Outgoing county board members honored

The Oconto County Board saluted retiring supervisors March 24, from left, Rose Stellmacher, Karl Ballestad, Buzz Kamke, Elizabeth Paape, Robert Pott, Paul Bednarik and Fran Wranosky.

Editor-in-chief

The Oconto County Board of Supervisors bid farewell to nine supervisors attending their last board meeting March 24, including Chairman Paul Bednarik.

The board members decided not to run for reelection this spring. A 10th supervisor, Leonard Wahl, was defeated in a Feb. 15 primary but missed the meeting for health reasons.

Bednarik, who served on the county board for 13 years including the last four as chairman, called up the outgoing supervisors and presented them with certificates noting their years of service on the board: Buzz Kamke (24 years), Rose Stellmacher (14 years), Greg Sekela (12 years), Robert Pott (11 years), Karl Ballestad (nine years), Elizabeth Paape (four years), and Fran Wranosky (two years).

Several thanked their fellow board members for the friendships formed in public service.

"Being on the county board is a real learning experience," Ballestad said. "As a retired teacher, we still need to learn things. I met a lot of very, very good friends on this board."

Supervisor Rose Stellmacher, a former county clerk, agreed with Ballestad that she learned a lot and made good friends on the board, and she added a parting quip for the two supervisors who will represent her district for the next two years after the lines were redrawn.

"I know they will do a good job," Stellmacher said. "I just want to say that it only took one woman to take care of that area."

Bednarik grew emotional as he delivered his own parting words to his colleagues, saying he served on several committees but "the best committee is the committee of county board supervisors, 31 people that really care a lot about what goes on," thanking them for electing him as their leader.

"I love you guys," he said.

Man dies in Gillett house fire

By NEW MEDIA STAFF

Private funeral services were planned for a Gillett man whose body was found after a fire in his home March 23.

Everett Crocker, 57, was alone in the home at 132 S. Birch St. when the fire occurred. Crews were called around 7:15 p.m. after a report of heavy smoke and flames coming from the home, according to a news release from Gillett Police Chief Shane Breitenbach.

"Through the quick and overwhelming response, the fire was contained to the single residence and did not spread to other nearby residential structures," Breitenbach said.

Arriving within minutes of the call were Gillett police, Oconto County sheriff's deputies, Gillett Area Ambulance and fire departments from Gillett, Town of Gillett, Town of Underhill and Oconto Falls, he said.

The cause of the fire was under investigation, Breitenbach said.

Gruetzmacher Funeral Home in Suring was assisting the family. The obituary noted that Crocker was "a very private man," and the family would be honoring him with a private service.

Breaking ice strands eight on bay

By NEW MEDIA STAFF

Eight people were rescued from the bay of Green Bay on March 27 after they became stranded on a large section of ice.

According to a news release from the Little River Fire Department, the incident began just off shore from North Bay Shore County Park when the call came about 6:45 p.m.

Personnel were able to rescue one person from the ice using a small flat-bottom boat, but then the ice floe moved too far away from shore, and the U.S. Coast Guard, Marinette Fire Department and Bayside Ice and Marine Recovery were contacted for the use of their airboats.

By the time Bayside arrived with an airboat, the ice had moved about 1.5 miles from shore. Rescue personnel were able to reach the stranded people and bring them all safely to shore.

Other agencies involved included Oconto County Sheriff's Department, Oconto County Emergency Management and Oconto Fire and Rescue.

Suring superintendent appears in court

April 28 hearing set on defense motion to dismiss charges

By WARREN BLUHM
Editor-in-chief

Oconto County Judge Michael T. Judge authorized a $5,000 signature bond for suspended Suring Superintendent Kelly Casper during a brief initial appearance in his courtroom March 23.

Casper is charged with six counts of false imprisonment in connection with a Jan. 18 incident in which six high school girls were told to take off their clothes to their underwear in a search after they were caught vaping on school grounds.

Defense attorney Nicholson Ganser argued that Casper should be released on a signature bond based on her years of service to several communities in the area — including her work as a science teacher and track coach at Pulaski High School, a principal in the Coleman School District and the last eight years as superintendent in Suring.

"Kelly Casper has been a dedicated public servant for her entire career," Ganser said.

The defense has filed a motion to dismiss the charges on grounds the incident does not meet the statutory requirements to be described as false imprisonment, arguing that when the girls were taken to a small bathroom for the searches, it was for privacy reasons — not to confine or restrain them.

District Attorney Edward Burke said he would like to submit a written response to that motion. Judge gave him two weeks to do so and scheduled a motion hearing for 1 p.m. April 28.

Before bond was set, Victim Witness Coordinator Rachel Race read a statement from one of the girls who was searched saying that since the incident her post-traumatic stress disorder has gotten worse.

"It has been harder to be around people, and I don't even want to be touched anymore. I'm scared to go to the bathroom without them thinking I'm going to do something wrong," the statement said. "It's hard to concentrate in school because I'm worried that I'm going to be strip-searched or targeted. I've also experienced nightmares because of Ms. Casper, and I feel like I can't even be safe in that school anymore."

A mother of one of the girls also addressed the court about the bond conditions.

"The psychological and emotional damage that this woman has done to these kids is unspeakable," the mother said. "I would just hope that you would find it in your heart to do what is right and keep her away from these kids until things are completed and finished."

Judge included among bond conditions that Casper may have no direct or indirect contact with the girls or family members, including 14 specific individuals.

SAVVY SENIOR

How to get assistance as an elder orphan

Dear Savvy Senior:

I need to find someone honest and reliable to look after my estate, health and long-term care when I'm no longer able to do it myself. I'm a 67-year-old recent widow with no children and one sibling I rarely talk to. Any suggestions?

Solo Agerby

Dear Solo:

This is big concern for millions of older Americans who don't have a spouse, children or other family they can depend on to watch out for their well-being. While there's no one solution to this issue, here are some tips and resources that can help you plan ahead.

If you haven't already done so, your first step, before choosing a reliable decision maker, is to prepare a basic estate plan of at least four essential legal documents. This will protect yourself and make sure your wishes are carried out if you become seriously ill or when you die.

These essential documents include a "durable power of attorney" that allows you to designate someone to handle your financial matters if you become incapacitated; an "advanced health care directive" that includes a "living will" that tells your doctor what kind of care you want to receive if you become incapacitated, and a "health care power of attorney," which names a person you authorize to make medical decisions on your behalf if you're unable to; and a "will" that spells out how you'd like your property and assets distributed after you die.

It also requires you to designate an "executor" to ensure your wishes are carried out.

To prepare these documents your best option is to hire an attorney, which can cost anywhere between $500 and $2,000. If you are interested in a do-it-yourself plan, Quicken WillMaker and Trust 2022 ($129, Nolo.com) and LegalZoom.com ($179) are some top options.

Most people think first of naming a family member as their power of attorney for finances and health care, or executor of their will. If, however, you don't have someone to fill those roles, you may want to ask a trusted friend or associate but be sure to choose someone that's organized and younger than you who will likely be around after you're gone.

Also be aware that if your choice of power of attorney or executor lives in another state, you'll need to check your state's law to see if it imposes any special requirements.

If, however, you don't have a friend or relative you feel comfortable with, you'll need to hire someone who has experience with such matters.

To find a qualified power of attorney or executor for your will, contact your bank, a local trust company or an estate planning attorney. If you need help locating a pro, the National Academy of Elder Law Attorneys (NAELA.org) is a great resource that provides online directory to help you find someone in your area.

Another resource that can help you manage and oversee your health and long-term care needs as they arise, and even act as your health care power of attorney, is an aging life care manager. These are trained professionals in the area of geriatric care who often have backgrounds in nursing or social work. To search for an expert near you, visit AgingLifeCare.org.

If you need help with bill paying and other financial/insurance/tax chores there are professional daily money managers (see AADMM.com) that can help.

Aging life care managers typically charge between $75 and $200 per hour, while hourly rates for daily money managers range between $75 and $150.

It's also important to note that if you don't complete the aforementioned legal documents and you become incapacitated, a court judge may appoint a guardian to make decisions on your behalf. That means the care you receive may be totally different from what you would have chosen for yourself.

Shawano business owner refurbishing 1800s building

Shawano Barbers currently has siding in front of original brick, windows

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

A Shawano business owner is working to restore a building on Main Street in the city.

Jesse Krajenka is the owner of The Shawano Barbers, 113 S. Main St., and is working to raise money to refurbish his building, which dates back to the 1800s.

"I renovated the whole downstairs area of the barbershop," said Krajenka. "I am almost done renovating the entire upstairs. There was nothing up there. I got heating, electric and plumbing all installed. There are windows all around this building. There are four big windows all along the front of the building."

Krajenka said a previous owner put up siding over the windows and the original brick on the outside of the building.

"They sided over the front of the building and covered up all of the windows," said Krajenka. "What I want to do now that I am done with the upstairs is, I want to open up the front of the building and get some natural daylight in here. I want to see what the front, original brick looks like."

He said that when doing research, he found that the building used to be a Masonic Temple.

"I found a bunch of paper work, newspapers and religious books, so that confirms that," said Krajenka. "I know with Free Masons and Masonic buildings, that they don't have windows, so I came to the conclusion that that was what this building was used for. It is a little creepy."

Krajenka started a GoFundMe page to help raise funds for refurbishing the building.

"I originally got a quote just to frame out the windows at about $1,000 apiece for four windows," said Krajenka. "Prices went up. On the GoFundMe, I put $7,500. Maybe that is a little more, maybe it is a little less. I don't know right now. The $7,500 is just kind of a rough idea."

He added that he was worried about what the brick looks like underneath the siding.

"It can be in very good shape, because it has been out of the weather and elements, or it can be completely trashed and that's why they covered it up, I am not sure," said Krajenka.

Krajenka said that once he raises the funds necessary for refurbishing the building, he wants to leave it all original.

"I love the 1800s feel," said Krajenka. "It goes along with the barber shop — that early feel."

When asked if this would distinguish the barbershop from other buildings in Shawano, Krajenka replied yes and no.

"A lot of the stuff downtown here is either painted or is just modernized," said Krajenka. "I would love to bring that original look. I do have some pictures from the 1800s when then Murdoch Hotel was on the corner and you can see this original building. I just think that it would be so cool to have an original 1800s building right in downtown Shawano."

He added that would help to bring a historical feeling to the city.

"Barbering goes back thousands of years," said Krajenka. "If we can get it to feel like it did 150 years ago or so — I think that would be an awesome thing to bring to Shawano."

vintage feeling of the building, Krajenka said that The Shawano Barbers play a role in the community.

"I think that we are one of the only barbershops in the city just for men," said Krajenka. "I like to think that we bring a urban feel to the area in a rural area."

ELECTION 2022 — SHAWANO COUNTY BOARD DISTRICT 14

In the April 5 general election, incumbent Deb Noffke will be defending her seat representing District 14 on the Shawano County Board of Supervisors against challenger Jeremy Gretzinger for the spot.

NEW Media sent questionnaires to the candidates in order to provide candidates' opinions on key issues that the county has dealt with and discussed in recent years. Gretzinger's responses were published last week.

What qualifies you to be a member of the Shawano County Board of Supervisors?

Noffke: In District 14, this is my first term on the board. I moved prior to that, so in total, it's 18 years. I have a ton of experience on the board. Currently I am on the public property committee, tribal affairs and county board. I read. I study. I am not afraid to ask questions. I answer to the taxpayer. In a nutshell, I do not think that anyone will accuse me of being a rubber stamp.

The board has had thorough discussions revolving around pay for county employees. How do you believe that county employees should be compensated?

Noffke: We need to pay our employees fairly. That is a double-edged sword. We need to pay fairly to the employees, but we also need to be fair to the taxpayers, because they are paying that wage. We have to somehow remain in line with our county demographics, as far as income per capita. Each year, every employee can earn an increase. All they have to do is meet expectations. In addition to that, in our budget, we set an increase. We also set increases in the middle of the year, if we can afford it.

The board has discussed purchasing new police vehicles, as well as creating a replacement plan for the vehicles. Should the county look at continuing to purchase new vehicles and setting up a replacement plan for the vehicles?

Noffke: We definitely need a replacement plan. Replacing squad cars is nothing new. Speaking with sheriff's (Chief) Deputy George Lenzner, the sheriff's department never advocated for replacing them all. It's a replacement schedule that we need to get set up. In 2020, I believe they replaced three cars, that was it. In this new budget, I believe there was zero cars. That's not sustainable and that's not responsible. If you have a wrong-way driver on state Highway 29, the last thing that you want is an officer saying that I can't catch them because my transmission is flipping.

What is Shawano County doing well in your mind and how can the county continue to excel at this?

Noffke: We try awfully hard to be fiscally responsible and doing things that are needed like the essential services. Most times, the board can do a good job in differentiating between what is a need and a want. Our highway and human services departments and even the airport are doing phenomenal jobs of leveraging to try and get state and federal funding and not putting a burden on our taxpayers. I think to keep doing as some of the departments are doing as far as catching state and federal dollars is important.

What is Shawano County not doing so well in your mind and how can the county change that to be better in the future?

Noffke: Planning. Oftentimes, a knee-jerk response is often an agenda item, without thinking how are you going to pay for that next year. Grandkids are going to be paying for some of these things. You do not want to end up in analysis paralysis, but we need to have a better handle on thinking through the results of something. Sometimes, things don't happen the way that you expect them to. I think we need to do a better job internally at team building. As a geographic area and as an employer, we have a lot of positives.

Two killed in Town of Richmond shooting incident

By NEW MEDIA STAFF

Officials say a Shawano County sheriff's deputy is on administrative leave after shooting a man who had shot and killed a woman moments earlier in the Town of Richmond.

The incident occurred at about 3:55 p.m. March 25, according to a statement from the Wisconsin

Department of Justice Division of Criminal Investigation (DCI), which has taken over the investigation.

The DCI said the deputy was dispatched to a residence on Oak Avenue in the Town of Richmond for a domestic disturbance following a 911 call from a woman at the residence. Upon arrival, the deputy saw a man shoot a woman and then start shooting at the deputy. The deputy reported shots fired and exchanged gunfire with the man. Both the man and woman were killed.

No officers were injured during the incident, the DCI said, and state investigators plan to turn over investigative reports to the Shawano-Menominee County District Attorney's office once concluded.

Heninger leaving Gresham for superintendent post

Benjamin Heninger, principal for grades 6-12 at Gresham Community School, has accepted a position to serve as superintendent of the Butternut School District, effective July 1.

Since joining the staff in Gresham in 2016, he was a member of the administrative team that oversaw a period of sustained growth in the Gresham School District, culminating in the completion of a new junior and senior high school addition in fall 2020. He was promoted to principal in 2017.

Reflecting on his time as a Wildcat, Heninger recalled the growth of partnerships that continue to inspire his passion for servant leadership in education.

"Looking back over the past six years, I can honestly say that we never ran out of ideas to help make our school a better place," Heninger said. "It is such a caring staff, supportive community, and a dedicated school board that remains committed to a vision of doing what is best for all children."

According to Superintendent Newell Haffner, the district is looking for a principal for all grades to take over for Heninger. Haffner currently serves as the principal for the elementary grades.

Role-playing games come to life in new show

SCHS bringing 'She Kills Monsters' to its stage

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

Dungeons and Dragons will come to life as Shawano Community High School plans to entertain theater audiences with "She Kills Monsters" on April 7-9.

"To be fair, the monsters are trying to kill her, too," said director Maddie Stuewer as she explained the over-all plot of the show written by Qui Nguyen in 2011.

The play is about two sisters, Agnes and Tilly, who are as different as night and day. Agnes is more popular and mainstream, while Tilly is the family geek. Tilly dies at the beginning of the play, according to Stuewer, and Agnes is left to mourn a sister she didn't know very well because of their different personalities.

"Agnes finds her Dungeons and Dragons playbook and brings it into a comic store, saying, 'I don't know what this is. I want to get to know my sister better. Can you show me?'" Stuewer said. "She starts playing Dungeons and Dragons and gets sucked into that world."

Once taken to that other realm, Agnes finds Tilly, who wrote the playbook in the first place, and gets to interact with her sister again while fighting off otherworldly creatures.

"We've got wraiths, which are like Grim Reapers. We've got Kobalds, which are kind of dragony," Stuewer said. "We've got the Tiamat, which is a five-headed dragon. That's the big monster."

Stuewer said she picked "She Kills Monsters" after reading a bunch of other scripts and finding that they didn't quite jump out as a play for the school to do.

"I wanted something fun, something that contrasted with what we're dealing with in the world," Stuewer said. "When I read the script, I said, 'We have to do this.'"

The show also gives the chance for interesting costumes and props, according to Stuewer, with many of the monsters donning masks. The actors also got to learn about stage combat.

"I've been studying it for the past few months," Stuewer said. "I picked the show in September or October, and since then, I've been studying and

Stuewer said she enjoyed learning online, working with teachers remotely to get down various fighting techniques, along with stage magic, which she emphatically said she would not reveal any secrets.

This show also has some SCHS alumni coming back to help with the show, according to Stuewer. Marcus Whitehouse is her assistant director, while Sabrina Damaskie is handling the props, Morgan Briskie is in charge of the costumes and Bailey Harkin heads up hair and makeup.

Besides all the cool gaming themes throughout the show, "She Kills Monsters" weaves a tale on how to deal with grief, according to Stuewer, as well as acceptance for Agnes not only of the life that Tilly lived but coming to terms with Tilly's sexuality, as well.

"I hope that, instead of just enjoying the fights and the monsters, I hope that they take away the deeper meaning that we snuck in there," Stuewer said.

Pussy willow season has begun in northeast Wisconsin.

ROB ZIMMER

Trees and shrubs showing signs of activity

Spring is in the air, and also in the trees. As you may have noticed while driving around the area, or even in your own backyard, the trees and shrubs of our area are putting on quite a show right now, even if it is a bit more subtle and sublime compared to what is coming in May and June.

The maples of our woodlands, backyards and parks are showing their spring enthusiasm in the form of huge, puffy flower buds that are just about ready to burst open. In fact, on many trees, the flower buds highest in the treetops, closest to the sun, have already opened. As the next three or four weeks pass, these buds will continue to open, working their way down to the lower branches.

Maple sap is also rising, forcing these buds to open. Maple tapping has been underway in many sugar bushes for weeks now. Cold nights and warmer days in the 40s are ideal to create the conditions and pressure changes needed to force sap upward through the trees.

The willows are now showing their true spring colors, gleaming in golden yellow.

ROB ZIMMER

Another tree showing spring exuberance right now is the weeping willow. These gorgeous and elegant trees glow brighter and brighter yellow with each passing day as the sap rises into the graceful branches. Soon, these yellow twigs and branches will take on a more lime green hue, as fresh leaf buds begin to swell along their sweeping forms.

Speaking of color, the red osier dogwoods of our area are now blushing beautiful blood red. As the weather warms in early spring, the branches of these spectacular native shrubs glow brighter and brighter red.

Pussy willows are also beginning to emerge, their tiny catkins — covered in silvery, silky fur to keep them warm on cold nights — bursting open along their stems and branches. Soon, these will begin to flower, attracting the first flying bees and moths to their rich pollen.

In wetland areas, tag alder have now formed large male catkins, as have the wild, native hazelnuts. Both of these shrubs are common in our area. Alders are found in wetland edges, such as throughout the Navarino Wildlife Area, while hazelnuts grow in the drier sandhills.

Many other native and ornamental trees are also showing off their own subtle signs of spring. Quaking aspen and cottonwoods now boast large, fleshy green leaf buds that will begin to unfurl in the next few months. A purplish and reddish haze can also be seen among the branches of the white birch groves, where male catkins, stunning in rich purple, now cover the branches.

Spring is a wonderful time to make note of the changes happening right in our own backyards and landscapes, as well as in the wild. Our trees and shrubs are among the first plants to show signs of the new season.

County B at SCHS due for pedestrian signal

School district discusses collaboration with city, county

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

The intersection of County Road B and Lincoln Street in Shawano is a busy one, with high levels of vehicle and pedestrian traffic twice every weekday as Shawano Community High School starts and ends classes, and there are concerns that someday someone will be hurt there.

The topic came up for discussion March 23 at the Shawano School District's policy and curriculum committee. Superintendent Randi Anderson noted that it has been a topic of concern for years, and there could be an opportunity for the district and the city of Shawano to work together on a solution.

"We had a conversation with (City Administrator) Eddie Sheppard, looking to see if the district was interested in partnering with the city in splitting the cost for a pedestrian crossing light," Anderson said, noting that the setup would be the same as what's currently on Green Bay Street at the Mountain Bay Trail intersection. The city recently got approval to put another one on Main Street at its intersection with the Mountain Bay Trail.

Anderson noted the cost would be about $10,000 each for the district and city and that there would also need to be involvement from Shawano County, as the road is designated as a county highway. She also noted that the signal may go at the County B intersection with Evergreen Street and plans would be to encourage pedestrian traffic going in and out of the high school to cross there.

"Right now, we have kids crossing at both spots," Anderson said.

School board member James Davel, who is also the county's administrative coordinator, suggested holding off for at least a month while he consults with the county's highway safety commission. He noted the commission meets in April.

"What I'm thinking is that, if everybody's willing to split some of the cost, maybe we could get the county to pitch in, as well," Davel said. "Maybe we could put another one in on Waukechon Street over by Hillcrest (Primary School). It's something to consider."

Board member Chris Gull questioned if there might also be state funding available to pay for the signal, given the intersection's close proximity to Main Street, which is part of state Highway 22.

Anderson noted that good presence from the Shawano Police Department has helped to prevent accidents at the area schools. She said she would like to see the signals installed by the fall.

County board amends abandoned vehicle ordinance

Owners to pay fee for sheriff's department to hold their vehicles

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

The Shawano County Board of Supervisors voted March 23 to amend an ordinance relating to vehicle abandonment in the county.

The ordinance previously stated that any vehicle left unattended on a public road for 48 hours or more will be considered abandoned. The county board voted to include a $75 administrative fee, as well as increase the $25 daily storage fee to $50 a day, to help offset costs to the sheriff's department.

"It is a simple ordinance in my mind," said Supervisor Jerry Erdmann. "It is simple in my mind to help take care of the abandonment issues that the county has. It will give maybe a little bit to the sheriff's department, but in the long run, will hopefully cut down on the number of vehicles if people will have to pay more for them."

Supervisor Deb Noffke said that the county cannot have abandoned vehicles sitting on the side of the road due to safety concerns.

"But on the flip side, I don't think anyone wakes up on in the morning and decides that I hate this car so much that I am going to leave it on the side of the road," said Noffke. "It would be nice if there was some kind of incentive for them to get that car out of the storage yard."

Shawano County Sheriff's Department Chief Deputy George Lenzer clarified the amendment.

"This abandonment ordinance — it doesn't have anything to do with vehicles abandoned on the side of the road," said Lenzer. "These are vehicles that are sitting in our storage. We can't get rid of them and we don't have room. The owners won't pick them up."

Lenzer said that the sheriff's department sends a certified letter to the owner after the vehicle has sat in storage for 10 days.

"In that certified letter, we tell them at this point, you are going to start getting charged," said Lenzer. "We have been charging $25 and now we are raising that to $50. We are also charging an administrative fee of $75. We usually have to clean all of the garbage out and try to salvage the car. We usually lose money on them."

Lenzer added that this is just a way to make a little revenue for the sheriff's department.

"Right now, we have 14 vehicles in the storage building," said Lenzer. "Out of those 14, 12 are evidence that we are waiting to go through court. We can't charge any fees for those."

He finished by saying the owner of the other two vehicles will start to get charged after the vehicles go through a search and are released.

In regards to vehicles that are abandoned on the highways, Lenzer said that most of the vehicles are picked up by towing companies, who are in charge of the fees associated with them.

"These are vehicles that we have stuck in our evidence, because we need room for our own vehicles or stuff that is waiting for court or needs to be processed," said Lenzer. "I don't think that we are going to get into the business of towing vehicles on a public highway."

ELECTION 2022 — OCONTO COUNTY JUDGE

Conley, Burke make their case to local officials

By LUKE REIMER
AND WARREN BLUHM
NEW Media

Oconto County Judge Jay Conley and his challenger, Oconto County District Attorney Ed Burke, have been making the rounds with local officials in the run-up to the April 5 election.

Conley's stops have included in-person appearances with the Gillett City Council on March 3 and Oconto Falls City Council on March 8, with Burke sending a detailed letter with apologies because of his schedule as the county's chief prosecutor.

The two men each addressed the Oconto County Board on March 24, and Burke had to leave a little early to make an 11 a.m. appearance in the courtroom elsewhere in the building.

This year's election is a repeat of the 2010 spring election, when Conley won the Branch 2 judgeship he has held since then. At the time Burke had been a private attorney for five years after 15 years as a public defender, 13 of them in Oconto County.

Conley has been the Branch 2 judge since 2010. This year, he is running against Oconto County District Attorney Ed Burke in the April 5 spring election.

"I love my job, I love going to work," Conley told the Gillett council. "I want to keep my job, that's why I am here."

Conley, 69, and his wife, Linda, have lived in Gillett for the past seven years. They have three children and one granddaughter. He said he has enjoyed his time living in the city.

"My neighbors have become dear, dear friends," he said.

Conley also served as district attorney, beginning in 1990 when he won the seat after the resignation of Jim Newlun. He held the post until he was elected judge 20 years later.

Because it is a nonpartisan position, a judge can't be affected by personal opinions, he said.

"Of course I have strong beliefs on things in my personal life, but what do you want from your judge? Fairness," he said.

Fairness means, in part, approaching each defendant on his or her own merits.

"Every case is different," Conley

Incumbent Jay Conley tells the Gillett City Council that he will be seeking reelection for the Oconto County Circuit County Court Judge during its meeting on March 3. LUKE REIMER | NEW MEDIA

Ed Burke has been Oconto County district attorney since 2013. He is currently serving his third four-year term. CONTRIBUTED said. "Some people need a break, some people made a mistake, they are humiliated to be there, but you can work with them. Some people need to be watched, that is called probation. Some people need some punishment, that is called the county jail. Finally, when it comes to protecting the community, some people need to go to prison. A judge is about deciding which cases are which."

He added that prison may not be able to reform every convict, but their incarceration does help communities.

"A dangerous person that has hurt our community — every moment that they are locked up, they are not hurting someone else," said Conley.

Conley said that even though he may not necessarily agree with some laws, he will continue to follow all of them.

"I am not a dictator up there deciding how people live," said Conley. "That's what the rule of law means to me — I have to follow the law as it is written. That does not mean that a judge does not have power."

Conley used a criminal sentencing as an example of when a judge has power but still needs to follow laws.

"You can have a 60-year felony that has no minimum penalty," said Conley. "That person can get nothing or 60 years. Of course the judge has power. You have to use that discretion wisely."

Burke, 63, told the county board he has lived in Oconto County for 30 years that have "gone by in a flash." He moved to Breed when he got the Shawano County job in 1990 and later moved to Pensaukee with his wife, Carrie, and four daughters. Emily and Marisa have since grown, and the Burkes have three granddaughters; 13-year-olds Harper and Willow are in Oconto schools. His parents, Ed and Marge, are still alive at 94.

Moving to Oconto County was a conscious decision, he said.

"I enjoy the outdoors, I enjoy everything about Oconto County, I love Oconto County," Burke said. "When I worked in Shawano County, I chose to live here. The one thing I really liked about Oconto County was the people."

Burke has touted the need to establish a drug treatment court with what he called the "explosion" of methamphetamine and other illegal drugs in the community. He said the current choices are to put addicts in prison or probation.

"What the drug treatment court is to make these people come into court every week with the district attorney, and human services is involved, and they make them say what are you doing to take care of this problem," Burke said. "It's not holding someone's hand, it's holding them accountable, and if they're not accountable in the court, then punish them, send them to jail."

He said the concept could also work with people who have committed domestic abuse, another chronic problem in the courts.

"Make them come to court, stand in front of the judge, and tell them what they're doing to work on this problem, and if's not to the judge's satisfaction, the judge can punish them," Burke said.

The court system has been backed up since in-person trials were suspended during the COVID pandemic, because people didn't stop committing crimes, he noted.

"The train engine stopped, but the cars kept coming," he said. "We have to get things moving in that court system, we're pretty close to a crisis right now. We've got a two-person (district attorney) office, I think we've tried 15 or 16 cases since the first of the year, which is also unprecedented."

The winner of the April 5 election earns a six-year term that begins Aug. 1.

Sheriff, clerk of courts salaries set for 2023-26

By WARREN BLUHM
NEW Media

The Oconto County sheriff and clerk of courts who are elected in November will get a bump in salary over the incumbents, after the county board approved a salary schedule during its March 24 meeting.

Sheriff Todd Skarban has already announced he will be running for a second four-year term, and Trisha LeFebre, who was appointed clerk of courts in 2019 after Mike Hodkiewicz resigned, is expected to seek a full term in her own right, as well.

Human Resources Director Shelly Schultz told the board that the salaries she developed with the board's personnel and wages committee were crafted after a comparative study of other counties, which have been approving increases ranging from 2-14% for their elected department heads.

"We looked at the overall averages, how big the counties were, and what the other people were making," Schultz said. "With that we came to a 4.5% increase for next year — that seems to be the standard across most of the counties — and then from there on, a 3% increase for the next three years after that."

The sheriff will get an increase from Skarban's $97,298 this year to $101,676 in 2023 up to $111,105 in 2026. LeFebre is earning $69,075 in 2022; the person elected in November will make $72,183 in 2023 and $78,877 in 2026.

By state law, the salaries need to be set before nomination papers begin circulating for the November election, and the numbers need to be in place for the entire four-year term, Schultz said.

"It's hard to predict now what's going to happen in Year Three, as far as we're going with increases and benefits, but we felt that this, for the size of our county, the duties that they do, that this was definitely a fair evaluation," she said.

The increases are also not out of line from raises approved for general county employees, which ranged from 3-6%, Schultz said.

Voters get a firsthand look at old school

Referendum to build new school next week

By WARREN BLUHM
Editor-in-chief

The window to the front office at Washington Middle School is adorned with the greeting, “A warm smile is the universal language of kindness.”

Any visitor can stride past that door and down two steps and head down a corridor unimpeded to classrooms. That lack of security would be addressed if Oconto Falls School District voters approve a $49.9 million referendum question on April 5.

“People can just walk right in,” Superintendent Dean Hess said March 28 as he began a tour of the old school for interested residents. A better approach would be to have a wall or similar barrier that directs visitors into the office first, and a successful referendum would address security needs at all four district schools, he said.

The centerpiece of the campaign is replacing Washington, which has areas built in 1917, 1957, 1983 and 1995, with a modern middle school estimated to cost around $31 million.

The rest of the dollars would be used to upgrade facilities at Oconto Falls High School and Abrams and Oconto Falls elementary schools.

The purpose of the tour was to illustrate how wear and tear has ravaged the old middle school over the years. One of the first stops was the basement, where a pair of Iron Fireman boiler-burner furnaces built by the Kewanee Boiler Division of American Standard have been in service for more than 65 years.

Mike Bouche, the school district's buildings/grounds and maintenance supervisor, estimated $100,000 has been spent over the past four years patching up the old steam boilers, most recently when 77 feet of rusted piping burst.

The steps near the front office highlight another issue: Only two of the entrances to the school, which spans five acres over two asphalt-covered city blocks, are compliant with the Americans with Disabilities Act, Hess said.

The task force that studied district schools and recommended the referendum did consider what it would take to bring the old building up to code, and the $20-$30 million cost would still result in an aging, landlocked school that does not meet modern educational standards, and that's why the task force did not include a renovation option in its recommendation, said Stephanie Landreman, middle school principal.

The industrial education area of Washington Middle School, built in 1983, still uses the original Stern-vent Co. exhaust collection system.

WARREN BLUHM | NEW MEDIA

Parts for the ancient heating system at Washington Middle School are hard to find if not impossible, said Mike Bouche, buildings/grounds and maintenance supervisor.

JAY CONLEY, TREASURER

ELECTION 2022 — OCONTO FALLS MAYOR

For the first time in years, there is a race for mayor of Oconto Falls. Brad Rice, who has been unopposed for reelection at least twice, faces a challenge April 5 from former Alderman Kevin Rusch.

NEW Media emailed questionnaires to the candidates to get their views on some of the issues facing the city. Rice did not respond by press time; here are Rusch's responses.

What do you see as the mayor's role as leader of the Oconto Falls city government?

Rusch: The main duties of the mayor are to oversee and assist the police and fire departments, as well as chair certain city meetings. I can assure the citizens of Oconto Falls that I will not be a complacent mayor. I will work close with the city administrator and council on the challenges and issues that come before the city. I will not sit back quietly during meetings, but will participate in general discussions offering my opinion to assist the administrator and council in coming up with the right decision that best serves our city.

What challenges does the city face over this next term?

Rusch: The city is on a fast track of running out of room to grow. We must explore our options to allow our city to expand. If our school system is successful in funding a new replacement for the Washington School building, I will assist the administration and council in discussions with the appropriate parties for the ultimate disposition of the old Washington School property. I also have some outside of the box thoughts and ideas I will be sharing with the administrator and council to help bring business to our city.

How can the city work with the Main Street Committee to revitalize downtown?

Rusch: There has been a lot of work done by various groups and committees to come up with ideas to revitalize main street. Let it be noted that some businesses have made major improvements to their buildings. The city administrator has been successful in securing funds to assist in the planning for improvements to main street. I feel it will take some bold decisions to make the major impact that we need to slowly turn the demise of Main Street around. It is not all about decorative sidewalks, streetlights, etc.

ELECTION 2022 - OCONTO COUNTY BOARD, DISTRICT 20

The two top vote-getters in a Feb. 15 primary election are running for the District 20 seat on the Oconto County Board on April 5, representing parts of the Town of Oconto Falls and Village of Lena.

Buzz Kamke decided not to run for reelection after 24 years on the board. Keith Schneider and Richard Wood outpolled two other candidates, Timothy O'Harrow and Jerold Schoeder, to reach the April ballot.

NEW Media mailed questionnaires to the candidates to provide readers with their background and opinions on key issues facing the county. Wood's answers are below; Schneider did not respond.

Richard Wood

Age: 62

Family: Wife, Debi, five daughters, 13 grandchildren

High school: Oconto Falls High School, Class of 1978

RICHARD WOOD

Years lived in district: one year in District 20, over 49 years in Oconto County

Occupation: Owner of RiverWood Saloon and Campground and The Wood Shed Axe Throwing. I'm a retired carpenter and retired truck driver of 39 years.

Community activities: Oconto Area ATV Club, volunteer for 4-H food stand, volunteer for local veterans' groups, volunteer for Sportsmen With Heart fundraisers

Previous elected experience: Served on the board and as a volunteer of a local nonprofit organization.

Why do you want to serve on the Oconto County Board?

To use my leadership and problem-solving skills in improving county government processes. I've noticed a need for positive change and streamlining the process of growing local business and community. As a bar owner, I have daily contact with area residents and listen to concerns with local issues. I will be their advocate to improve our standard of living. I have a vision to promote our area as a destination for fun, recreation and relaxation.

What do you see as the biggest issue(s) facing the board over the next two years?

Getting new business and keeping existing business in Oconto County. This requires people who understand business and not making laws that unfairly burden our citizens. We need to work with area landowners and internet providers to bring much-needed service to residents and businesses. It's important to keep current with educational and business technology. The board should keep communication open for residents with issues that affect their lives, including making meetings accessible for working residents.

In what area/topics do you believe you can contribute to the board and the county?

I'm available to hear concerns of my district and promote growth in our county. I have a reputation of getting things done and know how to work as a team. I think outside the box and work hard for positive solutions. Thousands of people travel through our "Gateway to the Northwoods." With some effort, together, we can get them to stay a little longer, spend a little more and make lasting memories in Oconto County.

Write-in Candidate

Gillett City Council

Authorized and paid for by Sandy Hubbard

Polls will be open 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

By NEW MEDIA STAFF

Thanks in part to a redistricting plan that deliberately ignored where incumbent supervisors live, there is an unusual number of races for Oconto County Board in the April 5 election.

The 31-district plan adopted in October created five districts with more than one incumbent and five districts with no incumbent at all. As a result, voters in nine districts have a choice between two candidates, including one district where a deceased supervisor is on the printed ballot.

John Wittkopf and Cody Henry have both registered as write-in candidates in District 13, serving Wards 3 and 4 in the City of Oconto. They stepped forward after incumbent supervisor Dick Doeren died on Feb. 17.

Other races for County Board:

- District 3 (parts of Little Suamico and Chase): Brandon M. Dhuey, Frank Novak

- District 8 (parts of Abrams and Morgan): David Behrend, Curt Haffeman

- District 9 (parts of Abrams and Morgan): Jolene Barkhaus, Allan Stranz

- District 11 (parts of the towns of Oconto and Pensaukee): Diane Nichols, Patrick Scanlan

- District 20 (parts of the Town of Oconto Falls and Village of Lena): Keith Schneider, Richard Wood

- District 21 (parts of the Town and Village of Lena): Kenneth Linzmeyer, Char Meier

- District 22 (parts of Brazeau and Spruce): Terry Brazeau, David Parmentier

- District 28 (all of the towns of Breed and How): Carol M. Heise, Richard VandeWettering

Two registered write-ins have no official opponents: Wayne Kaczrowski is seeking the District 7 seat representing Wards 4 and 5 in the Town of Chase; and Richard Pillsbury is seeking the District 12 seat serving Ward 1 and 2 in the City of Oconto Falls.

Besides the County Board races, there are a handful of other races around Oconto County this spring election, most notably the county-wide race where Judge Jay Conley is being challenged by District Attorney Edward Burke.

Oconto Falls Mayor Brad Rice is challenged by former alderman Kevin Rusch.

Four people are running for two available seats on the Oconto Falls School Board: Chad Earley, Ron Leja, Charles O'Harrow and Sarah Schindel.

In the Oconto School District, Crissy Thome Kumlhala and Erin Sikora are running for a rural seat.

In the Pulaski School District, Jackie Huisman and Heidi Bukowiec are running for the Zone 1 seat representing the Village of Pulaski.

In the Suring School District, Wayne Sleeter and Rhonda Stuart are running for the seat representing the towns of Bagley, Maple Valley and Spruce.

Three people are running for two positions on the Brazeau Town Board: Rodney Gretzon, Randy Nasgovitz and David Parmentier.

In Gillett, Jon Gildemeister is unopposed on the ballot for City Council, Ward 2, but incumbent Sandy Hubbard has publicly announced she is a write-in candidate.

In Oconto, John Panetti and Cliff Martin are running for mayor, and five people are running for four positions on the City Council: Patsy Bake, Butch Mellberg, Al Schreiber, Steve Stock and John Wittkopf.

Two school districts are also asking referendum questions. The Gillett School District is asking to exceed its revenue limit by $450,000 for each of the next three years, in an extension of a referendum approved three years ago.

The Oconto Falls School District is posing a $49.9 million referendum that includes a new $31 million middle school and upgrades at its other three school buildings.

Polls will be open across the county from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. April 5.

'The Hawk Way' has strayed off course

Years ago, the Shawano School District adopted a new philosophy and dubbed it "The Hawk Way." Students and staff were encouraged to go the extra mile and strive for excellence through learning, living and leading.

We still see those words on the district's logo. However, it's doubtful by many in the district that the administration is living the philosophy, at least the way that it's intended, in light of the recent news that the district is looking at closing one of its schools and is taking steps to trim staff.

Social media is lit up brighter than a Christmas tree with people feeling like they've been blindsided by the news that a decision will be made in less than a month as to whether Olga Brener Intermediate School or Shawano Community Middle School, especially since the revelation that the district is facing a $2 million budget shortfall next year, possibly more, is fresh in people's minds.

Such a drop in funding does not happen suddenly. We've known enrollment in Shawano has been declining for years, but our neighbors in Keshena and Pulaski are boasting increases in enrollment, with Menominee Indian reporting at one public meeting that it has 88 students from Shawano through the open enrollment program. What have we done to encourage folks to come back home or get others outside the district to come here?

It's clear district officials knew there would be a need for cuts, supposedly at the start of the school year. That should have been front and center to the board before it met March 16 at Hillcrest Primary School and spent less than an hour hearing the details about potential school closures and discussing them.

Instead, the board spent several meeting slots this school year talking about its strategic plan, and nowhere in the discussion was there talk of closing a school. If this was a looming issue, it would have been smarter to address the issue over several months and make the public aware of it before now, but it was apparently better for leadership to avoid the issue.

Members of the Shawano School Board sit at their spots as a community member speaks during the March 21 board meeting at the Shawano Community High School library. Local residents have questioned on social media whether board members listen or care about their concerns. LEE PULASKI | NEW MEDIA

In January, the district held a town hall in which it addressed declining enrollment, which is tied to state funding and budget caps. However, instead of saying, "It looks like we're going to be short at least $2 million, so we might have to take some steps — say closing a school, giving some employees pink slips, axing the tennis program — to bring the budget in balance," it paraded the sports and performing arts programs around and suggested a future referendum would be needed.

Now, administrators and board members are expressing confusion that people are outraged. I don't see why, as they concealed a financial blemish on its operation the same way someone might put on a hat to hide a hideous haircut and are claiming action needs to be taken immediately to avoid fiscal disaster.

People aren't at your standard level of outrage, either. While dozens have flocked to the Facebook pages Shawano, Let's Talk About It and Concerned Parents of Shawano Schools to express displeasure at the district's lack of transparency, there are a few calling for Superintendent Randi Anderson's figurative head on a platter and also a couple of suggestions that maybe the entire school board should be recalled.

It's clear the school district's communication protocols with the public are failing. Changes need to be made if administrators hope to keep the trickling decline in enrollment from becoming a flood.

Instead of planning public meetings titled "Education Finance 101," which implies us mere mortals have no clue and need to be taught on why we're losing money, there should be town hall meetings where there's discussion on options to drain the red ink that school officials and the community can come together on. The public feels like it's being left out in this decision to close a school, but yet public involvement and voting is required to build a school.

Also, the district should have all of its public meetings recorded live and put on YouTube. Right now, only the board meetings are recorded, and that's only when there's business to be voted on. The work sessions on the strategic plan have not been recorded, nor have the committee meetings where a lot of the discussion on specific matters takes place. If the district wants to be seen as honest and above board, it should show everything it does to tamp down allegations that everything is done in secrecy.

Then there's the school district's social media. Instead of having Throwback Thursdays with vintage photos and providing a scrapbook for fun learning activities in the schools on Facebook, administrators should be using every available platform, both online and offline, to explain their rationale and allow the public to provide feedback.

Once upon a time, Anderson communicated with the public through a "Hawk Talk" event. Bringing those back would not only inform the public but could serve as a two-way conversation where people could provide other ideas and suggestions.

Listening is ideal to learning, and the administration and board members would be wise to listen to the folks who reside in this district and figure out a solution that is not so draconian. If they opt not to do so, then there's a different ideology in play for The Hawk Way, and it's not one that the public can accept.

GUEST COLUMN

Best days lie ahead for the rural economy

I grew up on my family's small dairy farm in central Wisconsin. It is there I learned the value of hard work and the importance of neighbors helping neighbors. These values led me to public service on the local town board and state legislature where I represented central Wisconsin residents. Under the leadership of President Joe Biden and U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Tom Vilsack, I am honored to continue working on ways to help rural residents and strengthen communities through the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

A couple of weeks ago, Biden used his first State of the Union address to talk about where our country has been and where we are going. The president mentioned a lot we can be proud of and even more to look forward to, especially in rural America. The country has faced deep challenges over the past year, and the people living in rural areas know this better than anyone.

Rural communities are resilient, and when rural America thrives, all America thrives.

That's why the progress we have made in rural Wisconsin over the past year is a good sign for everyone. By investing in water infrastructure and broadband, rural business opportunities and the American food supply chain, USDA is helping communities build a foundation for sustained economic growth.

For example, the city of Chetek will replace a wastewater treatment plant, originally built in the 1950s, with help from the USDA's Water and Waste Disposal Loan and Grant program. I had the opportunity to tour the current plant with city officials to see and hear about the need for this project firsthand. The new plant will address several code violations, allow for future growth and bring safer wastewater treatment to the city's more than 2,200 residents.

A great example of how we're helping to support Wisconsin's food supply chain is by investing in ag producers and small businesses like Ed and Peggy Callahan, owners of Dream Apple Farm. I had the pleasure to visit their raspberry and apple orchard in Port Washington and see the work that goes into producing their products. I also visited their market store, DreamPort Harvest Market, to hear how they used a $49,500 Value-Added Producer Grant through USDA to expand their business and hire employees through marketing and sales of new products like jams, butters, breads and pies.

Additionally, through programs like the Food Supply Chain Guaranteed Loan Program and the Meat and Poultry Processing Expansion Program, we're answering the president's call to create more resilient, diverse and secure supply chains. Promoting competition in the processing sector will lead to fairer prices for farmers, greater value for workers, and more affordable and healthier food produced closer to home for families.

These investments create jobs and economic opportunities in rural areas. They help grow the economy from the bottom up and middle out like the president talked about. They contribute to a circular economy where the resources and wealth we build in rural Wisconsin, stay right here in our state.

This is just the beginning. In the State of the Union, Biden committed to build a national network of 500,000 electric vehicle charging stations, begin to replace poisonous lead pipes so every child — and every American — has clean water to drink at home and at school, and provide affordable high-speed internet for every American — urban, suburban, rural and tribal communities.

The Biden-Harris Administration's plan for the economy is already producing historic wins, and there's room for everyone to participate, no matter their ZIP code. That's why we're optimistic that our best days lie ahead.

By giving everyone a fair shot and providing equitable access to federal resources, we can do our part to carry out the president's economic vision. That means making more things here at home, strengthening our supply chains and lowering costs for working families. It means giving people opportunities to make a good living without having to leave the communities they know and love.

For a lot of us, that means staying right here in rural Wisconsin.

Julie Lassa is the Wisconsin state director for rural development for the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Don't blame Biden for soaring gas prices

To the editor:

Throughout history, presidents have always been blamed for problems with the United States economy. Now is no exception.

Since the beginning of the pandemic, we stayed home more and didn't use as much gasoline. Now people are driving more, so demand for gasoline has increased. Add to that the shortages because of the war in Ukraine, and you get higher prices. To blame President Joe Biden is not fair.

Exxon, Mobil, Chevron, Shell and BP have added to the problem. In the last quarter, they limited supply and racked up $25 billion in profits, which is the highest income level in seven years. Maybe they should help to stabilize prices.

Also happening with the COVID-19 outbreak was the interruption of goods production. Many workers got sick and missed work. This happened just as we were buying more products for home, thus putting a strain on the worldwide supply chain.

Certain corporations have made the situation worse. Starbucks' profits soared 352%. In 2021, Netflix doubled profits, and UPS had a record-breaking year. Amazon made $35 billion, and McDonald's had $23 billion in revenues. Corporate profit margins are now at a 70-year high. They have profited at our expense.

All this corporate greed has led to increased prices. Consumers have found themselves having less purchasing power, even though wages are on the rise. This dilemma is called "inflation," a word Republicans have been using as they blame President Biden for consumer price hikes.

What is being ignored are the indicators that show the economy actually slowly rebounding from the effects of the pandemic. The national economy is seen as growing at 4%, a rate not seen since the Reagan Administration. About 6.6 million new jobs have been created in 2021. As hiring increases, President Biden is on track to have unemployment rates like the 1950s.

Even Wisconsin is making progress. The unemployment rate is 2.8%, the lowest in Wisconsin's history. Gov. Tony Evers' investments in small businesses has paid off.

Our state has accumulated a projected budget surplus of historic proportions. Evers' plan is to return a portion of the money to working families to help them fight rising costs.

We need to stop pointing fingers and have patience as we cope with the higher prices. The price of gas, groceries and goods will come down when supplies stabilize. Have some faith in our leaders.

Mary Arnold, Shawano

Shawano County approves 1.5% wage increase

Increase covers non-union, full-time county employees

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

The Shawano County Board of Supervisors approved a 1.5% wage increase for non-union, full-time county employees during its March 23 meeting.

Chairman Tom Kautza said that Shawano County lost ground in relation to wage increases, compared to surrounding counties.

"I believe some around us gave 2-2.5(%) and in some cases a 3% increase," said Kautza.

He added that it appears that the county will have money left over from its budget.

"Our employees did save over $52,000 just by taking a higher-deductible health plan, and I always say that if they are saving the money, we should be rewarding them with some of the money that we are saving," said Kautza. "That will help with morale and that will get people thinking more."

Supervisor Kathy Luebke said the county should increase wages for county employees because they are a valuable asset to the county.

"If we are not paying them and they go elsewhere, we are going to be in trouble," said Luebke.

Supervisor Joe Miller said employees would be getting different raises based off of their salary.

"With a $20 an hour salary, 1.5% would equate to 30 cents — peanuts," said Miller. "I strongly respect fiscal conservancy, but it looks like fiscal conservancy got us into a predicament that we have been in for a while."

Supervisor Deb Noffke elaborated on Miller's point.

"Part of the concern is that we don't have everyone at $20 an hour," said Noffke. "We have a wage range that goes up to $50 an hour. The percentage for the lower-paid worker-bee is not as much as an incentive. I think that is where we are having a problem filling jobs — in the lower end. 1.5% of $20 is different than 1.5% of $50."

Supervisor Jerry Erdmann said that Shawano County being conservative has helped the county board.

"The issue that I see it has been going on for years," said Erdmann.

"Our issue is the levy limits that the state puts on us. They basically cap us, because if our health insurance goes up, what we can legally raise — how can you give an increase in salary? With our staff taking options and cutting down the cost of the health insurance, let's reward them for saving."

Supervisor Kevin Conradt said that the county should support this.

"It will catch us up a little bit, but won't catch us up totally," said Conradt. "We have to start somewhere, I understand Deb's concern with every raise we give, we have to come up with next year, but we will find it."

Supervisor Sandy Steinke said that employees who have worked at the county longer will get larger increases.

"The thing that you have to remember is someone who is at $30 an hour compared to someone who is at $15, would have been here 30 years, so they are going to get a little more raise," said Steinke. "That person at $15, if they stay here, will be at that rate, hopefully."

CLUB NOTES

Oconto River Trout Unlimited

Without any meetings during COVID, the Oconto River Watershed Chapter of Trout Unlimited scheduled its first meeting of 2022 for 7 p.m. April 12 at the Lone Oak Gun in Gillett. One of the main topics for gathering will be the "Go Fund Trout 2022," which focuses on raising funds to stock trout in the main Oconto River at public access points from Suring to County BB south of Gillett. This stretch of Oconto is less than ideal cold water for trout reproduction and is stockable with WDNR permit.

This project started by the chapter in 2015 has been one of the most appreciated and most popular of all the many things the Oconto River chapter participates in. Each year stocking has consisted approximately 1,000 brown and rainbow trout of keepable sizes of 10 to 14 inches in length. We have reports from individuals over the years that these trout have been caught from the Oconto Falls Pond and upstream all the way to the south and north branches of the river. The chapter is seeking donations from all who feel this a worthy cause. Donations can be made to Trout Unlimited and mailed to Oconto River TU, P.O. Box 252, Gillett WI. Please note on your check "Fund Trout." The chapter budgets $1,000 to start the fund, and our goal is $3,500 by April 15. Stocking of trout takes place during the last week in April.

Other topics on agenda are spring boat landing cleanup, Trout in Classroom, stream habitat projects, youth fishing and casting events. After meeting activities include snacks and a welcoming raffle with prizes of fish tackle, packages of meat, refreshments and a drawing for cash. Our meetings are open to the public; information is also available on the chapter website, www.ocontorivertu.com.

Pathfinders to hold rummage sale April 3

The Lena Pathfinders have scheduled their 28th annual rummage sale for 8 a.m.-3 p.m. April 3 at the American Legion Hall, 412 E. Main Street, Lena.

This sale provides funds for the Lena Seventh-day Adventist young people to enjoy club activities such as camping trips and purchasing supplies used towards completing over 480 honor badges.

Along with the club activities, the youth are also involved in community service. Each fall they do a food drive to collect non-perishables, and each winter they do a hat-mitten-sock drive which is all donated to the "Feed My Sheep" food pantry in Lena.

Oconto Falls' Logan Seymour enjoyed the best individual night of any competitor, winning the boys 45-yard dash, high jump and triple jump.

Seymour was clocked at 5.45 seconds in his 45-yard dash. He won the high jump after clearing 5 feet, 6 inches. The senior won the triple jump with a mark of 39-2, over three feet further than any other athlete.

"My top three finishes definitely got my season off to the good start I was hoping for and gives me the confidence to keep working hard every day at practice and to make me ready to go for the upcoming meets," said Seymour.

The Oconto Falls boys had four other top individual finishers on the night.

Devon Dorn claimed the top mark in the long jump (17-11). He also placed third in the 200 (28.16).

Isaac Bramer won the 200 with a time of 26.5. Bramer placed second in the 45 (5.56) and was third in the long jump (16-11¾).

Joe Adams won the boys 1,600 (5:11.98), while Ben Adams claimed the best time in the 800 (2:32.42).

The Oconto Falls boys also had the first-place finishing 24-lap relay (9:48.23), 4-lap relay (1:08.47) and 12-lap relay (4:10.51). The 24-lap relay was 3,072 meters, 4 laps was 512 meters and 12 laps was 1,536 meters.

The Oconto Falls girls team had five individual first-place finishers, led by Hailyn St. Louis.

St. Louis won the 200 with a time of 32.38 and had the top mark of 12-9½ in the long jump.

"Being able to compete again was very fun and also shows how I shouldn't take things for granted," said St. Louis.

"My top finishes definitely gave me tons of confidence by showing myself that I'm beyond capable of doing something that I've never ran before on the indoor track. In the 200, my teammates all cheered me on and I kept focus and stayed steady the whole time. It was very fun to compete again, and I'm excited for next week!"

Anna Spaulding claimed first in the 45 (5.91) and second in the long jump (12-7) for the Panthers. Grace Oninski won the girls shot put (31-0) and came in fourth in the 45 (6.29). Hannah Ludemann had the other top finish, winning the 1,600 (6:13.7).

The Oconto Falls girls team also swept the relay events. The 24-lap relay finished in 11:32.5, the 4-lap relay in 1:15.4 and the 12-lap relay in 4:42.9.

Staying on the girls side, Suring's Christine Sleeter won both the high jump (4-10) and pole vault (8-0) and took fifth in the 45 (6.4). Olivia Noack was first in the 800 (2:51.97).

Georgia Gerndt had the team's other top finishes, winning the 400 (1:17.26) and triple jump (26-5½).

"With this meet being my first indoor, I was very nervous," said Gerndt. "But after my first event, the 24-lap relay, my nerves went away and I forgot how much fun I always have."

"I was satisfied on how I did in the 400 for my first meet indoors and the first one of the season, but I know I can push myself harder with more competition and now I am back in the groove. As soon as track ended last year, I was ready for this season, so starting off the season strong definitely gives me more confidence going into future meets."

The Suring boys team won four individual events on the night.

Quinn Thomson won the 400 (1:01.94) while also taking fourth in the long jump (15-7¾) and fifth in the 200 (29.21). Trent Van Den Elzen won the 50 hurdles (8.39), was second in the pole vault (9-6), third in the high jump (5-2) and fourth in the 400 (1:07.32). Jackson Schaal won the shot put (36-8½).

Jeremy Hensel had the other top finish, winning the pole vault. He also was second in the 200 (27.51) and fourth in the 45 (5.72).

"Being indoors, it's definitely a lot harder in the running events, but pole vaulting is nice due to no wind," said Hensel.

In the pole vault, Hensel hoped to improve on his 10-6 height from the team's first indoor meet. "Tonight I got 12, so there was an improvement."

Alaina Herzog had the lone top finish for Gillett on the night, winning the girls 50 hurdles in 8.73 seconds.

"Going into the meet I wasn't sure what to expect, the last time I ran indoor I believe I was a freshman — and I certainly did not expect to win either," said Herzog. "Taking first is still shocking to me, but it was only four hurdles so I don't wanna get too ahead of myself."

"Competing again like this was nice. One thing I took away most was the sportsmanship, right away getting ready to compete girls were already wishing me good luck, and afterwards with nice compliments. The people are what makes this sport so great, felt really nice to compete again."

Gillett's Emily Soper placed third in the girls 45 (6.04). On the boys side, Blake Goodreau was third in the shot put (35-2½).

For the Suring girls, Kate Mahoney placed second in the triple jump (26-1). Placing third was Kaylee Otradovec in the long jump (12-5), MacKenzie Bailey in the pole vault (6-0), Lillie Taylor in the 400 (1:19.9) and Hailey Thomson in the 1,600 (7:09.81).

For the Suring boys, Mason Ferrell was second in the shot put (35-4). Taking third was Ashtyn Edwards in the triple jump (33-3) and 400 (1:05.32).

Oconto Falls' Emerich Skarban took second in the boys 50 hurdles (8.44). Justin Spaulding claimed second in the long jump (17-0¾) and triple jump (36-0).

Also placing second was Brant Laluzerne in the 400 (1:04.02), Grant Yuma in the 1,600 (5:37.83), Griffin Kopke in the 800 (2:34.72) and Evan Yuma in the high jump (5-2). Evan Yuma was also third in the 45 (5.61).

Taking second for the Oconto Falls girls was Hailey Kopke in the 45 (5.92), Brooke Hodkiewicz in the 1,600 (6:22.64), Amber Haines in the 400 (1:18.97), Maddy Przybylski in the 800 (2:56.31), Grace Molitor in the shot put (29-1) and Brailyn St. Louis in the high jump (4-8).

Brynn Hodkiewicz came in third in the 800 (3:06.75) for the Oconto Falls girls. Morgan Moynihan placed third in the shot put (28-4½), and Abby Budz was third in the triple jump (25-7).

Ruechel's path to greatness a unique one

Pulaski grad starring as thrower at UW-Stout

By MORGAN RODE

Pulaski High School graduate Kevin Ruechel has become one of the top track and field throwers in all of Division III during his career at UW-Stout, but the path he took to get there isn't one you'd expect.

The fifth-year college senior has Wisconsin Intercollegiate Athletic Conference and DIII titles to his name but didn't once qualify for high school state as a thrower. In fact, he didn't even begin competing in the sport until he was a junior in high school.

"I was relatively naive when it came to throwing," recalled Ruechel.

The Pulaski grad added that he was competing in one of the state's top sectionals in the entire state.

"Our sectional was stacked with kids from Kimberly, and I ended up taking fourth place in both events (shot put, discus) my senior year, just missing out on a trip to La Crosse," said Ruechel.

Since joining the UW-Stout team, Ruechel has spent a great deal of time "breaking down the technical aspects of the throw with my coach and have taken thousands of throws to prepare for the ones that matter most."

He added that his workout program — which focuses on major lifts and Olympic lifts — has been a great asset to him, helping him with explosiveness. That's led to further throws and plenty of success.

While he turned in strong finishes at the WIAC indoor and outdoor championships and made multiple DIII championship appearances as a freshman and sophomore, his career got a jolt in 2020.

Ruechel said stepping away from the UW-Stout football team, which he competed on from 2017-19, was the turning point for his throwing career.

"As much as I loved the sport, focusing on only throwing allowed me to fully commit to training year-round, and I would say it has paid off well in my favor," said Ruechel, who earned the Co-Offensive Line-man of the Year honor for football in the Fox River Classic Conference as a high school senior. "Having more time to lift, recover and practice has allowed me to compete at the highest level that I am capable of."

During the 2020 indoor track and field season, Ruechel won his first-ever WIAC title in the shot put with a personal-best throw of 57 feet, 10½ inches. He placed first in six shot put events that season.

Just when Ruechel had it all figured out, the pandemic brought all the momentum to a halt. The indoor DIII championship and entire outdoor season was canceled. The pandemic also took away chances for Ruechel to shine at the 2021 indoor WIAC and DIII championships.

Instead of letting the setback get him down, Ruechel continued to work hard.

During the parts of the 2021 season he was able to compete in, Ruechel continued to shine. He set the school record for indoor shot put and broke the outdoor shot put record twice. The first time he broke the outdoor record was when he won the outdoor WIAC title with a throw of 59-2¾, more than five feet beyond any other competitor.

The second time he broke the record was during the DIII outdoor championship with a throw of 59-9.

"I would say without a doubt winning the outdoor shot put national title in 2021 was my favorite moment (of his college career so far)," said Ruechel. "Sitting in second place as I took my final throw and taking the title was an insane feeling, especially with having to deal with a rain delay that meet."

While for most athletes, that 2021 season would have been their last as college seniors, the NCAA changed some of its eligibility requirements to allow athletes that had seasons taken away by the pandemic an extra opportunity to compete. Ruechel jumped at the opportunity.

"Knowing that I had eligibility remaining, I didn't want to waste it and look back in 10 years wishing I would've competed one more time," said Ruechel.

The Pulaski grad has made the most of his extra season so far, with a number of top finishes to his name through the indoor season and beginning of the outdoor season.

Ruechel won his second straight WIAC indoor title in the shot put after a top throw of 59-0¾. All five of his throws that day would have earned him first place. He became just the third Stout thrower ever with at least two shot put titles.

Ruechel then won the indoor DIII title in the shot put. Competing in the second flight of throwers, his first throw immediately put him in first. His top throw of 58-4 was three feet further than any other thrower. He became the second Stout thrower ever to win an indoor shot put title.

"This indoor season went by in an instant," said Ruechel. "It felt good to have a normal WIAC indoor conference meet after not having one last year, and it was good preparation for nationals.

"For nationals, it was a bitter-sweet return to the JDL Fast Track in Winston-Salem, (North Carolina), where two years prior, we had practiced for the 2020 Indoor Championship, but then were sent home without having the opportunity to compete. To go back down there and win an indoor title was a testament to having all the hard work pay off. Overall, it is fantastic to have a 'normal' season once more and having an extremely optimistic outdoor season upon us."

Ruechel kicked off his outdoor season by winning the shot put and discus events at the Rhodes Invitational in Tennessee. He competed in the javelin throw for the first time in his career, placing fourth, and also took ninth in the hammer throw.

It's a promising start to an outdoor season chock-full of big goals for Ruechel.

"Looking ahead to the outdoor season, getting another shot put title is priority number one, and my goal is to make my way onto and up the all-time D3 list for outdoor," he said. "Additionally, a goal I have is to be more consistent when it comes to discus and get the elusive All-American for this as I am 0-for-3 at nationals for discus, so there is always room for improvement."

ATHLETE PROFILE: ELLIOTT LOWNEY

Shawano senior hoping to cap career on top of podium

Shawano Community High School's Elliott Lowney has been a big-time athlete in whatever high school sport he's played over the past four years. Lowney will cap his career competing on the track and field team and looking to improve on last year's state showing.

A year ago, Lowney placed second in the 200-meter dash at the Division 2 state meet, while also placing seventh in the 400.

He just missed out on making it to state in the 100, and he will also compete in the long jump and triple jump this spring.

In the team's first indoor meet of the spring season on March 17 in Oshkosh, Lowney placed second in the long jump and 200 and was third in the 60 dash.

Lowney is committed to Bemidji State University, where he is set to join the football team. Lowney also was a part of the basketball team while in high school.

Q: When did your interest in track and field begin?

A: I really didn't have an interest in track throughout middle school. I was more of a baseball kid, but I went out with a couple of friends my eighth grade year and fell in love with it. Then my freshman year I had to decide between the two, and I think I chose the right one.

Q: What is your favorite part about the track and field season?

A: My favorite part of track would have to be the warm meet days. At the beginning of the season everyone is cold and not running good, but as the season goes on it gets warmer and that's when PRs (personal records) are set and records are broke.

Q: You're headed to Bemidji State to play football. How does track and field help you on the football field?

A: Track and field helps me with a multitude of things — the first, obviously, being my speed but not just that. My form is critiqued and bettered, and lifting for track helps me be more explosive.

Q: After making state last spring, what are your goals for your senior season?

A: Going to state last year was a great experience, but there's always room to improve on that. This year I don't want to just go to state, I want to win state in the 100 and 200.

Q: In this early portion of the season, what are you focusing on the most?

A: This early in the season I am just really focusing on my form and making sure everything is feeling good before the outdoor season starts.

Q: What's your favorite event to compete in, and why?

Shawano's Elliott Lowney takes off from the starting blocks during the boys 400-meter dash during the Division 2 WIAA State Track and Field Championships on June 25, 2021, at Veterans Memorial Stadium in La Crosse.

A: The 100 dash because nothing is staggered. Everyone starts at the same spot and we run right past the grand stand, where everyone is cheering.

Q: Before competing in an event, do you have any routines or rituals you go through?

A: Before a race I just try to get into the right mindset — I go through my warmup and envision myself running so when I get up there, it's just clockwork.

Q: As a senior, how do you try and help lead the team?

A: I just try to make sure the younger group has good form and telling them not to worry about times right now and that with good form fast times will follow.

Q: What's your favorite memory of competing on the Shawano track and field team?

A: Just the trip down to state last year with the team and staying at the hotel. Then the next day running in the 200 dash final at state and taking second.

Q: Favorite movie, TV show and musical artist?

A: Movie — "6 Underground." TV show — "Outer Banks." Music artist — Lil Baby.

Q: Name one thing about yourself that not many people know.

A: My favorite thing to do in the summer is go bridge jumping.

Q: What are some things you hope to accomplish after graduating high school?

A: I want to make my way into coaching at some point and just pass on what I know to the next generation. Whether it's in track, basketball or football I don't know yet.

ATHLETE PROFILE: KAYLEE SCHRAM

Senior looking to guide inexperienced team

The Wittenberg-Birnamwood High School softball team had several seniors graduate from a sectional-qualifying team in 2021. That means the team will be looking to new leaders this spring, with senior Kaylee Schram serving as one.

Schram is coming off a junior season in which she made the Central Wisconsin Conference-East Division honorable mention team. She had a .279 batting average while driving in nine runs and scoring 13 times. She clubbed six extra-base hits and stole 11 bases.

She will primarily play first base in her final season, but she is willing to move around the field if needed.

Q: When did your interest in softball begin?

A: When I was younger, I was actually a die-hard baseball girl. My brothers (Tyler and Jake) were the influence with that one; I wanted to be just like them. I always thought that was what I would be playing, but in eighth grade I joined softball and I loved it and have been playing since then.

Q: What is your favorite part about the softball season?

A: My favorite part of the softball season is definitely playoffs. I really like how high stakes everything is, and there is a different atmosphere. Every single person on the team is on edge and ready to play, and I love it.

Q: What has the game of softball taught you over the years?

A: It sounds cheesy, but softball has really taught me a lot about teamwork. Everyone has to do their part in order for things to be accomplished, whether that be making defensive plays or getting on the bats. We all go where the team needs us, and we need to do our part.

Q: There were several seniors who graduated from last year's team that went to sectionals. As one of the few experienced players back, how do you plan to lead the team this spring?

A: Our seniors last year were all great players, but I think that their attitudes are what I want to try and keep that same energy. In the dugout, there were never any hanging heads; if someone fell down, they were picked back up again, and I really want to keep that energy this season.

Q: What's the key to you and the team having another successful spring?

A: I think that confidence will be the key to us having a successful season. We have a young, inexperienced team with a lot of potential, but we need to be confident in our abilities in the big games. I believe we can do it, and everyone else needs to believe that, too.

Q: In this early portion of the season, what are you and the team focusing on the most?

A: In the early portion of the season, we are going back to the fundamentals. We want to make sure that we don't start off the season with any bad habits, and that our fundamentals are strong.

Q: After making an all-conference team last spring, what are your individual goals this spring?

A: One of my individual goals is this spring is to make an all-conference team again. I know it will be difficult, but it is a great motivator to keep me working hard throughout the entire season.

Q: Before a game begins, do you or the team have any routines or rituals you go through?

A: Before games, we always go through and make sure that everyone gets eye black. It makes us feel cool. Last season, we also did a prayer after we were all ready that was usually led by our volunteer coach Bill Fraaza.

Q: What's your favorite memory of competing on the Wittenberg-Birnamwood softball team?

A: My favorite memory of competing was actually last season during playoffs. We had gone into extra innings against Amherst with a tied score, and we won by a walkoff in the 11th or 12th inning. We were on edge the whole game and when we finally won, it was amazing.

Q: Favorite movie, TV show and musical artist?

A: Movie — "The Replacements." TV show — "Gilmore Girls." Music artist — Harry Styles.

Q: Name one thing about yourself that not many people know.

A: One thing that not many people know about me is that really like to read. I really love sitting outside and reading a good book.

Q: What are some things you hope to accomplish after graduating high school?

A: After high school, I want to go on to college at four-year university to study forensic psychology. I suppose if that doesn't work out I would be just as happy marrying rich.

Peitersen picked up an individual academic all-state award from the Wisconsin Basketball Coaches Association.

To be recognized, athletes had to be nominated by their coaches. Athletes have to be seniors with at least a 3.5 grade-point average and an ACT score of at least 25.

Peitersen was one of 16 girls selected by the WBCA Executive Board.

"It is very rewarding to not only receive recognition for my basketball abilities, but also for all the work I put into the classroom," said Peitersen. "I am very honored to be recognized at the state level for my athletics and my academics."

The Oconto Falls senior made the North Eastern Conference honorable mention team and defensive first team after averaging 10.6 points and 9 rebounds a game this winter. In 18 conference game, she also blocked 15 shots, dished out 19 assists and had 46 steals.

Robaidek and Rogowski were each part of the WBCA all-state honorable mention girls team in Division 4.

"As my senior year comes to a close, it was extremely meaningful to have my career and hard work acknowledged at the state level," said Robaidek. Green Bay re-signs Douglas and Tonyan

The Green Bay Packers re-signed cornerback Rasul Douglas and tight end Robert Tonyan.

The transactions were announced separately March 21 by General Manager Brian Gutekunst.

"In a short period of time, Rasul made a huge impact on the Packers with his professionalism and on-field performance," said Gutekunst. "We are excited that he is returning to Green Bay and look forward to his contributions to the team both on the field and in the locker room."

"We are excited to come to an agreement that brings Robert back to Green Bay," added Gutekunst, of Tonyan. "Through his approach and dedication he developed into an important part of our offense, and we are confident he will come back stronger from his injury because of the person he is and how hard he works."

Douglas, a 6-foot-2, 209-pound, sixth-year player out of West Virginia University, was originally selected by the Philadelphia Eagles in the third round (No. 99 overall) of the 2017 NFL Draft. He played three years for the Eagles (2017-19), one season for the Carolina Panthers (2020) and this past season for Green Bay after the Packers signed him off the Arizona Cardinals' practice squad on Oct. 6, 2021.

Douglas played in 12 games with nine starts for the Packers, registering a career-best five interceptions, two of which he returned for TDs to tie for the fourth most in a single season in team history.

The Pro Bowl alternate also registered 52 tackles (48 solo) and a career-best 13 passes defended (No. 2 on the team). According to stathead.com, Douglas had the lowest passer rating allowed when targeted (44.5) in the NFL in 2021 among all defenders targeted over 45 times.

In 2020, Douglas appeared in 14 games with a career-high 11 starts for Carolina, recording a career-best 62 tackles (50), while adding nine passes defended (No. 2 on the team).

Overall, Douglas has appeared in 72 games with 38 starts in five seasons, totaling 230 tackles (192 solo), 10 interceptions and 47 passes defended as well as seven special teams tackles. He has also appeared in seven postseason contests with three starts, recording 14 tackles (12 solo) and two passes defended.

Tonyan, a 6-5, 240 pound fifth-year player out of Indiana State, was originally signed by the Detroit Lions as an undrafted free agent in 2017.

Tonyan has played in 51 games with 15 starts in his career, registering 84 receptions for 967 yards (11.5 avg.) and 15 touchdowns. He started five of eight games he played in last year before a knee injury ended his season.

In 2020, Tonyan played in all 16 games with eight starts and ranked No. 2 on the team with a career-high 52 receptions for 586 yards (11.3 avg.)

and 11 TDs, tying the single-season franchise record (Paul Coffman, 1983) for the most TD catches by a tight end. He was tied for No. 1 in the league in TD receptions among tight ends (Travis Kelce), becoming the first Packer to rank first in the league among TEs since Bubba Franks (tied for No. 1 in 2002).

Tonyan was only the second TE in franchise annals to register 45-plus catches, 500-plus receiving yards and nine-plus receiving TDs in a season (Coffman, 54-814-11 in 1983). He ranked No. 4 among NFL tight ends (min. 50 rec.) in 2020 with an average of 11.3 yards per catch.

Pack signs Jarran Reed

The Packers signed defensive lineman Jarran Reed. Gutekunst announced the transaction March 23.

Reed, a 6-3, 307-pound seventh-year player out of the University of Alabama, was originally selected by the Seattle Seahawks in the second round (No. 49 overall) of the 2016 NFL Draft. He played five seasons with the Seahawks (2016-20) before spending last season with the Kansas City Chiefs.

Overall, Reed has played in 89 games with 80 starts, recording 237 tackles (123 solo), 24½ sacks, 24 tackles for a loss, 70 QB hits, seven passes defended, five forced fumbles and three fumble recoveries.

He has also appeared in nine postseason contests (all starts) and registered 28 tackles (16 solo), three sacks, four tackles for a loss and six QB hits.

Green Bay adds Keisean Nixon

The Packers also signed cornerback Keisean Nixon. Gutekunst announced the transaction March 26.

Nixon, a 5-10, 200-pound fourth-year player out of the University of South Carolina, appeared in 40 games with two starts in three seasons (2019-21) with the Oakland/Las Vegas Raiders. He registered 20 tackles (15 solo) and a pass defended on defense while adding 18 tackles on special teams, highlighted by a team-high nine stops on special teams as a rookie in 2019.

Signed by the Raiders as an undrafted free agent in May 2019, Nixon played two years at South Carolina after transferring from Arizona Western College. As a senior in 2018, he appeared in 12 games with 11 starts for the Gamecocks and posted 63 tackles (42 solo) and a team-high nine passes defended.
