Menominee Tribe of Wisconsin dancers perform at several pow wows over the course of the year. They, along with other area Native American tribes, hold the events for several reasons, including the celebration of their culture and identity, offering a space for people to get together, share traditions and express pride in their heritage. Pow wows offer an opportunity for people, including those who are not Native American, to learn about Native American culture, history and traditions. They can also help raise awareness about issues facing Native American communities and promote intercultural understanding.

A super view of a supermoon

An airplane at the Shawano Municipal Airport is seen in front of the full moon Nov. 15, 2024. The moon was designated a supermoon, which occurs when the full moon coincides with the moon being at the point in its orbit within 90% of its closest approach to Earth, called perigee. November's supermoon was the last of four supermoons in a row in 2024.

Celebrate 125 years of Wisconsin State Park System

Fishing is just one of the many activities open to residents and visitors in the Wisconsin State Park System. Of course, there are plenty of streams, rivers, lakes and other waterways across the state that are open to loads of summer activities including boating, water skiing, rafting, swimming and windsurfing.

CONTRIBUTED

Participate in the 125th anniversary celebration of the Wisconsin State Park System by spending time on public lands, attending commemorative events throughout the year and learning about the park system's history.

"More than 20 million people visit Wisconsin's state parks and forests every year to enjoy the great outdoors," said Steve Schmelzer, Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources parks and recreation management director. "Wisconsin is a recreation destination, and we are excited to provide a special experience to our visitors this year."

Over the last 125 years, the state park system has shown commitment to natural resource stewardship and providing high-quality outdoor recreation opportunities to the people of Wisconsin. A broad spectrum of property types, including state parks, forests, recreation areas and trails, provide scenic, accessible and affordable spaces for visitors to recreate and enjoy the outdoors.

In 1899, the Wisconsin Legislature approved an act providing funds to acquire land for what is today Interstate Park. The state park was established in 1900, with land acquisition beginning in September of that year.

Boating, fishing, hiking and more can fill any long weekend at Wisconsin state parks. A broad spectrum of property types, including state parks, forests, recreation areas and trails, provide scenic, accessible and affordable spaces for visitors to recreate and enjoy the outdoors. Since 1900, Wisconsin has established 50 state parks, 44 state trails, 15 state forests, nine state recreation areas and eight river and resource areas. Today, the DNR continues to invest in programs and initiatives that ensure this statewide system of outdoor recreation properties remains an accessible connection to Wisconsin's natural resources for visitors.

WISCONSIN DNR

Interstate Park also marks the founding of the Wisconsin State Park System, which has since grown to include state parks, forests, trails and recreation areas comprised of more than 307,000 acres of public land.

"This anniversary celebration is not only a chance to acknowledge the contributions the Wisconsin State Park System has made to natural resource stewardship and outdoor recreation tourism over the last 125 years," said Diane Brusoe, DNR fish, wildlife and parks division administrator. "It's also an opportunity to look to the future and highlight the investments that we are making to expand access to public lands and maintain a state park system that serves the health and wellbeing of the people of Wisconsin long term."

Since 1900, Wisconsin has established 50 state parks, 44 state trails, 15 state forests, nine state recreation areas and eight river and resource areas. Today, the DNR continues to invest in programs and initiatives that ensure this statewide system of outdoor recreation properties remains an accessible connection to Wisconsin's natural resources for visitors.

The DNR will commemorate the 125th anniversary with celebrations and special events led by state park system staff and partners. Visitors are encouraged to visit the DNR events calendar to find details on events happening throughout the year. Contributions by Friends groups, volunteers and community partners are vital to the success of event offerings.

Learn more about how to get involved on the DNR's volunteer opportunities webpage at <https://dnr.wisconsin.gov/topic/parks/volunteer>.

Wisconsin State Park System visitors are invited to try something new in 2025. Equipment rentals allow customers to participate in outdoor recreation activities that require extra gear, such as kayaking, canoeing or bicycling, without needing to buy equipment. This is an excellent option for beginners or those looking to develop their skills.

Both daily and 12-month vehicle admission and trail passes are available for purchase online. Customers who order their 12-month vehicle admission pass online will have it shipped directly to their preferred address. In 2025, the 12-month state park and forest vehicle admission passes will be valid until the date marked on the pass rather than expiring at the end of the year.

Over the last several years, interest in camping in state campgrounds has remained high. More than 6,000 Wisconsin State Park System campsites offer a range of camping experiences, including standard, group, backpack and water access sites; accessible campsites and cabins for persons with disabilities; indoor group camps and equestrian campgrounds.

All Wisconsin State Park System campsites require a reservation. The DNR recommends customers make reservations for the 2025 season early, as reservations are subject to availability. The reservation site's "notify me" feature can alert customers when a site meeting their selected criteria becomes available.

Information regarding the 125th anniversary celebration of the Wisconsin State Park System will be added to the DNR's OutWiGo webpage (<https://dnr.wisconsin.gov/topic/OutWiGo>). OutWiGo is a statewide initiative that encourages everyone to improve their health and wellness by getting outside and active outdoors.

Rockin' Robin's Park

420 Field St., Antigo

Also known as Castle Park, this large, community-built playground is located in Peaceful Valley Park. Its many levels have castle towers, railroad cars and ships. The playground has a separate tot area with a sandbox.

Ackley Wildlife Area

State Highway 64, 12 miles west of Antigo

This property originally had a hardwood and pine tree cover, but cutting, fire and attempts to farm it reduced the cover to grasses, shrubs and aspen. This makes this wildlife area ideal habitat for sharp-tailed grouse. It has 27 shallow waterfowl flowages covering 400 acres of water.

A variety of waterfowl can be seen throughout Langlade County.

U.S. FISH AND WILDLIFE SERVICE

The wildlife area offers biking, birding, rustic camping, hiking, kayaking, wild edibles gathering, wild rice harvesting, hunting and wildlife viewing. Beavers, muskrats, fishers and coyotes are abundant on this property.

Copper Culture State Park and Museum

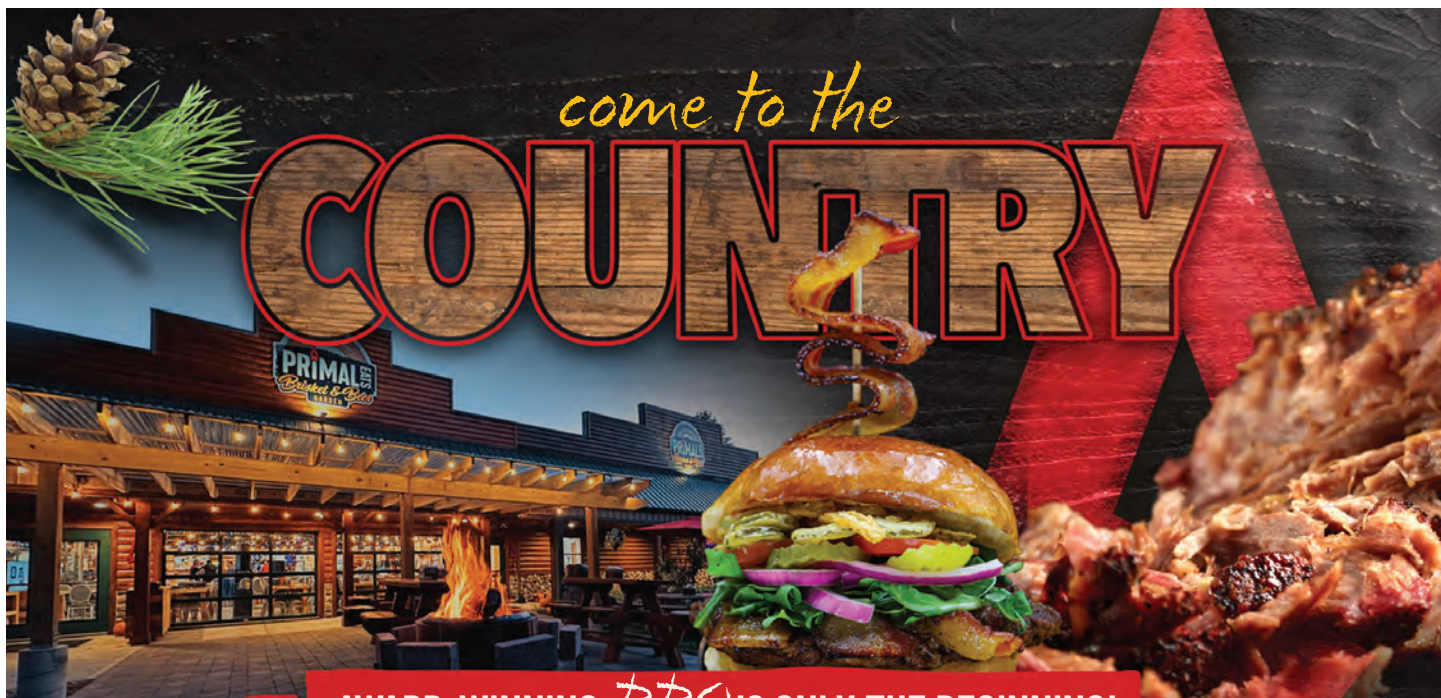

254-298 Copper Culture

Way, Oconto

Open daily 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., May 26 through Sept. 1

Free. Donations appreciated. State park sticker not required.

The museum explains the tools used by the Copper Culture people. The Old Copper Culture people are early inhabitants of Wisconsin in an area that is the ancestral home of the Menominee. The name comes from the variety of spear points, scrapers, fishing hooks, knives, bracelets, other ornaments and tools made out of copper. A mock excavation pit allows children to experience a dig. More recent artifacts of Native American culture are also on display. A tour guide is available. A foot trail leads from the parking area to a stone monument at the location of a burial ground.

Ice Age Trail

The Waupaca County portion of Ice Age Trail crosses back and forth between Waupaca and Portage counties with more than 23 miles of trail across six segments: New Hope, Iola Ski Hill, Skunk and Foster Lakes, Waupaca River, Hartman Creek and Emmons Creek.

Along the way are a cluster of five undeveloped glacial pothole lakes; drumlin swarms, fields of wild lupine and semi-open oak savanna.

The trail is managed by the National Park Service, Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources and the Ice Age Trail Alliance.
