Witt-Birn School Board changes mask mandate

Masks optional, no longer required in district schools

By LUKE REIMER

Reporter

Masks are now optional in the Wittenberg-Birnamwood School District.

The Wittenberg-Birnamwood School Board voted 6-2 to change the requirement of masks to optional for the entire school district at its April 26 meeting.

Voting against the proposal were board members Laura Magee and Dan Stewart. Board member Rich Olson was absent from the meeting.

Around 20 people were in attendance at the meeting to listen to the discussion surrounding the masks, as well as voice their opinion on what they believe should happen with masks in the school district. The overwhelming majority felt that masks should be optional.

One audience member, Paul Yaeger, who has one child in the school district, led the charge.

"Masks should be optional," said Yaeger. "If someone wants to wear it, that is their choice."

Yaeger also said that a problem with the masks was the room that air has to get into the nose and the mouth.

"People wearing glasses often have their glasses fog up," Yaeger said. "I can put my hands by my cheeks and feel air blow out when I exhale."

Shannon Seegmiller, a Wittenberg resident with three children in the school district, said wearing masks also causes some students to fall behind in learning.

"Those students who read lips and facial expressions are having their learning affected because of the masks," said Seegmiller.

Superintendent Garrett Rogowski recommended the board should change the mask mandate from required to optional, now that the Wittenberg-Birnamwood area has better access to vaccinations and is seeing fewer cases. Given those circumstances, Rogowski said he wanted students and parents to have the freedom to choose if they need to wear a mask.

"The numbers are low enough where we can manage to be in school with masks being optional," said Rogowski.

Rogowski also said that he kept the students and their school experience in mind when making his recommendation.

"The students deserve a good school experience," said Rogowski. "We want their high school experience to be memorable."

Rogowski said April 28 that masks being optional had had a positive effect on the students and staff so far.

"The effect has been positive," he said. "This gives people in the school freedom. We will respect their decision if they wear a mask, and we will respect their opinion if they don't wear a mask."

Rogowski said the community has been appreciative of the board decision to change the mask mandate from required to optional.

If someone in the school were to contract COVID-19, Rogowski said that the same protocols are in place as when masks were required.

"We want to address the individual and make sure they are OK and quarantine them," said Rogowski. "We will then contact trace and identify who the individual has been around. We will then continue to clean the school and make sure that good hygiene is practiced."

Rogowski collected information from the school nurse, county health board and CDC to formulate his recommendation. Rogowski also collected information from the staff in the school district to hear their opinions on a possible change to the mask mandate. According to Rogowski feedback was split on the question.

The change to the mask mandate went into effect April 27.

Added safety protocols at Little Star Convenience Store

To stop spread of COVID-19, convenience store implemented full service at gas pumps

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

One convenience store in Shawano County has implemented what was a common sight years ago, as an extra step to help slow the spread of COVID-19.

The Little Star Convenience Store, located next to the North Star Mohican Casino and Resort near Bowler, has introduced the practice of providing gas pump attendants.

"The gas pump attendants were put into place as a COVID security protocol," said Al Quinney, executive director of the Stockbridge-Munsee Community, which operates both the casino and the store. "To minimize the risk of spread — this would eliminate customers from having to touch the pumps."

Quinney believes that having this practice in place is a good idea and is a good help for the community.

The gas pump attendants are employees of the convenience store who work on a rotating schedule to pump gas, while their other duties consist of cleaning, stocking and working the till, Quinney said.

In February, the convenience store changed from a U.S. Oil station to ARCO.

According to Quinney, the change was a simple matter of the old contract expiring with U.S. Oil.

"We just went through the process of looking who could provide the best deal and it ended up being ARCO," Quinney said.

According to North Star's website, new computers, gas pumps and sales systems were installed during the changeover.

Quinney said having the convenience store next to North Star has benefits for both the community and the Stockbridge-Munsee Tribe as well.

"From a business practice, the location is great — it serves both casino patrons and community members," said Quinney. "Logistically it just makes sense because of the traffic."

Quinney said the casino and the convenience store work hand-in-hand together.

Little Star Convenience Store employee Dana Grignon pumps gas on May 4. The Little Star Convenience Store has gas pump attendants in place to help stop the spread of germs and slow down the COVID-19 pandemic.

LUKE REIMER | NEW MEDIA

"We do share opportunities between customer bases, by providing promotional coupons and discounts," said Quinney. "People are coming to the casino, so the convenience store benefits."

During the COVID-19 pandemic, the convenience store went through periods where it was open and closed. When the store reopened, strict safety measures were put into place, like the gas pump attendants, putting hand sanitizer around the store and implementing temperature checks.

Having the attendants available has transitioned into something more than just a COVID-19 safety protocol, Quinney said.

"It really became a customer service thing," he said. "In addition to being a safety measure, as time has gone on, it has become as much customer service as it has been a safety measure."

Quinney mentioned that hand sanitizing stations and hand wipe stations are also included at the pumps.

"We installed dispensers at each pump, so that patrons can ultimately pump gas themselves and wipe things down," he said. "So we are prepared to perhaps not have gas pump attendants in the future."

That decision would be up to the tribal council, he added.

According to Quinney, the convenience store plays a role within the Stockbridge-Munsee community.

"It is a benefit for our community members, patrons of the casino, the surrounding communities and the Stockbridge-Munsee community as a whole," Quinney said.

There are plans in the works for a grand opening of the Mohican Little Star Convenience Store, but it has been delayed due to the pandemic. Quinney said ARCO representatives will be invited as well as customers.

Backpacks, books donated to sheriff's department

Deputies will be able to give out items to kids in traumatic situations

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

The Shawano County Sheriff's Department will be able to offer children in traumatic situations more than words with the help of the Reach a Child program.

Reach a Child presented Sheriff Adam Bieber and his staff 30 backpacks, each containing 15 drawstring backpacks and 15 children's books, along with 300 additional books for his deputies to use and provide for children who are involved in domestic abuse situations, accidents and other situations where a child might be confused about what's going on. The donation was made possible with the help of the Shawano Area Community Foundation and AT&T.

Reach a Child spokesman Cory Erickson said the program was founded in 2006, and so far, it has reached 250 law enforcement agencies, fire departments and emergency services programs. Shawano County received a donation from the program years ago, but Reach a Child has received a big boost through AT&T recently, allowing the program to expand even further.

"Who can't get excited about helping kids in crisis?" Erickson said at a presentation May 3 at the sheriff's office. "That's what motivates us and gets us excited."

Erickson related a story about a fire chief in Middleton who regularly showcased his department's various apparatus used to save lives, including the Jaws of Life, but his favorite piece was not something to put out fires or extract accident victims. Erickson said the fire chief held up a Dr. Seuss book of ABCs.

"He went on to tell a story that he, as fire chief, was on a home fire, and there was a 4-year-old girl who was being displaced by the fire," Erickson said. "He sat down with her and read that book to her, and she said, 'I want to read it again.' He read it to her four times, distracting her from the crisis that was going on around her. That's a story I'll never forget."

Cory Erickson, spokesman for Reach a Child, pulls out a book from one of the larger backpacks donated to the Shawano County Sheriff's Department on May 3. On the backpack is a smaller drawstring backpack that children can have to hold the books.

LEE PULASKI | NEW MEDIA

Reach a Child's mission is to have a backpack in every first responder vehicle in Wisconsin, according to Erickson. He noted that it will serve the sheriff's deputies just as well as any other tool they have in their vehicles.

"If you're working with a child in crisis and you're trying to distract that child from a domestic dispute, a home fire, a car accident — you take the books, put them in front of the child, and they'll probably know which book is going to be best for them," Erickson said. "If the child is not a reader, you sit down and read the book to the child. When you're finished, you give the child the book in a drawstring backpack, and he or she can put the book on their back and hopefully walk away fully distracted from that crisis."

Even during the pandemic, Reach a Child, based in Madison, was able to distribute over 15,000 books around the state in 2020. The year before, 26,000 books were handed out to agencies, according to Erickson. He noted that, once the county runs out of books, officials can contact Reach a Child to get more.

Erickson noted that the pandemic has been tough on law enforcement, too, and expressed his appreciation to Bieber and his deputies for their hard work to keep the public safe.

Bieber expressed his appreciation for the generous donation and said the books and backpacks would be put to good use.

"We do respond to some serious incidents, and kids are involved most of the time, whether it's a car crash or domestic violence or a medical emergency," Bieber said. "I remember going to an incident where a father had a heart attack, and the kids were just sitting there watching that. How traumatic is that? These (books) are a perfect distraction to hand out to kids. If you don't distract them, it will be in their minds and traumatize them."

Bieber noted there have been other things that have been donated by community members to hand out to children, but the Reach a Child items will provide comfort on every call instead of waiting for more items to be given.

"Situations like that, it's great to have this because a lot of times, we don't have anything to give, and giving a book and backpack is good, because kids like that kind of stuff," Erickson said. "We do have community members drop off stuff like teddy bears from time to time, but this is a great resource, as well."

Teachers need to be appreciated more than ever

The past year has underscored the critical role teachers play in the lives of our students, families and communities. Spurred by a public health emergency that continues to bring many daily stressors and unforeseen challenges, Wisconsin's teachers have reinvented the way they educate our students, ensuring learning continues. The ways in which teachers continue to inspire, even when faced with such uncertainty, have been nothing short of amazing.

This week is Teacher Appreciation Week, a time for Wisconsinites to express our gratitude to those who have dedicated their lives to educating our students of today and leaders of tomorrow and highlight how the work they take on truly influences society.

When the pandemic hit Wisconsin

CAROLYN

last spring, teachers across our state did not miss a beat. Within the span of just a few weeks, they reenvisioned their entire educational delivery models. Concerned about the welfare of their students, teachers have gone to great lengths to check on their students' well-being while engaging with them in new ways. Educators responded to daunting circumstances like they are prone to do, with compassion and innovation, adjusting lesson plans and adapting to meet this new reality head-on.

I thank Wisconsin teachers for their commitment to our young people and having a lasting impact on their lives. Although many have accepted this commitment, far too many are choosing to retire early or leaving the profession altogether, and too few students are aspiring to become teachers. These realities have continued to worsen this past year, especially. It is essential we work to reverse this troubling trend.

We, as a state, must do more to recruit and retain teachers in our schools. We can do this by further supporting teachers, respecting their voices and thanking them for nurturing a love of learning in Wisconsin's youth. We must commit to doing all we can to attract young people to consider this most honorable profession. We must work with our educator preparation programs to substantially diversify our state's educator workforce, so all students can benefit from having a diverse, strong teacher core.

Teachers are integral to our nation's recovery and are on the frontlines of collective efforts addressing and disrupting systemic educational inequities both in Wisconsin and across the nation.

During Teacher Appreciation Week, which takes place May 3-7, I encourage all Wisconsinites to take a moment and thank a teacher for their tireless work in developing Wisconsin's next generation, who soon will shape our world.

Carolyn Stanford Taylor is the Wisconsin superintendent of public instruction.

Bench thief needs to return what was stolen

To the editor:

Do you use a Little Free Library? I think they are wonderful. I have taken a few books and left many more at ours. We live on Loon Lake Drive in the Town of Wescott, a lovely, quiet neighborhood. The Little Free Library is just across the road, and I often see people using it. I remember one little guy clutching a couple books to his chest as he proudly walked home with his Mom.

A few years ago, one of the neighbors donated a bench that sat beside our Little Free Library. The bench was a type called a Leopold Bench, and was about three feet long. I often saw people sitting on the bench, looking over a possible acquisition, or reading the first few pages of the book they had selected. It was also a nice rest for people who were running or walking past. Then another neighbor painted the bench bright red. It looked so perfect sitting there, like a rare flower.

Then last September, somebody stole our bench. We don't know why someone would steal something that obviously belonged there. We waited, hoping that the person would realize what they had done and would return it. No such luck. Now, I am thinking about building a replacement, but am afraid that someone would steal it again. I'd just buy one but since I am on retirement income, I would rather not. If you have seen our bright red bench, please, in a gentle manner, kindly mention to the person who has it that we would really like it back.

Drug court provides needed solutions

To the editor:

Shawano County's Drug Treatment Court is a progressive and insightful process in the effort to end individuals' battles with substance abuse and benefit the county.

Addiction and substance abuse is no new concept, nor has it completely gone away. The tactic of long jail or prison sentences to stop individuals from using has not been a successful path in the past. Reforming the process of how we address individuals struggling with drug use can help them turn their lives around and benefit society.

According to the Wisconsin Department of Health Services, in 2019, 4.7% of Wisconsin's adults misused opioids and 0.5% misused heroin. While these statistics appear insignificant, these statistics are higher than the national average and are real people. They are someone's neighbor, friend, coworker, relative, acquaintance or passerby. They are someone who is struggling with a real problem — addiction.

With the right help and treatment, these people can reclaim their lives. In order to do this, these people cannot be alienated by their community and society. They need a system that can assist them in ending their substance abuse without simply putting them down for their disease.

As humans, though, we fear the worst, the cost, the time, the what ifs. While these are all valid points, they neglect the larger picture. To continue on a path of punishing those with addictions through jail and prison sentences that do not cure them of their disease, we do not take any steps forward. We only perpetuate a cycle, a cycle that has not worked and should not be expected to suddenly start working.

Rather than using the resources of time and money in a perpetuating cycle, we can strive to take a step forward. A step to help those in need and better societies. This step can be taken through such programs as Shawano County's Drug Treatment Court, where individuals are given the opportunity to end their cycle. Through treatment and programs organized by the county, these individuals cannot only reclaim their lives but also become a contributing part of their community through employment and living a more productive lifestyle.

ability to talk with people, always making them smile or laugh and turning acquaintances into friendships.

A skeptical podcaster is haunted by homicide

With a busy week on tap, I selected some light reading in “A Skeptic in Salem: An Episode of Murder” by Fiona Grace.

JAN JONES

Mia Bold has fond memories of time spent with her dad, but he walked out of her life when she was about 5. Her mom remarried a wonderful man who loved Mia as much as he loved his own daughter, Brynn. The family was comfortable financially, but Mia worked hard to become a scientist and land a job with Center Pharmaceuticals.

The team she works with has just learned that the formula they created has strong potential to end diabetes. Mia is excited about future trials to prove it works. Maybe now her reluctant fiancé, Mark, will agree it is time to “take the next step.”

But in the span of 12 hours, Mia’s life goes into freefall. Her podcast debunking ghost sightings loses its only sponsor. Next, she learns that her brother-in-law has sold the building where Mia has been living rent-free, and she has two weeks to vacate. Then the CEO announces that the new drug also works as a diet pill, and all future research would focus on that. Livid, Mia sounds off. That drug was designed to help diabetics, and it hasn’t been fully tested. The outburst gets Mia fired.

That night, she reluctantly agrees to attend a fancy family dinner. She gets little sympathy there, and Mark manages to both humiliate and break up with her in front of the entire restaurant.

The next morning Mia receives a call from Graham Stone asking her to come to Salem, Massachusetts, and star in a new podcast exploring hauntings. The show is called “Bell, Book and Candle.” Since Mia is a skeptic, her job will be to try to expose fake hauntings in a city famous for the occult. Her co-host, Johnny Aster, is a believer and will try to prove the sightings are real.

Ready to start fresh, Mia takes the job and the free apartment above a Ghost Emporium. Her neighbor is sound tech Sylvie, and the two hit it off immediately.

The cast and crew meet at the Black Cat Inn for their first podcast. It is rumored to be haunted, so the owner Dutch Brown proceeded to show them proof. Johnny is a believer, but Mia is certain that this has been staged. Mia decides to return after closing time to investigate further. That’s when she finds Dutch Brown dead. He has been crushed by a falling chandelier.

Mia sees that it was rigged to fall but wants to know why and by whom, but everything she says or does just seems to point to her as the killer. As the sponsors drop out, her bosses’ odd behavior convinces Mia that she is being framed. She and Sylvie decide to get to the bottom of the case before she is arrested and can’t investigate.

Together they dig through city records, newspaper stories and interview longtime residents. Old resentments over loss of property and thefts of resident ghosts begin to point to someone angry enough to orchestrate Brown’s death. On a hunch, Mia and Sylvie contact their prime suspect, but he figures out what they are up to and attacks Mia with a boat pike. The blow would have been fatal if not for an amulet one of the shopkeepers had given Mia.

The police admit that Mia and Sylvie deserve the credit for solving the case. A week later Mia is famous, the podcast is “trending” and they have a long list of hauntings to investigate. The icing on the cake comes when Mia happily ends all contact with her former fiancé. Now she can say that she has good friends, feels free, at home and is happy and eager to see what the next chapter in her life will offer.

Behnke takes oath as new Assemblyman

Present and former lawmakers among attendees at Oconto High School

By WARREN BLUHM
Editor-in-chief

When Elijah Behnke of rural Oconto took the oath of office April 28, he attained something not seen in nearly 50 years.

“What a great day for Oconto County: We have a representative in the state Assembly,” Judge Michael T. Judge said after he was introduced to administer the oath to Behnke, who won the April 6 special election to succeed former Rep. John Nygren.

The last member of the Assembly who lived in Oconto County was the late Milton McDougal, of Oconto Falls, who served from 1965-72. The county is now split between the 36th and 89th districts, whose representatives have been from adjoining counties over the years. The county’s other current rep, Jeffrey Mursau, was born in Oconto Falls but lives in Crivitz in Marinette County.

Behnke was sworn in at his alma mater, Oconto High School, where he was a member of the Class of 2001.

Sheriff Todd Skarban noted that the motto of the Oconto Unified School District is “Leaders and Learners, Today and Tomorrow.”

“I think that’s what we’re looking at today,” Skarban said.

The sheriff said he and Behnke have a lot of values in common, adding to laughter, “Of course, my education was better because I went to Suring High School.”

Skarban pointed out that all three branches of government were represented at the ceremony — executive, legislative and judicial — “and when they work together, that’s when you get things done.” He praised Behnke for his “willingness to step in and do it the right way.”

U.S. Rep. Mike Gallagher said Behnke is an example of the citizen legislator, “the heart of the founding of America,” people who set aside their everyday occupations for a time to serve the public before returning.

Behnke, whose daughter, Ayla, led the audience in the Pledge of Allegiance, said he depends on principles of hard work, honesty and faith, and he credited family and friends for his reaching this stage in his life.

“My parents raised me right,” Behnke said. “I have a loving wife who supports me, and friends who were willing to go out and say, ‘Go vote for Elijah.’ I couldn’t have done this myself.”

He briefly touched on themes from his campaign, including clean water, reopening schools and supporting small businesses.

Also in attendance were state Sen. Eric Wimberger, R-Green Bay, whose district includes the 89th, and former state Reps. John Gard and Cate Zueske.

“Both John and I were first sworn in at our high schools,” said Zueske, a Shawano graduate who also served a term as state treasurer. “It’s such a special time.”

The special election was called after Nygren unexpectedly resigned Dec. 1, one month after winning an eighth two-year term, to become the new executive director of the Wisconsin Association of Health Plans. Behnke, who won a five-way Republican primary, went on to defeat Democrat Karl Jaeger for the right to fill the term through the end of 2022.

Local support comes in for Oneida Nation

Area tribes, Cowles offer sympathy after shooting at Oneida casino

By NEW MEDIA STAFF

Local reaction to a May 1 shooting on the Oneida reservation has been swift and supportive for the tribe.

According to the Associated Press, a 62-year-old man walked into the Duck Creek Kitchen and Bar at the Oneida Casino and killed two men at a wait station at close range with a 9 mm handgun, then went outside and shot another restaurant employee, critically wounding him, before being killed by Green Bay police officers moments later. The man was identified by authorities as Bruce Pofahl.

The AP reported that Pofahl had been an employee at the restaurant but had been fired for harassment and other issues. Pofahl's supervisor took out a restraining order against him in March, according to online court records.

Gunnar Peters, Menominee tribal chairman, issued a statement the day after the shooting extending condolences on behalf of the Menominee Tribal Legislature. Peters said that flags at all tribal buildings would be lowered to half-staff to honor the shooting victims.

Adrian Miller, president of Menominee Tribal Enterprises, released a statement on May 4 joining the legislature in offering support to the Oneida Nation.

"Collectively we put tobacco down and offered humble prayers for the victims, their families and everyone affected by this horrific event,"

Miller wrote. "We asked the Creator to help all though these trying and uncertain times, please help provide us with a path to heal."

The Stockbridge-Munsee Tribe posted on its Facebook page that it was extending "heartfelt prayers" to the Oneida Nation.

State Sen. Robert Cowles said in a statement from his office that the Oneida Nation suffered a traumatic event and that the tribe was in his thoughts and prayers. He said he was grateful that the police were able to stop the suspect before anyone else was hurt or killed.

"I want to encourage anyone who is emotionally impacted by last night's events to please reach out and talk to someone if you're having trouble coping," Cowles said. "Whether it's a friend, family member, or helpline, sometimes we can't process traumatic events alone, and we shouldn't be afraid to ask for help."

Certain behaviors could cause early death

Each day, medical experts and health care researchers bombard us with data about the benefits and harms of various lifestyle behaviors. How do we weigh the relative importance of these? We all know that smoking is harmful to our health and that eating fruits and vegetables is good for us, but how can we quantify the “badness” and “goodness” of our everyday behaviors?

As humans, we operate from a system of rewards and risks. The more clearly we understand the dangers and rewards of specific behaviors, the easier it is for us to adapt our habits. Based on this simple truth, a Cambridge

BRIAN GRIEVES

University researcher has developed a guide that helps people compare different lifestyle choices. He created the concept of a 30-minute unit called a “microlife” which can be added or subtracted from the length of our lives.

Here is how it works: The average life expectancy for men is currently about 79 years. For a 22-year-old man, that’s 57 more years, or 20,800 days, or 500,000 hours, or 1 million half-hours. So, a young man of 22 typically has 1,000,000 half-hour “microlives” ahead of him (the same as a 26-year-old woman).

Based on recent scientific health care studies of long-term habits, the loss of a microlife can be associated, for example, with smoking two cigarettes, taking two extra alcoholic drinks, eating a portion of red meat, being overweight or watching two hours of television a day. Likewise, the

BY THE NUMBERS

The following chart sets forth the number of microlives gained (+) or lost (-) per day for the average 35-year-old male and female, based on estimated life expectancy effects of long-term lifestyle risk factors:

Risk factor and daily exposure	M	F
Smoking
Smoking 15-24 cigarettes	-10	-9
Alcohol
First drink (10 g alcohol)	+1	+1
Each subsequent drink (up to six)	-1/2	-1/2
Obesity
Per 5 units above BMI 22.5	-3	-3
Per 5 kg above optimum weight	-1	-1
Sedentary behavior
2 hours watching television	-1	-1
Diet
Red meat, 1 portion (85 g, 3 oz)	-1	-1
Fruit and vegetable intake, 5 servings	+4	+4
Coffee, 2-3 cups	+1	+1
Physical activity
First 20 minutes of moderate exercise	+2	+2
Additional 40 minutes of moderate exercise	+1	+1/2

addition of a microlife can be associated with taking just one alcoholic drink a day (one microlife), 20 minutes of moderate exercise daily (two microlives) and a diet including fresh fruit and vegetables daily (four microlives).

Armed with this simple and quantifiable system, we can make fair comparisons of the harms and benefits of our daily behaviors. Microlives encourage us to look at the lifestyle actions that might accelerate us towards an early death. For example, someone who smokes 20 cigarettes a day is using up around 10 microlives or, loosely interpreted, is rushing toward his or her death at a pace of 29 hours a day, rather than 24.

Sleeper named new leader for Shawano School Board

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

Michael Sleeper was elected president of the Shawano School Board on May 3, even as one school board member questioned whether the voting took place at the meeting or outside the meeting.

Sleeper, who has been the board's vice president, received six votes to be named president, while board member Chuck Dallas received three. The vote was for officers was done by secret ballot, so there is no indication who voted for each candidate. Sleeper is taking over for Tyler Schmidt, who did not run for reelection.

After the vote, Sleeper expressed his appreciation to the board for putting him in the leadership position.

"I look forward to working with each and every one of you," Sleeper said.

Board member Mart Grams also spoke after the vote, questioning whether this was an action item and suggesting "pre-voting" might have taken place.

"Somebody was pre-voting before we got here," Grams said. "Call it what you may, but I object to the vote."

Grams did not elaborate further, and Sleeper opted to move on to the next election, which was for vice president. Mike Musolf was unanimously elected after no other nominations were offered for the post.

Alysia Pillsbury was re-elected the clerk for the board, also by unanimous approval.

Dallas, who lost the presidential race, was re-elected as the board's treasurer, getting six votes and defeating Grams, who received three.

The board also welcomed new board members Jamie Beyer and James Davel, who won seats in the last election.

Steve Lemhouse tends bar on the last dinner service day at the Spinning Wheel Inn before retirement on April 29. Lemhouse said that some of his favorite memories over the 51 years that he worked here have been meeting and talking to customers every day.

Spinning Wheel hosts last dinner service

Dozens of customers flock to restaurant for one last dinner and drink with owners

Steve and Lisa Lemhouse hosted their final dinner service as owners of the Spinning Wheel Inn on April 29.

"It is a little bittersweet, but it is time," said Steve Lemhouse, as he started his last dinner service.

The Spinning Wheel Inn was brimming with Shawano County residents as soon as it opened at 5 p.m. April 29.

Due to his retirement, Steve Lemhouse — who has worked at the Spinning Wheel Inn for the last 51 years — said that the last couple of weeks have been very busy. Lem-house started as a dishwasher in 1970. In 1972, Lemhouse's family bought the restaurant, which he took over in 1994.

"It has been totally crazy busy," said Lemhouse. "It is like three times what we usually do."

Lemhouse estimated that, even on a slow day, 100-150 people have been coming in for dinner and drinks. He said that a crew similar to one that would be working on New Year's has been needed.

According to Lemhouse, employees at the Spinning Wheel Inn have been seeing customers come in for food and drinks whom they have not seen in years.

"We had a lady that came in, who drove up from Chicago, because she heard about the retirement," he said. "People have been coming out for their last meal and to say goodbye."

Lemhouse said that customers have been coming in to get food and drinks as well as congratulate him on retirement.

"We even had people in the dining room that stood up and gave us a standing ovation," said Lemhouse. "That was pretty neat."

Customers who came in for one more steak dinner shared their experiences and memories of coming into the Spinning Wheel Inn.

"I have been coming here since I was a kid," said Shawano resident Kirstin Heling. "The Spinning Wheel Inn always has great food, great service and great people."

Lemhouse said that meeting customers from the Shawano County community has meant everything to him.

"Customers have kept me here for as long as it is," said Lemhouse. "I have met so many new friends over the years."

The Spinning Wheel Inn has been known for its steak dinners and old fashioned by Shawano County residents. Customers came in for one last old fashioned at the Spinning Wheel on April 29 before the Lemhouses retire.

With the restaurant standing for more than 100 years, it became an icon in the city of Shawano.

"I moved here in 1984, and this was the place to go," said Shawano resident Jimbo Harman. "This place has had the best food and the best bartenders."

As more customers flooded the bar for one last old fashioned, long-time bartender Pat Staniforth looked back on his time working with Steve and Lisa Lemhouse.

"Working with Steve and Lisa has been fabulous," said Staniforth. "They are the best people that I have worked for."

Though Steve Lemhouse has worked at the restaurant for multiple decades, he said that one memory stands above the rest.

"I basically got together with my wife from working in here," said Lemhouse. "Pat, our other bartender, broke his ankle one summer, and she filled in for him. The rest is history."

One customer said that the Spinning Wheel Inn is an inviting place to go, due to the employees.

"We come here to see the friendly faces," said Shawano resident Helen Warren. "It is amazing to see how many people come here."

Lemhouse said that, when closing time came every day during his tenure of running the restaurant, he would tell the employees in the back to pull the pin.

"One of our cooks put on Facebook that she always looked for-

"Customers have kept me here for as long as it is. I have met so many new friends over the years."

ward to hearing me say that," said Lemhouse. "Now she is not looking forward to hearing that because it will be for the last time."

Lemhouse said that as he retires, he will miss the customers the most.

"You don't know if you are going to see them again," said Lemhouse.

With the new owners taking over the business on May 1, customers have been giving the Lemhouses their best wishes.

"They have telling me that they are going miss all of the food and all of the camaraderie," said Steve Lemhouse. "We have so many of our regular customers that sit on their chair on a certain night — they said they were going to miss our chicken or our soup."

Lisa Lemhouse thanked the Shawano County community for their continued support of the Spinning Wheel Inn.

"Thank you to everyone," said Lisa Lemhouse. "So many of our customers have become our dearest friends, and we are going to miss them."

lreimer@newmedia-wi.com

Steve Lemhouse mentioned that his favorite memory was meeting wife Lisa while the two worked together at the Spinning Wheel. The Lemhouses have been married for 17 years and, on April 29, they hosted their last dinner service at the Spinning Wheel Inn.

Roses were handed out at the Spinning Wheel Inn on April 29 for Steve and Lisa Lemhouse's last night running the restaurant.

Arbor Day celebrated at Smalley Park

Residential and commercial awards given out by city

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

The city of Shawano, its municipal utilities, a couple and a business owner all have new lawn ornaments to display in recognition of their commitment to trees.

Shawano's annual Arbor Day celebration took place at Smalley Park on April 28, presented by members of the Shawano Tree Advisory Committee and city officials.

Receiving the Nature's Friend Awards were Don and Jackie Fairbairn in the residential category and Ellen Ramlet, who manages River Ridge Condominium Group, in the commercial category.

City officials were awarded their 27th designation as a Tree City USA. According to the Arbor Day Foundation's website, in order to be recognized as a Tree City USA, the city must meet the requirements of having a tree board or department, implementing a tree care ordinance, having a community forestry program with an annual budget of at least $2 per capita, and observe Arbor Day.

The Public Works Department was also given a $2,000 check from Shawano Municipal Utilities. Shawano was also recognized for 18 years as part of Tree Line USA, which promotes best practices in public and private utility arboriculture, demonstrating how trees and utilities can co-exist for the benefit of communities and citizens.

An autumn blaze maple tree will be planted at the River Ridge Condominium Complex in Ramlet's honor.

"This award is a recognition for the people who volunteer their time to keep everything looking good," Ramlet said. "We will be proud to display this award."

Ramlet said that even though the community has lost some trees recently, this award promotes keeping the old trees and taking care of them.

Another autumn blaze maple tree will be planted in honor of the Fairbairns at Smalley Park.

"We bought our home 17 years ago," Don Fairbairn said. "We are just trying to be good stewards, leaving the property looking better than how we found it."

Fairbairn added how important trees are to the Shawano community.

"Trees are essential to life," he said. "Shawano does a great job with its parks — I think, the more trees, the better."

Shawano city forester Mike Kroenke said having trees in the community adds diversity to life and improves the quality of life.

"There are so many attributes to having trees," Kroenke said. "The city of Shawano has older trees that add beauty and aesthetics, are good for wildlife, good for storm water runoff retention, they add cooling in warm weather and they serve as a wind breaker — they add so many attributes."

Once a year, Nature's Friends Awards are awarded to one resident in the Shawano community, as well as one commercial business in the Shawano community. Anyone can be nominated and apply for the Nature's Friend Award through the city of Shawano and the tree advisory committee, Kroenke said.

"The condominium group really improved their properties through planting trees and landscape plants — they are very nature conservative," said Kroenke. "For the residential award, if you look at their (Don and Jackie Fairbairn) property, it's beautiful with trees, landscape and flowers — they are a good example for community members to follow."

Also at the ceremony, Shawano Mayor Bruce Milavitz proclaimed April 30 to be Arbor Day in the city.

"I urge everyone, who are able to do so, to observe this day by planting trees and by participating in one or more programs that our sponsors may provide," Milavitz said.

Students get hands-on experience with chicks

Sacred Heart kindergarten classroom kept watch over eggs stored in incubator

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

For students living on a farm, seeing newborn chicks hatch from their eggs is just another day.

For the kindergarten students at Sacred Heart Catholic School, many of whom have not grown up on farms, seeing the birth of the chicks for the first time was amazing — and educational at the same time.

Teacher Sally Slezewski has been bringing in chicken eggs to hatch from an incubator for the last 25 years, and most of the time, there are a couple dozen chicks peeping and drawing the attention and admiration of the young children. This year's batch of eggs, however, did not fare as well, as only two chicks hatched out of about 36 that have been in the classroom for weeks.

It didn't faze the students too much, though, as they were just as happy

fawning over two chicks as a whole flock.

"They love it," Slezewski said. "It's great."

She noted it was more fun for her students to learn about the animals and their life cycle through this hands-on approach.

"I think that it's an experience that a lot of kids don't get anymore because a lot of children don't live on farms," Slezewski said. "I think it's good for them to be able to handle them and see the life experience."

The students also got to see the chicks in their formative stages prior to hatching with the help of a candle and a box, according to Slezewski.

"In the 21 days (prior to hatching), we candled them with the box, which is in a very dark room," she said. "Our windows are too bright, so we put them in a dark room upstairs. We got to see the life cycle in the 21 days."

The students made sure to keep on schedule, letting Slezewski and her aide know when the eggs needed to be flipped or checked.

"It's kind of like watering flowers," Slezewski said. "You've got to take care of them. Every day, we had to flip them, and every day, we had to spray them so that the shells would get thin, and then the shells that got thin, the chickens would come out."

This year, the eggs that hatched did so during the night, so the students did not get to see the actual moment when the chicks burst through the eggs.

"I've had years when the kids have actually seen them come out," Slezewski said. "It pushes out using its back leg."

As for why only two chicks hatched out of the whole bunch, Slezewski is still trying to ascertain the reason.

"I don't know if the thermometer got turned up too high for a couple of days, or if there's a chance some moisture affected it," she said. "I've had as many as 25 out of 36 (eggs), and this year I have two. But we're happy we have two."

Another teacher at the school offered to take the chicks back to her farm to raise as soon as the learning unit is over, according to Slezewski.

Wisconsin, Utah football teams schedule matchups for 2028, 2033 seasons

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wisconsin and Utah have announced a home-and-home series that includes matchups in 2028 and 2033.

The two teams are scheduled to meet at Wisconsin on Sept. 16, 2028. They play at Utah on Sept. 10, 2033. Their 2033 meeting will mark the first time Wisconsin has faced Utah in Salt Lake City.

The two teams have met three times before. They've split two games in Madison, with Wisconsin winning 7-0 in 1961 and Utah prevailing 31-28 in 1987. Ron Dayne ran for 246 yards to help Wisconsin beat Utah 38-10 in the 1996 Copper Bowl at Tucson, Arizona.

Amid Aaron Rodgers drama, Packers boost depth at positions of need

By STEVE MEGARGEE
The Associated Press

The Green Bay Packers believe they found ideal candidates to fill their biggest positional needs and upgraded a star-studded roster as they attempt to make a Super Bowl run.

But that won't be a realistic short-term goal if star quarterback and reigning MVP Aaron Rodgers is playing elsewhere.

"I can't even take my brain to that spot right now," Packers coach Matt LaFleur said May 1. "I just want to do everything in my power to ensure that doesn't happen."

Rodgers' reported desire to leave the Packers overshadowed any draft moves the team made over the past three days, even as team officials maintained confidence they'd have him back this fall.

In a column posted on the team's website, Packers CEO Mark Murphy called the Rodgers situation "an issue that we have been working on for several months." Murphy acknowl-

Images of Georgia cornerback Eric Stokes are displayed on stage after he was chosen by the Green Bay Packers with the 29th pick in the 2021 NFL Draft on April 29 in Cleveland.

TONY DEJAK | THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

edged that he, LaFleur and general manager Brian Gutekunst all have visited Rodgers during the offseason.

"I think obviously some things can become complicated, and we're working through it the best we can," Gutekunst said. "We've been working through it for a while. Again, we're very optimistic that we can get through this for what's best for the Green Bay Packers, which is Aaron suiting up for us this fall."

The Packers finished up their draft by taking Mississippi offensive lineman Royce Newman in the fourth round, Florida defensive tackle T.J. Slaton and Appalachian State cornerback Shemar Jean-Charles in the fifth, Wisconsin offensive lineman Cole Van Lanen and Boston College linebacker Isaiah McDuffie in the sixth and Mississippi State running back Kylin Hill in the seventh.

That followed the selections of Georgia cornerback Eric Stokes in the first round, Ohio State center

Josh Myers in the second round and Clemson receiver Amari Rodgers in the third round.

Staying home

Van Lanen gets to live out a childhood dream after growing up about 10 to 15 minutes from Lambeau Field. The graduate of Green Bay's Bay Port High School didn't initially realize what was happening when the Packers called to welcome him to the organization.

"This one came up as 'Spam Likely' on my phone," Van Lanen said. "I saw it was a Green Bay number, and I answered it. I just kind of wasn't even expecting it to be Gutekunst and Matt LaFleur. I just couldn't believe it. They said, 'How would you like to be a Packer?' And I was just absolutely stoked."

Bob Bennett honored during show

By DAVE BUSS

Special to NEW Media

The Shawano Speedway celebrated its Night of Champions on May 1, honoring the 2020 championship class.

Webster's Dictionary defines a champion as "someone who fights or speaks publicly in support of a person, belief, cause." Before the races, another champion's life was honored as Bobby Bennett was remembered. Although Bennett never won a track championship at Shawano, it was only appropriate to honor his life on the Night of Champions.

The IMCA Modifieds took to the track to open the features with Mike Mullen trying to extend his season opening win streak to three. Kevin Feck looked to be the man to end the streak early on, as he led the opening five laps of the race.

Further back in the pack, Andy Karl, Marcus Yarie, along with Jerry and Konnor Wilinski were waging a spirited battle with three-wide racing and competing slide jobs.

Meanwhile, Mullen was dicing his way forward and with a power move grabbed second on lap six. Riding his momentum, Mullen took his spot at the lead on lap eight.

Mullen continued his early season dominance with his third win in three weeks. Feck finished second, with Yarie taking third and Konnor besting his dad Jerry for fourth.

The racing in the IMCA Stock Car division is almost worth the price of admission by itself each and every night. Saturday was no different, proving you can race four-wide on the back stretch, three wide in the corners and just about anywhere on the track. The drivers in the division put on a show.

Kevin Hebbe grabbed the lead on lap seven, wrestling the spot from Shawn Wagner. Hebbe dominated the second half of the race to pick up his first feature win.

While that would normally be the end of the recap, not on this night. Behind Hebbe, Trent Nolan, Chummy Arneson, Jeremy Christians and Travis Van Straten showed why this class is too tough to tame. When the dust settled, Arneson grabbed second, Nolan third and Van Straten fourth after having to start 16th coming from the B-Main.

Last year's Late Model champion Troy Springborn led the field to the line for their feature event. Springborn, who feels his car hasn't been running the best early in the season, looked to make a break from the pack. Nick Anvelink had a different idea as he went from fifth to second on lap one and began his chase of Springborn.

Lap four was where Anvelink took the lead away and set sail. Late in the race, it looked like lap traffic would threaten Anvelink's lead, but he rocketed between the two cars and went on to victory. Springborn held off a late charge by Mullen for second with Ron Berna taking fourth.

The IMCA Sport Mods have been putting on great shows each week themselves; unfortunately this week, the theme of the night would be the yellow flag.

Zachary Raab was up to every restart to lead the event. Behind Raab, Tyler Sobiescyk, Teagan Wudstrack and Jeffery Teske were battling it out. After the sixth caution slowed the pack on lap 10, the event would be determined by a green, white, checkered finish.

Raab looked to maintain that top spot, and if the speedway would have been 5 feet shorter, he would have had the win. Teske rode the high side momentum to sneak past Raab at the line for the win. Raab settled for second, with Sobiescyk third and Wudstrack fourth.

The Mighty 4's saw Tony Everard taking the lead on lap five, getting past the car of Justin Finlan. Tanner Westphal grabbed the runner-up spot on lap eight and looked to add to his Night of Champions night with a feature win.

Meanwhile, Jason Stueck worked the high side of track to move forward lap after lap.

With two laps to go, Stueck grabbed the top spot and captured the win. Everard was second, with Westphal and Brad Wedde in the top four.

ATHLETE PROFILE: AUSTIN WORZALLA

Witt-Birn senior off to hot start at plate

Wittenberg-Birnamwood High School's Austin Worzalla is hoping to put together a strong senior season on the baseball diamond, and he got off to a hot start at the plate in the team's first two games of the spring.

In the team's season-opening 18-6 loss to Shiocton, Worzalla served as the team's No. 3 hitter. The senior doubled, singled twice, stole two bases, drove in two runs and scored two more. He also was the team's starting pitcher.

In a 9-5 win over Shiocton on April 30, Worzalla singled three times, stole two bases, drove in three runs and scored three runs.

Q: When did your interest in baseball begin?

A: My interest in baseball began when I was about 6 or 7, and I joined the local T-ball team. And ever since then, I've played every summer for multiple travel ball teams and fell in love with the game of baseball.

Q: What is your favorite part about the baseball season?

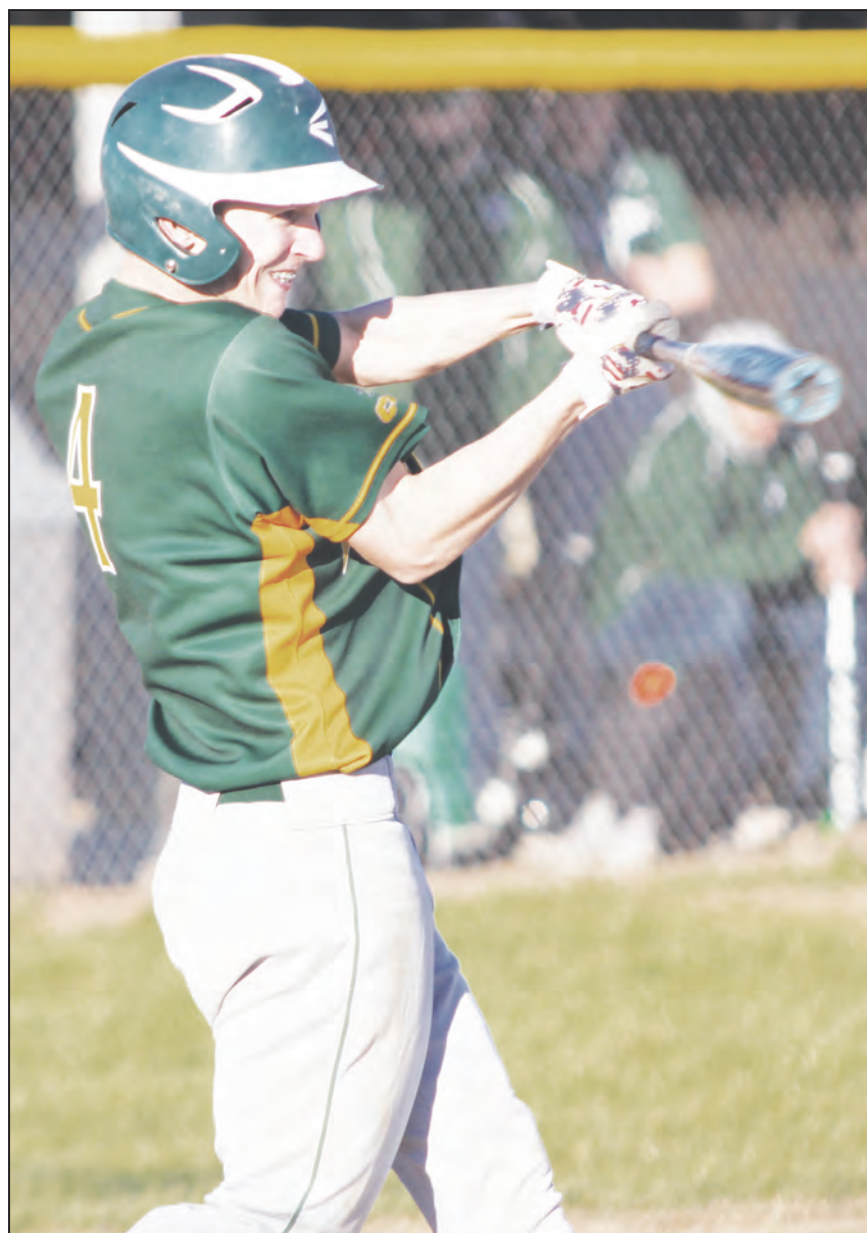

A: Just playing the game that I've loved my whole life. I love the feeling of running out of the dugout every game getting ready to compete. I also love being able to play with friends and joking around in the dugout and talking on the bus rides.

Q: What has baseball taught you over the years?

A: Baseball has taught me a lot over the years. It's taught me how to be a great teammate, how to be flexible as you will have to do things you don't want to do, like playing a certain position you never have before and also a failure teaches you more as baseball is a game of failure.

Q: What's your favorite memory of competing on the Wittenberg-Birnamwood baseball team?

A: My favorite memory of playing for Wittenberg was my first time pitching. I never thought I would have pitched on varsity during my sophomore year, and I think I started the third game into the year and actually pitched really well in that game.

Q: Do you have any individual goals set for your senior season?

A: My individual goal for my senior season is to help out the team any way I can. Wherever they put me, I will try and make an impact to help win the game.

Q: What will be the biggest key to team success this spring?

AT A GLANCE

ATHLETE: Austin Worzalla

SPORT: Baseball

POSITIONS: Pitcher, shortstop, third base, catcher

SCHOOL: Wittenberg-Birnamwood High School

YEAR: Senior

A: Having the underclassmen step up into the roles that we need to be filled. Also learning how to play together as a team. Not many of us have played high school ball together because a lot of our team has not played varsity before.

Q: After missing last spring, what do you believe will be the most difficult part about getting back into the swing of things this spring?

A: Just getting back into the groove. Most of us didn't have the chance to play any summer ball; most of us will be a little rusty.

Q: Do you have any rituals you go through before a game starts?

A: On away games, I like to listen to music on the bus to get pumped up for the game. Home games I go straight up to the diamond and talk to the guys on the team and start getting ready for the game.

Q: Favorite TV show, movie and musical artist?

A: TV show — "The Walking Dead." Movie — "Major League." Musical artist — Juice WRLD.

Q: Name one thing about yourself that not many people know.

A: I've played baseball in five different states during the summers.

Q: What's the greatest piece of advice you have ever been told?

A: "Throw strikes" — dad (Kevin).

Q: What are some things you hope to accomplish after graduating high school?

A: I am going to NTC (Northcentral Technical College) for criminal justice, so I'd like to graduate from that program and proceed within that field.

Wittenberg-Birnamwood baseball, softball teams topped by Shiocton

Games were first of season for both teams

By MORGAN RODE
Sports Editor

The Wittenberg-Birnamwood High School softball and baseball teams each suffered Central Wisconsin Conference-East Division losses to Shiocton April 29 in Wittenberg.

Witt-Birn's softball team dropped a 6-1 contest, while the baseball team was defeated 18-6 in six innings.

Softball

The Chargers' softball team got its season started by holding Shiocton scoreless in the top of the first before scoring once in the bottom half.

Witt-Birn's Emma Herb singled, stole second base, moved to third on a wild pitch and then scored on a passed ball to put the hosts ahead.

Unfortunately for the Chargers, the team's bats were only able to post five more hits in the contest.

"She had the good speed," said Witt-Birn's Jasmin Duranceau of Shiocton's pitcher, Hailie Poppy. "Last Saturday (in a scrimmage), we didn't see that much speed so it was a little higher than we got used to. Then she was definitely hitting her spots too, so we had to watch for those."

Shiocton's bats eventually got going, helping the visitors take the lead in the fourth inning before tacking on insurance runs in the fifth and seventh innings.

"I think they are definitely good at timing up the pitches, being able to hit the sweet spots when it was there," said Duranceau, who pitched all seven innings for the Chargers.

Witt-Birn had scoring opportunities in the second, fourth, fifth and seventh innings, but couldn't come up with the clutch hits needed.

Amara Schoepke singled in all three of her plate appearances for the Chargers. McKenna Metropulos reached base twice after singling and walking, while Kaylee Schram reached on an error and a single. Metropulos also stole a base.

Baseball

Witt-Birn was unable to slow down Shiocton's bats in a lengthy six-inning slugfest.

The visitors tallied 22 hits in the contest, scoring in all but one frame. The Chargers, who had seven hits, also scored in all but one inning, but only hung a crooked number on the visitors once.

Shiocton led 7-5 after four innings before running away with the game after a six-run fifth frame and five-run sixth.

"We had a lot of first-game jitters," said Witt-Birn's Chase Krull. "Nervous at the plate, nervous about making good plays and rushing. That was about what happened to us."

Krull had a big game at the plate for the Chargers, doubling, tripling and homering in his three plate appearances from the No. 9 spot in the batting order. He also drove in two runs.

Austin Worzalla put up a similar line, posting three hits and two RBIs. His three hits were a double and two singles. Worzalla stole two bases and scored twice.

Bryce Zorowski was the only other Charger with a hit, also doubling. He also walked twice, stole two bases and scored twice.

Worzalla started the game on the mound, getting the first seven outs but allowing seven runs. Quinn Schultz came on in relief and worked the final 3 2/3 innings. Three Witt-Birn errors led to three unearned runs.

Badgers end spring practice cautiously optimistic about passing game

Mertz hoping to learn from up-and-down first season under center

By STEVE MEGARGEE
The Associated Press

Wisconsin spent spring practice looking for consistency in its passing game after last season's up-and-down performance in quarterback Graham Mertz's first season as starter.

Injuries left Wisconsin without Jalen Berger and other running backs for much of the spring. But the Badgers did have many of their receivers available, a refreshing change from last fall.

Coach Paul Chryst was cautiously optimistic about the passing game.

"It's a work in progress," Chryst said April 30 before Wisconsin's final spring practice session. "I've liked what they've done, and I think they have confidence in each other. Yet I think part of my job is to, obviously you want them to have confidence, but you also want them to realize there's a lot still to be done. There's a lot of work to be done. This has been a really good start to it."

Mertz opened the pandemic-delayed season last year by going 20 of 21 and throwing five touchdown passes in a 45-7 blowout of Illinois. He set a school single-game record for completion percentage and tied the program mark for touchdown passes, raising hope that the Badgers would have a dynamic aerial attack to accompany their sound running game.

It didn't quite work out that way.

Mertz tested positive for COVID-19 shortly after that game, played through a shoulder injury later in the season and struggled to lead an offense missing many of its top weapons.

He expects better results this year. "From where we were last year to where we're going to be this year, completely different," Mertz said earlier this spring. "I've got complete confidence in that."

His receivers feel the same way.

"I think this year the ceiling for us is very high," Kendric Pryor said.

They'll need more consistency from Mertz, starting Sept. 4 in the season opener against Penn State.

After his brilliant outing against Illinois, Mertz threw five interceptions and four touchdown passes the rest of his redshirt freshman season.

During a three-game skid that included losses to Northwestern, Indiana and Iowa, Mertz was intercepted five times and threw one touchdown pass. Wisconsin scored a total of 20 points during those games.

Mertz, who has spent the offseason trying to improve his footwork, said the shoulder injury was no excuse for his poor play.

"Having a little banged-up shoulder doesn't justify losing three games and playing like that," Mertz said. "I'm not going to sit here and make that an excuse, because it's not."

Mertz will be leading an offense with much more firepower this season.

Pryor, Danny Davis and Jack Dunn all opted to capitalize on the extra season of eligibility the NCAA gave them due to the pandemic. They're joined by promising young receivers including Chimere Dike and Devin Chandler.

Pryor and Davis missed the majority of the 2020 season with concussions, frustrated by their inability to help the struggling offense.

"We'll use that as an edge and as a fire for us," Davis said. "We want to be better, and we will be better. We'll for sure use that as fuel."

Wisconsin also returns tight end Jake Ferguson, who had 30 catches for 305 yards and four touchdowns last season to lead the Badgers in all three categories.

Ferguson said earlier this spring that "you can feel the energy's up" as the Badgers are motivated to bounce back and start contending for Big Ten titles again.

Chryst wants to make sure that attitude lasts beyond the spring.

"Right now, I still want them to be hungry, too," Chryst said. "I think they have confidence in each other. I do believe that. We've got to continue to put the work in. Every area, we can still get better at."

SAWM, dam operator seek multi-year FERC water level exemption

Water level to be set at historic height year-round

By DAVID WILHELMS
Reporter

Shawano Area Waterways Management and operator of the Shawano Paper Mill Dam announced their pursuit of a multi-year temporary amendment to the dam's Federal Energy Resources Commission (FERC) license to set the pool elevation at its historic level of 802.9 feet mean sea level (msl) year-round in a May 3 SAWM press release.

The joint effort for a multi-year exemption marks a departure from the previous five years where one-year exemptions to the water levels were sought.

"Everywhere you turn and look, it's good," Bill Monfre said of the water level proposal, saying it was good for the environment, boating, wildlife, the economy and tourism. Monfre is a SAWM board member serving on its water levels committee.

Monfre said a permanent exemption has always been the group's goal. He said the 802.9 level was the norm from 1985 -2015. That was the year that Brian Knapp, a Shawano riverside resident, filed a complaint about high water levels and ice damaging his property. FERC ordered the dam to hold water at a lower level.

North Eastern Wisconsin Hydro, an Eagle Creek Renewable Energy Company, as the dam operator, will submit the temporary amendment application in mid-May. The sought-after order would most directly affect water levels in Shawano Lake, the channel between the lake and Wolf River and the pool above the Shawano paper mill dam.

If approved, it is expected that the pool elevation of 802.9 feet msl would be implemented in June 2021, the press release said.

In tandem with the temporary amendment, North Eastern Wisconsin Hydro plans to apply for a permanent amendment to allow the normal pool elevation to be maintained at 802.9 feet in perpetuity. It is expected that the permanent amendment application would be submitted to FERC for review and approval by the fourth quarter of 2021, the press release added.

Monfre said the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service encouraged SAWM and Eagle Creek Renewable Energy to pursue the permanent exemption. The SAWM board member said the two agencies pointed out that a multi-year temporary exemption would give all affected groups the time to work out a permanent solution.

An April 27 meeting of SAWM with FERC representatives, organized by Pauline Meyer, a staffer with Rep. Mike Gallagher, confirmed the direction, Monfre said.

The DNR noted it now has five years of data and experience with the water levels and has seen no problems, primarily for fish and wildlife, but also for recreation, according to Monfre.

Monfre also pointed that it was "taxing" to all involved organizations in terms of spending resources and time every year, seeking an exemption.

The SAWM board member said the watershed property owners' group has the agreement of all affected groups and is seeking updated letters of support from local sporting groups, the Towns of Wescott and Washington, the City of Shawano, the Village of Cecil FERC issued its latest order June 3, 2020, as a temporary solution to the issue as local groups, the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources and U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service seek a permanent agreement on water levels.

FERC accepted the proposal from the dam operators to keep the level at a target normal election of 802.9 feet, or 0.4 foot above the authorized normal impoundment elevation of 802.5 feet, between May 15 and Nov. 15.

The higher level represents what local groups, including SAWM, find to be a safe level for recreational boating and fishing.

Walleyes and Sturgeon For Tomorrow had, in the past, contended there were significant negative impacts on fish populations and spawning below the dam, especially in May, under the seasonal water level scheme.

Help available for postpartum depression, baby blues

Postpartum depression and the baby blues are two common experiences that mothers may have during their pregnancy and postpartum.

A Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) study found that one out of 10 women in the United States reported symptoms of major depression in the last year. That study estimates that the number of women affected by postpartum depression differ by age, race and ethnicity. In addition, postpartum depression estimates vary by state, and can be as high as one in five women.

"There are several ways to know if you or a loved one is experiencing postpartum blues (baby blues) or is developing postpartum depression," said Dr. Karen Hulbert, a family medicine physician with ThedaCare Physicians-Markesan. "Baby blues are milder, peak in a couple days and are typically resolved by two weeks. The symptoms of postpartum depression last longer and interfere with daily life. A typical symptom of major depression is that it causes significant distress or prevents you from functioning how you want to with your baby, your partner or maybe even your family."

Symptoms of postpartum depression can include fatigue, feeling sad or hopeless, feeling withdrawn or disconnected, feelings of guilt or anger, worrying and anxiety about the health of the baby, concern about one's ability to care for their baby, or a lack of response to support and reassurance.

With baby blues, symptoms include insomnia, fatigue, decrease in concentration, loss of appetite and sadness.

Hulbert said that when women begin to have these feelings or experiences, or if they're questioning themselves, then it's time to seek help. She added that women with baby blues can have up to 11 times a higher risk of developing postpartum depression.

"It can be difficult to identify it when you're in the middle of it," said Hulbert. "Big changes are taking place — hormone levels vary, there is additional stress, lack of sleep and learning how to be a parent — it's a lot. We want women, and their partners, to feel empowered to seek help. It takes strength to recognize there could be an issue and ask for guidance."

Postpartum depression is also different because it can start during pregnancy, and it can also occur anytime during the first year of the baby's life.

"I continue screening people for depression through the whole first year of the baby's life because I know it can sneak up on people sometimes," she said. "Our care teams can work through this with families, provide an action plan, and begin the healing process."

If a mother is experiencing symptoms of the postpartum depression or baby blues, Hulbert encouraged communicating how they're feeling with their doctor so they can properly monitor their symptoms. There are several treatment options and care plans.

"Some mothers respond really well to therapy or counseling," she said.

"Others need medication, and that is okay. Whether you're breastfeeding or not breastfeeding, there are treatment options."

Hulbert said she likes to focus on having a relationship with her new parent patients because that trusting connection can be the open door for these difficult and sensitive conversations.

Another CDC study found that about 4% of fathers experience depression in the first year after their child's birth.

"I screen dads and partners, too," she said. "I like to make sure that during an appointment both parents are aware of symptoms to watch for because they may not recognize the signs in themselves or their partner. It's when they go home and see these things happening in everyday life that might spark a conversation."

Hulbert wants families to know while these conversations may be difficult, it's best to be open and honest to get help.
