Search continues for Oconto shooting suspect

Victim was reported in stable condition earlier this week

By NEW MEDIA STAFF

Oconto police have asked the public for help in finding a suspect in a Sept. 3 shooting incident near Oconto High School.

Cody John Krueger, 24, of Algoma, is being sought in connection with the incident in which a person was shot at 2008 Superior Ave.

Oconto Police Chief Michael Rehberg said officers were dispatched at 11:24 a.m. and found Nicholas J. Staidl in the driveway with a gunshot wound to the right side of his chest. Oconto Fire and Rescue transported Staidl to a Green Bay hospital, where he remained in stable condition earlier this week.

During the investigation it was determined that Krueger knew a package containing narcotics was to be delivered to that address, and he was waiting at the mailbox when Staidl confronted him and was shot, chief said it was determined they were not directly involved in the shooting.

Online court documents say a Brown County judge issued a bench warrant for Krueger on Aug. 3 after he failed to appear for his arraignment on charges of possession of burglarious tools and misdemeanor counts of resisting or obstructing an officer and carrying a concealed knife, in connection with an incident that allegedly occurred April 9.

Rehberg said.

The investigation led officers to a location on Second Street, where 35-year-old Oconto man and a 31-year-old Marinette woman were arrested, but the Krueger has had several run-ins with the law, beginning in 2017 when he was convicted of armed robbery in Portage County, according to online records.

In their request for the public's help, officials said Sept. 4 that current information suggests he is most likely in Kewaunee County or Door County and may be driving a silver or gray Honda Accord with self-painted racing stripes.

Officials say he is considered armed and dangerous, and anyone who sees Krueger is asked to call 911 immediately from a safe distance.

HSHS St. Clare lists current visitor policy

Updates made because of recent COVID-19 uptick

HSHS St. Clare Memorial Hospital in Oconto Falls and its sister hospitals have changed their visitor policies in response to a recent upsurge in COVID-19 positive tests.

The updated visitor policies are as follows:

- Visitors under age 12 are not permitted.
- Patients may have up to two visitors per day. The visitors must be the same two people each day; visitors may not rotate in and out with other individuals.
- Patients nearing end-of-life will have special arrangements made on a case-by-case basis.
- Patients with confirmed or suspected COVID-19 may not have visitors; the only exception to this is a pediatric patient and other special circumstances that will be reviewed on a case-by-case basis.

In addition, all visitors must continue to be screened for COVID-19 symptoms and exposure upon entering the facility. Visitors who have any of the following symptoms or are not feeling well will NOT be allowed to visit: fever (greater than 100 F) or chills, difficulty breathing or shortness of breath, cough, sore throat, loss of sense of taste or smell, or exposure in the past 14 days to a person confirmed to have COVID-19.

If the visitor had COVID-19, he/she may not come to the hospital until 14 days after onset of symptoms or positive COVID-19 test AND at least 24 hours fever-free with improvement in symptoms.

All visitors approved for entry into the hospital(s) must adhere to following guidelines:

- Wear a facemask that covers the nose and mouth at all times; a face shield is not acceptable in place of a mask.

- Use hand sanitizer to clean hands upon entering the hospital, entering a patient room and prior to exiting a patient room.

- Remain in the patient room or in space designated by hospital colleague.

In an effort to minimize interruptions to bedside caregivers, the hospital asks each patient to designate one individual who can serve as the spokesperson to their friends/family. This individual will be able to call the nurse and receive detailed updates on the patient's status.

HSHS encourages loved ones to call their patient's room for a telephone visit, or use cellphones to text, call or video chat with them. They can call St. Clare's main number, 920-846-3444, and an operator can connect them to patients' rooms.

vascular screenings are being offered at the Prevea Oconto Falls Health Center – Medical Services Office Building on the campus of HSHS St. Clare Memorial Hospital, 855 S. Main St., Oconto Falls.

A screening takes approximately 30 minutes and costs $75. No referral is needed, but appointments are required and can be made by calling 920-436-1358.

Vascular screening appointments are available from 8:30 to 11 a.m. Sept. 15 or Oct. 20.

Anyone over the age of 50 with the following risk factors should consider a screening: diabetes, family history of stroke or heart disease, high blood pressure, high blood cholesterol, family history of vascular disease, or family history of abdominal aneurysm.

Barbara L. Nelson

Barbara Lynn Nelson (Williamson), 73, of Gillett, entered her eternal home on Saturday, Sept. 4, 2021, surrounded by her family at home, after a short battle with pancreatic cancer. Barb was born in Shawano on March 20, 1948, to the late Samuel and Lucille Williamson. She grew up in the Cecil/Bonduel/Zachow areas and was even named Little Miss Cecil. Barb graduated from Bonduel High School with the class of 1966.

Barb met William Nelson at Mitchell's bar and they wed on Aug. 29, 1970. Their marriage was blessed with four children and nine grandchildren. Barb worked at Hicks' Abstract office and Morning Glory Dairy. Barb and Bill then bought Bill's uncle's farm and Barb would take on the role of farming, working a full-time job at Equity Livestock, and raising four kids. Faith and Family were the most important things in Barb's life. She was a member of Christ Lutheran Church in Hintz and was an active member of the LWML, serving as Treasurer and Convention Delegate, and also sang in the church choir.

Barb loved attending her grandchildren's sporting events. She traveled to several states to see them compete. She enjoyed playing 31, cribbage, and sheephead. Barb loved golfing and bowling in her younger years. Traveling with her family was the highlight of Barb's retirement. She especially loved being able to see the ocean with Bill as they drove out to California. Barb was blessed with the gift of gab. She could strike up a conversation with anyone, sometimes realizing 15 minutes into a conversation that they didn't even speak English! The Packers, Brewers, Bucks and Badgers were Barb's favorite teams to cheer for. She had a few choice words for Aaron Rodgers, but loved the rest of the Pack.

Barb is survived by her loving husband of 51 years, Bill; their four children, Amy (Mike) Umentum of Gillett, Bill Jr. (Angela) Nelson of Kimberly, Cara (Jeff) Sporisky of Bonduel, and Dawn (Mark) Demerath) Nelson of Menasha. She was the World's Best Grandma to Mitchell and Emily

Fair ceremony full of patriotism, pride

County event celebrates 140th year

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

The 140th Shawano County Fair opened Sept. 1 with the usual pomp and circumstance as almost 200 people watched from food stands, benches and any other spot within view of the microphone.

The opening ceremony is usually a simple affair, with a color guard consisting of the American Legion, Vietnam Veterans of America, Veterans of Foreign Wars and AmVets standing with the sun dipping closer to the horizon in the west and the usual speakers praising the fair and all it stands for.

"We veterans are proud to present our colors and join the Shawano County Agricultural Society in the grand opening of this great fair," said Dennis Bohm, who regularly leads the color guard in parades and ceremonies.

Dale Hodkiewicz, president for the agricultural society, said there's a reason why the fair has been a staple for the county, being one of the few things not canceled when the coronavirus pandemic was in full swing in 2020.

"It's because of the people standing right over here," Hodkiewicz said as he pointed to the veterans, "who give us the rights and freedom to be here tonight."

Keeping with his theme of patriotism, Hodkiewicz urged the folks in the crowd to say a prayer for the Americans still in Afghanistan, but he added that the somber moment shouldn't take away from the six days of fun that the fair provides.

Brad Luepke, the fair's marketing coordinator, echoed the patriotism in his comments before handing out the Friends of the Fair awards.

"This is what America is all about," Luepke said. "There are stars and stripes everywhere. Everybody had their hats off for the National Anthem. This is a great thing to be a part of."

Shawano Mayor Bruce Milavitz told the crowd that it was an honor for the fair to be taking place in the city.

"This just is the land of the free," Milavitz said. "When you look around and think about what is going on, how many wars have happened in 140 years, I am so appreciative to the fair board for your efforts to keep this going all these years. I'm extremely appreciative of all of you that come to this event and enjoy yourselves and make this special and wonderful."

Livestock auction draws a crowd

Youth raise 168 animals to bring in record-setting $506K from bidders

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

Hundreds of people packed the building as children involved in various 4-H and FFA programs around the county put their animals up for bid during the 51st annual Shawano County Fair livestock auction on Sept. 3 in the Coliseum on the fairgrounds.

Hogs, steer and sheep that were raised by kids were shown off in a pen in front of everyone as the bidding took place.

Surrounding businesses then bid on the animals that these children have raised.

"The kids put a lot of time and effort into being a part of this event," said Paul McClone, vice chairman of the Shawano County 4-H livestock committee. "I don't know of another fair that has something like this."

McClone said that there was $506,000 spent between 168 animals this year, a fair record.

He said that the money that is spent on each animal goes to the child who raised the animal and put it up for auction. This helps to set up their future plans.

"A majority of the money that the children makes helps them in the future," said McClone. "They could use the money for college, tech school and even a nice tool set. The money gets spent in a reasonable way."

In preparation for the auction, children could spend a year or longer raising the animals and building a connection with them.

McClone said that due to the connection that the children build with these animals, it can be sad to see them go.

"Ninety-five percent of the animals that are bought harvested for butchering," said McClone. "It is hard on the kids to let them go. We see a lot of kids crying."

He said that a big takeaway for the kids for entering animals in this event is that they learn a lot about responsibility.

"The kids work with the animals all summer," said McClone. "This is a great event to teach the kids a life lesson."

With the popularity of the auction, McClone said that it is incredible to see the support of the community.

Bowler resident Beau Brunner shows off the cow that he raised during the livestock auction at the Shawano County Fair on Sept. 3. LUKE REIMER | NEW MEDIA

"It really is overwhelming to see the amount of support from surrounding businesses and community members," said McClone. "The kids write these businesses letters and they (the kids) get rewarded generously."

At the auction, businesses also have the opportunity to win the bid on the animal, donate the money back and have the animal put up for bid again. This money then goes to a scholarship fund for students who are moving on to college.

McClone said that seeing the amount of people in the crowd was encouraging to the children and the auction officials.

"We had a very good crowd," said McClone. "We had 12 to 15 new buyers, which is more than normal."

Last year during the COVID-19 pandemic, the auction was held virtually with kids showing their animals at the Crawford Center.

McClone said that it was good to get people back together at the fair to bid on the animals.

"There were a lot of people at the fair this year," said McClone. "I think that there are a lot of people that are over COVID. Everyone just wants to get back to normal."

He said that, outside of the auction, the fair had a great turnout.

"I would imagine that the fair was close to record attendance," said McClone. "I talked to some food vendors and they said that they were very happy with the turnout."

McClone said that the auction has grown in popularity since the first year it was held. This is proved by the record number of money spent in 2021.

"The auction gets more and more popular every year," said McClone. "The kids take their time and put in a lot of hard work. It is great seeing new people come every year."

The Shawano County 4-H Livestock Committee also has a feeder cattle program, where the animals are fed all year in preparation for the auction.

"The kids feed their animals all year," said McClone. "Some people already have their animal that they are going to put into next year's auction."

He also added that the children buy their animals from local and state-wide animal breeders.

McClone said that the popularity surrounding this event has been very positive to see.

"A lot of people came to partake and watch this event," said McClone. "That shows that people think this event is very cool."

Fair food competition sees more participation

Food and nutrition preservation event sees between 350-400 entries

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

The annual food and nutrition preservation event at the 2021 Shawano County Fair was packed with entries Sept. 3.

The event showcases different foods and desserts that were submitted to judges in an effort to win the blue ribbon as best in each category.

"This event is for the county fair," said Jerry DeSchmidt, foods and nutrition superintendent. "This is just for fun competition. We want to see who the best baker is."

DeSchmidt said that certain factors go into how a dish is judged and what separates one dish from another dish.

"With the dairy promotions, they are promoting dairy products," he said. "They need to have at least two dairy products — another part of the dish is presentation and taste."

Subcategories for the dairy dishes include cakes, yeast breads, quick breads, muffins, cookies, bars, dried foods, decorated foods, pies and canned goods.

He added that judges leave comments on entries to help competitors learn what they can do to make their dish better.

"Some judges give a lot of comments," said DeSchmidt. "They enjoy giving those comments. You are free to ask judges why you got a certain score after the judging."

Judge Ila Sanders said when she judges food for competitors, she tries to leave as many comments as possible to help them improve on their cooking and baking.

"I try to write comments as I can," she said. "I want to communicate what maybe didn't put them in a blue ribbon position. Hopefully it is a learning experience."

She added that the big takeaways for people who enter their food are improvement, fun and satisfaction.

"They will see how they compare with others," said Sanders. "They will look at those comments and see how they can improve. There is also an energizing feeling from seeing others bake and cook different items as well."

According to DeSchmidt, judges are qualified to examine these entries through criteria set by the state of Wisconsin. He also said that food related professions give judges experience and qualifications to make their decisions.

"I think most of the judges have been around food in their work history," said DeSchmidt.

Sanders said that she enjoys judging this event every year. She has a degree in home economics.

"I was raised in Shawano County as a 4-Her," she said. "I always said that I wanted to be a food judge. I love to look at the foods and see the satisfaction that people are getting from it."

DeSchmidt said a lot of new exhibitors wanted to get their food judged during the 2021 Shawano County Fair. He attributes the rise to people who have witnessed the event in the past.

"It is just from people last year who came through and said, 'Oh, I can do that,'" said DeSchmidt. "We told them that they can enter and see how well they do."

DeSchmidt views the increase as a positive thing.

"I enjoy the competition," said DeSchmidt. "If we could fill up every single food case, I think we would all be really happy."

With more people getting vaccinated and coming out to the fair this year, DeSchmidt said that he thought the turnout of people who entered the competition was great. He said that there were between 350 and 400 entries this year.

Last year, the food and nutrition preservation event was held during the COVID-19 pandemic and it looked a little different than this year.

"This was different from last year in that judges were the only one who could taste the food last year," said DeSchmidt. "This year if you want to try the food, you can ask the judge and they will cut off a little bit for you."

HIGH SCHOOL VOLLEYBALL

Oconto Falls swept in tight North Eastern Conference battle against Freedom

Panthers see serve receive as area of weakness

By MORGAN RODE
Sports Editor

The Oconto Falls High School volleyball team put up a strong fight, but came up short in each set of a 25-21, 25-20, 25-21 loss to North Eastern Conference foe Freedom on Aug. 31 in Oconto Falls.

There were moments in each set where it felt like the Panthers would pull ahead, but the team was never able to keep the momentum on its side.

Serve receive was the answer from Oconto Falls players and coaches as to why the team fell short.

"With the serve receive, we were getting good runs and then we'd go on slumps where we would get aced four or five times in a row, and then when we did get a pass, our hitters couldn't put it away," said senior Hailey Peitersen.

"We gotta clean up our service receive," said coach Rochell Otto. "We've got some great passers and they've just got to be confident in themselves and know their roles. We just got aced too much, in my opinion. (Freedom) has some great servers, don't get me wrong, but we have to adjust."

Oconto Falls started the match strong, building up a cushion of a couple points on multiple occasions before Freedom went on runs to tighten things back up. The Panthers held several four-point leads, with their last one being 13-9. Freedom flipped the momentum of the set with a 6-0 run.

The visitors went up 19-16 before a Freedom error and kill from Panther junior Tess Maggio brought the hosts within one. More strong serving from Freedom resulted in a 5-0 run to create some separation. Oconto Falls rattled off three straight points to force a Freedom timeout, but the next point went to the visitors on a hitting error to end the first set.

"Our consistency in swinging and serving, serve receive, everything as a whole," said junior Hanna Krejcarek on what the Panthers could improve on. She added that jitters from playing in front of the home crowd for the first time also cost the team a bit in the first set.

The second set started with the Panthers winning two straight points before Freedom rattled off six consecutive points. The final three points on the run were service aces.

Oconto Falls would later tie the set at seven before a 5-0 run from the visitors helped them regain control. The theme continued with the Panthers tying things at 16 before Freedom claimed six of the next eight points.

Otto said the Panthers could learn something from how Freedom performed against them. She noted how the Irish didn't compound mistakes, while the Panthers would have a mistake and then see a tight score turn into a sizeable deficit.

"Sometimes, some of our girls will have two or three mistakes in a row and they can't just let it go," said Otto. "They got to be able to flush it and get back and be able to get the next (point)."

An early 5-0 run in the third set helped Freedom seize control again. The deficit got to as high as six before the Panthers battled back.

Senior Emmie Magnin posted a couple kills and then was serving when the hosts tied the match at 15. The Panthers were up 18-16 before a 6-0 Freedom run again left the hosts with an uphill climb. Oconto Falls trimmed the deficit to three before a kill sealed the match.

Junior Morgan Kluth led Oconto Falls with nine attack kills on the night, while Maggio had six and Magnin five.

Junior Quinn Eisch posted a team-leading 12 digs for the Panthers, while Peitersen and Krejcarek had 11 digs each.

Peitersen tallied 21 of the team's 26 assists.

Panther senior off to fast start on court

The Oconto Falls High School volleyball team got its fall season off to a strong start after winning seven of the first 10 matches. Senior Emmie Magnin has helped lead the charge for the Panthers.

Despite losing to Freedom on Aug. 31, Magnin tallied five attack kills, two aces, two total blocks and three digs.

In a win over Valders in the championship match of the Hilbert Invite on Aug. 27, the senior recorded seven attack kills. Earlier in the day, Magnin had five attack kills and five digs in a victory over New London. She contributed five attack kills in a win over Hilbert in the team's third match of the invite.

Magnin totaled nine attack kills, six aces and four digs in a rout of Kohler and added eight attack kills and three aces in a win over Cambria-Friesland to open the invite.

Q: When did your interest in volleyball begin?

A: From a young age, I always enjoyed passing the ball around with my older sister (Ally) in the yard. She inspired me to join club volleyball in sixth grade and my passion took off then! I have been playing both school and club volleyball since sixth grade.

Q: What is your favorite part about the volleyball season?

A: My favorite part about the volleyball season is the bonds you build with your teammates on and off the court. The girls you play with become family and you develop strong relationships with them. Practice time, bus time, and memories in the locker room are all some of my favorites.

Q: In order to achieve its goals this season, what does your volleyball team need to do?

A: To achieve our goals, our team needs to fully communicate and play together as one. Every member on the team needs to bring their best effort each and every time they step foot on the court. If someone is struggling, we need to all pick them up and keep our energy level high.

Q: Your team is off to a strong start this fall. What's been the key to success in the early going?

A: I feel our work we put in during the offseason has really helped us the most in the early season. The team worked hard in the weight room, during open gyms/training sessions and really grew together early on. We had valuable time together on the court and off the court doing strength and conditioning.

Q: Do you have any individual goals you hope to accomplish this season?

A: I want to continue to work hard and earn a first-team conference award.

Q: As a senior, how are you helping lead the rest of the team?

A: This year I strived to be a leader in the preseason/offseason and all throughout our school season. I look for ways to help others when needed and provide feedback so we can continue to grow as a team.

Q: Do you have any rituals you go through before a match starts?

A: Before the game, our locker room dance sessions are a must. We bring a large speaker and play our favorite songs to get pumped up. Then we warm up in the hallways and perform our pregame chant that has been used in the volleyball program for years. We cheer so loud during this time that, afterwards, we need to catch our breaths before heading out on the court!

Q: What's your favorite memory of competing on the Oconto Falls volleyball team?

A: My favorite memory of competing on the Oconto Falls volleyball team is the relationships I've made. I have become so close-knit with my teammates that I look forward to seeing them every day at school and spending practice and gamedays with them. We all have fun dancing circles and doing our "moves." One time our coach started dancing with us, too!

Q: Favorite movie, TV show and musical artist?

Q: Name one thing about yourself that not many people know.

Errors costly for Badgers in season-opening loss

By STEVE MEGARGEE

Jaquan Brisker and Ji'Ayir Brown intercepted Graham Mertz deep in Penn State territory in the final 2½ minutes to preserve the 19th-ranked Nittany Lions' 16-10 victory over No. 12 Wisconsin on Sept. 4.

Wisconsin (0-1) had its string of 25 consecutive victories in home openers snapped because of its red-zone failures. The Badgers dominated time of possession but had four scoreless trips inside Penn State's 25-yard line, including three inside the 10.

"It was a gutsy win against a really good opponent, a top-20 opponent," Penn State coach James Franklin said. "Our kids willed it to happen today."

The Badgers had first-and-goal at the 1 in the closing minutes on a drive that included a targeting penalty on Ellis Brooks that knocked Penn State's top tackler out of the game.

Then things went awry.

Mertz lost the ball on an apparent handoff attempt on first down, though Wisconsin's Isaac Guerendo recovered the fumble at the 7. Guerendo lost a yard on second down, then Joey Porter Jr. broke up a pass to Jack Dunn.

On fourth down, Mertz attempted a pass across the middle to tight end Jake Ferguson, but Brisker picked it off and delivered a 41-yard return with 2:16 remaining.

Wisconsin got the ball back on its own 18 with 1:11 left and got all the way to the Penn State 25 with 26 seconds remaining, thanks in part to a personal foul on Arnold Ebiketie. But after an intentional grounding call pushed Wisconsin back to the 32, Brown intercepted a Mertz pass on the game's final play.

"We've got to find a way to finish," Wisconsin coach Paul Chryst said. "We didn't do that enough."

USDA aid available for timber haulers and harvesters

The U.S. Department of Agriculture is providing up to $200 million to provide relief to timber harvesting and timber hauling businesses that have experienced losses due to COVID-19 as part of USDA's Pandemic Assistance for Producers initiative.

Loggers and truckers can apply for assistance through USDA's Farm Service Agency through Oct. 15. The Pandemic Assistance for Timber Harvesters and Haulers program (PATHH) is administered by FSA in partnership with the U.S. Forest Service.

The Consolidated Appropriations Act authorized this assistance for the timber industry. Timber harvesting and hauling businesses that have experienced a gross revenue loss of at least 10% during the period of Jan. 1 and Dec. 1, 2020, compared to the period of Jan. 1 and Dec. 1, 2019, are encouraged to apply.

"Like many facets of the agriculture industry, the logging industry has experienced its share of financial hardships throughout the pandemic," said FSA Administrator Zach Ducheneaux. "We're happy to work with the U.S. Forest Service to develop this new program to provide critically needed support."

To be eligible for payments, individuals or legal entities must be a timber harvesting or timber hauling business where 50% or more of its gross revenue is derived from cutting timber, transporting timber and processing of wood on-site on the forest land (chipping, grinding, converting to biochar, cutting to smaller lengths, etc.).

Payments will be based on the applicant's gross revenue received from Jan. 1, 2019, through Dec. 1, 2019, minus gross revenue received from Jan. 1, 2020, through Dec. 1, 2020, multiplied by 80%. FSA will issue an initial payment equal to the lesser of the calculated payment amount or $2,000 as applications are approved. A second payment will be made after the sign-up period has ended based upon remaining PATHH funds.

The maximum amount that a person or legal entity may receive directly is $125,000.

Loggers and truckers can apply for PATHH by completing form FSA-1118, Pandemic Assistance for Timber Harvesters and Haulers Program application, and certifying to their gross revenue for 2019 and 2020 on the application. Additional documentation may be required. Visit farmers.gov/pathh for information on how to apply.

OPINION

Tragedy brings US together, but time pulls it apart

Twenty years ago, the vision of America changed. Before that time, we thought we were safe. We thought that nothing bad could happen on a massive scale in the United States.

That fantasy image of our country shattered abruptly on the morning of Sept. 11, 2001, as two planes crashed into the World Trade

LEE PULASKI

Center in New York, sending the Twin Towers falling. The image was erased from our minds and replaced with the sight of another plane crashing into the Pentagon in Washington, D.C. Any remnants of hope that the incident was just a dream or hallucination faded as we learned a fourth plane, suspected to be heading for the White House, was thwarted by American passengers fighting back and causing it to crash in Pennsylvania.

That day shook all Americans to their core. Our combined vision of the United States being a utopia and the greatest place to live was interrupted by the sight of structures on fire, people fleeing from plumes of smoke, dust and rubble, and emergency officials racing toward the danger zones to hopefully help survivors.

The numbers from the horrors of that day are staggering. We lost 2,977 people from the attacks themselves while over 25,000 were injured, and over $10 billion was spent to deal with the infrastructure and property damage. It was the deadliest terrorist attack in human history.

Even before the abysmal anniversary came upon us, we've had constant reminders of that fateful day. When America was attacked, we took the battle back to the enemy as we descended on Afghanistan to battle al-Qaeda — and we only left the country a few days ago. Whenever we go through airports, we must go through security checkpoints and have our bodies and belongings searched. We've seen stories on the news about police officers, firefighters and other rescuers dying from being exposed to the tons of toxic debris believed to have more than 2,500 contaminants.

Not that we've needed any reminders of Sept. 11. Most of us who were alive that day remember all too well where we were when we turned on our televisions and saw the fiery carnage. I was in my hometown getting ready to go to work and chase down the news of the community. It was supposed to be a relatively easy day for me, but my plans on shooting photos of community events were quickly scrapped as I, like many other journalists, had to shift our work to capture the local angle of what had just happened.

On that day, everybody in the community came together. It didn't matter if you were Republican or Democrat, what color your skin was, or any of the other differences that put us into conflict. Even if you hated your neighbors, you checked in on them to make sure they were all right, and they did the same for you. The petty squabbles that kept us apart were pushed aside as we realized we needed to unite as a country if we were to avoid having something similar happen again.

What happened to us?

Our unified vision has fractured since then. Where we once stood together, we now have become no different than the splintered pieces of glass from windows blown apart from the force of airplanes, only worse than before. If someone's views differ from ours, we call them deplorable and an enemy. Not even a global pandemic or an attack on the U.S. Capitol early this year have been able to bring us back together.

We're better than this. I saw America on that dark day 20 years ago and in the days following. We were a cohesive society that was united in one belief — that America was not going to fall. We realized we'd become too complacent and vowed to do what was needed to make sure that our country continued to be a beacon of hope for the rest of the world.

We need to find a way back to where we were 20 years ago. The death and carnage, we should skip, but the part where we found a way to agree to disagree and realize we're all one people, that needs to come back. I don't know if it's possible, but we should figure out how to do so without terrorists coming to town and trying to destroy our democracy.

As we observe the 20th anniversary of this pivotal moment in history, we should all look inside ourselves and figure out how to make this a better world to live in. Too many people paid the cost the last time our country drifted apart. Keep them in mind as you go about your weekend and realize that it's all too easy to tear something down. We were lucky in 2001. The next time, it might cost us more.

K-12 education isn't nearly as good as we think

The performance of the United States' K-12 public school system is so poor that nothing less than a major overhaul, something akin to what the state of Maryland is undertaking, will fix its problems.

Many measures of quality in the nation's public schools tell us what children do, not what they know. Metrics range from graduation rates to suspension rates, from school attendance to student-teacher ratios. There is an underlying assumption in these numbers that students absorb a sound base of knowledge as they travel through their K-12 journey. As we shall see below, this assumption is completely inaccurate for many children.

The most damning evidence comes from the assessment of adult competencies. The Program for the International Assessment of Adult Competencies, PIAAC, is a cyclical, large-scale study developed under the auspices of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development. It is a well-established measurement system used across the globe. In the most recent 2017-18 study, they assessed a sampling of the U.S. pool of 16- to 65-year-olds, a population of 219 million.

Thirty-eight countries participated in this study, but due to the resolution of ties, fewer than 38 countries are shown in the rankings. Here are the results for U.S. high school graduates:

- In literacy, 25% have the reading skills of a 10-year-old, placing the U.S. 12th among 29 nations measured. This dismal level of verbal competence worsened from 20% in the program's previous 2012 study.
- In numerical competence, 38% of Americans lack basic math-related skills. The U.S. ranks 22nd among 32 nations, and its "numeracy" shortfall has deepened; the previous level in this category was 33%.
- An assessment of "problem-solving in a digital environment" found 33% to be digitally incompetent, up from the 30% level the program reported in 2012. Currently, the U.S. ranks 11th among 25 nations.

This "getting worse" trend in their findings should be alarming to us all.

U.S. millennials (now 25 to 40 years old) are the least well-educated compared to similar age groups in the developed world. This result is drawn from competency testing.

The U.S. Department of Education assessments of math and reading skills have not improved in 47 years. One implication, the many federal programs have all failed.

International scores by the Program for International Student Assessment places the U.S. at 11th in reading, 29th in math and 15th in science.

Grade inflation is running rampant — "A" is the most often awarded grade in high schools. As a result, a national survey shows when parents were asked if their children were performing at or above grade level, 90% said they were. In fact, only 30% were.

Here is another example of "widening the plate." In 2014, a high school in Ohio awarded the honor of class valedictorian to 72 out of their graduating class of 222; the next year, a Virginia high school awarded this title to 117 out of 457 graduates.

Disruptive children are stealing teaching time in 80,000 U.S. schools. Our discipline collapse is a national tragedy. These results are derived from a 2004 study titled "Teaching Interrupted," published by the Brooklyn think tank, Public Agenda.

The state of Maryland, always a top contender for best state education system, recently assessed that only 40% of their high school graduates were college or career ready. My home state of Indiana is currently at 30%.

With all of these issues, the U.S. is facing a huge teacher shortage. The projection for 2025 is an annual need of 300,000 teachers and a supply of 100,000. We're going to have a major train wreck.

The state of Maryland is at the beginning of a major overhaul of its schools that should produce outstanding results. As we think about educating our children, we don't give thought to the return on our investment. This is a key result from the Maryland study.

They predict an outstanding return on their investment as assessed in dollars and cents but can't quantify the massive intangible returns. When implemented, their program will change society for the better and eliminate many inequalities.

The first step in making needed changes is to replicate the Maryland commission in each state. Only then will people believe they have serious issues in their own public-school systems.

Dr. Andres Schleicher, a prominent expert in the international field of education, says: "The quality of schooling in a country is a reliable predictor of the wealth that country will produce in the long run."

We're nowhere near where we should be; in fact, we're in deep trouble. We must make major changes; look at the Maryland proposal for guidance.

For a quick summary of the Maryland study, go to my website — elevateteachers.org — and look at Lesson 19.

Green Bay with Super Bowl aspirations

Team looks to avoid third straight loss in NFC title game

By MORGAN RODE
Sports Editor

An offseason of rumors and speculation are in the rear-view mirror and it's finally time for the Green Bay Packers to step on the field and open the 2021 NFL season.

While the Packers again have aspirations of bringing the Lombardi Trophy back to Green Bay, it's still hard not to wonder if this is the final ride with this particular core of players on the roster.

Two fan favorites — quarterback Aaron Rodgers and wide receiver Davante Adams — are at the center of the speculation.

Rodgers, of course, was at the heart of most of the offseason news after news broke on the first night of the 2021 NFL Draft that he was unhappy with the team and wanted out of Green Bay. When he finally was able to tell his side of the story, Rodgers expressed that he just wanted to be part of the team's conversations involving players and things that impacted his job as quarterback, saying he'd earned that right after 16 seasons with the team.

Adams is set to become an unrestricted free agent at the end of the season but hadn't received a new contract as of the week before the regular season opened.

One of the league's best duos didn't do much to quell the speculation, posting Instagram stories on July 23 with the same picture of Chicago Bulls legends Michael Jordan and Scottie Pippen, hinting this could be their last season together in Green Bay, or "The Last Dance," like the popular documentary that aired in 2020.

Even with all the drama surrounding the team, the goal is still simple — win the Super Bowl.

"It's Titletown. It's championship or disappointment," said Rodgers in an interview a couple weeks back.

The last two seasons has seen Green Bay fall one win short of the big game. Last year, the Packers were unable to rally late in a loss to the Tampa Bay Buccaneers at Lambeau Field.

With a lower salary cap than in 2020, all NFL teams were forced to make cuts to their rosters and restructure several contracts to make the numbers align with the cap for this season.

The Packers did what they could to bring back most of their 2020 team, re-signing players like running back Aaron Jones, wide receiver Allen Lazard, tight ends Marcedes Lewis and Robert Tonyan and cornerback Kevin King.

Players lost to free agency were mostly backups, aside from center Corey Linsley, who the team replaced by drafting Ohio State's Josh Myers in the second round of the draft.

The team opened the draft by getting some defensive help in cornerback Eric Stokes, and then landed wide receiver Amari Rodgers in the third round.

In an effort to appease Rodgers, Packers General Manager Brian Gutekunst traded for beloved receiver Randall Cobb, so the offense should have plenty of weapons to work with.

With only three preseason games being played this year and the Packers choosing to hold out most of their starters on both sides of the ball, fans are still waiting to see what the arrival of new defensive coordinator Joe Barry can do for the unit that has had its ups and downs over the past couple seasons.

With a lot of familiar faces on the team, and with the success the team has had under coach Matt LaFleur, fans of the green and gold are eager to get the season started so the focus can shift to football instead of all the what-if scenarios that could arise after the season.

The team was scheduled to open the season in a tough road environment facing the New Orleans Saints. Instead, the game was moved to Jacksonville after Hurricane Ida ripped through New Orleans.

BY THE NUMBERS

By MORGAN RODE

Sports Editor

The Green Bay Packers open their 2021 season this Sunday against the New Orleans Saints, hoping to start strong on their quest for a Super Bowl.

Here are some numbers that Packers players and coaches have accumulated over the years and highlight some things to watch for as the season gets underway:

26

The amount of regular season wins the Packers have combined in Matt LaFleur's two seasons as the head coach, going 13-3 both years. The win total was enough to win the Packers the NFC North and receive a bye in the playoffs both seasons, but the team lost in the NFC Championship Games in both years.

4

Years of defensive coordinator experience for Joe Barry, who is the team's new defensive coordinator. He served in the position from 2015-16 with Washington and was Detroit's coordinator from 2007-08. Barry was on the Los Angeles Rams' staff in 2020, when the team posted the NFL's best scoring defense and overall defense numbers.

48

The amount of passing touchdowns for quarterback Aaron Rodgers during the 2020 season, a career high for the one day Hall-of-Fame player. The big season helped Rodgers win the Most Valuable Player award for the third time.

12

Touchdowns for wide receiver Randall Cobb while playing for the Packers in 2014. After playing for the Dallas Cowboys and Houston Texans the past two seasons, Cobb is back in Green Bay after being traded to the team in late July. The receiver was drafted by the team in the second round of the 2011 NFL Draft.

185

Receiving yards in three preseason games for receiver Malik Taylor, who made the team's initial 53-man roster. Taylor caught 14 passes and his 185 yards were the most of any player this preseason. The receiver had five catches for 66 yards and a touchdown for the team in 2020.

161

Pick number in the 2021 NFL Draft for center Josh Myers, who is expected to start for the team. Myers played collegiately at Ohio State, which is where Corey Linsley — the player Myers is replacing at center — also attended college.

6

The number of weeks left tackle David Bakhtiari will miss, at least, as he starts the year on the physically unable to perform list and works his way back from a knee injury he suffered in practice back on Dec. 31. Elgton Jenkins is expected to move over to left tackle to replace the All-Pro lineman.

12 1/2

Sacks for outside linebacker Za'Darius Smith, which led the team in 2020. Smith has been battling a back injury during training camp and the preseason and could miss the game against the Saints.

5

Sacks in 2020 for outside linebacker Rashan Gary, who registered 2½ of those sacks in the final five regular season games before a 1½ sack game against the Rams in the team's post-season opener. Even if Smith were to play this weekend, Gary is expected to see a larger role on the defense in his third pro season.

122

Career high in tackles for linebacker De'Vondre Campbell back in 2019. Campbell is expected to start at one of the inside linebacker spots for the Packers, with Krys Barnes alongside him.

4.25

The 40-yard dash time for Packers rookie cornerback Eric Stokes. The Packers took Stokes with the 29th pick of the 2021 NFL Draft, hoping to add some speed to the defensive side of the ball and create some more competition in the cornerback room.

Interceptions by cornerback Jaire Alexander against Tom Brady and the Tampa Bay Buccaneers in the NFC title game last season. After another big season, Alexander was named to his first-ever Pro Bowl and was a second-team All-Pro.

45.9

The average punt distance in yards for new punter Corey Bojorquez, who the team acquired from the Rams as the team cut its roster to 53 players. Bojorquez replaces J.K. Scott, who was released.

16

Field goals made and attempted for kicker Mason Crosby in 2020. The 16/16 year set a new franchise record (with a minimum of one attempt per game) for field goal percentage.

KEYS TO THE GAME

By BILL HUBER
Correspondent

The Green Bay Packers (13-3 in 2020) travel to Jacksonville to face the New Orleans Saints (12-4) at 3:25 p.m. on Sept. 12. FOX will televise the game.

History

Packers lead 17-9, including a 37-30 win in New Orleans last season.

With Davante Adams sidelined by injury, Aaron Rodgers was 21-of-32 passing for 283 yards and three touchdowns. Allen Lazard caught six passes for 146 yards and one touchdown, and Za'Darius Smith had a pivotal sack and strip of Taysom Hill in the fourth quarter.

Coaches

Green Bay – Matt LaFleur, 26-6 entering third season. Since the NFL went to a divisional format in 1967, LaFleur and George Seifert are the only coaches in NFL history to win 11-plus games and a division title in each of his first two seasons. New Orleans – Sean Payton, 143-81 entering 15th season. His teams have won 11-plus games four consecutive seasons.

When the Packers have the ball

This will be a clash of the titans. Last season, Green Bay led the NFL in scoring. New Orleans' defense is strong, though. While the Packers piled up 37 points in an empty Superdome in week three, coordinator Dennis Allen's crew finished the season ranked fifth in points allowed (21.1 per game) and fourth in total defense (310.9 yards per game).

In fact, the Saints ranked in the top 10 of every major category with the exception of the red zone. Their defense stopped the run (fourth with 3.85 yards allowed per carry), sacked the quarterback (sixth with a sack rate of 8.08 percent) and forced turnovers (third with 26 takeaways, first with 18 interceptions).

"Dennis Allen is a guy that I've got as much respect for as anybody in this league, just looking at what he's been able to accomplish throughout the course of his career," LaFleur said. "When you watch that defense, man, those guys, they fly around, they attack the football. They're very, very physical. He gives you some challenging looks. Every week, they have a different wrinkle in that there's going to be some unscouted looks out there I know that they're going to be ready for us and we'll do our best to make sure that we're prepared for whatever they might show us."

The Saints have a star at each level of Allen's 4-3 defense.

Up front, six-time Pro Bowl defensive end Cameron Jordan leads the charge. Over the last four seasons, he's recorded 47.5 sacks. He generally rushes against the offensive right tackle, meaning a matchup vs. Billy Turner.

A pair of first-round picks, Marcus Davenport and rookie Payton Turner, and young veterans Carl Granderson and Tanoh Kpassagnon provide outstanding depth on the edge. The Saints aren't as good at defensive tackle, especially with David Onyemata opening the season with a suspension.

All-Pro Demario Davis leads the linebacker corps. Over the last four seasons, he's recorded 475 tackles, 18 sacks and 24 passes defended. Oft-injured veteran Kwon Alexander and former Wisconsin star Zack Baun will flank Davis.

The secondary is much like Green Bay's, with one stud at cornerback (Marshon Lattimore) and outstanding safeties (Malcolm Jenkins, Marcus Williams and Chauncey Gardner-Johnson). The question is at the other cornerback position. The pressure will be on Ken Crawley, who has allowed 10 touchdowns while intercepting only two passes in four seasons, and rookie third-round pick Paulson Adebo.

When the Saints have the ball

In his third tour of duty as a defensive coordinator, Joe Barry has what he lacked at previous stops in Detroit and Washington: Talent. As is the case with New Orleans, Barry has a game-changer on each tier of the defense with defensive tackle Kenny Clark, outside linebackers Za'Darius Smith, Preston Smith and Rashan Gary, cornerback Jaire Alexander, and safeties Adrian Amos and Darnell Savage.

There's a big change in New Orleans. That obviously is at quarterback, with Jameis Winston replacing future Hall of Famer Drew Brees. Stylistically, they could hardly be more different. Brees offset his limited arm strength with robotic efficiency. In each of his final four seasons, he completed better than 70 percent of his passes while tossing only 23 interceptions. In 2019, when Winston started for Tampa Bay, he completed 60.7 percent of his passes and threw a whopping 30 interceptions.

Payton is one of the NFL's great offensive minds, and he'll no doubt play to Winston's strengths while convincing Winston to play with patience.

Winston will play behind one of the best offensive lines in the NFL. Left tackle Terron Armstead and right tackle Ryan Ramczyk form the best tackle tandem in the NFL. They will be imposing road blocks standing between Winston and Green Bay's outside linebackers.

The best player on the field, with the possible exception of Rodgers, will be running back Alvin Kamara. Last season, he rushed for 932 yards (5.0 average), caught 83 passes and scored a league-leading 21 touchdowns. In each of his four seasons, Kamara has caught at least 81 passes. The Packers didn't have anyone capable of stopping Kamara last season, when he carried only six times for 58 yards but caught 13-of-14 passes for 139 yards and two touchdowns, and they don't this season, either. Latavius Murray is an excellent No. 2 back.

Both offenses will be without cornerstones. For Green Bay, it's left tackle David Bakhtiari (knee). For New Orleans, it's receiver Michael Thomas (ankle), who led the NFL in receptions in 2018 and 2019. The projected top three receivers are preseason star Marquez Callaway, kick returner Deonte Harris and Tre'Quan Smith.

Callaway had 21 receptions as a rookie last year, Harris has 26 receptions in two seasons and Smith has 80 receptions in three seasons. That's 147 career receptions; Thomas set an NFL record with 149 receptions in 2019.

Special teams

New Packers special teams

coordinator Maurice Drayton will face a big challenge in his first game running the show.

When LaFleur was hired in 2019, Darren Rizzi was one of his targets to run the special teams. Instead, he was hired by Payton. Last season, while Green Bay finished 29th in Rick Gosselin's annual special teams rankings for SI.com's Talk of Fame Network, New Orleans finished fifth.

Harris handles both phases of returns. The 5-foot-6 dynamo has career averages of 10.3 yards on punt returns and 27.0 yards on kickoff returns. Harris gives the Saints a big edge over Green Bay's rookie returners Kylin Hill (kickoffs) and Amari Rodgers (punts).

Kicker Will Lutz, who has career marksmanship of 86.6 percent on field goals, is starting the season on injured reserve. Aldrick Rosas presumably will be promoted from the practice squad to take over. In his four seasons, he's topped 73 percent only once.

Both teams will have a new punter. Green Bay traded for Corey Bojorquez and dumped J.K. Scott. Bojorquez finished fifth in net average for Buffalo last season. For New Orleans, Blake Gillikin hasn't punted in a regular season game.

NOTEBOOK

The Green Bay Packers offensive and defensive lines collide as quarterback Aaron Rodgers, right, passes the ball during the team's Family Night practice on Aug. 7 at Lambeau Field. The Packers' new-look offensive line will face a stiff test when facing the Saints' pass rush in the season opener.

Shuffling on the line

Last season, according to ESPN.com Stats and Information, the Green Bay Packers' offensive line ranked No. 1 in the NFL in pass-block win rate and No. 1 in the NFL in run-block win rate.

That dominance was powered by two All-Pros, neither of whom will be in the lineup for the week one showdown against the New Orleans Saints. One is center Corey Linsley, who signed with the Los Angeles Chargers in free agency. The other is left tackle David Bakhtiari, who will miss at least the first six games of the season as he recovers from the ACL tear sustained on New Year's Eve.

Can the Packers' front wall, which powered Aaron Rodgers' MVP season and the No. 1 scoring offense in the NFL, be anywhere close to as dominant without those two? Or even adequate?

Pro Bowl left guard Elgton Jenkins will fill Bakhtiari's shoes for the first half of the season. Jenkins had an excellent training camp, but Bakhtiari is a five-time All-Pro and perhaps the best offensive lineman in football. No matter how good Jenkins is, he's almost certainly not going to be as good as Bakhtiari at protecting Rodgers' blind side.

"I'm very confident that he can go do this at a high level," general manager Brian Gutekunst said. "But left tackle in the National Football League is not an easy thing, and this is going to be a challenge for him."

When Bakhtiari suffered broken ribs at San Francisco at midseason last year, Jenkins moved from left guard to left tackle for 27 snaps in the second half. His main experience has come this summer, though, as he served as the No. 1 left tackle throughout training camp. While he didn't play in the three preseason games, his daily reps against Preston Smith and Rashan Gary have gotten him as ready as possible.

"I love it," he said of the team's confidence in him. "It's a challenge to me, going out there and playing at the same standard as Bak did. I love it they had the confidence in me, and I have the confidence in myself to go out there and just keep the ball rolling and hold it down until 69 gets back."

Maybe the problem won't be at left tackle. Rather, if there is a problem, perhaps it will be the domino effect. At left tackle, Jenkins isn't as good as Bakhtiari. At left guard, presumptive starter Lucas Patrick isn't as good as Jenkins. At center, rookie Josh Myers isn't as good as Linsley. At right guard, rookie Royce Newman might not be as good as Patrick. The only stability is at right tackle, with Billy Turner facing perennial Pro Bowler Cameron Jordan right out of the gate.

"I have not experienced two rookies, especially side-by-side like that, starting opening day," coach Matt LaFleur said. "But those guys, they've got a lot of good guys around them, and we've got a lot of confidence in their ability to go out there and perform at a high level. I've thought those guys have done an outstanding job of just kind of learning each and every day. But, ultimately, they've got to go out there and do it."

Maybe LaFleur and Rodgers will be able to navigate any stormy seas. Maybe Myers and Newman will grow quickly into reliable starters. Maybe Jenkins will be so good that he'll be viewed as the best lineman in football by season's end. But, as LaFleur said, confidence and potential aren't the same thing as protecting Rodgers and opening holes for Aaron Jones.

"When you're blocking for a Hall of Fame quarterback like Aaron, it's always a high responsibility for all the five guys on the line," Jenkins said.

"We take pride in blocking for him and making sure he stays up, stays clean, just going there and getting the job done."

Famous Jameis

With the retirement of Drew Brees, the Saints will go into the season with Jameis Winston as the starting quarterback.

The change at quarterback likely means a big change in the Saints' offense.

Last season, Brees' average pass traveled 6.07 yards. Of 35 qualifying quarterbacks, that ranked 34th. In 2019, when Winston was Tampa Bay's quarterback, his average pass traveled 10.36 yards. That ranked second.

Now, obviously, schematic differences play a big role in that. But Winston has a live arm, and Saints coach Sean Payton figures to use it.

"The No. 1 thing is leading your offense and moving the ball and scoring points," Payton said. "We feel like he's got the unique skill-set with his arm talent where he can get the ball down the field. He's done a really good job of working through some of the progressions. A lot of that falls on us (as a coaching staff) now."

With offensive tackles Terron Armstead and Ryan Ramczyk, the Saints should be able to protect Winston for those deeper-developing routes.

That's especially true if Packers outside linebacker Za'Darius Smith isn't ready to go after missing all but one practice in training camp with a back injury. However, with star receiver Michael Thomas on the physically unable to perform list, do the Saints have the weapons to make it go?

No place like road

With New Orleans hit hard by Hurricane Ida, the Saints have been displaced indefinitely from their home at the Superdome. So, this game will be played in Jacksonville.

The Jaguars are on the road for week one and the Saints wanted the game played, A, in the heat and, B, at a less attractive destination for Packers fans.

Whether Packers fans will fill TIAA Bank Stadium, anyway, remains to be seen, but it will be hot.

While the Packers will practice with temperatures hovering around 70 all week, the forecast for Sunday in Jacksonville is a high of 86 with 78 percent humidity. That means a "feels like" temperature of 99.

But at least the Packers, for a second consecutive year, will avoid the Saints' deafening indoor home.

"Being at a neutral site, not being in New Orleans, they have a great fan base, they're loud, the whole nine," Jenkins said.

"Playing at a neutral site, and we'll be able to have our fans, they'll be able to have their fans probably 50-50, you never know. But being able to play at a neutral site, it's kind of an advantage for both teams."

The Green Bay Packers go through drills during the team's Family Night practice as a strong crowd watches on Aug. 7 at Lambeau Field. Instead of having to play the Saints in New Orleans, the Packers will encounter a less hostile crowd in Jacksonville, where Sunday's game against the Saints is being played.
