. The airport and the Lighthouse, a neighboring restaurant, hosted pilots, friends and family members of 21 of the small planes, built between 1937 and 1970. The Ercoupe was billed as a plane anyone can fly.

Golfers need offseason prep to avoid injuries

Golf enthusiasts are in their glory as golfing weather has returned to Wisconsin. Some players may find themselves suffering game-limiting injuries if they haven't prepared for the season properly.

"If golfers are only playing in those months when the weather is favorable in Wisconsin and are not exercising much in the offseason, that can increase their risk for injury," said Dr. Ryan Wagner, an orthopedic physician specializing in sports medicine with ThedaCare Orthopedic Care. "Injury prevention is key to being successful in most sports."

He offers some reminders as golfers hit the links.

"One of the important factors with golf is making sure the golfer does a proper warm-up and stretching routine prior to going out to play," Wagner said. "There is increased risk of injury going directly onto the course and starting to hit off the first tee without warming up. Stretching the hamstrings, calves, obliques, back, shoulders and wrists is important."

In addition to stretching, there are other suggestions to follow.

"I recommend swinging the golf club a few times, gradually increasing the range, motion and swing speed instead of going to the first tee and swinging as hard as you can," Wagner said. "Doing a few swings at the driving range as a warm up to get the blood flowing to the golfer's muscles and extremities can also prove beneficial."

Wagner noted that the most common body areas where golfers suffer injuries are the elbow, back and rotator cuff. Those areas are followed by injuries to the knee, wrist, foot, ankle, neck, hand and fingers, per Golf Fitness magazine.

"The majority of golf injuries are the result of overuse," he noted. "We see a lot of repetitive use injuries here at ThedaCare Orthopedic Care, whether it's playing golf, baseball or gymnastics. Repeating the same golf swing motion over and over places significant stresses on the same muscles, tendons and joints, which can lead to injury over time, especially if golfers are only playing during the short Wisconsin season."

Wagner said golfer's elbow, officially known as medial epicondylitis, is one of the most common injuries.

"It is an inflammation of the tendons that attach at the inside bone of the elbow," he said. "Pain can occur while playing, and some golfers will keep playing through the pain. If a golfer is experiencing that kind of pain, it's important to listen to his or her body, stop playing, ice and rest the tendons to prevent exacerbation of the injury. Playing through pain is not a wise choice. Rest your body and seek professional health care advice if the problem does not resolve after rest. Many golfers benefit from occupational or physical therapy to relieve golf injuries."

Back pain is another common ailment for golfers, and this can be caused by poor body mechanics during golf swings.

"Swinging the golf club causes rotational stresses, and this can place significant torque on the spine — especially the muscles along the spine," Wagner said. "Spending some time with a golf instructor or teaching professional to work on appropriate swing biomechanics can help prevent injury."

The third most common golf injury involves damage to the rotator cuff.

"The rotator cuff supports the position of the shoulder," Wagner said. "It can become injured due to the repetitive nature of golf swings or by hitting the ground with the club, which can cause a sudden jar to that muscle area. Golfers may notice decreased motion or swing speed, which is a sign of a rotator cuff injury. Evaluation by a medical professional should be considered."

Starting slow at the beginning of the golfing season is another point Wagner recommends.

"When you go to the golf course at the beginning of the season, start off slowly and increase the length of play and intensity over the course of the season," he said. "Avoid trying to go 100% on the first time out; that can increase risk for injury as well."

In the offseason, it's important to focus on good aerobic conditioning, as well as core muscle strength to improve swing mechanics.

"There are a number of online exercise programs that can help golfers keep in shape during the offseason," Wagner said. "A good home exercise program that a golfer completes multiple days per week is a great offseason training regimen. When the season comes around, the golfer will already be in reasonably good shape, which will provide endurance to play longer and the capability to finish a round of golf at the optimal level."

Wagner said another opportunity for experiencing injury on the golf course occurs when carrying golf bags or lifting bags in/out of a cart.

"Sometimes golfers carry their own bags and that can cause shoulder or back injuries," he said. "Other golfers ride in carts or push their carts. In each case, making sure to use appropriate body mechanics such as keeping a straight back as well as lifting with the knees can prevent injury. Golf bags are heavy and cumbersome, which can create unusual stresses on a golfer's body."

Lastly, Wagner reminds golfers to wear appropriate-fitting golf shoes to support their ankles and backs, dress in layers for ever-changing weather conditions, wear a hat, sunscreen and sunglasses and drink plenty of water.

"I recommend golfers carry a water bottle at all times and hydrate regularly," he said. "After playing in the sun for a few hours, golfers can develop heat stroke or become dehydrated. Drinking water regularly will help prevent those events from happening."

Wagner wants everyone — from advanced golfers to beginners — to enjoy the game, and receive the benefits of physical activity.

"Playing golf is a great way for people of all ages to exercise and keep in shape," he said.

Extension could share family living, ag employees

Shawano County looks to split staff with Oconto, Marinette counties

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

Shawano County is hoping to cut costs by sharing some of its University of Wisconsin-Extension employees with Oconto and Marinette counties.

The subject was brought up by the executive committee July 22 as it was discussing approving a $12,000 contract for services to provide Strong Bodies classes, formerly known as Strong Bones, for older residents. The classes had been very popular throughout the county until the pandemic forced most in-person programs to shut down.

According to Terri Brunner, coordinator for Shawano County's extension program, the Strong Bodies program had previously been managed by a family living educator, but there is no one in the position currently.

"Through county budget cuts and different transitions with the UW, the county voted years ago to go with a county hire for a healthy families and communities coordinator," Brunner said. "That person was able to handle the program because she was an instructor with the program and had been trained by the UW, so she was able to continue in that role."

Brunner said that coordinator moved to a different office with the county and a new one was hired, but then coronavirus broke out — leaving the new coordinator unable to do much in the position. That person left the county last fall.

"Since then, we've looked at whether we replace the position, which is a 50-50 hire with no benefits, and we were looking at $22,000 (for the county's portion) of funds for that position," Brunner said. "Since then, we've done a needs assessment to determine that, because our programs haven't been going for so long, the people using the programs had found other resources to support what they needed. The only exception has been Strong Bones, now referred to as the Strong Bodies program."

Brunner noted the contract is contingent on how the county fills the healthy families and communities coordinator position. She said that, since the position is not being filled at present, there is money in the budget for the contracted work.

County Board Chairman Tom Kautza said that things are going to have to be done differently in the county when it comes to job positions, because lackluster wages have been causing county employees — especially with the sheriff's department — to leave for better-paying jobs. He suggested that the healthy families and communities coordinator and the agriculture agent, both of which are full-time positions covering one county, be shared with Oconto and Marinette counties, which would make Shawano County responsible for one-third of the pay and benefits with those positions.

"When I was on (the) ag and extension (committee), we tried to reduce the ag agent from full time to half time, and it lost out with the committee," Kautza said. "At the end of the year, if they don't pass it through ag and extension, we should force them, through the budget process, to go through and join with Oconto and Marinette."

Kautza added that the other two counties have expressed an interest in merging the positions, and that it's been something the three counties have discussed for over a year.

"We've only got so much to work with, and we've got to evaluate the priorities," he said. "They've got theirs whittled right down. They spend almost nothing compared to what we do."

Report: Broadband keeps older people connected

Adequate internet can stave off social isolation, connect patients to health

By SHAMANE MILLS
Wisconsin Public Radio

Wisconsin is investing millions in broadband after its importance was underscored during the pandemic when it allowed some people to work from home and students to attend school virtually. But some say more needs to be done.

This month, Democratic U.S. Sen. Tammy Baldwin was in several places in the state, including Green Bay, urging Congress to pass bipartisan legislation to expand access to reliable, high-speed broadband across Wisconsin. The legislation would help close the digital divide in Wisconsin, Baldwin said, by investing $65 billion to bring affordable, reliable coverage to every family in America.

Spotty or slow internet was a sore point for those trying to work from home during the pandemic, and it made virtual schooling difficult in some districts. It also took a toll on Wisconsin's older adults who relied on computers and smartphones for doctor's appointments and socialization with friends and family.

America's Health Rankings, compiled by UnitedHealth Foundation, ranked Wisconsin 33rd for the percentage of people 65 and older who have access to high-speed internet. The organization said lacking that access contributes to widespread levels of social isolation, especially in Ashland, Menominee and Milwaukee counties.

Data for the America's Health Rankings Senior Report was compiled before the pandemic, which temporarily stopped visits at nursing homes and prompted senior centers to close.

"It's great if you can use FaceTime or Skype or Zoom, but if they don't have a broadband connection, you're resorting to people standing out in your front lawn if they happen to live close enough for a window visit, which in the dead of winter in Wisconsin isn't likely to happen," said Janet Zander, policy coordinator for the Wisconsin Aging Advocacy Network, which recently issued its own report on internet access for older adults.

High speed internet increased 10% nationally between 2016-2019 for those 65-plus, according to America's Health Rankings Senior Report.

In 2019, 78% of households with adults ages 65 and older had high-speed internet, compared to 88% of households of all ages with high-speed internet.

The report said 75% of older households in Wisconsin had high-speed internet via computer or smartphone before the pandemic. It was one of several challenges cited by the report to health among older adults along with excessive drinking and obesity.

Dr. Rhonda Randall, chief medical officer for United Healthcare, said many older adults obtained health care through virtual visits with their doctor during the pandemic. Because of this, she expects better internet access will be "one of the measures that will have significant improvements" in the future.

In July, Gov. Tony Evers signed a two-year budget which includes $129 million for the Broadband Expansion Grant Program. Evers, a Democrat, and GOP lawmakers agreed on the need to improve broadband across Wisconsin but disagreed on how to fund it. The Republican-controlled budget-writing committee approved $129 million through bonding. Evers, who wanted $200 million, said bonding would cost taxpayers more in the long run, but nevertheless agreed to it in the final budget.

Groups representing older adults expressed their disappointment in the level of funding for broadband, which AARP Wisconsin said "is no longer a luxury for folks of all ages — it's a necessity."

"We have great faith that our state lawmakers can work together in a bipartisan manner to pass legislation this fall that truly reflects the critical wants and needs of our most vulnerable citizens. In order to achieve this, however, we ask them once again to put politics aside and act in the best interest of all Wisconsinites," said AARP State Director Sam Wilson in a statement.

CMN gets grants for solar panels, trail, comics

3 grants will help to align college with its strategic plans

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

The College of Menominee Nation was recently awarded three grants for the 2021-2022 fiscal year.

The grants that were received were EBSCO Information Services' 2021 EBSCO Solar Grant, worth $60,000, the Second Nature's Acceleration Fund, worth $7,000 and the American Indian College Fund's Community Based Learning and Sharing Grant, worth $20,000.

"I am humbled that we are able to receive the grants," said Rebecca Edler, interim director of the Sustainable Development Institute. "Receiving these grants really reinforces the hard work that everyone here is contributing to."

Edler and other CMN officials were notified that they had received the grants in early July.

The use of the EBSCO Information Services Solar Grant will be used to install solar panels on the S. Verna Fowler/Menominee Public Library's roof. This will make the library the second building on campus that will use solar energy through panels.

According to a press release from CMN, installing these solar panels will help to reduce the school's reliance on fossil fuels. This also helps to CMN's hope to change to a carbon neutral campus, abiding with the college's 2016 Climate Action Plan.

"The library currently use geothermal and propane energy," said Edler. "We are hoping to eliminate fossil fuels."

The second grant, being the Second Nature's Acceleration Fund is going to be used to help in providing a better equitable access to the Phenology Trail and the Learning Path. The Phenology Trail is an important part of the school, as it gives students and staff an opportunity to learn about different species of plants, where the stations state the scientific name, as well as the Menominee name, said the press release.

The information stations will also include details about the life span, uses, and how climate change impacts the phenology. Sticking with their plan to become carbon neutral, they will introduce a solar-powered golf cart to help those who need assistance explore the path.

"It is nice to inform people about a change to a new energy source," said Edler.

The American Indian College Fund's Community Based Learning and Sharing Grant will be used to create a project that details past Menominee teachings in a comic book. The project is called Collaborating Our Model In Contemporary Sequential-arts. The hope of this project is to portray the importance of Menominee culture through a modern art.

"We want to bring information about past teachings and lessons through modern day means," said Edler. "This can be a way for people of all ages to enjoy."

Edler believes that using these grants to support various projects will continue to build the school as a role model within the Menominee community.

"We want to be a model in the community," said Edler. "This will provide people with a place to go."

She believes that these grants help to reinforce that the CMN is open to everyone and that everyone can use the school for their needs.

"CMN is open to everyone," said Edler. "We want to focus on bettering the community and to provide everyone with the resources that they need."

For the future, Edler said that officials within the school will continue to look for grants that align with their strategic plans.

Inspiration theme of county's 368th barn quilt

Connie and Mike Rohloff have sponsored Shawano County's 368th barn quilt.

Named Inspiration from Within, it is on display on a recently built workshop at N3992 Green Valley Road, Pulaski, where Connie will work on a multitude of projects to sell in stores and online for her company, CR Inspirations.

"The quilt design was chosen to represent the inspiration and ideas that dwell in all of us," Connie said.

The workshop was built on an old alfalfa field that Mike and Connie purchased from her parents, Roger and Emily Neumann, in 2002, shortly after they got married. Looking further back, the land was sold by the State of Wisconsin to Shawano County in 1880. In 1890, Anton Marszelski purchased the land and it remained in their family for 74 years. From there, it was owned by the Anderson (1964-68) and Matczak (1968-77) families before Connie's parents purchased the land in 1977.

Inside Connie's new workshop are plenty of reminders of their agricultural pasts, as both Connie and Mike grew up on dairy farms and remain active in the dairy industry to this day. The inside walls of the workshop are decorated with barn boards from Connie's parents' barn, which was damaged by a tornado in 2017. There are also several old farm antiques that line the walls of the workshop. Connie enjoys working with barn boards and other farm type antiques, which is the focal point of her business.

Mike and Connie have a son, Bryce, who will be a high school senior, and a daughter, McKenna, who will be a freshman at Pulaski High School. Mike works with dairy farmers and veterinarians at Boehringer Ingelheim Animal Health and Connie milks cows part-time at a local dairy farm.

The Rohloff barn quilt was painted by the Shawano County barn quilt committee and was put on display by LeRoy Raddant and his grandson, Keenan, both of whom work for Raddant Electric in Shawano.

Census delays, governor's veto squeeze redistricting timeline

Oconto County will have to "ram through" its new maps, administrator says

By WARREN BLUHM
Editor-in-chief

Gov. Tony Evers' veto of a bill to delay the drawing of new local political maps until 2023 means that a process that usually takes half a year will be condensed into about two and a half months, Oconto County Administrator Kevin Hamann told the county board July 22.

The districts are redrawn every 10 years after the U.S. Census Bureau releases data from its decennial count of the number of people living in the United States. That report usually comes out in March or April, but the census has delayed its release until mid-August — blaming pandemic pressures, Hamann said.

Evers' July 9 veto means the deadline for having new maps remains Dec. 1, when candidates may start circulating nomination papers for the spring election using the new district boundaries. In order to meet requirements for holding public hearings and publishing notices about the plan, that means the final plan needs to be approved in early November, Hamann said.

"So instead of the normal 60 days for us to develop and prepare a plan, and then another 60 days for municipalities to respond to that, and then another 60 days for us to make all the changes and develop a final plan, we are now down to about 75 days to get this done," he said.

The Executive Committee will review a timeline Aug. 2 that will show 24 days to prepare the plan, about 35 days for municipalities to respond and about two weeks to complete the process.

The condensed timeline means that notices for public hearings about the plan will have to be published before the plan is actually available for review, Hamann said.

"That's really not appropriate," he said. "But in order to comply with the law, that's what we have to do."

The county board will have to hold a special meeting in early November to approve the final map so that it can be published in a timely fashion, Hamann said.

"This is going to be extremely difficult," he said. "We are going to cut corners as best we can without completely ignoring the law ... but that's the situation we have been put in by the federal census bureau, as well as by the state government."

Hamann said it's a frustrating situation.

"I was very disappointed the governor vetoed the legislation, but it is what it is and we're stuck with it, and we're going to ram through the new maps," he said. "It's not how it should be, but we're going to do the best we can."

Oconto Falls unable to qualify for state

Team loses twice to Denmark

By NEW MEDIA STAFF

The Oconto Falls Legion baseball team posted a 1-2 record at the Class A Clintonville Regional and fell short of qualifying for state.

Oconto Falls lost twice to Denmark, the eventual regional champions. Clintonville also advanced to state after placing second at the regional because Denmark earned an automatic state berth by hosting state.

Oconto Falls opened regional play on July 21 against Denmark, losing 2-0.

Braden Uelmen started on the mound for Oconto Falls and pitched the first four innings. He allowed a run in the first and second innings before working scoreless third and fourth frames. He struck out three batters.

Logan Kramer pitched the final three innings for Oconto Falls. He struck out four batters and allowed just two baserunners to reach.

Oconto Falls had a chance to score in the third inning after three straight hits, but Alex Waschbisch was thrown out at home after a hit by Jake Sager.

The loss sent Oconto Falls into the loser's bracket and gave the team the following day off.

Oconto Falls returned to Clintonville on July 23 for an elimination game against Wrightstown. Oconto Falls won 3-1 in nine innings to stay alive.

Tucker Bouche pitched the first eight innings for Oconto Falls, not allowing any runs. He struck out seven batters.

Sager pitched the ninth inning, allowing a run before sealing up the win.

Grant Bouche gave Oconto Falls the lead with a single that scored Kramer. Tucker Bouche followed with a two-RBI single to make it 3-0.

The win set Oconto Falls up against Denmark again. This time, Denmark won 8-2 on July 24.

Denmark scored five runs in the sixth to break a tie game.

Graeson Pankratz scored Oconto Falls' first run in the second inning before Sager scored in the third to give the team a lead. Sager, Kramer and Jaxson Ducharme all reached base twice.

Uelmen pitched into the fifth inning for Oconto Falls. Kramer finished up the contest on the hill.

Oconto Falls' Bouche, Haines, Huber all set to play collegiate sports

Haines and Huber playing football, while Bouche plays baseball

By MORGAN RODE
Sports Editor

Oconto Falls High School graduates Tucker Bouche, Adam Haines and Owen Huber will achieve big goals of theirs by becoming collegiate athletes in the coming months.

Bouche will play baseball at UW-La Crosse. Haines and Huber are both playing football, doing so at UW-Oshkosh and UW-Whitewater, respectively.

The trio was part of six Oconto Falls athletes that committed to colleges back on March 16.

Tucker Bouche

Bouche called his recruitment process a strange one, with an injury adding to the complications already provided by the coronavirus pandemic.

He was a part of a showcase in Appleton and had several schools interested in having him join their programs.

After visiting a couple of schools, La Crosse eventually won him over.

"The campus was a big seller for me," said Bouche, who made the decision back in November. "Also, the program is highly involved, inclusive — the coaches are awesome, and most of all, they are competitive."

After a strong high school career — which included all-conference honors as a senior and sophomore — Bouche is excited to keep growing as a player at the collegiate level.

"I'm really looking forward to working with the pitching coach to focus on some pitches, develop some movement in my fastball, and build some more speed," said Bouche.

Bouche will also look to learn from his soon-to-be teammates, especially upperclassmen.

He hopes to spend some time on the mound in his freshman season, be effective in his innings and also work on improving the mental aspect of his game.

Adam Haines

Haines also had his pick of several collegiate teams, including a few out of state.

In the end, he chose a place closer to home, adding that the coaches from UW-Oshkosh made it feel like said Haines. "I also chose Oshkosh because my uncle (Alex Hummel) works there and I have been visiting UW-Oshkosh for awhile with him."

Haines is excited to join a team "where everyone has a winner's mentality all the time."

By the end of Haines' time at Oshkosh, he hopes to be an all-conference player, just like he was for Oconto Falls.

As a junior, Haines made the North Eastern Conference second team as a defensive lineman and honorable mention list as an offensive lineman.

A new conference didn't slow Haines this past season, as he made the Northwoods Conference first team on both sides of the ball.

Owen Huber

Huber had a pair of UW schools looking into him, and Huber toured both before choosing Whitewater.

"UW-Whitewater really stuck out to me because of their school-home and were nice and helpful throughout the recruitment process.

"I like Oshkosh because everything on campus is close together and it is fairly close to home," ing being the best business school in Wisconsin and their goal to be the best student-athlete run school makes my goal equal to theirs," said Huber.

"The sports programs push to be better in every way possible, and that's what I want for myself."

The Oconto Falls grad is ready for a fresh start and to meet and play for a new team. He's excited for the challenge both on and off the field.

In the team's challenge of playing in a new conference this past season, Huber made the most of the opportunity, being named the conference's offensive and defensive player of the year. He was a unanimous first teamer as a running back and linebacker.

His collegiate goals are ones that cannot be measured by statistics, but instead by heart and hard work.

"Some goals I want to push to achieve are put all I have on the field, making the team and myself better," said Huber. "I want to expand my skill level and show they recruited the correct kid for their team."

Anvelink wins twice during Mid-Summer Classic

Mullen earns 2 wins on 1st night of event

By DAVE BUSS

Special to NEW Media

Fans were given two opportunities to watch racing action at the Shawano Speedway as the Mid-Summer Classic kicked off on July 23 and wrapped up July 24.

The Street Stocks joined the program on Friday and brought some great action to the show. Mike Mullen was the story of the night though, picking up wins in two divisions in very impressive fashion. Joining Mullen with wins was Nick Anvelink, Jayden Schmidt and Jeff Richards.

Saturday night provided just as much action, with Anvelink making it a clean sweep in the Late Model division with another top finish. Marcus Yarie, Jeffery Teske, Chucky Forstner and Lucas Hacker also found victory lane.

The IMCA Sport Mods kicked action off Saturday with what looked to be another great run by Max Oreskovich jumping to the early lead. Oreskovich led the early part of the race with Schmidt giving him a stiff challenge for the top spot. Jeff Schmuhl and Teske joined the battle up front.

As the leaders entered turn one, Oreskovich's engine expired, taking him to the outside wall collecting Schmidt. Schmidt was able to continue after a trip to pit lane. Schmuhl also suffered mechanical issues during the caution and retired his car for the night.

Teske assumed the top spot on the restart. Teske drove off to a dominating win.

The IMCA Stock Cars took the track next, and it looked as if the race was over before it started as Travis Van Straten led the field to the green flag. Van Straten jumped to the lead early and built a lead.

Meanwhile, Forstner started in the fourth row and began to move forward and soon found himself in second, nearly a second-and-a-half behind Van Straten.

Forstner began working the high side as Van Straten stuck to the bottom. Forster caught Van Straten and made his move to the outside grabbing the top spot.

Forstner drove away from Van Straten and cruised to the win. Van Straten took the runner-up spot with Jeremy Christians third and Trent Nolan fourth.

Troy Springborn looked to dominate the Late Model feature from the front row starting spot. Springborn jumped to the advantage as Anvelink moved into the second spot.

Anvelink caught Springborn and the two engaged in a battle for the lead. Two drivers who have dominated the division for the years fought side by side for the lead, with Anvelink eventually grabbing the top spot.

As Anvelink began to get away, Ron Berna was powering forward back in the pack, grabbing the third spot. Kyle Raddant followed Berna forward grabbing fourth.

The IMCA Modifieds took off with Jerry Muenster and Yarie on the front row. Yarie wouldn't let his top spot go to waste as he jumped out and led the 20-lap feature from green to checkers.

Meanwhile, Wyatt Block rocketed to second. Most nights Block would have dominated the race, but with Yarie checked out, he had to settle into the runner-up spot. Johnny Whitman charged from his fifth row starting spot to grab third, while Jerry Wilinski grabbed fourth. Brecken Kleinschmidt also charged up seven spots to grab a top-five spot.

The Mighty 4s concluded racing action in the Mid-Summer Classic with Hacker fighting off Tanner Westphal at the start to grab the lead.

Once out front, there was no looking back for Hacker as he grabbed another checkered flag. Westphal, Brad Wedde and Nate Michonski completed the top four.

Bucks' title gives state's sports fans relief from heartbreak

For most of my life, and especially the last decade or so, Wisconsin sports teams have provided plenty instances of heartbreak. The curse was finally broken with the Milwaukee Bucks' NBA title.

MORGAN RODE

The Green Bay Packers, Milwaukee Brewers and Wisconsin Badgers have provided their share of heartbreak, with the Bucks joining the party in recent years.

Leading up to the most recent NBA season, the Bucks had put together back-to-back seasons in which they held the NBA's best regular season record. Giannis Antetokounmpo won a pair of MVP awards and Milwaukee seemed destined to snap a long NBA title drought.

Nope. Instead, the team was eliminated in the Eastern Conference finals by the eventual champion Toronto Raptors one year before being erased by the Miami Heat in the conference semifinals.

After making a multitude of roster changes — and having another big transaction wiped out — the Bucks hoped to get over the hump and back into the NBA finals.

This year's regular season wasn't as successful as the last two, with the Bucks only securing a No. 3 seed for the postseason and Giannis not being named the MVP despite having another big season. Honestly though, the lower level of hype surrounding the team coming into the playoffs was actually kind of a breath of fresh air for me.

The Bucks' heartbreak looked like it might start even earlier this season with the Heat serving as the team's first-round matchup. Milwaukee didn't look good in the first game of the series, but escaped with a win in overtime after a game-winning shot from Khris Middleton.

You obviously already know that the Bucks went on to sweep the Heat, but I truly believe if the Heat had taken game one, Miami might have upset Milwaukee again.

The Bucks and Nets second round series — which I believe was the best of the entire playoffs — was one I was looking forward to all season, but it lost some of its luster after injuries to Nets' stars Kyrie Irving and James Harden during the seven-game showdown.

Milwaukee fell in an 0-2 hole before tying up the series with two home wins. Just when it looked like the Bucks had found their footing, Brooklyn won game five to take a 3-2 lead. Again, the Bucks were able to defend home court though, taking game six to set up a game seven in Brooklyn.

Milwaukee overcame a late deficit and had a four-point lead with just over a minute to play, but the game was far from over. An offensive rebound helped the Nets get to within two points. The Bucks got a big offensive rebound of their own on the other end, but weren't able to capitalize as the team turned it over on a shot clock violation.

Another break went the Bucks' way after Kevin Durant appeared to hit a game-winning 3-pointer, but the front of his shoe was on the 3-point line, making it just a two and sending the game to overtime.

Certainly then would have been a good time for a Wisconsin sports team to fold under the pressure, right? It looked like the Bucks were on that path after not scoring for nearly four minutes, but Antetokounmpo and Middleton hit clutch shots before Brook Lopez iced the win with two free throws.

Milwaukee's win coupled with a surprise loss from the Philadelphia 76ers meant the Bucks would take on the Atlanta Hawks instead in the Eastern Conference finals.

Just when the thought of reaching the finals was creeping in for Bucks' fans, the team inexplicably lost the first game of the series on their home floor.

Milwaukee rebounded and took game two before Atlanta star Trae Young hurt his ankle in a Bucks win in game three, yet another break for the Bucks.

Surely now was when fans could be at ease? Not so fast. Milwaukee was blown out in game four and lost Antetokounmpo to an injured knee. Not only was the series now tied, but it appeared that Antetokounmpo was done for the season and the team's luck had run out.

At that point, I still hoped the Bucks could advance to the finals, but questioned whether it would have been as special with the star player out. Milwaukee showed its resiliency without Giannis and won the final two games of the series, and the team got another good dose of good news as its star avoided a devastating injury.

As the finals approached, the likelihood of Giannis returning seemed to increase by the hour, upping the Bucks' chances at the same time. It was at that point that it felt like the stars were finally aligning.

Giannis played well in the opening game of the series, but the Bucks were unable to slow the Suns' pick-and-roll game in a 13-point loss. Antetokounmpo scored 42 points in another loss in game two. Despite the two losses, many Milwaukee fans remained positive and believed the team could come back.

The Bucks rattled off four straight wins with Antetokounmpo leading the charge to complete the Bucks' quest for a title.

Just like that, the hurt and pain of the last couple Bucks' seasons — and many other heartbreaking losses by the Packers, Brewers and Badgers — were erased. Okay, maybe those thoughts are still trapped in my brain somewhere, but it'll sure be hard to wipe off the smile that's been on my face since the waning minutes of game six of the finals.

Bucks in six!

Cleveland's goodbye to 'Indian' name a good thing

I found myself thinking about the late Richie Plass recently as I was browsing for news. He's fairly well known among locals, but for those who aren't aware, he was a Menominee and Stockbridge-Munsee who found out the painful way decades ago that being an Indian mascot isn't all it's cracked up to be, as people from opposing teams heckled him, threw things at him and spit on him.

He took that traumatizing experience from high school days and turned it into a crusade to point out how Native American mascots are basically co-opting a culture without permission. He created a traveling exhibit called "Bittersweet Winds" that showcased a myriad of instances where Native Americans became caricatures for amusement instead of a culture to be respected.

Richie came to mind as I came across a story about the Cleveland Indians baseball team announcing it would be changing its team name to the Cleveland Guardians beginning in 2022. Team officials said they heard the complaints from Native American groups who called the Indians name racist and that they wanted to change it to something more respectable.

The team had already said farewell to its Chief Wahoo mascot three years ago, so the decision to end the Indians name shouldn't have come as a big surprise. However, that's not the way that Sen. Ted Cruz, a Republican from Texas, saw it as he tweeted: "Why does MLB hate Indians?" Cruz didn't stop there, though, as he begged Boston in a follow-up tweet not to change the name of its Celtics baseball team, as he is half Irish. (By the way, that isn't happening.)

I'm not too surprised at the senator's response. After all, this is the same man who fled from Texas in the dead of winter when the power grid failed a few months ago, but it does provide a reminder as to just how ignorant many people are to Native Americans and the strife they've endured over the centuries as they hold onto their culture and identity against a society that would eagerly exploit it.

I suppose we shouldn't condemn the senator too much, as Texas only has three federally recognized Native American tribes in its borders. However, I'm wondering if the leaders of those tribes are putting in calls to Cruz's office to defend Cleveland's decision and educate him on how derisive and divisive the Indians moniker is. That's the only way he'll learn, assuming he would be open enough to learn on the experience.

I consider myself fortunate that my high school mascot was a cougar and therefore fairly safe from controversy — assuming that a roving band of older women who have a thing for younger men doesn't develop to picket outside the school gates.

I also consider myself fortunate that I've been exposed to a number of Native American cultures and have a number of friends from those tribes who have talked with me about the appropriation of those cultures by a primarily white society. They've helped to show that having a name like "Indians" or "Braves" or "Redskins" is not an honor for them as much as it is an insult.

I wonder, if Cruz had the same people who talked to me talking with him, that it might show him that having a comical portrayal of a Native American is akin to a white person acting in blackface, which is also considered racist. Would he get the point if something like "Bittersweet Winds" was presented to him and showed him how icons and images have denigrated tribes for decades?

It's a shame that Richie Plass isn't alive today, as he would likely load up his traveling exhibit and head for Washington, D.C., to show Cruz the folly of his ways, the same as he did for almost 20 years nationwide. Richie's efforts helped to get more than 30 school districts in Wisconsin alone to change their mascots, but the fight is far from over.

I remember seeing the exhibit for myself a couple of years ago and, despite being well educated on Native American issues, being surprised by just how many sports teams, products and even works of art had negatively exploited tribes. Some items, like a T-shirt with the name "Caucasians" and a whitewashed version of the former Cleveland mascot, flipped the script and showed how denigrating it would be to other cultures if their image was exploited for money and chuckles.

With the continued debate on racism in this country, it might be time for Congress to pass a law that bans sports mascots that are degrading to Native Americans and other cultures. Cleveland has stepped forward to make the change, as has Washington's football team when it killed its Redskins moniker, but there are plenty of school and professional teams that still haven't gotten the message yet, so it might be time for a clean sweep.

Such a bill probably won't get a yes vote from Cruz, though.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Town hall needs to open to public again

To the editor:

Abuse of the COVID-19 Emergency Order of Wisconsin is happening in the Town of Little Suamico. The town is still claiming an emergency order, and citizens do not have full access to their town office now since April 2020. Over 1½ years later, and the town still feels the emergency order should be in effect when everything else is open. When this happens, citizens have no access to monthly check information as previously provided at meetings (i.e. we have no clue what our tax dollars are being spent on). When transparency is lacking, you lose trust.

I have requested a copy of our monthly expenses to include the check register and documentation for a particular month that we used to receive at town meetings and was denied.

Without transparency, citizens are not aware of what is being spent in our town monthly. Specifically, when checks are being written for approximately $9,000, $7,000, and $3,000 reimbursements to town employees as listed in the audit book of 2020, we deserve a full explanation.

Taxpayers deserve to have full access to our town hall and not just by email or call. We, as a town, need to demand of our leaders that our office be open full service as we deserve and pay taxes for. Enough is enough; please open up the Little Suamico Town Hall so we have normal full access to our town that the citizens of Little Suamico deserve.

It's the summer of the hydrangea

My favorite flowering shrubs of the summer season are the beautiful, lush hydrangeas that fill our landscapes and gardens with their billowy blooms and elegant form. A must-have for every garden and providing a long bloom season from July all the way through Halloween, hydrangeas come in many forms, colors and sizes. Chances are there's a hydrangea for every spot in your yard and garden.

ROB ZIMMER

While garden centers are filled with colorful hydrangeas during the spring gardening season, it is important to do your research and select varieties that will grow here in our area. Many of those sold at garden centers are not reliably hardy here in northern Wisconsin. Visit a reputable, local nursery or garden center to select your hydrangea varieties. The ones covered in this column are perfect for our area.

Hydrangeas come in five basic types, or forms. There are the smooth hydrangeas, such as the ever popular Annabelle. These are normally lush, mophead varieties.

There are panicle hydrangeas, or those that resemble cones or pyramids in bloom. Many popular hydrangeas for our area are panicles.

Big leaf hydrangeas are the ones that are often tricky to overwinter here in our area. This includes the popular Endless Summer series and many others. Special care needs to be taken with these plants over the winter season.

Climbing hydrangeas are lush, woody vines that can grow quite large and feature massive, white, lace cap blooms.

Oakleaf hydrangeas are also touchy here in our area but provide fascinating foliage that is especially colorful during fall. Many people grow oakleaf hydrangeas for the foliage alone, not caring if the plant blooms or not.

Hydrangeas in the Annabelle series or smooth hydrangeas are quite simple to grow in our area. Many of these require a bit of shade, so be sure to site accordingly. Research online or follow the directions on the plant tag. Smooth hydrangeas come in more than white. There are many varieties that are pink, even reddish

Twist and Shout is a big leaf hydrangea that requires a bit of extra care here in our area.

ROB ZIMMER

in color. Some of my favorite smooth hydrangeas are Mini Mauvette, that blooms in reddish pink, Incrediball, Incrediball Blush, Invincibelle Spirit, Garnetta and Limetta.

The panicle hydrangeas are becoming the most popular variety of hydrangeas in our area. This group of hydrangeas includes the highly popular Limelight, as well as Pinky Winky, Quick Fire, Vanilla Strawberry, Bobo, Little Lime, Firelight, Diamond Rouge and many more.

Panicle hydrangeas, along with smooth hydrangeas are the easiest to grow here in our area and require very little care. They bloom on newly formed wood each year, so can be cut back in fall or late winter to about 1 foot in height. I recommend allowing the beautiful flower heads to remain standing all winter, because they look amazing when tufted with fresh snow.

Most panicle hydrangeas transform through several color phases throughout the season. Panicle hydrangea start out creamy white or lime green, then gradually turn pink, even red throughout summer and fall. By September and October, many of these hydrangeas are a deep, rich red in color.

Big leaf hydrangeas are the tricky ones to grow here in our area. This is because they bloom on old wood each year, the branches that were formed in the previous season. If you cut them back, or if they freeze off during the winter, then you will get lots of leaves the following year but very few blooms. For this reason, it is important to protect the entire plant, stems and all, over the winter season. Many gardeners have found the best success by simply digging the plant up overwinter and storing it in an unheated basement or garage where temperatures won't fall severely during winter.

Big leaf hydrangeas include the Endless Summer series, as well as Cherry Explosion and others. Again, take care with these plants. Even though the root systems are hardy here, the flowering branches and buds must be protected gea will bloom on both new and old wood, making them a better choice for our area since they will still bloom even if the flower buds on old wood have frozen off.

Climbing hydrangeas are popular for large spaces since they grow quite extensively. Often, we see them creeping up the sides of silos and barns.

Often, gardeners assume that hydrangea color can be changed by altering the pH of the soil. While this is nice in theory, in reality it rarely works. While chemicals are sold that can be added to the soil, it generally is never enough to fully transform the color. Additionally, this process only works on certain big leaf hydrangeas. It will not work on smooth hydrangeas or panicle hydrangeas as the colors they bloom in are their permanent color. Don't be taken by this gimmick.

Enjoy the summer of the hydrangea.

Food trucks bring awareness to foster care

Oconto County official looking to increase licensed foster homes

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

Officials in Oconto County held a food truck rally to help promote foster care.

The rally took place at the Oconto County Courthouse on July 20.

Two food trucks, including The Dough Shoppe and Philly's and York King of Philly's were stationed on Washington Street in front of the courthouse. Dozens of people showed up to the event not only to get a bite to eat for lunch, but also to show their support for foster care.

"We want to raise awareness for foster care," said foster care coordinator Kyla Soper. "We also want to help out by raising funds for our foster children and families in the county."

Soper said that there is currently a big need for foster parents in Oconto County. Even though Oconto has such a need for foster parents, she added that is the case with most of the counties in the state.

"There is a statewide shortage of foster parents right now," said Soper. "Every county is recruiting really hard to get foster parents."

She said that part of the reason why there is a shortage in foster parents is because there has been a large increase in children in foster care.

Visitors at the food truck rally were encouraged to donate money to help foster families. According to Soper, the proceeds that were collected are going back to a fund that will help foster children and parents.

"We want to host more events for foster parents, as well as encourage more foster parents to become licensed," said Soper. "What is really important is to retain the current foster parents that we have. Being a foster parent is very hard, so we like to hold these events and give them the supplies that they need in order to care for the children."

Soper said that there are 14 homes that are currently licensed in Oconto County.

She added that she wants that number to continue to increase.

"Our big need right now is homes for teenagers," said Soper. "We have a lot of homes that are willing to take kids, aged 10 and under, but we don't have a lot of homes that are willing to take teenagers."

She attributes the lack of homes willing to foster teenagers to the challenges involved in taking them.

"Teenagers can sometimes be a challenge," said Soper. "They have more trauma — they can be seen as harder to care for."

Soper said that although she was not keeping track of everyone that showed up to the event, she had given out close to 100 fliers to people who were interested in learning more about foster care.

"A few people have asked a couple questions about being licensed to be a foster parent — what it entails and what they need to do," said Soper. "We had people who came who wanted to get some lunch and weren't interested in foster care, but wanted to donate to a cause that they thought had a positive effect."

Another challenge of finding foster homes, was the COVID-19 pandemic, said Soper.

"We were not able to do a lot of recruitment or home visits," said Soper. "COVID shook the community, so a lot of people were not wanting to commit to take other children when things were different with their job schedule or when their own children were at home partaking in virtual learning. It was a huge challenge for both us and our licensed foster parents."

Soper called the food truck rally a success and said that she and other Oconto County officials hope to plan similar events in the future. She added that she is excited to get events planned again, due to not being able to plan events during the pandemic.

"We will see what the future brings and what we can host," said Soper.

COVID numbers down, vaccination percentages lag in Oconto County

Public health working to vaccinate teens especially

By WARREN BLUHM
Editor-in-chief

It appears to be time for Oconto County Public Health to phase out its monthly COVID-19 update reports to the County Board, Health and Human Services Director Mike Reimer told supervisors at their July 22 meeting.

"Issues still exist, but it has been dying down," Reimer said. He added that the department has been asked to continue providing general health updates not specifically about the response to the pandemic that began in the winter of 2019-20.

Public Health Officer Debra Konitzer noted that the county had recorded only eight positive tests for the coronavirus in the previous two weeks, and the focus has been on getting vaccinations to the people who need them.

About 42% of county residents have received at least one dose of the available vaccines, compared to the state total of 51%, Konitzer said.

"We've barely moved in the last month," she said. "One of the areas that we're very concerned about is looking at our 12- to 17-year-olds."

The vaccination rate among county teenagers is around 19%, or about 1 in 5, compared to 1 in 3 statewide, Konitzer said.

"We are trying to do what we can in order to encourage our parents to trust the vaccine and have their children vaccinated," she said. "We are working with the school districts to offer vaccine in their district or at least in their community so it's easy for parents to get their children to the sites where we're vaccinating."

That includes offering the COVID-19 vaccine in conjunction with regular back-to-school vaccinations, Konitzer said.

Oconto County Public Health plans to visit schools in all five districts in the county in late August in order to provide free immunizations to eligible children ages 4-18. Children are eligible if they are enrolled in Medicaid/BadgerCare, do not have health insurance, are underinsured (health insurance that does not pay for vaccinations) or have met monetary cap on vaccines (not deductible) or an American Indian or Alaska Native.

OCPH will offer all school-required immunizations at the clinics, as well as those that are recommended — including Hepatitis A, HPV and Meningitis ACWY.

"Unfortunately, due to the pandemic, some children fell behind on immunizations, and Public Health is happy to partner with our school districts to provide an opportunity for parents to allow their children to get caught up on their immunizations," Konitzer said.

Parents can schedule an immunization appointment at their child's school by calling 920-834-6846 by July 30.

Board to move its meetings back to school district office

By WARREN BLUHM
Editor-in-chief

The Oconto Falls School Board is moving back into district offices come September.

The board has been meeting in the high school auditorium since spring 2020, when pandemic concerns required social distancing. Meeting on the stage allowed for board members to be seated at least 6 feet apart, and the audience was able to spread throughout the auditorium or watch via an online video stream.

Board President Ron Leja said he'd prefer to move back to the conference room in the district office.

"I think it's a little more room, a little more comfortable, better lighting," Leja said. "I think it's just easier there."

"Another reason is we don't need this size facility anymore for the board meetings," said Jan Stranz, board vice president. "And this facility probably has higher and better use if we have not claimed it for a board meeting."

Board member Ken Harter said one issue could be accommodating a crowd if large numbers of people want to attend, but he added that the meeting site could be moved if a large turnout is anticipated.

Superintendent Dean Hess said the district would plan to move back to the conference room at the September board meeting, to allow time to modify the facility for video streaming, a popular feature that the board decided to maintain even after pandemic protocols were relaxed.

OCONTO COUNTY
TIMES HERALD

Sponsored by HSHS St. Clare Memorial Hospital and Prevea Health

Chris Brabant, FACHE
President and CEO,
HSHS St. Clare Memorial Hospital

As President and CEO of HSHS St. Clare Memorial Hospital, I'm proud to say this year marks a tremendous milestone for the hospital... we've served the community's health care needs for 100 years!

HSHS St. Clare Memorial Hospital and our five rural health care clinics, are fully dedicated to providing high quality, local care to the residents of Oconto Falls and Oconto County. Here you'll find doctors, nurses and health care colleagues who live and work in the community. The medical staff, colleagues and volunteers at HSHS St. Clare Memorial Hospital are dedicated to making your hospital or clinic experience a positive one. We are dedicated to caring for you – healing body, mind and spirit – with advanced medical technology and a personal, compassionate approach.

OUR JOURNEY

The hospital, originally named Oconto Falls City Hospital, opened its doors at 125 S. Main Street in 1921. It was formed as a not-for-profit organization dedicated to the health and well-being of residents and returning veterans, with a board of directors chosen from citizens of the community.

In 1954, the hospital was renamed Community Memorial Hospital as a memorial to veterans and moved to the former City Hall which was remodeled to accommodate a larger facility. In 1972, the current facility at 855 South Main Street opened its doors. In 2003, a $9 million-dollar expansion and renovation of the facility was completed to provide new emergency department facilities, imaging and laboratory departments. Additionally, new services were added for the community to access – including urgent care, outpatient oncology clinic, rehab services (physical therapy, occupational therapy, speech therapy, and state-of-the-art equipment including digital mammography, CT and MRI.

On Sept. 1, 2014, CMH joined Hospital Sisters Health System (HSHS) and became HSHS St. Clare Memorial Hospital. This included the CMH clinics which have become HSHS St. Clare Memorial Hospital Prevea Health Centers in Gillett, Lena, Mountain, Oconto Falls and Suring.

Becoming HSHS has served to strengthen our ability to provide access to high quality care and services for inpatient, outpatient and transitional care. For example, we provide swing-bed service, Almost Home Program which permits a patient to change or transition, from acute care (hospital care) to skilled nursing facility care, without having to leave the hospital. This allows a patient to continue receiving hospital services and therapy rather than having to go elsewhere to receive care. Integration with HSHS has also allowed us to offer state-of-the-art technology for a wide variety of surgical services including, ophthalmologic, podiatric, general, orthopedic and pediatric oral surgery. In addition, we have immediate access to some of the highest levels of care through our partners, HSHS St. Vincent Hospital, HSHS St. Mary's Hospital Medical Center and Prevea Health in Green Bay.

HSHS St. Clare Memorial Hospital and our health centers – in Oconto Falls, Lena, Gillett, Suring and Mountain – continue to make health care in Oconto County stronger than ever. To this day, we remain a nonprofit organization dedicated to serving the community as a rural access hospital. This means that you don't have to drive far for high quality, local health care – from routine checkups to emergency care and everything in between. In addition, we are rooted in the community with a long history of collaborating with the Oconto County Public Health Department to identify Oconto County's top health challenges and continually plan for ways to address our health needs now and into the future.

It is our privilege to serve the health care needs of our community. Thank you for the honor of being your wellness partner and your health care advocate.
