Shawano County pay gap reaches fever pitch

Supervisor frustrated county can't fill vacant job positions, keep current staff

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

The lower pay affiliated with Shawano County employees in comparison with other counties or even the private sector has been an issue on the county's back burner for years now.

One county supervisor on the county's public safety committee made it clear April 7 that she not only wants the issue on the front burner, she also wants to turn up the heat. Supervisor Theresa Serrano brought up the issue at the committee meeting and intends to give her blistering critique at the next Shawano County Board meeting on April 20.

Serrano took exception to an email sent from Patrick Glynn of Carlson Dettmann Consulting, which has been working with the county on a salary structure, sent to the county's human resources manager, Rachel Tuma, regarding a job reclassification. In the email, Serrano said, Glynn did not think that an $825 increase for a sheriff's department dispatch job position was warranted.

"I think it's ludicrous that they don't want to do anything to increase the dollar amount to our people who deserve it the most," Serrano said. "If people are doubling up on their position duties and more responsibilities are being given to them, I don't understand why this person is so hellbent on not increasing dollars for our people."

Serrano pointed out that surrounding counties are scooping up Shawano County's employees because they offer better pay and benefits, which leaves Shawano County constantly with vacancies. She said she doesn't see the point in working with the consulting firm if the response to providing more pay for more responsibilities is no.

"I'm saying it's crap," Serrano said.

Sheriff Adam Bieber had spoken earlier in the meeting about how the jail is in the process of hiring three new officers. Two of them were ready to roll except for one required evaluation, but the third person pulled out

THERESA SERRANO

Chairman Tom Kautza pointed out that the job description changes aren't the problem; it's the fact that the county has a finite amount of money to utilize. The county has approved the setup of a solar farm on the old County Farm property in the Town of Belle Plaine, which could bring in a lot of money to both the county and the town, but that potential pot of gold is likely years down the road.

"We have to have a larger pool of money to pay the employees," Kautza said. "It doesn't come from anywhere else. We've got to cut something to come up with more money to pay the employees."

Kautza said that he's recommended the county's committees look into what can be cut to provide more money to retain employees, but the cost-cutting suggestions have been very few.

"Nobody's volunteering up any programs that they think are a waste of money or not much benefit," Kautza said.

Serrano offered to take up researching the issue herself and potentially coming up with recommendations, as she feels the issue needs to be addressed now instead of continuing to kick the can down the road.

"If we keep going down this road with being OK with what they're getting, we're not going to have any cops around here," Serrano said. "I am mad. I'm very upset. I will make it my mission to continue with this."

Supervisor Richard Ferfecki said that the issue of paying county employees a wage that would make it difficult for other counties to poach them because he was offered a job with more pay at a paper mill.

Bieber noted that his department is also interviewing to fill vacant deputy posts this month.

County Board has been an ongoing issue ever since he became part of the public safety committee.

"We're going to have to find the money somewhere," Ferfecki said.

Kautza told Ferfecki that he previously brought a recommendation to a committee to cut a full-time position down to part-time to free up a little money, but the committee outvoted him and decided to keep the position as it was. He said attitudes like that are what has kept the county where it is in terms of pay structure.

"The committees have got to step up and say we can't do things like this anymore," Kautza said.

Supervisor Jerry Erdmann countered that the county has been cutting positions and programs to the point where there's nothing else to cut.

"We know that departments still have to do their jobs," Erdmann said.

Kautza suggested Serrano's energy might be better focused by bringing the issue before a larger audience — the full county board — after she originally suggested going before the executive committee, where a lot of the administrative and financial recommendations are made.

"Under the county board comments, let them have it," Kautza said. "That's who has got to do it, the whole board."

Serrano said she would definitely take her case to the board, pointing out that there are a lot of older people on it who don't realize that the cost of living continues to go up, and leaving employees at a stagnant level of pay invites them to look elsewhere to pay their bills.

"I'm very passionate about this," Serrano said. "We are losing so many good people to other counties, and we've got to stop this. I'm not going to keep sitting in on interviews and get a deputy or correctional person, and you offer them the job and they say, 'No, I'm going to go work for the paper mill.'"

Additional pledges sought for new sports complex

Village to make a goal of pledging $100,000

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

The Wittenberg Village Board made a motion to pledge a goal of $100,000 toward a proposed sports complex in Wittenberg.

In doing so, trustees hope to build momentum and get other potential donors to open their wallets.

"Say that pledge may not be $100,000, depending on what our budget is. It may come to $10,000," said Marlene Wepner, board trustee. "We want to get people out there to say, 'Hey, they are doing $100,000. Maybe we can do that, too.'"

"Our dream is to do $100,000," added board trustee Barb Buchholz.

A new high school gymnasium valued at $4.4 million was the part of a November 2018 referendum that voters did not approve, with only 41.8% support from the community. Voters approved $13.1 million in improvements and additions to classrooms and educational areas in that election, which have been mostly completed.

Supporters of new facilities are now trying a different tactic in seeking to raise donations for a sports complex near the high school. Wittenberg resident Jerry Aanonsen, to that end, is collecting pledges for the cause.

"I think that this is a good opportunity for people to donate as a community but then not have their taxes influenced," said board trustee Paul Yaeger.

The plan for the building stems from the need for bigger and better sporting facilities. With the large number of children who continue to sign up for youth athletics, the Wittenberg-Birnamwood High School is running out of room to host practices, games and events, according to Yaeger.

"You can go anywhere that we are taking our kids, and you can see that our school is on the bottom end," with regard to facilities, Yaeger said. "It is even on the bottom end for the schools in our conference."

At a recent school board meeting, Wittenberg-Birnamwood superintendent Garrett Rogowski mentioned that in order for this plan to be put into action, a big donor will be needed to get to the monetary goal.

Some members of the Wittenberg Village Board believe that a pledge from them will get the ball rolling.

"In our case, if we can find it somewhere in whatever we have, like we do with streets or anything else, I think it's good," said Yaeger. "If we do something, then they can go back and reapproach other businesses and people. No one wants to go first."

Aanonsen is using a date of Aug. 31 as a milestone to judge whether he should continue collecting pledges.

"I know that Jerry and his wife for sure are trying to find out by Aug. 31 if they are wasting their time completely," said Yaeger.

Board trustee Sharon Beversdorf mentioned that she was unsure whether this is the best time to pledge money.

"I do not understand why there is a big push between now and Aug. 31 — if they really want to do this with the cost of building materials being so high and people are still recovering from the pandemic," said Beversdorf. "I'm just thinking, what is the push?"

She further questioned whether it was a good idea to pledge money to a project that taxpayers had already voted down in the referendum.

"I guess the thing that bothers me is that if this was such a great necessity, then it would have been voted in," said Beversdorf.

Yaeger mentioned that the taxpayers did not say no to the sports complex itself, but rather to the increase in taxes.

Beversdorf also mentioned that the school district will need to hire employees to maintain the facility, which would result in raised taxes.

"That is our problem, because it does transfer into raised taxes," said Beversdorf. "When the aquatics center was built, every time it broke down, it was a major cash cow to get it fixed. The track — $80,000 from the Lions Club. They did it, and it was great. But when it was time to resurface the track, well, that was the school district."

Yaeger reiterated that all the village needs to do is pledge the money and not worry about how the complex is going to be built, when it is going to be built or what the school is going to do about hiring people to maintain it.

Village Board President Bill Switalla mentioned that Yaeger's opinion and Beversdorf opinion were both correct.

"I agree with Sharon; it is going to cost the community more. At the end of the day, when it is all said and done, Sharon is right. It is going to cost more money," said Switalla. "Paul is right, because we do need to expand or we are going to die; I totally believe that we need to progress."

The motion was voted on and passed 5-2, with Beversdorf and board trustee David Timm dissenting.

Wittenberg student wins poster contest

Flynn Bushman, a third-grade student at Wittenberg Elementary-Middle School, won the state's land and water conservation poster contest in March after submitting this entry for grades two and three division. Bushman's poster will go on to the National Association of Conservation Districts Conservation Poster Contest. Also representing Shawano County was Aliya Cynor, a seventh-grade student at Bonduel Middle School. Her poster received second place in the grades seven through nine division. According to Mary George, office assistant with the county's land conservation department, this is the first time the county had two posters place at state.

WBHS graduate writes young adult romance

Brown self-publishes novel that was many years in the making

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

For Casey Brown, a 2014 graduate of Wittenberg-Birnamwood High School, the process of writing her first novel has taken quite a long time.

Brown started writing the story that would eventually become “The Summer That Dried My Tears” in the seventh grade. She told a group attending her book presentation April 6 at WBHS’s library that while her friends had other hobbies like crafting, her passion during her teen years was writing.

The book follows an 18-year-old girl named Danny, who lives in the city and deals with an abusive father who won’t let her do anything with boys for fear they might do her harm, ignoring his own physical abuse that he inflicts. One night, Danny decides to take a chance and go with some friends to a party, which brings her to a farmhouse in the countryside and has her come face-to-face with a young, horse-training cowboy about her age.

“I had an inspirational teacher,” Brown said, describing her English teacher at the time as someone who “made writing a lot of fun for those of us who got into it, and some of us got rewarded for good writing.”

Writing prompts from her teacher were always fun to get into, and Brown enjoyed writing a number of short stories. She said she branched out and began writing her “side project,” as she described it, which would turn into “The Summer That Dried My Tears,” a young adult romance that blossoms in the countryside.

“I got about four chapters in, and then I started high school, and you get kind of busy. It fizzled out,” Brown said. “I did pick it up around junior or senior year and thought, let’s get a big push.”

Brown said she wrote a few more chapters after that, but then she went off to college, and the novel got put on the back burner again. Despite not writing intensively for a while, she said she kept having this nagging thought in the back of her mind that she needed to finish the book, knowing it would be a thrill to have her name on the cover of something printed.

“I just wanted to finish it and hold it in my hands and say that I did it,” Brown said, pointing out that becoming a bestseller or even making a fair amount of money wasn’t foremost on her mind.

Brown finally got it done after she finished college, saying it took her about a year to finish the rough draft. She tried looking at traditional publishers, but she found she was getting nowhere, so she decided to self-publish her book through Amazon.

“Everyone online was trying to scam you into using a vanity press,” Brown said. “They just take your money and don’t do anything with you, so you have to be careful about that. There are so many people out there (writing books) and the market is pretty flooded, especially in the young adult category. It’s hard to find an agent to represent you.”

With no one wanting to take a chance on her, Brown decided to take a chance on herself, and she discovered that writing the story was far from the end of the process. Besides editing and re-editing, Brown had to learn how to design her own cover, set up the proper spacing for the size of the book she wanted to print.

“Everything that you see here was pretty much done by me,” Brown said as she held up the book. “I was DIY (do it yourself) and had zero dollars in my budget.”

She noted that writing the synopsis for the back cover was “brutal,” saying she had difficulty summing up the book in just a few sentences.

“It was a learning experience,” Brown said. “I learned some things about so many topics writing this one book.”

“The Summer That Dried My Tears” can also be classified as a western romance, as well as a Christian romance. She described it as being “PG, maybe PG-13” when it came to the heat factor that romances are known for.

Brown made up her own website to showcase “The Summer That Dried My Tears,” as well as a couple of shorter e-books she had written on dog training. She noted that she put a couple of blog posts on the site that described her process in writing but noted she hasn’t embraced the blog as heavily as she probably should.

“I’m not the best blog writer,” Brown said.

The inspiration for the book came from the music that Brown listened to, with some chapters based on specific songs, although she declined to reveal additional details.

“A lot of times, I would listen to a song, and then I would write a chapter,” Brown said.

Brown is a substitute teacher for the Wittenberg-Birnamwood School District, and she said she enjoys telling some of the younger students, especially the avid readers and writers, that writing a book is something they can do, too.

“It doesn’t have to be for your own gain, just some personal goals,” Brown said. “If you want to do it, you can do it.”

Brown had mixed emotions once she put the end of her story into words.

“It’s a little bit sad to be done with it, that it’s over,” Brown said. “However, I was also glad because it was all out on paper, and it’s all out of my head. That was a huge relief.”

So would she write another romance, or another novel, for that matter?

“Maybe,” she said. “We’ll see if there’s a part two. We’ll see.”

Eland to build trailhead, upgrade park

Trailhead would lead Mountain Bay Trail to Eland ballpark

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

A new trail head in Eland is in the works to lead to the Mountain Bay Trail.

The Eland Village Board is planning on constructing an eight-foot landscape pathway that directs to the trail. Included with the pathway will be additional parking and trailer parking. With the pathway being built, the village is also planning on upgrading the ballpark that adjoins the trail. In the plans, the ballpark will have upgraded bathrooms, a pavilion with a grill, new playground equipment and a water fountain. Included with the playground would be rubber chips.

According to Eland Board President-elect Shane Larson, Shawano County approached the board about building bathrooms on the trail. The Mountain Bay Trail and the Wiouwash State Trail meet in Eland. Larson mentioned that this was the only spot in the state where two state trails connect.

After talking with Shawano County, Larson and the rest of the board devised a list of things that they would like to get done.

The trail head and upgrades to the ball park are being built in order to attract those coming off of the trail to use the park, as well as the communities around Eland to use it.

"We are hoping that it brings more people in the community together," said Eland Village Clerk Marnie Osterbrink.

According to Osterbrink, this project was supposed to get started last year, but due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the village waited.

The village board had preliminary talks of applying for a grant from the Land and Water Conservation Fund. After having the talks with them about the grant, they ultimately decided not to apply. If they had applied for the grant, the village would have had to push their starting time on construction back six to 10 months. Contracts for the building are still being bid on, but the village is hoping to get started on construction as soon as May and finish by the time softball and baseball season start in June.

The board has raised money through donations and fundraisers. So far, with the Badger Amateur Baseball Association running fundraisers and collecting donations for the project from the community and local businesses, the village has raised around $160,000.

The total monetary goal for the village is to raise $260,000. The final $100,000 that needs to be raised will go towards final field improvements and lights at the ballpark.

Since everything is 100% donated, taxpayers will not be affected by the upgrades.

"Tax payers will not be affected by the upgrades at the park," said Larson. "We are already in talks with some local businesses like Hansen Sanitation. They will pump our new facilities for free in exchange for free advertising on our outfield wall."

The Eland segment of the Mountain Bay Trail passes some of its historical railroad buildings. Eland is looking at creating a trailhead and asked the Wittenberg Village Board last week for some help.

FILE | NEW MEDIA

The Wittenberg Village Board sent, April 7, a letter of support to the village of Eland to construct a landscape pathway for the Mountain Bay Trail.

The village of Eland is collecting support letters from local businesses and close communities for the construction.

"I don't see a problem with sending the letter," said Barb Bucholz, Wittenberg Village Board trustee.

The board was unanimous in support of sending the letter.

According to Osterbrink and Larson, the Eland community has a strong affiliation with both baseball and softball. Upgrading the ball park would continue to keep this tradition running strong.

"We have had kids signing up to play youth leagues every year," said Larson. "I hope that upgrading the park will bring more youth out to play ball."

Larson mentioned that he has taken input from the Eland community, businesses and surrounding communities to make the plan.

"It has been really fun working with Shawano County and with the community to get everyone's opinions on what we can do to upgrade our community park," said Larson.

Frederick M. Zimmerman

Frederick "Fritzie" M. Zimmerman, 76, of the Town of Pella, passed away at his home Thursday morning, April 8, 2021.

Frederick Michael Zimmerman was born April 19, 1944, in Pella as the son of the late William and Hildegard (Fredrick) Zimmerman. He graduated from Marion High School in 1962 and was united in marriage to Marsha Ankerson on Dec. 15, 1963. The couple briefly moved to the Milwaukee area where Fritzie worked as a drywaller, and then moved back to run the Zimmerman family farm in Pella.

The couple raised their three children, and Fritzie worked with Town & Country Drywall while still continuing the farm for a number of years. He and Marsha opened Fritzie's Bar in Pella. They divorced, and Marsha continued to operate the bar. He then began working for Appleton Lathing and retired in 2006.

Fritzie was united in marriage to Esther Halverson on May 6, 2000. The couple spent many happy years together, and Esther preceded her husband in death on June 9, 2012. He was a lifelong member of Bethlehem Lutheran Church in Pella. Fritzie's passion was working in his sawmill. He also spent time doing field work for the goat farm that he shared with his stepson, Shawn.

He enjoyed going to Hopper's Bar to watch the Packers games and play pool and also enjoyed spending time outdoors cutting firewood and hunting (bow hunting with his "shot gun"). Fritzie rarely turned down a good game of sheephead or cribbage, was the king of one-liners, and could really sling the BS. Always one his family could depend on, he will certainly be missed and remembered for his quirky laugh and quick wit.

Survivors include his children, Fred "Hopper" (Tammy Adams) Zimmerman Jr., Terri Jo (Terry) Kust and Jason (Kim Anker) Zimmerman; stepson, Shawn (Jenny) Boydston; grandchildren, Trista (Johnny) Van Allen, Nicole (Al) Beyersdorf, Jake (Heather) Zimmerman, Zach (Kim-mie Petrich) Zimmerman, Alex Zimmerman, Jordan (Lindsey) Kust, Jared Kust, Jessica (Kyle Kettenhoven) Kust, Hailey Zimmerman, Courtney Keller and Camery Anker; step-grandchildren, Jedidiah Obrion, Jasmine (Rob) Delvaux and Devany (Martell) Rice; great-grandchildren, Aiden, Sawyer, and Grady Van Allen, Kara and Kendall Beyersdorf, and baby Zimmerman on the way; siblings, Elmer Zimmerman, Betty Christianson, Lorraine Lohrentz, Sally (Jim Zeman) Peterson, Nancy Laude and Bill Zimmerman; brother-in-law, Arnold Kutchenriter; and numerous nieces, nephews, and other relatives and friends.

Fritzie was preceded in death by his parents; his wife, Esther; siblings, Janet (Ferd Zinert) and (Leroy) Romberg, Mary (Denver) Firgens, John (Mary) Zimmerman, Ruth Kutchenriter and Dorothy (Al) Bowan; brothers-in-law and sisters-in-law

Pat Zimmerman, Walter Lohrentz, Marshall Peterson, Ron Laude Sr., Kathy Zimmerman and Roy Christianson.

A memorial service will be held for Fritzie on Saturday, May 1, 2021, at 11 a.m. at the Bethlehem Lutheran Church in Pella with the Rev. Timothy Lofgren officiating. Visitation will be held at the church on Friday from 4-7 p.m. and again at the church on Saturday from 9 a.m. until the time of the service. Interment will take place at the church cemetery and a meal and celebration of Fritzie's life will follow at Hopper's Bar Shed in Pella.

In lieu of flowers memorials may be directed to the Caroline Lions Club.

His family would like to thank the staff of ThedaCare at Home Hospice and the Bellin Cancer Team for all of their care and support.

After Myrin's death in 1983, Linda returned to their weekend Shawano Lake home and made it her permanent residence. She worked at Koepsells for many years.

Linda was a member of St. James Lutheran Church and Sweet Adelines. Her biggest joy was spending time with family, and they were welcomed every weekend at the lake home for a great meal, some water fun and relaxation.

Summer school planning underway

Shawano public schools offering two sessions for students with in-person, virtual options

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

The Shawano School District's summer school program will be a lot easier for families this year as officials plan to keep the pandemic in the rear-view mirror and have a program similar to what was available in 2019.

There will be virtual options for families who are not ready for their children to be back inside the buildings, according to Rod Watson, summer school coordinator, but the district is planning in-person learning from Monday through Thursday for five weeks in June and July, as well as Friday field trips to Shawano Lake.

"If you remember, we had that planned last year, but the pandemic ruined everything, and we went virtual for the traditional session and an in-person outdoor session at the end of July and early August that was pretty well attended but didn't involve that many students," Watson said.

For most students, there will be four classes a day, many of them enrichment-based, according to Watson. Some new classes include Spanish for first and second grades, a literature lovers class, engineering classes and even coding classes.

"There are roughly 100 different classes that students can choose from," Watson said. "They are shuffled every year as teachers come and go for a specialty, so we might not be able to teach that anymore, but we offer other ones that teachers want to teach."

Some remediation takes place for students who need it, usually in reading, writing and math, Watson said.

The district is also planning a shorter, second summer session for the first three weeks in August, according to Watson. Students would take two classes per day in this session, he said, and some of the classes would help students to transition to a new grade or a new school, such as the freshman academy for students preparing to start high school.

"There's a class called Camp Third Grade, which I'm working on with teachers at Hillcrest (Primary School) and teachers at Olga Brenner (Intermediate School) about what skills they'd like all third-graders to have," Watson said. "There's also a Camp Sixth Grade for when they come over here (to Shawano Community Middle School)."

Other classes in that August session will also address social and emotional learning, according to Watson. That includes classes on structured play outside.

There has not been an interest in the virtual sessions as of April 6, when Watson presented the summer school plans to the Shawano School Board, but he anticipated some families will want to keep the learning going during the summer months but don't want to have their children in the building while the pandemic is still ongoing.

"There's all kinds of ways we can do it," Watson said. "We've just got to see what kind of interest there is."

Almost 120 students have already signed up for summer school, with some of the students not from within the Shawano School District boundaries, and Watson is estimating there could be 1,000 students involved with classes by the time all is said and done.

"I've been doing this for seven years, and we usually have 500 or 600 who sign up traditionally, and the rest sign up later," Watson said. "It's sometimes hard for people to plan ahead."

Staffing could be a challenge, with interest from existing staff being lower, which Watson attributed to the topsy-turvy school year caused by the coronavirus pandemic. He noted that his current vacancies are in specialty classes, not the traditional ones.

"So far, student numbers are down, but it's hard to predict since we only opened things up a week ago," he said. "It's hard to determine how many students will want to do summer school."

Mother of suspect indicted in reservation shooting

By KEVIN MURPHY
Correspondent

A Keshena man and his mother were indicted this week in federal court in connection with a March 13 shooting on the Menominee Indian Reservation.

According to the three-count indictment, Menom L. Powless-Brown, 19, and Mary K. Powless, 42, both of Keshena, assaulted a man with a dangerous weapon with the intent to harm by pointing a 9 millimeter semi-automatic handgun at another man, a Native American.

Count two of the indictment alleged that Powless-Brown discharged the firearm in relation to committing a violent offense, and count three alleged that Powless-Brown fired on another man with the intent to commit murder.

A news release from the U.S. Attorney's office described the indictment stating that, on March 13, Powless-Brown assaulted another man by pointing a 9mm semiautomatic handgun at him, which he then discharged several times. Two individuals were struck with bullets, and at least one of them sustained significant injuries as the result of the shooting.

Mary Powless was charged with aiding and abetting assault with a dangerous weapon, in violation of, and if convicted faces a maximum of 10 years in prison.

Powless-Brown was charged with assault with intent to murder, punishable by 20 years in prison; assault with a dangerous weapon, punishable by 10 years in prison; and discharging a firearm during a crime of violence, punishable by life in prison.

No court dates have been set in the case.

The Menominee Tribal Police Department and Federal Bureau of Investigation investigated the alleged incident, which Assistant United States Attorney Andrew J. Maier will prosecute.

Shawano Area Fire Department responds to RV fire

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

Fire destroyed a recreational vehicle in Shawano on Thursday, April 8.

"We were paged about an RV smoking at 818 Randall St. around 10 a.m.," said Shawano Fire Chief

Shawn Borlace. "We were able to quickly knock out the fire, though."

The flames also engulfed a storage truck that was located in the field behind the RV. Borlace explained that both the RV and the truck were unsalvageable and determined to be total losses.

Borlace said that nobody was hurt and the only things that were damaged by the fire were the vehicles.

According to Borlace, the cause of the fire is undetermined, but the poly fuel within the RV could have caused it to spread quickly.

"With that poly fuel, it doesn't take much to get the fire going," said Borlace.

Eighteen firefighters and 4,000 to 5,000 gallons of water were used to put out the fire. Borlace noted that 18 was a good turnout for a volunteer crew in the morning. On a typical night, as many as 30 firefighters might be able to respond.

Borlace estimated there to be around $30,000 worth of damage.

Sturgeon return to Shawano to spawn

About 1,200
sturgeon handled
by Wisconsin DNR

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

Visitors swarmed the shores of Sturgeon Park on April 9 to watch the annual sturgeon migration.

Due to warmer weather and increased water temperatures, the sturgeon spawned early in 2021. With temperatures as high as 80 degrees during the past week, the water became warm enough for the fish to spawn.

“Due to the water temperature, this was the earliest in the five years that I have been here that I have seen them,” said Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources Conservation Warden Clark Delzer.

Spawning temperatures for sturgeon are around 52-60 degrees, according to Aaron O’Connell, a DNR sturgeon habitat biologist.

“Typically for the Winnebago system, these temperatures are met in mid- to late April,” O’Connell said. “But with the warm temperatures this spring, it occurred earlier.”

O’Connell mentioned that thousands of fish make a spawning run on the Winnebago system in any given year. On average, male sturgeon spawn every one to three years, while females spawn every three to five years.

As the weekend went on, more sturgeon filled the shores of the Wolf River at Sturgeon Park. With the growing amount of sturgeon at Sturgeon Park, more visitors followed. The sturgeon are easy to see because they swim shallow, with their mouths and fins poking out of the water on occasion. Like every year, the sturgeon are a popular site for visitors to come from all over the state to watch.

Rothschild resident Lynn Meyer was able to experience the marvelous event for the first time April 9.

“My experience has been interesting,” said Meyer. “I am just amazed that there are so many fish here.”

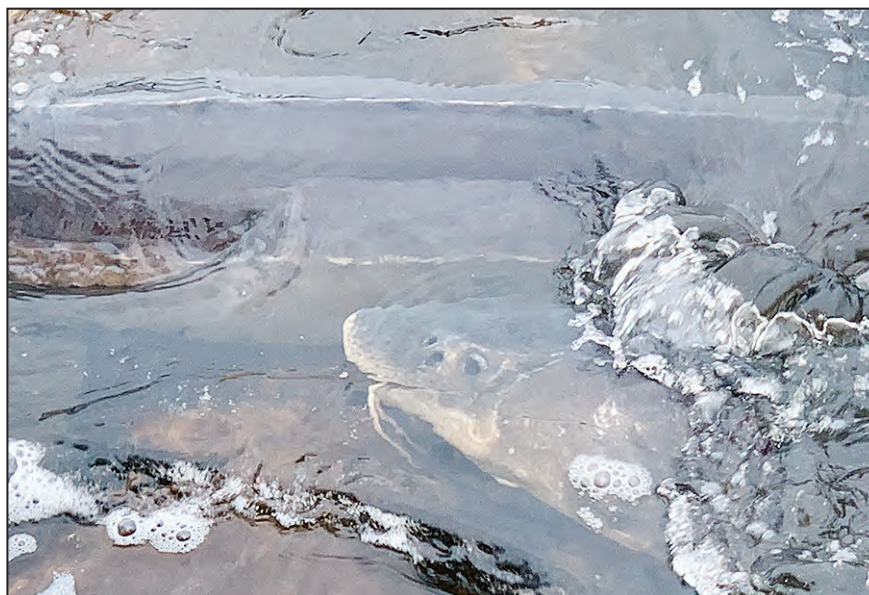

According to Delzer, Sturgeon Park is a hot spot for the migration and spawn of sturgeon due to how rocky the area is.

“The sturgeon need rocks to spawn,” said Delzer. “The eggs affix to the rocks, and the fish develop on those rocks.”

Ashley Schugel, of Shawano, sits back to get a wider view of the Wolf River and the sturgeon migration April 10.

The sturgeon migration started April 9 and continued this week.

Even Shawano residents make their way to see the sturgeon spawn run at Sturgeon Park.

“I live right in town, so I come down here annually to see the sturgeon,” said Dave Berkhahn, who has lived in Shawano for 40 years. “It is a really cool experience to see just how big the fish are.”

According to Delzer, these prehistoric fish can grow to be 200 pounds. When the sturgeon are born, they are about 1 inch long. That number jumps up to 3½ inches after about 45 days.

Shawano resident McKaslyn Szymanski makes a point to plan an annual trip with her children to see the sturgeon.

“We like to come every year and experience it,” said Szymanski. “It is very exciting for the kids to see the fish so close to the shore.”

A crew from the Wisconsin DNR was at Sturgeon Park over the weekend to tag and measure the sturgeon. The sturgeon are tagged in order to mark the new fish. They are also tagged for an easier estimate of the population of sturgeon. O’Connell said that the Wisconsin DNR has handled close to 1,200 sturgeon during this spawning run.

Having the ability to see these sturgeon make their spawning run is a unique experience for which many people around Wisconsin and further flock to Sturgeon Park.

“The Winnebago system sturgeon spawning run is unique in that this is one of the only places in the world to see the large number and large-sized fish spawning feet away,” said O’Connell. “The public areas on the Winnebago system that provide viewing of sturgeon spawning are incredibly unique and are unlike other systems.”

THE FABRICATION OF $100,000

Stockbridge-Munsee officials see what Gresham school is doing with gift in fab lab

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

Members of the Stockbridge-Munsee Tribal Council got to see April 5 how their $100,000 gift to Gresham Community School paid off.

School administrators took the council members on a tour of the new portion of the school, paid for through a $6.5 million referendum approved by voters in 2019. Tim Bosman directs the school's new fabrication lab, which is where the tribe's gift went toward, and the former Antigo School District teacher said he's eager to be part of something so new.

"I think it's pretty awesome for the kids and the community," Bosman said. "It's a great start to something that's really going to be neat over the next couple of years. It's just more tools for them to apply their artistic ability."

Bosman showed the council members a number of items being created with 3-D printers, CNC technology, laser engravers and more. Besides the usual cutting boards and wooden hearts, projects have included engraved wooden bookmarks, metal welcome signs, keychains, cookie cutters and other items that are only limited by the imaginations of students and staff.

The fab lab requires students to put their math skills to work as they're designing something, according to Bosman.

"It's just a great way for students to apply those core concepts, and we know that, with regards to the future, a lot of it is in the trades, hands-on," he said.

Students will be able to use the 3-D printers to make items in hours whereas the time would be measured in days or even weeks, according to Bosman.

"Generac used to send their stuff out to get prototyped," Bosman said, noting his wife works for the company, "and it takes two weeks to a month to get it back to see if it's going to work."

The fab lab is also working to create items for elementary school students. Instead of making cards for Valentine's Day, kindergarten students received fabricated items to give to their parents. Bosman said items could also be made for gifts for Mother's Day or other holidays, but they can be made for any occasion.

"The fourth grade was learning about the Iditarod, and they made ornaments, just something to remember it," Bosman said. "A lot of the fab lab isn't just for students learning to do these projects, but it's also to apply to the classrooms, because it helps with memory."

Bosman also showed that the lab can be used to create items with Native American symbols, as well. He displayed an item for the Stockbridge-Munsee officials that had the Mohican symbol for "Many Trails," a design that symbolizes endurance, strength and hope.

The CNC equipment will be utilized more next year, according to Bosman, and students will learn to fabricate cabinets and other larger items.

"It's going to be interesting to see how they come about it all," Bosman said.

There are also plans to open up the fab lab in the evening for adult education classes so community members can explore their creativity.

Bosman said the Antigo School District is utilizing Gresham's fab lab, noting he'd originally been slated to be that district's woodworking instructor, and he's helping Antigo with some of its projects.

"Then they've helped us out with doing some machining," Bosman said.

Jolene Bowman, the tribe's vice president, was very pleased to see how the fab lab turned out. Gresham's student population includes some Stockbridge-Munsee tribal members, about 20 families or more by Bowman's estimation, so the lab will be good for those students as they try to ascertain what they want to do with their lives.

"It provides unique education for all grades to take advantage, and then they can be part of the school," Bowman said. "They'll feel invested in their own education, and there will be positive outcomes and destinations for them as a result. This is a fantastic opportunity for our community, for our families and for the students."

Education is a priority for the tribal council, according to Bowman. The tribe felt investing the $100,000 would be paid back through future generations being able to obtain important skills to build and shape their futures.

"We want to be good stewards and neighbors to the communities that we live in with our families," Bowman said. "A community is not a community without a school, and so we want to make sure we're here supporting the school."

Newell Haffner, the school's superintendent, said the fab lab could not have been completed without the gift from the Stockbridge-Munsee.

"The gift and the timing of that gift was huge," Haffner said. "We got some equipment that was better than what we could buy. We're happy driving a Buick, but now it's a Rolls-Royce."

With the help of the gift, the school was able to purchase an additional 3-D printer, according to Haffner, who is eager to see how well the students utilize it next year when there's a chance schools won't have to worry so much about the coronavirus pandemic. The school had planned to do some community activities with the fab lab, but the pandemic quashed those plans, he said.

"It's going to be cool to see the community come in and learning how to use some of the equipment," Haffner said. "We hope to have farmers come in and learning MIG and TIG welding. I'm excited to see what some of our community can design with the laser engraver."

WIC program clearing up misconceptions

Director wants to help families in need, show program not just a charity organization

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

The Women, Infants and Children Program has provided healthy food and nutrition education to those who need it for 50 years.

However, there are a number of those in need who still don't think it's a program that applies to them, according to Marianne Peshek, who manages Shawano County's WIC program. She's trying to dispel the rumors and point out that WIC is not just another charity organization.

"It is a federal program," Peshek said. "It's in every state in the nation."

WIC also provides breastfeeding services to mothers and helps refer people to other community service programs the county provides, according to Peshek.

"WIC works because we are significant in improving children's diets, and WIC leads to healthier babies," she said. "I'm a registered dietitian, so we do a lot of nutrition ed, but a lot of it is the breastfeeding support and the referrals."

There is also a farmer's market program through WIC where families can get food directly from local farmers that's healthy and needed if there is some difficulty finding affordable food in the area, Peshek said. There are some local vendors who also accept WIC funding to provide healthy food.

Where Peshek is running into trouble is when she talks with families who are part of WIC and learns that others who are in need put up barriers, mostly from pride.

"They'll say assistance is for poor people, people that are not working or just using the system," Peshek said. "That is so not true. Most of our families are working families, and I can't say that enough."

WIC is a temporary assistance program, with families staying on until the children turn 5 years old, according to Peshek, although there could be some legislation in the works that would extend the time until a child's sixth birthday.

"They're not living off the system or taking advantage," Peshek said. "Some of them are not making a livable wage, and they do need that food assistance."

The program also benefits mothers who are either expecting or postpartum, Peshek added. She has worked with churches and other organizations to get things like diapers donated to help those who just need a hand up.

Peshek is baffled at why people who are not able to get by think that they're lesser if they participate in a program like WIC. She has noticed some pushback from Hispanic families in need, noting that there are concerns the federal program could check on things like immigration status.

"A lot of people don't know that we do such a great job with nutrition education and helping people stay healthy," Peshek said.

She noted that WIC has started a new grant-funded program called Fit Families. In the program, families set collective goals to get and stay healthy.

"It could be moving more," Peshek said. "It could be drinking more water, or it could be eating more fresh fruits and veggies."

The county's WIC program has seen a decrease in numbers in recent years, according to Peshek — even during the pandemic, when the number of people in need has skyrocketed.

"In big cities like Milwaukee, they have shot up," Peshek said about the same time period. "While we've previously seen a drop in the birth rate, in the last year we've seen an uptick."

There is not a waiting list to get onto the WIC rolls, she noted, and the funding comes from the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

For information or to enroll, call 715-526-2822. Currently, WIC assistance is not being handled in person due to the pandemic.

Gresham wins regional title before sectional loss

Menominee Indian eliminated in regional semifinal match

By MORGAN RODE
Sports Editor

The Gresham Community High School volleyball team claimed an alternate fall season Division 2 regional title before being eliminated in a sectional semifinal match in the postseason.

Top-seeded Gresham took on fourth-seeded Elcho in a regional semifinal on April 10 in Gresham. The Wildcats had little trouble on their way to a 25-10, 25-7, 25-14 sweep.

Valarie Cerveney finished with 18 service points, while Hannah Cerveney had 15 service points and 19 assists. Chloe Bohl had 14 kills for the Wildcats, and Makayla Belongia added eight kills.

Gresham had to work much harder later that evening in the regional title match against second-seeded Tigerton.

Tigerton seized control of the first set early on and went on to win the set 25-17. But Gresham didn't panic, even after getting down again in the second set.

The Wildcats used big runs in the second and third sets before rallying to another set win in the fourth. Gresham won the final three sets by scores of 25-17, 25-16, 25-20 in an gym buzzing with energy and excitement.

"We're all really grateful to be able to have the opportunity to play this year, and Mr. (Tim) Wild always talks about how we worked all year for the end of the season and we really need to put all our effort into it, and I think we really did that tonight," said Valarie Cerveney.

"It's really fun," said Bohl. "My whole team, almost all of us are actually cousins and family, so we all just click together. Everybody is like family. We've never not gotten along, we always work together and that's what makes our team different from others because we're very, very close. In volleyball, out of volleyball, whenever."

Valarie Cerveney totaled 19 kills and 11 service points for the Wildcats in the regional title, while Bohl added eight kills. Hannah Cerveney contributed 25 assists and 16 digs, while Kalayla Tucker had 16 digs.

Josie Cerveney and Maddie Haffner had 12 service points each for Gresham.

The win sent the Wildcats to Elcho High School on April 13 for a sectional semifinal against Algoma. Gresham picked up the No. 2 seed in the sectional pod, while Algoma was the No. 3 seed.

Algoma came away with a four-set win, by scores of 25-20, 25-19, 21-25, 25-6.

The first couple sets were back-and-forth battles between the two teams.

Gresham was able to build a six-point advantage in the opening set and led 16-10 before Algoma used a 8-0 run to surge ahead.

Algoma ended the opening set on a 15-4 run.

ONLINE

Video highlights from Gresham's regional title win over Tigerton can be found online at www.newmedia-wi.com.

"We got off to a good start in the first set. We had a really nice lead and then partway through that set, we just kind of lost momentum," said coach Wild. "It seemed like from that point on the rest of the night, we couldn't get a run going where we could get a little bit of a lead or dig into a deficit."

"They (Algoma) were consistent all night, both offensively and defensively."

Algoma had the lead for almost the entire second set, thwarting off any big Gresham runs and limiting its own errors along the way.

Down 2-0 in the match, Gresham continued to battle and built up a five-point lead in the third set before Algoma rallied to tie it up. But the Wildcats were able to create another five-point cushion and this time held off Algoma.

The fourth set started with the teams splitting the first six points before Algoma rattled off eight straight to grab a commanding lead. Algoma then used a 12-0 run to seal up its win.

After the match concluded, Wild thanked seniors Addison Boucher and Belongia, noting their leadership and importance to the team's success over the past few seasons.

Valarie Cerveney led the team with 14 kills, while Bohl had nine. Belongia added 20 digs and seven kills.

Hannah Cerveney finished the match with 22 assists and 13 digs, and Haffner tallied 13 digs.

Menominee Indian played at Kewaunee High School for its Division 2 regional pod.

The third-seeded Eagles were swept by second-seeded Oneida Nation in a regional semifinal matchup on April 10.

Fourth-seeded Algoma ended up winning the regional title in that pod.

Marion sets sights on individual goals with young roster this spring

By MORGAN RODE
Sports Editor

The Marion High School golf team has a couple experienced golfers on the roster this spring, but it is otherwise a pretty young and inexperienced group.

Senior Ellen Radies and junior Isaiah Gueths are the golfers back with the most varsity experience for coach Micah Schwantes. Radies was the team's top finisher at regionals a couple springs ago.

"Having only two returning players from two years ago, it will be the inexperience of the team and teaching the new golfers the game of golf that will be the challenge," said Schwantes.

"With having a young and inexperienced team, the overall expectations are set for them to achieve their individual goals that they have made for the season."

Marion has plenty of athletes it could turn to to fill out the five-golfer lineup, with most having not made their varsity debuts yet.

Senior Branden Beechy and juniors Quinn Tolan and Isabella Tolan are upperclassmen the Mustangs could utilize. Sophomore Andrew Bodoh and freshmen Sam Gueths, Kasey Roethle, Owen Spiegel, Parker Miller and Emily Clegg are potential first-time varsity golfers who could also find roles this spring.

Marion will compete in the Central Wisconsin Conference and then be a part of the Division 3 postseason teams.

Menominee Indian/Gresham boys co-op excited to showcase new golfers

By MORGAN RODE
Sports Editor

As the Menominee Indian/Gresham boys golf co-op gets ready for the spring season, it will do so needing a new group of golfers to lead the way.

Even without experienced golfers to turn to, co-coaches John Teller and Ben Dieck are eager to get the season rolling.

"Excited for some new golfers that will be coming out for the first time and some that will dual sport," said Dieck.

Dieck added that the biggest challenge will be getting the new golfers acclimated quickly.

"Our season is shorter than normal but we are looking to make an impact right away," he said. "We play some challenging courses right out of the gate."

Menominee Indian/Gresham will compete in the tough Central Wisconsin Conference before competing in Division 2 for the postseason.

Tigerton topped in regional title match

Tigers took down Bowler in regional semifinal

By MORGAN RODE
Sports Editor

The Tigerton High School volleyball team put up a strong fight, but came up a bit short in an alternate fall season Division 2 regional title volleyball match against Gresham on April 10 in Gresham.

The Tigers controlled the first set, but dropped the next three sets. Tigerton lost by scores of 17-25, 25-17, 25-16, 25-20.

"They really got us on our serve receive," said Tigerton senior Savannah Swartz of the title match. "Our serve receive was kind of weak. We were losing our coverage and then they just kept taking advantage of it, and our confidence just kept going down as well."

Tigerton opened the title match on a 5-0 run as senior Adrienne Brady served. Gresham battled back to within three points on a couple of occasions, but Swartz eventually guided the Tigers to a 10-point advantage, 20-10.

The Tigers finished off the set and seemed to be in control.

Gresham opened the second set winning four of the first five points, but Tigerton responded with a 9-3 run to regain control. The Tigers continued to lead until Gresham went on a quick 3-0 run to tie the set at 15.

Tied at 17, Gresham took over by winning the next eight points. The momentum carried over into the third set, as the Wildcats built a 9-1 lead and never trailed.

Tigerton appeared to regain its footing in the fourth set, jumping out to a 10-4 advantage. Again, Gresham found a way to battle back, this time using a 12-0 run.

Gresham soon had an eight-point lead and then held off a late Tigerton surge to claim the regional title.

"I could not have asked for anything else. The outcome, yes I would have liked to win, but the way they played tonight, they played better than they played all season," said Tigerton coach Holly Mevenden when summing up the alternate season.

Swartz led Tigerton in the regional final, tallying 20 combined kills, 13 digs and six service points. Brady contributed 18 assists, nine digs and six service points, while fellow senior Ladia Block had 26 digs and four attack kills.

Sophomore Abby Swartz chipped in 13 digs, six service points and three aces for the Tigers. Sophomore Skyler Hauser recorded 10 digs, six attack kills and eight service points, while junior Elizabeth Robbins had seven assists and seven service points. Junior Jaycee Hoppe-Schmidt was credited with five digs.

"This really was a really good game to end on," said Savannah Swartz. "I mean, the beginning was super high energy. We kind of lost it, but we kept fighting and fighting and it really was a good game to end on. I'm really proud of every single one of those girls."

Earlier in the day, Tigerton rallied past Bowler in a regional semifinal match. The Tigers dropped the first set 25-19, but won the next three sets 25-16, 25-23, 25-13 to advance.

Savannah Swartz again led the Tigers, finishing with 16 combined kills, 16 digs and 10 service points. Hauser provided 15 combined kills, 10 service points and eight digs, while Block had 21 digs, seven attack kills and seven service points.

Brady contributed 16 assists, 10 digs and nine service points for the Tigers. Robbins chipped in 13 service points, 12 digs and 11 assists, while Abby Swartz had 12 digs, five service points and five attack kills.

In its season-ending match, it was also seniors that lead Bowler on the court.

Senior McKayla Putnam posted 13 combined kills and 11 assists against Tigerton, while senior Tynea Johnson had nine combined kills and seven digs.

Junior Tia Kroening totaled 10 digs and six attack kills for the Panthers, while sophomore Brandi Spencer had 20 assists, seven digs and three aces. Freshman Weengeetah Mohawk had eight digs.

Shawano Speedway ready to get season rolling

Season set to open April 17

By MORGAN RODE
Sports Editor

Shawano Speedway is about ready to get its 2021 season underway, with many fan-favorite promotions and drivers back.

With the favorable weather in the past few weeks, the speedway looks to be on track to starting the season on April 17 as originally planned.

The usual five classes — Mighty 4s, IMCA Sport Mod, IMCA Modified, IMCA Stock Car and Late Models — are back.

Troy Springborn (Late Models), Lucas Lamberies (IMCA Modified), Travis VanStraten (IMCA Stock Car), Jayden Schmidt (IMCA Sport Mod) and Tanner Westphal (Mighty 4s) are the reigning champions in the classes. Those five are scheduled to be honored on May 1, the Night of Champions.

The Dirt Kings Late Model Series will make a couple of appearances this season, including opening night. The Spectator Eliminators are also scheduled to make a handful of showings.

Speedway marketing and promotions manager Brad Luepke is especially excited for the IMCA Stock Car class this season. “There’s gonna be 20 guys that can win a feature on any given night.”

“From all the rumblings that I hear is that all our drivers are going to be back,” said Luepke. “Our pit board is pretty full. We got some new Late Model drivers, some new Stock Car drivers. Every division will have some new faces, and every division will have the veterans too. It’s gonna be a fun year.”

Luepke said some safety precautions have been added around the track, including Whelen LED lights and extra caution beacons. A transponder system is also new, and will be able to give drivers and fans lap and finish times in real time.

Ed Bertram and George Giesen are set to be inducted into the Shawano Speedway Hall of Fame on June 19.

The speedway will host its second Mid-Summer Classic on July 23-24. The event replaced the World of Outlaws last summer and received strong reviews.

“People loved it,” said Luepke. “In fact, we did get a little feedback when we didn’t bring the Outlaws back but we exchanged it with this and actually got more positive feedback than negative.”

“These kind of events grow, they get bigger. So your first year is usually your feel out year and it was a really good year. I’ve gotten messages from drivers that weren’t here (last year) and have every intention of coming here (this year). So the car count will be higher, I can promise you that. We’re going to have a lot of fun stuff planned for those two days.”

The following Saturday, July 31, will be the annual Racing for a Reason night. Approximately $170,000 has been raised for childhood cancer awareness in the first 10 years of the event. There will also be an increased purse for the Late Model division that evening.

Championship night is scheduled for Sept. 4. For the entire schedule, visit the speedway website at <https://www.shawanospeedway.net/shawano-speedway>.

The start of the 2020 speedway season was delayed because of coronavirus concerns. When racing began in early June, many COVID precautions were put in place.

Luepke says the start of this season will look similar.

“We’re not actually going to change much from last year, we’re going to keep a lot of the protocols in place,” said Luepke. “Still sanitizing bathrooms, and even the food will be in to-go containers just like last year.”

“I believe that our crowds will mirror what it was last year. They did a nice job up there, they spread out. It looked packed, but when you looked straight on, there was a lot of holes.”

Admission prices are $10 for adults, $5 for teens and $2 for children — with children 11 and under getting in free with a paid adult. Pit passes are $25. For more admission options, visit <https://www.shawanospeedway.net/shawano-speedway-admission>.

“Dirt racing is a fraternity, I call it a fraternity,” said Luepke. “We’re a really tight-knit group, whether it’s the drivers or the fans. We take new members to the fraternity every day, so just come on out, check it out. It’s inexpensive, and you get a lot of bang for the buck. Once you come, you’ll probably get hooked and want to come back again.”

Witt-Birn lacking experience as season starts up

Team only has 3 experienced varsity players back

By MORGAN RODE
Sports Editor

The Wittenberg-Birnamwood High School baseball team prepares for the season with very little varsity experience on its side, meaning the team will need several upperclassmen to step up.

Since the last time the Chargers took the field in 2019, all four of its players who earned Central Wisconsin Conference-East Division honors have graduated.

"Varsity experience is a valuable asset to any team. This season will be a bit different because I will only have three players who have any experience at the varsity level," said Witt-Birn coach Dan Kapitz. "However, several young players will play a vital role in determining the direction that we will take. There may be some challenges, but I feel that the makeup of this team will put them in a position to compete and be successful."

The three players with varsity experience are all seniors. Bryce Zoromski will play the infield, while Austin Worzalla joins him in the infield and will also spend time on the mound. Austin Rekow will help fill out the team's outfield and spend time on the hill.

"This year's biggest challenge may be getting the players back into the spring season routine of practicing often early and then competing in several games in a relatively short period of time," said Kapitz. "Healthy arms and legs will be extremely important in the quest for a successful season."

Kapitz has several players to potentially fill out the rest of the lineup, ranging from freshmen to first-time varsity players at the junior or senior level.

Senior Quinn Schultz is another pitching option for the team; he will otherwise likely play at first base. Senior Montana Paul is a potential option in the outfield, as is junior Carter Herb.

Junior Quinton Sippl and sophomore Chase Krull can play the infield or outfield, with Krull also having a pitching arm.

Sophomores Mason Meverden and Max Fraaza and freshman Ian Salvesen are all options to fill out the infield. Meverden and Fraaza are two more pitching options.

With so many new faces at the varsity level, the few experienced players know they will have to serve as leaders and produce when on the field.

"Many freshmen and sophomores are going to have to step up in case we need their help up on varsity," said Zoromski. "The upperclassmen are going to have to work on everyone; our job is to make sure everyone is on track with what is going on in the field by letting them know if they are in the right or wrong.

"So far practices are going well, and everyone seems to have great chemistry; as long as everyone is on the same page, it will help to let them know what to do. The main thing is to make sure to find out what the younger ones need to work on and make sure they are only working on one thing at a time," he continued. "Everyone seems to be doing a great job helping ones that need it by giving them tips, whether they need to improve their swing or make sure they don't feel bad when they make a mistake in the field and teach them how they need to improve their awareness."

Wildlife Bar and Grill now Daisy's Place

Daisy Lorge,
Thaddeus Blank
take over bar and rename business

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

New owners have taken over the Wildlife Bar and Grill in Navarino.

The Wildlife Bar and Grill had previously been in business for five years, before Daisy Lorge and Thaddeus Blank turned it into Daisy's Place on Jan. 19.

Lorge was born and raised in Clintonville, where she worked as a cook and bartender at Big Sal and Cheesy's Restaurant and Bar.

Lorge worked for the previous owners of Wildlife Bar and Grill as a bartender and waitress as well. After the previous owner was dealing with health problems, Lorge took over the bar and with her husband Thaddeus and they renamed it, Daisy's Place.

"I bar tended for the previous owner and due to health conditions, she needed someone to come in and bring some life back into the bar," said Lorge. "So we figured, why not?"

Daisy's place incorporates a full menu, including burgers, wings and fish. The bar and grill offers specials during the week, including taco Tuesdays, wing Wednesdays and fish fries on Friday.

"Our Friday fish fry is huge, as well as Taco Tuesdays," said Lorge.

Daisy's Place is often a destination place for residents in the Navarino community due to the fact that it is one of the only places in the town to get food.

"We are one of the only business in this town to get food," said Lorge. "So, we get a lot of different people in here — a lot of people at the bar and a lot of families as well."

Daisy's Place sits in a prime location, as snowmobilers and travelers often stop in for dinner or a drink. The bar and grill is welcoming to families as well, as they provide a dining area separate from the bar. Navarino also sits in an area in Wisconsin that is often frequented by those who are traveling up north.

"We do get a lot of traffic from people who are traveling from Green Bay and Appleton," said Lorge. "Facebook has also been great as people are coming in from outside of the community after seeing pictures of the food."

With the COVID-19 pandemic continuing, Lorge and Blank have found it necessary to place hand sanitizer around the bar, as well as ask customers to keep an open bar stool between each other. They have also noticed that take-out has been popular among customers. Lorge and Blank are also accommodating in their efforts to serve those who don't feel comfortable coming into the building.

"If somebody does not want to come in and they want us to run food out to their car, we will accommodate them," said Blank.

With vaccines being more readily available, resulting in the pandemic slowing down, Lorge and Blank expect that more visitors and consumers will come in to eat and drink.

"We hear a lot of people say that they have got their second round of the COVID shot, so now they can come in and have a drink," said Lorge.

While working at Wildlife, Lorge noticed that the spring and summer months are the most busy.

"Spring and summer is our busy season," said Lorge. "With softball being played and us being on the main path when motorcyclists come through, it gets very busy in the spring and summer."

Even though this is the case, winter has been surprisingly busy as well.

"For the winter, there are hunting clubs and snowmobilers around," said Blank. "Those last couple days that people were able to snowmobile were crazy for us."

The first two months of business for Lorge and Blank have been eventful as they have seen many people come in, as well as heard a positive public reaction about the bar.

"We have been welcomed into this town tremendously," said Lorge. "Everybody has been wonderful, they tell us how nice the place looks and how we are bring life back to the town."

Lorge and Blank are happy to run their own bar, as they do enjoy their time making their own schedule and working under their own guidance, as well as meeting people from all over the community.

"People of all ages are welcome to come in and dine and shoot pool," said Lorge. "It is just kind of like a hangout spot."

The latest Eve Dallas mystery is 'Golden'

How long would you hold a grudge? That becomes the central question in J.D. Robb's "Golden In Death," the 50th and newest installment in the long-running Eve Dallas series of mid-21st century murder mysteries written by Nora Roberts' alter ego.

Pediatrician Kent Abner was well-liked, even loved. All say he had no enemies, but his dead body tells Lt. Dallas and Detective Delia Peabody otherwise.

Apparently, Dr. Abner opened a package containing a small hinged, golden egg. When he opened the egg, a lethal toxin was released. Abner was dead within minutes, but the poison dissipated almost immediately.

The few persons of interest turn out to be dead ends. Toxicology reports show that this was not run-of-the-mill poison. It would have taken someone with superior chemistry skills and a sophisticated lab to concoct it, but all their searches have come up empty.

The following week, Eve is jolted with a second murder with the same MO. Elise Duran was preparing to host her monthly book club when her mystery package arrived. Elise was married to Jay Duran. He teaches at Columbia, the same school as Dennis Mira.

After a quick chat with Dennis, Eve decides to look into the history of the victim's spouses. That's where she gets her first hint that these deaths might be connected to long-held grudges.

Eight years ago, Jay Duran was teaching at the private, expensive Theresa A. Gold Academy. He confronted headmaster Lotte Grange when he learned that she was allowing cheating and bullying in exchange for large financial donations.

She was unfazed until her husband was sent pictures of her having sex with a member of the faculty. The Board of Trustees agreed to allow her to resign and take a position in another school. There were rumors that she was also in a sexual relationship with one of the TAG students, but no charges were filed.

That is when Martin Rufty took over. His no-nonsense approach and refusal to allow donors to dictate policy didn't go well with some parents. Soon the three ringleaders of the bullying/cheating schemes were pinpointed.

Stephen Whitt was transferred to East Washington – the same school where Lotte Grange is now headmaster. He was forced to knuckle down and do his own work. He went to college and now has an important position his family's firm.

Marshall Cosner stayed at TAG and did better without his former friends. He studied law but was never able to stay clean long enough to take the state bar exam. He now works in a lesser role at his father's law firm.

Kendal Hayward had been Stephen Whitt's girlfriend. At the time they were ready to run away together, but her parents stepped in. They kept her under virtual house arrest allowing no contact to former friends – especially Stephen. That allowed her focus, turn her life around and put TAG and Stephen behind her.

After visiting Lotte Grange, Dallas and Peabody are sure that she is even worse than reported. Dallas makes a vow to get Grange out of education forever.

Following her gut, she digs into the lives of Whitt and Cosner. The two have remained "friends" and often spend time together. Why? Could an entitled teen's grudge lead to murder?

It doesn't take long to learn that Whitt is a cunning sociopath and Cosner is his drug addict follower. Together they hatched a plan to get revenge for their fall from power at TAG. Then when threatened, Stephan Whitt turned on his partner in crime and offered enough evidence to send him away for life.

Sadly, watching Whitt's house of cards collapse won't bring back Kent Abner or Elise Duran.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

We must all share in responsibility

To the editor:

As citizens of the United States, we benefit from many freedoms including freedom of speech, the right to bear arms, the right to vote for officials, etc. We receive many benefits — water, roads, health care, military and police, environmental protection, unemployment, and many others.

As citizens we have responsibilities, too. No, not just taxes. We are responsible to protect our world and the people who surround us. We should be accountable for ourselves and our actions.

Unfortunately, some people do not accept this responsibility. Because of their "freedoms," they deny science and choose to put others at risk. During a very deadly pandemic, they have chosen to congregate, to refuse the use of masks and social distancing. Now that we have effective vaccines, they may refuse to vaccinate to protect themselves and the rest of us. Many of our fellow citizens have unwittingly been infected; more than half a million have died.

Many would call this poor citizenship and irresponsibility. COVID-19 continues to spread all over the world. There are now deadly variants that are more contagious and are infecting people of all ages. This is not the time to let our guard down. The Wisconsin Supreme Court may have shot down a mask mandate, but we have a personal responsibility to do what is right. We do not live in a bubble. Please consider your decisions in respect to the other guy. Show others that you can be a good citizen.

Meetings are held the 2nd and 4th Mondays 7 p.m. At Matsche community Center

Health Information

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's safe drinking water hotline (800-426-4791).

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune systems disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by cryptosporidium and other microbial contaminants are available from the Environmental Protection Agency's safe drinking water hotline (800-426-4791).

Source(s) of Water

Educational Information

The sources of drinking water, both tap water and bottled water, include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity.

Contaminants that may be present in source water include:

- Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations and wildlife.
- Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, which can be naturally- occurring or result from urban stormwater runoff, industrial or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining or farming.
- Pesticides and herbicides, which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, urban stormwater runoff and residential uses.
- Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations, urban stormwater runoff and septic systems.
- Radioactive contaminants, which can be naturally occurring or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities.

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA prescribes regulations that limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. FDA regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water, which shall provide the same protection for public health.

Definitions

Term	Definition
AL	Action Level: The concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system must follow.
Level 1 Assessment	A Level 1 assessment is a study of the water system to identify potential problems and determine, if possible, why total coliform bacteria have been found in our water system.
Level 2 Assessment	A Level 2 assessment is a very detailed study of the water system to identify potential problems and determine, if possible, why an E. coli MCL violation has occurred or why total coliform bacteria have been found in our water system, or both, on multiple occasions.
MCL	Maximum Contaminant Level: The highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.
MCLG	Maximum Contaminant Level Goal: The level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.
MFL	million fibers per liter
MRDL	Maximum residual disinfectant level: The highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for control of microbial contaminants.
MRDLG	Maximum residual disinfectant level goal: The level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.
mrem/year	millirems per year (a measure of radiation absorbed by the body)
NTU	Nephelometric Turbidity Units
pCi/l	picocuries per liter (a measure of radioactivity)
ppm	parts per million, or milligrams per liter (mg/l)
ppb	parts per billion, or micrograms per liter (ug/l)
ppt	parts per trillion, or nanograms per liter
ppq	parts per quadrillion, or picograms per liter
TCR	Total Coliform Rule
TT	Treatment Technique: A required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.

Detected Contaminants

Your water was tested for many contaminants last year. We are allowed to monitor for some contaminants less frequently than once a year. The following tables list only those contaminants which were detected in your water. If a contaminant was detected last year, it will appear in the following tables without a sample date. If the contaminant was not monitored last year, but was detected within the last 5 years, it will appear in the tables below along with the sample date.

Gresham utility files for 31.6% rate increase

By KEVIN MURPHY
Correspondent

After some urging by state regulators, the Gresham Municipal Water and Sewer Utility filed a 31.6% water rate increase, which received a public hearing April 7.

The Public Service Commission is expected to issue a rate order within weeks that could increase average residential monthly water bills by $12.19, according to the PSC staff analysis.

Gresham's water utility had reported in 2018 that it had zero days cash on hand and incurred losses of $43,677 during the past two years.

The PSC wants utilities to have available cash to cover 90 days' worth of expenses and have its revenue exceed expenditures.

"Commission staff is concerned that the ongoing financial integrity of Gresham Municipal Water and Sewer Utility may be in jeopardy," according to an Oct. 18, 2018, letter to Lyle Grosskopf, then-village president.

The commission urged the utility to take immediate action to improve the utility's situation including a response within 45 days and filing a simplified rate increase which would have boosted revenue by 3%.

The utility did neither, wrote Jerel Ballard, PSC spokesman, in an email to NEW Media.

Instead, the utility filed a 3% rate increase in 2019, and in May 2020, filed its first comprehensive rate case since 2014. The utility's accountants sought a 25.3% rate hike, which would have eliminated a projected $6,324 income deficit, yielded an annual net income of $38,311 and earned the utility a 3.5% rate of return of the value of its infrastructure investment.

PSC staff reviewed the request, recalculated some of the numbers and last month recommended the utility needed to earn a 6.3% rate of return to ensure long term financial viability. The larger return would eliminate an operating deficit that PSC staff projected at $1,549 and yield an annual net income of $59,469.

No residents objected to the proposed rate hike at the April 7 hearing, said Brian Carroll, operations managers for Gresham Municipal Utilities. He added that the water utility's finances aren't as dire as the PSC figures indicated.

"We're covering all our debt and have never been late on loans. We have cash on hand but in different barrels," he said April 8.

Without going into detail, Carroll said there were "certain things a predecessor was not aware of, accounting companies were not aware of and the PSC wasn't aware of."

The village operates its own water, sewer and electric utilities and has transferred money among them as needed.

In order to satisfy the PSC audits, "the money must be put in the right pots, which it is," said Carroll.

With the higher rates, Carroll said, the water utility should have sufficient revenue to meet its obligation without borrowing from other village utilities.

"That's the whole goal," he said.

Additional Health Information

If present, elevated levels of lead can cause serious health problems, especially for pregnant women and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and components associated with service lines and home plumbing. Birnamwood Waterworks is responsible for providing high quality drinking water, but cannot control the variety of materials used in plumbing components. When your water has been sitting for several hours, you can minimize the potential for lead exposure by flushing your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using water for drinking or cooking. If you are concerned about lead in your water, you may wish to have your water tested. Information on lead in drinking water, testing methods, and steps you can take to minimize exposure is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline or at www.epa.gov/safewater/lead.
