Shawano School Board backs its superintendent

Statement shows support for Anderson, denounces claims of former employee

By LEE PULASKI

City Editor

The Shawano School Board is rallying behind its superintendent, Randi Anderson, in the wake of concerns being raised by a former employee and a few parents in the district who allege that Anderson is not serving the needs of students and parents in the Shawano School District.

A written statement from the nine members of the board, headlined “Board Statement Regarding ‘Community Input’” was posted at about 7 p.m. July 1 on the district’s Facebook page claiming that the employee, who was not named in the letter, has a “vendetta” against Anderson.

The board statement referenced a survey that was presented June 7 by Chris Marcks, who had until recently worked in the district office as a human resources coordinator. She told the board that one in three of the people who responded to the survey were actively looking for other employment, and over 80% of respondents claimed they would leave the district if the right opportunity came along.

“The survey presented by this former employee is of limited value,” the board’s letter read. “The survey was not conducted by the district, not all staff were invited to participate and how staff were selected for participation is unknown. The methodology for collection of information and the compiled results cannot be verified.”

Anderson said the board approved the statement following a closed session at its June 21 meeting.

At the meeting, board member Diane Hoffman made the motion, seconded by Mart Grams, citing statute 19.85(1)(c), which cites a public body can have a closed session when “Considering employment, promotion, compensation or performance evaluation data of any public employee over which the governmental body has jurisdiction or exercises responsibility.”

The agenda also cited statute 19.85(1)(g), which allows for “Confering with legal counsel for the governmental body who is rendering oral or written advice concerning strategy to be adopted by the body with respect to litigation in which it is or is likely to become involved.”

The board’s statement labeled Marcks’ actions as “negative” and “a distraction.”

“It is easy to get sidetracked and bogged down in the type of negativity being pursued by a very small number of people with a personal agenda,” the letter from the board read. “None of that serves to further our commitment to student achievement.”

The written statement expressed confidence in what Anderson and the district has done. Some of the examples listed included investing in technology infrastructure, the full-day 4-year-old kindergarten program that is slated to begin this fall, increasing its social media presence and updating its website, mailing three district newsletters and implement health and wellness initiatives.

“The Board wants to assure the community that we are unified in this resolve, and that we have strong ongoing communication with the Superintendent,” the letter read. “The Board chose the Superintendent specifically because we believed that she is the right fit to move the community and Board-developed goals forward by delivering the future-ready education that our students deserve and that we know we can deliver.”

Sleeper said on July 2 that the statement was made mainly to reiterate the positive things the school district has been doing, in spite of the coronavirus pandemic impacting schools. He noted that the statement also points out initiatives the district hopes to accomplish in the coming year.

“We kind of wanted to refocus the message on all the good things that have happened and that we will be working on so that the staff and a community as a whole has that perspective and mindset,” Sleeper said.

He did not specify if the board was going to look into the concerns outlined in the survey but said it was important to have the pulse of the district’s employees.

“We need to be in tune with staff concerns and needs,” Sleeper said. “Through our leadership team — the principals who have the direct responsibility for each building — I would say that’s an ever-present, ongoing need for good communications between the leadership team and staff.”

Sleeper said he has had “quite a significant number of community members” who have spoken to him in the last month in support of the district and where it’s going. He said the comments included dismay for the “social media presence of a small few.”

Marcks sent NEW Media a response to the board’s statement, saying she was “saddened and disappointed” that the board dismissed the feedback she’d gathered from staff members.

“I conducted the survey in an effort to share concerns of staff who are too frightened to speak up directly for fear of retaliation,” Marcks wrote.

She added that she tried to make things better for the district so that teachers could focus on teaching children, including her own. Marcks wrote that she feels the district and community “need to begin to have open and honest dialogue around the issues that are tearing our district apart.”

“At the end of the day, we all need to speak up for what we believe in,” Marcks wrote. “It is our civic duty and job as parents to role model this behavior to our children. We must evaluate the information available, seek further insight when questions present themselves, and be authentic in our pursuit of what believe is right. I encourage others to join me and to do the same.”

Marcks has also started a website called “Speak Up, Shawano!” and the main page states the site is expected to serve as a resource for positive change for the district. Besides the survey she conducted, Marcks has also submitted a public records request for district office spending in the last two years and what is expected to be spent in the next year.

The request received a reply from Geoffrey Lacy, the school district’s attorney, who informed Marcks in a letter that she would need to pay $181.30 to receive the records and compensate for staff time to compile the information.

SACF reaches $10 million milestone

More money means more community outreach for foundation

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

The Shawano Area Community Foundation has reached a big milestone this summer with $10 million in community funds under its purview.

It is quite the feather in the cap of a foundation based in a smaller city that has just over 30 years of history to it, but the milestone didn't come from any huge estate donations, according to Jon Meyers, SACF president. It was the result of steady, consistent faith from Shawano and surrounding communities.

"Throughout the years, the community foundation has been a presence in Shawano for many years, long before I was a part of it," Meyers said. "The $10 million has done a couple of decades to do, and it's amazing when you think about the size of Shawano and what it takes to reach those types of numbers."

While there are some big donors in the mix, Meyers noted that most of the portfolio comes from smaller donors.

"A couple thousand dollars, $10,000 and up, and then we have folks who have put significant amounts of money to their favorite charities, whether its the arts, scholarships, all kinds of things," Meyers said. "For the most part, it is smaller funds."

A lot of giving is key to the success of a foundation like Shawano's. More than 80 charitable funds within SACF provided more than $243,000 in grants to a variety of organizations in 2020. For example, SACF funds helps the Boys and Girls Club of Shawano to continue serving children and families during COVID-19.

Other organizations that received grants include Bridge the Gap, Feeding America, First Presbyterian Church, Girl Scouts, Junior Achievement, Lutheran Counseling and Family Services, Mission of Hope House of Wisconsin, Northeast Wisconsin Technical College Educational Foundation, Ronald McDonald House Charities, Safe Haven, Shawano Area

Matthew 25, Shawano County Historical Society, Shawano County Literacy Council, The FRESH Project, Tigerton School District and Wescott Emergency Management Services.

That's just from the Shawano Area Fund. There are many other funds helping schools, churches, libraries, clubs and other entities to help people in need, recognize people for outstanding achievement and keep arts and culture alive.

"It is a lot of people coming together for a lot of different causes," Meyers said. "No nonprofit organization in need is really left out. For example, we do a lot of work with SAM25. Some are in the arts. Some are scholarships and youth programs. There's a plethora of different organizations that benefit because of the foundation, and people are able to put money under the umbrella of the foundation and avoid all the costly tax implications they deal with and the legal fees and things to set up these charitable trusts if they had to do it on their own."

SACF, which first formed in 1990, is able to cut through all the red tape and make sure money goes where it belongs, according to Meyers, which saves time for those who would like to give but might not have the expertise to know what needs to be done to set up a fund or trust.

"It really works out for people because they can maximize their giving and not have to worry about the headaches of the legal part of it," Meyers said.

He said he doesn't know if the $10 million milestone will allow SACF to reach a broader audience, but he believes it will be a good thing for the nonprofits already receiving funding.

"The more that's in the pot, the more that goes out," Meyers said. "It certainly will mean a beneficial year for those in need across the spectrum that are looking. Hopefully, that means everyone can be helped."

Besides the direct funds to various nonprofits, SACF helps community organizations through its Celebration of Giving, where it recognizes a number of community volunteers each year for how they give their time. This year, SACF will be recognizing its award winners Aug. 19 during the Thursdayz at Franklin event.

5-year-old drowns at Annie's Campground

A 5-year-old boy has died from possible drowning at Annie's Campground near Gresham.

At approximately 8:23 p.m. July 2, the Shawano County Sheriff's Department received a call of a possible drowning at the campground, according to Lt. Jesse Sperberg. The boy was found unresponsive in a swimming area of the campground.

Deputies and other people performed CPR before emergency medical services arrived on scene and an ambulance transported the boy to ThedaCare Medical Center-Shawano, where he was pronounced dead, according to Sperberg.

The sheriff's department was assisted on scene by Tigerton Ambulance Service, Shawano Ambulance Service and several people at the campground.

The incident is under investigation and no further information will be released at this time, according to Sperberg.

2 arrested, money and drugs seized in local bust

A drug bust in Shawano yielded a fair amount of marijuana and cash, along with the arrests of two people.

Around 7:15 a.m. June 25, the Shawano Police Department executed a search warrant at a residence in the 600 block of East Center Street. During the search of the residence, officers located approximately 19.5 pounds of THC/marijuana and $54,410 in cash; digital scales and additional drug paraphernalia were located and seized, according to Detective Lt. Heidi Cartwright.

Two subjects were arrested in connection to this matter and transported to the Shawano County Jail, where they are being held. A request for criminal charges will be made to the Shawano-Menominee County District Attorney's Office for possession of THC/marijuana, possession of paraphernalia, possession of THC/marijuana with intent to deliver and maintaining a drug trafficking place.

This investigation was conducted through the continuous efforts of the Shawano Area Drug Taskforce. The Shawano Police Department was assisted by the Shawano County Sheriff's Department and the Wisconsin State Patrol.

Arbor View Gardens donated to CMN

35-acre public garden becomes environmental research station

An interest in horticulture and the region's natural environment inspired Andy and Sheri Gleisner of rural Waupaca County to devote more than two decades to developing a unique botanical garden for area residents and visitors.

As retirement approached, their commitment to the land itself and the broader topic of environmental education moved them to donate 35 acres of their property to the College of Menominee Nation.

Beginning around 1975, the couple did extensive restoration and planting on the former farm land and, in 2000, opened it to the public as Arbor View Gardens. The botanical array now there features many varieties of wildflowers and other flowering plants, the state's largest collection of woody plants, outdoor art installations and facilities for educational and social events.

The area has been occupied by European settlers since an 1830s treaty ceded more than 4 million acres of ancestral Menominee land to the U.S. government. In choosing to donate their property to the college, the Gleisners noted their desire to see it return to the trust of an American Indian community and to continue its educational purpose. CMN checked both boxes.

While the public gardens chapter in the land's life ended with the transfer of deed to CMN, its role as a place for environmental, conservation and biodiversity education will continue. CMN President Christopher Caldwell says planning has begun on ways members of the college faculty and staff of CMN's Sustainable Development Institute can make use of the property's special characteristics.

"We are grateful for the careful stewardship the Gleisners have given to this piece of Mother Earth," Caldwell said, "and for their thoughtfulness in placing it in the care of an American Indian tribal college."

"We can envision any number of valuable environmental research station projects happening there that will reflect our relationship to the earth and respect the care it received from Mr. and Mrs. Gleisner. It has already been mentioned in relation to our continuing academic work on the impact of climate change, phenomenology in this region, sustainable agriculture and ancient gardens of the Menominee people, and for classes such as natural resources, geoscience and soil microbiology."

Having access to a large area that is fenced and cleared of invasive species adds to its research potential, Caldwell added.

"We have demonstration gardens adjacent to the college's Keshena campus, but having additional space a few miles distant offers control sites that can extend knowledge gained in projects," Caldwell said.

The development of Arbor View Gardens benefited from Sheri Gleisner's professional teaching background in public schools and Andy Gleisner's expertise in horticulture. Aiding in their project was Andy Gleisner's mentor and horticulture professor at the University of Wisconsin-Madison, Dr. Edward Hasselkus.

A former curator of the UW Arboretum's Longenecker Horticultural Gardens, Hasselkus offered professional advice to the Gleisners and provided nearly 20% of the woody species for the Arbor View collection. Other plantings on the property include many non-invasive plants from around the world that are acclimated to Wisconsin conditions.

The research station is located at the County Road C and Palmer Road intersection in Embarrass.

They later (1985) briefly relocated to Independence, Iowa, they then moved to Green Bay in 1986. Bobbie went back to her love of nursing and worked at Bellin Hospital until her retirement in 2008.

Bobbie loved to sing, garden and she loved Christmas. She sang at family gatherings, and in the church choir. In the 1980s, she and her friends, Barb and Peggy, started a singing group based on the Andrew Sisters. They sang together in costume at numerous local functions and events.

Above all, Bobbie loved her family. She was a dedicated wife and mother, but she really loved all people. Bobbie was extremely kind, always positive and was always giving to others. She loved to try new things and found an interest in just about everything she did.

She was a faithful member of her local churches. She attended St. Barbara's Catholic Church in Vulcan, Michigan, and then St. Lawrence Catholic Church in Navarino. She was very involved in her children's school, Holy Spirit Central School in Norway, Michigan. She assisted with fundraisers, committees and PTO. At St. Lawrence Catholic Church in Navarino she made wonderful friends and was involved in many church activities.

Left to cherish Bobbie's memory are her children, Diana Mehler and Matt Prestine, of Green Bay, Kat Mehler and Brad Larson of Minneapolis, Minnesota, Mark Mehler, of Casper, Wyoming, Michael Mehler, of Black Creek, and Dawn Bernhardt of Terrabonne, Oregon; grandchildren, Nikolas Schmit and Oliver and Louis Bernhardt; step-grandchildren, Emma and Trevor Prestine; and her siblings; Judy Jones and Rob Massie, of Crivitz, Jeff Jones, of Langston, Alabama, and Kitty (Bob) Cook, of Howard.

She was preceded in death by her parents; husband, Robert; son, Steven; and brother, Chuck.

A memorial service will be held for Bobbie on Friday, July 9, 2021, at 4 p.m. at Malcore Funeral Homes-West. Visitation will be held at the funeral home from 1 p.m. until the time of the service.

In lieu of flowers, the family asks that any memorials be sent to Unity Hospice.

The family would like to send a sincere thank you to the staff of New Perspectives, Betty's Harbor and Unity Hospice for all the love and care they gave to Bobbie during her final years.

Bonduel celebration alive again after COVID-19

A corn-mobile drives down Green Bay Street, promoting the Bonduel Lions Club's upcoming corn roast, on July 4 in Bonduel.

Hundreds of visitors packed Green Bay, Washington streets and Village Park for festivities

Riley Schutt takes aim with a dart in an attempt to pop balloons and win prizes at Village Park in Bonduel on July 4.

Bonduel's Independence Day celebration looked a little different this year than last year.

In 2020, visitors to the festivities were socially distanced in a block radius. This year, however, hundreds of people lined Green Bay and Washington streets shoulder to shoulder in anticipation of the events.

The day kicked off with the 110th annual parade that started at the Bonduel schools, ran down Green Bay Street, turned on Washington Street and finished at Village Park. Music, food and baseball games then followed the parade.

"It is wonderful that everyone can get back together and not worry about the pandemic," said Shawano resident Mark Reinke.

Getting back together seemed to be the common theme among visitors as many people packed the bleachers for the baseball games and the beer tent to help stay cool in 90 degree weather.

"Our favorite part of the day has been seeing all of the families and friends," Reinke said. "It is good to see everyone that you haven't seen all summer."

Featured in the parade were floats that promoted local dairy companies. Instead of tossing candy for families, things like string cheese and milk were handed out.

"One of our favorite things was getting all of the dairy products in the parade," said Kasia Klaus, who was visiting with her family from Green Bay. "I think that is what separates this one from other parades. That is what we always brag to people about. It is definitely Wisconsin dairy."

With a larger attendance than last year, one resident said that he has seen more new faces than he has in the past.

"We have been coming here since we were little kids," said Bonduel resident Jackson Jiskra. “Look at how packed this place is. I do not know any of these people, to be honest with you.”

Having the full celebration back brought a sense of cheerfulness to those who have visited in the past, but were deprived during the pandemic.

“We were not here for the events last year because of the COVID-19 pandemic,” said Bonduel resident Becky Dendler. “Having this in the community helps people be happy and be optimistic. It is just all positive.”

“Having this back with everyone together is a good feeling,” added Lisa Lamay, who was visiting from Pulaski.

Jeff Dendler, who also lives in Bonduel, showed acknowledgement to the village of Bonduel for its efforts in handling the pandemic.

“I thought it was great to have the parade this year and to help keep the town going,” he said. “It is great that everyone can get back together now that COVID is over. It is a good town to live in — the school was open all year. You can’t beat that.”

Members of one family appreciated that they were able to spend time with each other and other Shawano County residents in a celebration.

“We were not here last year due to COVID,” said Tiffany Sumnicht, who often makes the trip north with her family from Green Bay. “It is a relief and it feels like normal that everyone can get back together. The social aspect of not feeling so secluded and that life really does go on is a good feeling.”

Sumnicht’s husband, Drew, who grew up in the village, admired how Bonduel is able to pull off a great Fourth of July event.

Chicken poop bingo was a popular attraction for visitors as chickens were fed in anticipation of what number the droppings would land on, in Village Park in Bonduel on July 4.

“For what is, for being a small town, it has always been an impressive event,” said Drew Sumnicht.

Throughout the day, tickets were being sold to visitors as they had a chance to win a bike donated by local businesses in the bike raffle. More than 100 bikes were up for grabs during the raffle. The bike raffle was one of the more highly sought after events at the celebration.

“The bike raffle is amazing,” said Tiffany Sumnicht. “It is above and beyond anywhere that I know.”

“The kids always love the bike raffle,” said Klaus.

Games including chicken poop bingo — where players selected a number, then fed chickens and whatever number the droppings landed on was deemed the winner — balloon pop, where darts were thrown at balloons corresponding with prizes, and yard games were also featured.

The day continue with two baseball games, a Dairyland game between Cecil and Bonduel and a Legion game between Shawano and Bonduel.

The day concluded with Bonduel’s annual fireworks show.

41 years in education show students need the best

As I reflect on my 41 years in education, I am reminded of how crucial it is for all young people to have the supports and resources they need to be successful in school and life.

Growing up in Mississippi during the Civil Rights era, I was one of 14 children in our family. We lived in poverty, surrounded by a racially segregated environment. By today's standards, I would have been considered at-risk. Although our family did not have much financially, we had nurturing parents who, even with limited educational attainment, realized the value of education and saw it as our passport to a better future.

Despite certain adults in our school having disdain for us because of the color of our skin, my brothers, sisters and I went home to encouraging parents who told us we could be anything we wanted. Fueled by the inequities and injustices I saw and experienced as a child, I desired to be an educator. I wanted to make a positive change and impact the lives of others. I wanted to make sure those who looked like me did not succumb to the feelings of inadequacy that others tried to impose on me. My upbringing and lived experiences shaped me and sparked a passion early on in my life, which has never wavered. As a teacher for a decade and then a principal for 11 years in the Madison Metropolitan School District, the principles of equity and advocacy became my North Star.

I brought those same goals to the Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction in 2001, where I served as an assistant state superintendent. In 2019, I was presented with the opportunity of a lifetime when Gov. Tony Evers appointed me to be Wisconsin's first Black state superintendent. I am proud of the department's efforts during my time in office to apply the principles of equity and advocacy so all Wisconsin students might experience success.

Early on as state superintendent, I recall an occasion which touched me deeply and reemphasized my mission.

A small group of young women approached me with tears in their eyes telling me the impact seeing a Black woman in a statewide leadership position had on them. This moment served as an important reminder why a young girl from Mississippi chose to devote her life to education and helping others.

Serving as the chief advocate for Wisconsin schools has allowed me to use my voice to support all youth, especially the underserved; those who have not had the same opportunities or access as others. At the same time, being the state superintendent has put me in a unique position to see our young people finding their own voices, becoming leaders and critical thinkers and pushing for change in their communities.

I am proud of the strides we have made, but our state still has miles to go. Wisconsin cannot continue to have the widest achievement gap in the nation. As a state, we must do more to support our most underserved students — children of color, those living in poverty, those with different abilities, our LGBTQ students, English language learners, our gifted students and so many more. I know Wisconsin can be better.

Reducing and removing barriers to our students' success should be our common goal. Activist Marian Wright Edelman once said, "Education is for improving the lives of others and for leaving your community and world better than you found it."

No one should have to be convinced that supporting our children and their education is the right thing to do. We all have a vested interest in the outcomes of our young people.

As I retire from my formal role in the coming weeks, I remain dedicated to our children and will stay engaged in ensuring they have what they need when they need it. Our state can only achieve this vision when our leaders and our communities put differences aside and work in unity to make a change in the name of our children. All of Wisconsin's students deserve us showing up as the best versions of ourselves.

UW System leader in thwarting coronavirus pandemic

"Having launched a vaccination site at a few campuses, the system did save the state, and I want to say that publicly. The system saved the state, in its responsibility and its actions."

Those are the words of one of our newest members of the University of Wisconsin System Board of Regents, Dr. Ashok Rai, president and CEO of Prevea Health in Green Bay. He made the comments at the regents meeting this month in Milwaukee during a discussion of the role UW System played in combating the insidious COVID-19 pandemic in our communities.

From providing $500 tuition credits to nursing and pharmacy students who administered vaccines or worked in health care settings to opening community testing sites to launching community vaccination centers on our campuses — including with Prevea — the UW System saw a need and found a solution.

TOMMY THOMPSON

You can't imagine how proud I was to hear Dr. Rai's words, and how grateful I was that he said them publicly. What a stirring testament to the students, staff, faculty, deans, chancellors and everyone else who contributed their time and talent to those initiatives. It could have only happened in Wisconsin.

Through June 5, we administered more than 264,000 doses of the vaccine. Twelve of our universities, in every part of Wisconsin, hosted and facilitated vaccination sites.

When we stood up these sites starting Jan. 18 with Prevea at UW-Green Bay, the seven-day average of new daily COVID-19 cases was more than 1,900 in Wisconsin and 27 people died. As of Monday, June 21, that average was 69 daily cases with zero deaths. That's great news for all of us, and we're glad we could do our part.

We also administered 1.24 million COVID-19 tests on our UW System campus testing sites, as of June 15. In fact, only Wisconsin had a statewide community testing program at the height of the pandemic last fall to help slow the spread of the virus by enabling hundreds of thousands of people to get free and fast COVID-19 tests at our universities. It was a herculean effort, but one that used a great Wisconsin asset — our public universities.

I remember the day we opened our community vaccination site at UW-Oshkosh in early March. Through one entrance to the Culver Family Welcome Center, the area's elderly ambled through the Great Hall and into the Grand Ballroom for their vaccinations. They and their loved ones looked relieved and happy. Through another entrance, the region's residents lined up by the dozens for a rapid-results COVID-19 test being administered in a partitioned part of the ballroom.

You could see both groups from a single second-floor vantage point — we were at once inoculating the most vulnerable and helping everyone else prevent the spread. It was the kind of image that stays with you and lets you know we are making a difference.

Dr. Rai recognizes what the UW System means to the state of Wisconsin. Knowledge producer. Economic driver. Problem solver. We're glad to have helped our communities emerge from the pandemic and look forward to what our future will bring.

Tommy Thompson is the president of the University of Wisconsin System.

CLUB NOTES

Shawano Area Writers

The Shawano Area Writers met Thursday, June 17, in a conference room at the Shawano County Library.

Dennis Vickers, president, started the meeting with the reading of the minutes from the May 20 meeting from Secretary Barb King.

Next, Treasurer John Mutter reported on the club's finances. He began with the report on the student writing contest. Fiona Hoffman was thrilled with the $2,000 scholarship she had won, which she will use as she attends Eastern Arizona University to pursue a degree in writing. Mutter delivered certificates and cash to 22 students in Bonduel, Shawano, Wittenberg-Birnamwood, and Menominee Indian High School. The finance report was approved and seconded.

Next on the agenda was the discussion of writing workshops before our meetings. Trudy Bosman suggested we investigate the community classes and see if we could be scheduled in. It was also suggested to contact NWTC.

Accomplishments were then discussed. Mutter had two short stories published during the pandemic. The story "The Blue Dog" was published in the fall 2020 issue of the Rosebud magazine. The other story, "The Wind Giveth," was published in Woods Reader magazine.

Trudy Bosman self-published a children's picture book entitled "Butterflies in the Room." It's the true story of a teacher who brought monarch butterfly chrysalises into his classroom and showed the students' reactions.

Then the readings began. Lee Pulaski videotaped each reading to be put on the Writers' Facebook site.

King started the readings by reading chapter one from her book "The Children in the Garden." It's present day and Jillian awakes from the same nightmare she has had every night for three years. The nightmare where her police officer husband is shot at a domestic violence call. He dies in her arms. The only problem is that it isn't just a bad dream, it happened, and Jillian doesn't know how to get on with life.

Manny Moreleda became interested in writing when he was asked to speak about prayer and culture as experienced in his native Thailand at a Koinonia retreat when he was 62. A bookmark with a poem on it sparked an interest in writing rhyming poetry. Moreleda shared the preface to his book "Poems of a Neophyte Poet and His Memoirs." Moreleda explained he calls himself a neophyte poet because he has had limited knowledge in poetry. His ideas come from inspiration, imagination, happenings and life experiences.

Wendy Goerl read a possible prologue to her Godsealed trilogy. Demetrius was deep in his daily prayers when he feels the need to look in a master armor book. As he discovers the armor he was led to, Demetrius is shown, in his mind, the path to find The Chosen One. He feels the need to tell the leader, only to find that the leader is golfing. So, he tells the next in charge. As their minds touch, they see children and the path to the Chosen One. Goerl describes this book as life as we know it, except for the Order of the Sacred Blade, who keep the armor that keeps them alive.

Trudy Bosman took the Wednesday prompt from the Writer's Digest website. The prompt was "in the name of..." "Trudy wrote a poem entitled "In the Name of Family". Trudy wrote that no matter how you acquired your last name — occupation, choice, adoption or marriage — you are all family just the same.

Mutter read his published short story, "The Wind Giveth." The wind had brought down a lot of trees in his back forty acres, mostly aspen and maple. March 3, 2017, he loaded his chainsaw on his hand-pulled otter sled and headed out over the snow. The first day he produced 68 blocks of wood. The next day he got 59 pieces more. The snow melted so he was unable to bring in the wood.

Then March 15, 2017, it snowed again, and John was able to bring back two face core from the fallen maple trees in his back forty. John admitted it's a lot of work, but he likes to physically challenge himself.

Lee Pulaski is currently working on a supernatural series. Three friends go up to Three Lakes when the grandmother of one of the friends dies and he inherits her house. The man finds out that his grandmother was into witchcraft and he's supposed to carry it on. Another friend, Adam, a Navajo, has the secret that he is a skinwalker. Adam was 14 when it first happened. He remembers what he became, what he killed and what he ate. Anger triggers him.

After the readings, Vickers announced that the next meeting would be 10 a.m. July 15 at a downstairs conference room in the Shawano County Library.

Shawano's Henning, Popp make Bay 1st team

Jurmu, Lowney also honored

By MORGAN RODE
Sports Editor

The Shawano Community High School baseball team had four players earn recognition from the Bay Conference.

Sophomore Ashton Henning and junior Andrew Popp each landed on the first team, while junior Zac Jurmu made the second team and senior Kaleb Lowney was a part of the honorable mention team.

Henning was a unanimous selection to the first team.

The sophomore finished the conference portion of the season with a .463 batting average and got on base at a .560 clip. Henning drove in 11 runs and scored nine times.

On the mound, Henning pitched in seven of the 12 conference games, covering 14 1/3 innings. He picked up three saves and a win while posting a 3.90 earned run average. The sophomore struck out 18 batters.

"I think it means a lot and shows how hard work will pay off in the end," said Henning of his all-conference honor. "It really motivates me to work even harder and leading by example will definitely motivate our younger players and show them what can be accomplished with hard work, even as a younger player on the team."

with a big conference season on the mound and at the plate.

Popp was the team's workhorse on the hill, starting eight of the 12 conference games and covering 35 1/3 innings. He finished with a 5-1 record and posted a 2.77 ERA while striking out 32 batters.

The junior had the team's top batting average (.465) and most RBIs (16) and extra base hits (eight). He also scored 10 runs.

"A spot on the first team is pretty cool to me but it's not a huge deal to me because I'd rather focus on what I could get better at rather than my accomplishments," said Popp. "It'll motivate me to come back next year and become a unanimous first-team player."

In conference play, Jurmu put up a batting average of .410 and had an on-base percentage of .540.

He drove in 11 runs and scored a team-leading 16 runs. Three of his 16 hits went for extra bases.

"Being awarded a spot on second team makes all of the extra work I put in even more worth it after an incredible season," said Jurmu. "I think that receiving this spot, along with other teammates receiving conferences spots, showcases some of the talent that the Shawano Hawks baseball team brings to the table."

"This conference spot motivates me to get better this offseason in hopes that we can make a sectional run next year."

Lowney posted a .400 batting average and .467 on-base percentage in Bay action this spring. He scored nine runs and drove in four more.

"It's awesome to be able to see the hard work since little league pay off in the end," said Lowney.

Shawano finished the season with a 14-6 record and finished second in the Bay with a 9-3 mark. The Hawks made it to a regional title game before being eliminated from the postseason by Rhinelander.

Raddant wins Dirt King's Late Model feature race

Forstner, Teske, Mullen and Michonski take other features

By DAVE BUSS

Special to NEW Media

After last week's show was rained out, the Dirt King's Late Model touring series returned to the Shawano Speedway half-mile.

Kyle Raddant dominated the 25-lap feature to be crowned king. In other action, Chucky Forstner, Jeffery Teske, Mike Mullen and Nate Michonski found themselves victorious.

The IMCA Stock Cars opened the night with a tribute to the veterans and the USA with a four-wide salute, most cars carrying the American flag, while others carried flags of military branches and POW.

When the field took the green it was Forstner jumping to the lead with Travis Van Straten giving chase. Van Straten stayed glued to Forstner's back bumper for the entire 20-lap feature but Forstner never slipped up and grabbed the win.

Van Straten grabbed second. Trent Nolan, Dylan Stedjee and Dan Michonski rounded out the top five.

In the IMCA Sport Mods, Zachary Raab looked like he'd have a triecta of celebrations — his birthday, July 4 and a feature win.

Raab led a majority of the feature event, however Teske crashed the party getting by Raab in the final laps on the feature to steal the win.

Raab settled in second with Jayden Schmidt third and Mason Woods fourth.

Raddant was crowned king of the Gehm's Club 117 Kings Classic in Mueller's Sales & Service Victory Lane for his second DiscountShop-

Turk Letizia and Joel Bennett led the field to the green flag of the feature.

Letizia took the lead on lap one and Bennett swapped the lead on the next lap with Raddant moving to the second spot. Raddant made the pass for the lead in turn two on lap five, pulling away from the field.

Raddant had a straightaway lead on Troy Springborn when the only caution of the night happened just before the halfway point. On the restart, Raddant held off Springborn who challenged for the lead as they raced into turn one.

Raddant pulled away from the field, leading the rest of the way to win. Springborn finished second, followed by Brett Swedberg, Ron Berna, Justin Ritchie and Nick Anvelink.

The IMCA Modifieds rolled trackside and Kevin Feck jumped to the early lead. On lap two, Feck tried to slide in front of Mullen off of turn two but did not have enough momentum and collided with the Mullen machine. Feck's night ended due to the damage sustained.

Mullen inherited the lead on the restart. Mullen cruised to victory with Jerry Wilinski second. Marcus Yarie finished third and Cody Schroeder grabbed fourth.

Nate Michonski got behind the wheel of the 17 car normally driven by Lucas Hacker and grabbed the lead on lap three of the Mighty 4's feature event.

Michonski showed his experience and drove to a dominating win making back-to-back weeks the 17 car was in victory lane.

Tanner Westphal grabbed second with Brad Wedde and William Hoefs rounding out the top four.

Deputy involved in shooting incident in Town of Red Springs

A deputy for the Shawano County Sheriff's Department is on administrative leave after being involved in a shooting incident in the Town of Red Springs.

The Wisconsin Department of Justice Division of Criminal Investigation is investigating the incident that occurred at about 9:30 p.m. July 1.

County dispatch received a 911 call from a witness reporting a single car accident on Upper Red Lake Road, north of Gresham. A deputy responded to the scene and came upon a single car crash with one man. The man allegedly had a gun in his hands and the officer directed the subject to put down the gun, according to a DOJ press release.

The release states the man did not put down the gun and raised the gun toward the officer. The officer fired at the man and struck him. The man transported to a hospital and was being treated for non-life threatening injuries.

No law enforcement officers were injured during the incident, according to the DOJ.

DOJ is leading the investigation of the incident with help from Wisconsin State Patrol and Shawano Police Department.

DOJ is continuing to review evidence and determine the facts of this incident and will turn over investigative reports to the Shawano-Menominee County District Attorney when the investigation concludes.

The investigation is ongoing and no further information is currently available.

FAT TUESDAY ON A WEEKEND

Lakewood Mardi Gras returns July 17-18: Live music, carnival, food, fun and a parade

The COVID pandemic curtailed plans for the 2020 Lakewood Mardi Gras after 65 consecutive years of the celebration, just as the many other popular events had to be canceled last summer.

However, the Lakewood Area Chamber of Commerce and the Mardi Gras Planning Committee have made the decision to hold the 66th Lakewood Mardi Gras on July 17-18 at the Memorial Park Pavilion. Though somewhat scaled down to only a two-day event, the organizers felt that the tradition that started in 1955 should continue, even if some changes were necessary.

The softball tournament that has been a staple of the Mardi Gras for many years will return, but will be scaled back to only a 12-team tournament. The games will be scheduled to start at 8 a.m. on Saturday and Sunday. Play will continue through Sunday afternoon until a champion has been determined. Also scheduled for Saturday morning is a pickleball tournament sponsored by the Chamber and the Lions Club. That tournament will be an individual switch doubles round robin tournament with registration at 8 a.m. and play to start at 8 a.m. Entries are due by July 12 at LAPPayers@gmail.com.

Saturday afternoon will be "Kids Time," and a couple of very popular events from two years ago will return. The kids Fish Pond, sponsored by the Lions and Trout Unlimited, will open at approximately noon. Arrangements have again been made with Mischief and Magic to be on the grounds on Saturday afternoon. A balloon twister and a henna artist will be on hand at about 1 p.m. There will also be a magic clinic, and a magic show that will be on stage at approximately 2 p.m. These activities are free.

Another activity paying tribute to the area's logging history will take place at 1 p.m. July 17. The staff at the Holt and Balcom Logging Camp Museum will be putting on the presentation Lucy Loves Lakewood. The presentation is open to the public and is about Lucy Holt, who recorded both written and film accounts of the area in the early 1900s. The Logging Camp Museum is located on the grounds of the McCauslin Brook Golf Course.

Adults on the Mardi Gras grounds will be in line for some free evening entertainment as well, with the popular band Crankin' Yankees on stage Saturday from 7-11 p.m.

The concession stands will open for lunch on Saturday, and there will be a wide variety of foods and beverages available on Saturday and Sunday. The Chamber Food Stand will feature hot beef sandwiches on Saturday afternoon. Corn on the cob will also be available. The Lions Snack Shack will also be open and will be serving the usual brats, burgers, and dogs.

One of Sunday's highlights is the Mardi Gras Parade scheduled for noon through downtown and back to the festival grounds. There is no cost to enter the parade, and businesses and organizations are encouraged to be represented in the parade. Entries are asked to line up near the Lakewood Cemetery about 11:30 a.m. Sunday.

Following the parade, in addition to the softball tournament and other activities, music will be provided on stage by DJ Greg Tallier.

An appropriately masked ATV, fully equipped with sound system, lines up for the parade during a recent Lakewood Mardi Gras parade. The parade, canceled during the pandemic summer of 2020, is scheduled to return in all its glory on Sunday, July 18.
