Suring school board moves forward with daycare need

School board agrees to send out a request for proposals to establish program

By LUKE REIMER

Reporter

The Suring School Board unanimously approved a request for proposals for an onsite daycare at Suring School during its April 12 meeting.

“Since I came here, the board has talked about and feel that it would be a great benefit to Suring and the parents and families in the school district if we could provide a much-needed service of daycare,” said Superintendent Paul Orlich.

The request would be put out to licensed daycare operators who might be willing to come to Suring, Orlich said.

“We would provide the room — we already identified an area of 1,600 square feet,” he said. “It would be highly subsidized in terms for them of overhead. We would cover the building — most likely the majority of utilities, in exchange for them coming in, hiring a daycare program manager, handling all of the staffing and all of the payroll.”

He noted that hours would be 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. to give families a little wiggle room if they work early or if they work later in the day.

“It would be ages 3 and up, which would benefit our play groups in 3K, as well as our 4K,” said Orlich. “That would be for people that reside in our district. Staff would have an option to register their children in it, so it is a further benefit to draw staff for high need positions. I know that some people drive a pretty considerable amount of distance to do that.”

According to Orlich, Lena has operated an on-site daycare for many years in the same fashion that this proposal is set up. He added that the Gillett School District is looking at a similar idea.

“With board approval, the request for proposals would go out and at our May meeting, we could see if there has been any interest,” said Orlich. “If the cards fell right and things worked out, we could possibly be looking at being able to provide daycare services to the families in Suring this upcoming fall.”

If the school district were to run the daycare, they would not be required to have it licensed, Orlich added.

“We are better off if we can get someone else that runs it, then we don’t have to deal with the staffing and all of the headaches,” said Orlich.

Board member Rhonda Stuart questioned if the age limit would eventually move to the birth to 3 range.

“I have no doubt that there is a high demand for birth to 3, however, the licensing requirements, the square footage requirements and the staffing ratio to children at that age level is so high — I don’t think that we would have room for it,” said Orlich.

Stuart said that adding daycare is a step forward to meeting the need of childcare in Suring, but doesn’t fully fulfill the whole need if the birth to 3 age range is excluded.

“In discussions about the childcare need that we need in the community, this is a great step forward, but it is not necessarily filling the need that we were asked to fill to get kids and families into the community and to keep staff here,” said Stuart. “We don’t want to take that off of the table.”

Orlich agreed with Stuart and said that the biggest variable will be to see if there is any interest in partnering with the school district for childcare.

“It is a huge need,” said Orlich. “If there was a way that we could meet that need in a fiscal and responsible matter, I think that we all would say yes.”

He added that the daycare would run all 12 months of the year.

“That provides continuity for families, because they still have jobs in the summer,” said Orlich. “Even on snow days, depending on if the plows can get through the parking lot enough.”

In Suring, the existing kindergarten classroom is two classrooms with a partial wall that is removed in an area of 1,600 square feet. That room is the proposed area for the daycare.

Merciers named parade grand marshals

By NEW MEDIA STAFF

Andy and Jenny Mercier have been named grand marshals of the 2023 Memorial Day parade in Oconto Falls.

Previous owners of the Mercier Hotel, the couple now owns Mercier’s Fastop, the Shell station at 221 N. Chestnut Ave. in Oconto Falls.

“They have given many years of helping organize this event,” said Barb Salscheider of Salscheider’s

Antique Bar, who has sponsored the prize money for the parade over the last couple of years.

The theme for this year’s parade — after honoring fallen veterans — will be any Disney or Pixar movie, Salscheider said.

“I’m sure the children will enjoy this theme, so let’s put some smiles on their faces and make this a great family event to enjoy,” she said making the announcement.

Out-of-town judges will select the prize-winning floats to avoid favoritism, with the best float earning $400, second place $300, third place $200 and fourth place $100.

The May 29 parade is the culmination of the annual Memorial Day Weekend Celebration in Oconto Falls, which includes a 10 a.m. ceremony hosted by local veterans groups.

Other events include a weekend-long softball tournament, the Dash O.F. Color 5K run/walk on May 27, live music, a car show and fireworks.

NWTC selects Raney as new president

Northeast Wisconsin Technical College has named Kristen Raney as the next president of the institution, making her the first female and eighth president in the college's 111-year history.

Raney currently serves as vice chancellor for academic affairs at Eastern Iowa Community Colleges in Davenport, Iowa. She holds more than 20 years of higher education experience at institutions across the Midwest, strengthening shared governance practices and leading innovative models for student success. She earned a Doctor of Education from Edgewood College, a Master of Science from the University of Wisconsin-Stout, and a Bachelor of Arts in English from St. Cloud State University.

Raney will begin her role on July 1, following the retirement of H. Jeffrey Rafn, who served the college and community for 26 years. Rafn's term was one of the longest tenures at NWTC.

"The quality and quantity of candidates spoke volumes to NWTC's reputation in prioritizing student success and creating a culture of excellence," said Cathy Dworak, NWTC board chairwoman. "It was not just Dr. Raney's background that led to the selection by the board, but also her values that aligned with our college's mission and needs of higher education today. We are excited in starting this next chapter in NWTC's promising future."

"I am humbled to be selected as the next president of Northeast Wisconsin Technical College," Raney said. "I am passionate about higher education because it changes lives and strengthens our communities. NWTC's focus on serving its students and preparing a strong workforce is truly impressive. I am deeply honored to be selected as its next leader and to carry on our shared mission for student success."

Raney's selection was the result of a search process that began in fall 2022 and was led by a 19-member search committee with the support of the executive search firm, Academic Search. The search committee included community members, industry partners, and board of trustees.

Founded in 1912, NWTC is a two-year public college serving an estimated 20,000 individuals annually. Its main campus is in Green Bay with regional learning centers in Oconto Falls and Shawano, among other places.

Suring School Board ends dual sports

Commitment, injuries, fairness cited as reasons for ending dual sports

By LUKE REIMER

Reporter

The Suring School Board voted in favor of denying the reconsideration of dual sports in the same sports season during its April 12 meeting.

According to meeting minutes from Oct. 12, the board approved dual sports participation in the same season through the end of the 2023-23 spring sports season, ending the pilot program.

“Most coaches felt that the pilot program should end after the 2022-23 school year,” said Superintendent Paul Orlich. “Only one coach supported dual sports and that was as a parent and not as a coach.”

Orlich said that a survey was given out to each coach in the school district this year about their thoughts on dual-sport athletes, with many coaches highlighting negative effects of playing two sports in the same season.

“Most of the responses reflected the negatives of dual sports, primarily around equity, fairness for other athletes, parental pressures and student health and well-being,” said Orlich. “There is a reason that a lot of districts do not have dual sports and they are for these similar reasons. Coaches, from their comments, included unfair to other teammates, commitment and dedication, unfair to coaches having to revise schedules and practices for one person, unhealthy — mentally and physically and too much on an adolescent’s developing body.”

In the 2022-23 school year, Orlich said that just three students in the Suring School District competed in dual sports. He said that those involved in two sports suffered physical injuries due to be involved in multiple sports.

Other points that Orlich touched on were consideration for parents of the dual sport athletes and the playing expectations they have and parents of other athletes and the lack of playing time from their child.

“We have to think about those students and parents as well — how come this person gets to play, but my child is at practice every night and doesn’t get to play,” said Orlich, hypothetically.

Using this information, Orlich said that, through his perspective, dual sports have not worked and should be ended in Suring.

“Students can participate in multiple sports in the same school year, just not during the same season,” said Orlich. “Most schools that do have dual sports is because the student is involved in an individual sport, such as golf and not team sports.”

Moving forward, Orlich said that he will not be entertaining requests for the topic of dual sport athletes to be added to future school board agendas.

Suring resident Mike Van Den Elzen said that his son, Trent, has participated in dual sports for the last two years while following guidelines set for him. Van Den Elzen told the board that having students involved in dual sports teaches them life lessons that can be used down the road.

“There is so much information about it out there and how it benefits people for time management,” said Van Den Elzen.

In the case of his son, Van Den Elzen said that it would have no affect to anyone in the district for his son to participate in dual sports.

“I am wondering when the last time was that the school district took away a zero cost, non-required option for children,” said Van Den Elzen. “We are not talking about spending money — there is not any coach that is going to quit.”

Board member Gary Regal said that when the board originally voted in favor of dual sports two years ago, that it was under the context of it being a pilot program. He added that taking away dual sports has caused some to say that students are missing out on opportunities. Regal retorted saying that having someone playing two sports in one season takes opportunities away from others.

“I coached for 30 years. My players’ handbook would not allow (dual sports),” said Regal. “I allow kids to miss practice for three reasons; they can miss for a family emergency, they can miss for a health reason, or academic advancement. It is clearly stated that you can’t miss for something else, or you will get consequences.”

In regards to taking opportunities away from students, Regal said that students in the school district have many opportunities outside of the sports that they can pursue.

“We have added a great chemistry lab recently, we have added a welding shop — we have added super, super opportunities for virtual learning, we are adding a greenhouse and a learning center,” said Regal. “For a small school, we are giving opportunities. We are not taking them away.”

Board member Cathy Lundgren said that for dual sports the one spot that she could see it is at the junior high level.

“By the time they are in high school, they know what their preferred sport is,” said Lundgren. “They go out for the other sports to keep them in condition for the sport that they love to do.”

Board member Rhonda Stuart said that she agrees that it is the school board’s job is to consider all of the students and families in the district.

“I agree with Gary (Regal) that we have worked hard at trying to add things, whether it be academically, sports-related or club-related,” said Stuart.

The school board unanimously voted in favor of denying the reconsideration of dual sports, with board member Wendy Wozniak absent.

Road agreement with county approved

Vehicles travel April 13 along County Road B, just west of the Waukechon Street intersection. The city of Shawano and Shawano County plan to reconstruct the road that runs through the city for the first time in 25 years.

LEE PULASKI | NEW MEDIA

Details on County B intersections at SCHS need to be worked out

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

An agreement between the city of Shawano and Shawano County to reconstruct County Road B between Waukechon Street and Airport Road was approved April 12 by the Shawano Common Council after considerable discussion.

The estimated cost for the project is currently $395,000, with the city paying a flat fee of $146,500, down from the $230,000 the city had budgeted. The county will be responsible for the travel lanes, while the city is paying for the parking lanes and paved shoulders.

The project will include 2 inches of milling and overlaying from Main Street to Evergreen Street and pulverize and relay the remainder of County B to Airport Road. From Evergreen Street to Waukechon Street, there will be 3-foot paved shoulders. However, consideration is being made on a couple of additional items to help with the traffic jams that take place twice daily at Shawano Community High School. With before-and after-school traffic being an issue, there's a possibility that a crosswalk warning system could go at the north entrance to the high school, similar to what has been installed on Main and Green Bay streets at the intersections for the Mountain Bay Trail, along with redesigning the school's entrance at Evergreen Street.

The traffic issue generated the most discussion about the project, with city officials and council members agreeing that it's a zoo during those times getting through that area.

"We're in talks with the school district and the county to get a pedestrian signal at Lincoln (Street)," said Scott Kroening, public works director, adding that the cost for such a signal is estimated to be about $30,000. "We're hoping for a three-way split on that."

Kroening added that he is talking with Grant Bystol, county highway commissioner, about the Evergreen entrance to see what could be done.

"It's difficult for them to get out of there in a timely manner," Kroening said. "I don't know if we can help them a whole lot, but we've got a couple of ideas like some acceleration lanes and some left-turn lanes."

The suggestion of a roundabout at either entrance prompted Kroening to point out that the price tag for such a venture would be around $1 million, more than double the entire County B budget. Kroening said a roundabout at the Evergreen entrance would severely impact the yards of the homeowners on those corners, while having one at the Lincoln entrance would impact a Shawano Municipal Utilities substation and a gas utilities substation for We Energies.

"We looked at it a little bit, and then the cost came into it," Kroening said.

City Administrator Eddie Sheppard said the school intersection issues need to be discussed further between the city and the county and would come back to the council at a later date.

Alderswoman Sandy Steinke agreed the traffic at the beginning and end of school days is a problem, noting that some people cut through the parking lot for offices between the high school and ThedaCare Medical Center because they don't want to wait in a long line.

"People go through the parking lot, and we've had people who have almost been hit by cars," Steinke said.

Alderman Jim Hauer pointed out that traffic is also a problem on County B at the Main Street intersection, where it turns back to being state Highway 22 going toward the Town of Belle Plaine.

Sheppard noted that current traffic numbers aren't high enough to warrant a roundabout at that intersection but could cross the threshold in the future.

"Those numbers are increasing," Sheppard said. "The next time they review that location, it could meet those warrants, which means the project could be in motion. It's their determination unless we're willing to pay for it locally."

He added that the cost for the city to do the roundabout itself, set to state standards, would be more than the city's current capital improvements budget.

The last time County B was reconstructed was in 1998 through another joint agreement between the city and the county.

Smart Labs eyed to enhance SCMS learning

Shawano Community Middle School principal William Traber, right, describes what will come with the Smart Labs being proposed for his school April 17 while Superintendent Kurt Krizan listens. LEE PULASKI | NEW MEDIA

Program would cost $235K initially with an annual cost to maintain

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

A proposal to equip two classrooms at Shawano Community Middle School with Smart Lab equipment to further enrich students' learning options generated some discussion at the April 17 Shawano School Board meeting.

The setup for the two classrooms is expected to cost $235,000 initially, with an additional $7,000 annually to maintain, according to SCMS principal William Traber. The district first learned about the Smart Labs at a recent education convention and felt it would be a good use of the third round of Elementary and Secondary School Emergency Relief funds that schools have to spend soon.

The district has more than $3.4 million from the ESSER funding left to spend, and with the caveat that 20% of those funds, around $680,000, have to be spent on evidence-based curriculum items, administrators thought the Smart Labs would be a good investment.

"This is bringing 21st century learning strategies," Traber said.

Both classrooms would be outfitted with items that target the subjects of science, technology, engineering and math (STEM). In one classroom, students would be learning about robots, wind experiments, bridge design and more. In the other, a studio would be created to allow for video production, where students could develop commercials; record video yearbooks; produce music albums, news segments and podcasts; and even film feature-length movies, all with the help of professional-grade equipment.

Traber said that the Smart Lab equipment would help achieve the district's efforts to get students ready for college and careers, and it would do so in an earlier period of development, instead of students having to wait until high school to explore various technological and engineering careers.

"This is my way of getting a grassroots effort to bring those pathways down to the middle school, and so if they start working in the trades or they start working in automotive, they have some of the skills developed, and they have the opportunities at the middle school to start developing that logical way of thinking and those problem solving skills," Traber said. "This will implement equity in education."

Traber added that the Smart Labs would help to engage students and allow them to see themselves in their learning through hands-on projects, as opposed to lectures in a classroom and tests.

"When we have the students buy in when they come through those doors and they're excited to go to class, then they feel like they're a part of something," Traber said.

Pat Salstrand, sales manager for Creative Learning Solutions, which oversees the Smart Labs, said the labs are turnkey, with learning kits stored in plastic bins for easy access. He noted that the labs are organized so students know immediately where to go to get materials for a specific project.

"We work with over 90 different vendors, whether it's bringing in robotics or environmental science probes or working with Adobe and having kids doing animation," Salstrand said. "What we don't want teachers to do is have to say: 'Oh, I'm going to do this activity, but I have 42 consumables I have to track down, and I have to find all these things to make this happen.' We're going to provide you with all the materials you will need for those students to be successful with those activities."

Salstrand noted that many people, when they think of STEM, assume it's limited to coding and robotics, but the Smart Labs go beyond that.

"Maybe when I get into coding, I think that maybe it's not my cup of tea, but when I get into graphic design and animation and I'm coding there, I'm coding for a purpose," Salstrand said. "It's not going to be so much instructional as it is a house for all of their content that they're creating. The majority of the time, when you walk into a Smart Lab, you know it's a little bit more chaotic because there's a lot of activity, but students are doing things. You're never going to walk in, and it's a quiet Smart Lab."

Although most on the school board seemed intrigued by the proposal, board member Mart Grams did not see the value of spending so much money on the Smart Labs when the district is seeing reduced funding overall because the student population is shrinking. He suggested that the money would be better spent hiring teachers.

"Special projects get whatever they want," Grams said. "This is cute. For $25, I would buy this for my granddaughter. None of that stuff is going to make them a citizen."

The Smart Labs were presented for information only, and the board will vote on whether to purchase the materials at a later date.

City approves grass-growing effort

No Mow May losing appeal after one year in Shawano

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

Shawano Alderman Kevin Barkow was full of enthusiasm last year when he proposed to the Shawano Common Council allowing residents to grow their grass a little bit higher in May amid thoughts of saving the bee population.

Barkow was less enthusiastic when he spoke to the council about doing No Mow May again this year in the wake of similar efforts in the city of Appleton losing steam. The metropolitan community is considering cutting the program altogether because advocates pushing for the measure don't have data showing that it's making a difference in attracting bees, a vital insect for pollination.

Shawano homeowners can still participate, as the council approved the resolution on a 4-2 vote. Alderman Jim Hauer and Alderwoman Sandy Steinke voted against the measure.

Although he voted for the measure, Barkow expressed disappointment that the proposal did not provide the environmental benefits it had promised.

"I have gotten conflicting information about the benefits of No Mow May," Barkow said. "When I contacted the city of Appleton (in 2022), they thought it was the greatest thing since sliced bread. Now, they're trying to get rid of it."

Barkow said no scientific proof has materialized to show having lawns with taller grass benefits bees in any way. He noted it tends to benefit residents who wait to mow their lawns even though the city has laws dictating how tall the grass can be, with the current requirements being 8 inches.

"Now they can have an excuse to not mow their lawn," Barkow said. "I don't know if it's in our best interest."

Scott Kroening, public works director, said that there was not much of an increase in grass clippings in 2022 after Shawano's first No Mow May and that he was fine with the program either way.

"We didn't have an issue," Kroening said.

Barkow noted that he drove around the city last May, and it did not appear many homes were participating in the program.

"A lot of people were out putting pesticides on the grass, which obviously does bees no good at all," Barkow said.

Mayor Bruce Milavitz noted he saw the same reports out of Appleton, whose council has not yet made a decision on whether to continue the program.

"It's a choice we're giving people," Milavitz said. "I'm happy to go with whatever you guys want to do."

Hauer said he was ambivalent to the idea when it was first presented, and with the program not producing what was promised, it didn't make sense to keep it going.

"It's just a grace period for people who didn't want to upkeep their lawn," Hauer said. "I don't think it does anything for the bees. The bees find their stuff anywhere they can."

Betley Farms seeks to double animal units

Betley Farms near Pulaski proposed an expansion from 3,894 animal units to 8,117 animal units, in order to set the future generations of the farm up for success. Included in the proposal is a description of the use of farm digesters, which will help to reduce odor and treat waste.

LUKE REIMER | NEW MEDIA

Other expansion upgrades include three new barns, manure treatment facility

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

The Shawano County Land Conservation Department hosted a public informational meeting on April 13 regarding the expansion of a farm in Pulaski.

Owned by Jeff Betley, Betley Farms, W1630 Redwood Drive and W2227 Cedar Drive, Pulaski, is looking to double its herd from 3,894 animal units to 8,117 animal units. An animal unit is a measurement of how an animal influences a farm through food and waste. A larger animal, like a fully grown cow, usually has an animal unit that is larger than one.

Shawano County Conservationist Scott Frank kicked off the meeting by explaining that this meeting is scheduled to hear public input on the proposed farm expansion. For those who attended the meeting on April 13 and for those who didn't, but still want to voice their opinion, Frank said that the county is accepting comments and questions through April 24.

"This meeting is being conducted to provide an explanation of the application for expanded live stock facilities and to receive public input on the application," said Frank.

Frank added that the land conservation department has a 90-day window to make a decision on the proposal, something that he said probably won't take all 90 days.

Betley said that he and his wife have two children in college who are interested in coming back to the area to run the farm.

"This is really about setting up the next generation," said Betley. "This process started two years ago with a thought on how we could handle waste better."

He explained that Betley Farms is looking to change some things around their farm in order to continue a digesting process on the farm. A digesting process on a farm involves breaking down organic materials, like manure, in order to treat waste and reduce odor.

"All of the stuff being built now is to take that methane, make it into pipeline-grade renewable natural gas and then push it into the system," said Betley. "The digester has more room for cows if need be, but we can do what we are doing, or we can add cows. It really depends on the next generation for us. We will make sure that they are set up to succeed as much as we can."

North Coast Power Systems Vice President of Engineering Darrin

Shersted said the digesting process further, saying that this upgrade will be beneficial to the farm.

"The manure would go into the digesters and emit bio-gasses — it is pretty dirty and has some impurities in it, so that would be upgraded on the farm," said Shersted. "In terms of pipeline quality, it would be the same stuff — identical to natural gas coming out of Texas or Oklahoma."

Betley added that the odor is what the farm is looking at eliminating.

"Anytime you are on a dairy farm and you smell manure, that is gas that could have been collected," said Shersted. "It is in Jeff's ultimate interest to have as minimal smell as possible, because that means every molecule of gas that could have been made on the farm is being collected."

Shersted said that there are plans to put in a small treatment facility to turn some of the manure into clean water.

"That could be reused on the farm or discharged to a stream," said Shersted.

He went on to explain that in the proposal next to the three existing barns at the Redwood Drive location, a fourth and fifth barn would be included on the farm. Also in the proposal, Betley walked through a proposed barn at the Cedar Drive location.

"One of our pet projects is high-end genetics," said Betley. "We have to figure out not to be a commodity producer. We do raise high-end genetics for two bull-studs and part of our proposal, if we put that barn up would be to do a lot of embryo work and embryo transfers. There is some opportunity to making some money helping the industry with the genetic process. It is more of a lab with cattle housing."

In regards to the odor score, Shersted said the farm's odor score comes out to 763. The Wisconsin state law dictates that a score of 500 or more is passing.

"Anaerobic digestion would be a controlled practice, now the diet manipulation is a controlled practice to reduce odor," said Shersted. "(Diet manipulation) would just be a more specific look of what you are feeding your cows. Everything that you are putting into your cows is extremely well thought out, calculated and is an exact match of what you need to take care of the cows for milk production."

YOUR RIGHT TO KNOW

End Wisconsin's secretive 'pocket veto'

Recently, Wisconsin Watch revealed how members of the Wisconsin Legislature's powerful budget committee secretly hold up projects or programs they don't like.

They often do so, reporter Jacob Resneck found, without following a state law that requires the committee to schedule a hearing within 14 working days of such an objection. The hearings are designed to let the public, stakeholders and other lawmakers debate the merits of the expenditure.

Even in cases where a hearing is held, agencies and interested parties may not be allowed to speak.

The effect is a secretive "pocket veto" over projects and programs, ranging in recent years from $15.5 million for recreational access along the Pelican River, to a historic fraternity house remodel in Madison, to a $17.5 million program to encourage low-income Wisconsinites on Medicaid to become vaccinated — all without a public hearing or explanation.

DEE J. HALL

Backers of some of these projects say they are left in the dark about who is objecting or why, with no opportunity to address concerns. "There's no transparency to the process, obviously. We don't even know where to go," said Bart Kocha, director of a nonprofit whose grant to restore an historic mansion near Madison's Lake Mendota was secretly blocked without a hearing.

Republicans who run the Legislature have used the maneuver more frequently in recent years, Resneck found, especially to halt recreational or conservation projects. But these anonymous vetoes have been around for years, used by both Republican and Democratic lawmakers.

That doesn't make it right.

This stealth maneuver also opens the door to corruption. Imagine the power a lawmaker wields by single-handedly and secretly blocking a project that a person or group has worked months or years to bring to fruition. What would that lawmaker want in return for lifting the objection?

This is not a theoretical threat.

In 2002, then-Senate Majority Leader Chuck Chvala, D-Madison, was charged with extortion for pressuring backers and opponents of an historic preservation project to donate to state Senate candidates of Chvala's choosing. Both sides coughed up money to win Chvala's approval, according to the criminal complaint. The extortion charge was later dismissed as part of a plea deal, but Chvala still ended up being sentenced to nine months in jail for other offenses.

In his 2023-25 budget, Gov. Tony Evers is proposing to do away with this secretive process when it comes to conservation and recreational projects paid for by stewardship funds. GOP lawmakers have already vowed to rip up the document and start over, leaving little chance the Legislature will adopt Evers' idea.

This is not the only stealth move lawmakers use. They also can add anonymously authored amendments to the state budget, which carries its own opportunity for mischief.

The Wisconsin Freedom of Information Council's "Legislative Wish List" includes a call to lawmakers to "prohibit any rule, motion, bill or amendment from being introduced without a clearly identified sponsor and cosponsors."

Lawmakers have the chance to do the right thing — and finally let some sunlight into their murky budget process.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

County board yielded to intimidation

To the editor:

The Shawano County Board of Supervisors adopted Resolution No. 13-21, which supported the people's Second Amendment right to keep and bear arms. A rough-looking group of individuals attended the board meeting and intimidated most of the County Board to vote for this resolution. The individuals at the meeting looked like the Shawano County chapter of the national Proud Boys. No other county board in Wisconsin adopted a similar resolution except Florence County.

There have been over 70 mass shooting incidents in the United States this year, a condition no other nation in the world experiences. Many of the individuals who did the shootings had personal problems, grudges against others, or previous incidents that were violent in which a gun was used.

Often their behavior threatened others, while having in their possession large amounts of various types of weapons and ammunition that, if used, could be dangerous to the general public.

If a state had a red flag law, these types of individuals could be reported to local authorities and an assessment of their mental and emotional condition to have such weapons would be made by a judicial authority and removed from their possession until judged competent to possess weapons again. Former Sheriff Adam Bieber said he would not enforce a red flag law in Shawano County because it denied due process to the perceived dangerous gun-owning individual.

The Shawano County Board defaulted on the safety of the citizens of Shawano County by passing the resolution endangering our children and the safety of the general public.

STATE OF WISCONSIN
Town of Morgan
Oconto County

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Review for the Town of Morgan, Oconto County, Wisconsin, shall hold its first meeting on Wednesday May 24, 2023 from 09:00 AM to 11:00 AM, at the Morgan Town Hall, 3276 County Road C, Oconto Falls, WI 54154.

Please be advised of the following requirements to appear before the board of review and procedural requirements if appearing before the board:

No person will be allowed to appear before the board of review, to testify to the board by telephone, or to contest the amount of any assessment of real or personal property if the person has refused a reasonable written request by certified mail of the assessor to enter onto property to conduct an exterior view of such property being assessed.

After the first meeting of the board of review and before the board's final adjournment, no person who is scheduled to appear before the board of review may contact or provide information to a member of the board about the person's objection, except at a session of the board. Open book shall occur no less than 7 days prior to the board of review.

The board of review may not hear an objection to the amount or valuation of property unless, at least 48 hours before the board's first scheduled meeting, the objector provides to the board's clerk written or oral notice of an intent to file an objection, except that upon a showing of good cause and the submission of a written objection, the board shall waive that requirement during the first 2 hours of the board's first scheduled meeting, and the board may waive that requirement up to the end of the 5th day of the session or up to the end of the final day of the session if the session is less than 5 days with proof of extraordinary circumstances for failure to meet the 48-hour notice requirement and failure to appear before the board of review during the first 2 hours of the first scheduled meeting.

Objections to the amount or valuation of property shall first be made in writing and filed with the clerk of the board of review within the first 2 hours of the board's first scheduled meeting, except that, upon evidence of extraordinary circumstances, the board may waive that requirement up to the end of the 5th day of the session or up to the end of the final day of the session if the session is less than 5 days. The board may require objections to the amount or valuation of property to be submitted on forms approved by the Department of Revenue, and the board shall require that any forms include stated valuations of the property in question. Persons who own land and improvements to that land may object to the aggregate valuation of that land and improvements to that land, but no person who owns land and improvements to that land may object only to the valuation of that land or only to the valuation of improvements to that land. No person may be allowed in any action or proceedings to question the amount or valuation of property unless the written objection has been filed and that person in good faith presented evidence to the board in support of the objections and made full disclosure before the board, under oath, of all of that person's property liable to assessment in the district and the value of that property. The requirement that objections be in writing may be waived by express action of the board.

When appearing before the board of review, the objecting person shall specify in writing the person's estimate of the value of the land and of the improvements that are the subject of the person's objection and specify the information that the person used to arrive at that estimate.

No person may appear before the board of review, testify to the board by telephone, or object to a valuation if that valuation was made by the assessor or the objector using the income method of valuation, unless no later than 7 days before the first meeting of the board of review the person supplies the assessor with all the information about income and expenses, as specified in the assessor's manual under s. 73.03 (2a), Wis. stats., that the assessor requests.

The board shall hear upon oath, by telephone, all ill or disabled persons who present to the board a letter from a physician, surgeon, or osteopath that confirms their illness or disability. No other persons may testify by telephone unless the Board, in its discretion, has determined to grant a property owner's or their representative's request to testify under oath by telephone or written statement.

No person may appear before the board of review, testify to the board by telephone, or contest the amount of any assessment unless, at least 48 hours before the first meeting of the board, or at least 48 hours before the objection is heard if the objection is allowed under s.70.47 (3) (a), Wis. stats., that person provides to the clerk of the board of review notice as to whether the person will ask for the removal of a member of the board of review and, if so, which member, and provides a reasonable estimate of the length of time the hearing will take.

Notice is hereby given this 12 day of April 2023.

WHAT IS A RURAL HEALTH CLINIC?

AND DID YOU KNOW WE HAVE FIVE OF THEM IN OCONTO COUNTY?

Chris Brabant, FACHE
President and Chief Executive Officer
HSHS St. Clare Memorial Hospital

In 1977, the Rural Health Clinic Services Act was passed by lawmakers to increase medical care to rural residents by improving health care access. To receive certification from the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services, RHCs must be in rural, underserved areas and are required to use a team approach of physicians working with non-physician providers, known as advanced practice providers, such as nurse practitioners (NP), physician assistants (PA) and certified nurse midwives (CNM) to provide primary medical care and basic medical laboratory services. These clinics must be staffed at least 50% of the time with an advanced practice provider.

Historically, rural communities have been challenged with attracting and keeping health care professionals, especially physicians. This results in people unable to access timely health care in rural communities because of the low ratio of health care providers to the number of residents in these areas. This team approach between the physician and the advance practice provider means you have access to more appointment times, thus having the ability to see a medical provider in a timely manner.

Advanced practice providers work closely with physicians, are highly educated and are well qualified to take care of your health care needs. The physician/advanced practice provider team works together to ensure you receive well-organized, high-quality care every time you are seen at one of our Rural Health Clinics or Health Centers.

The Rural Health Clinic (RHC) program is intended to increase access to primary care medical services for people in rural communities. RHCs provide primary medical care and basic laboratory services.

All five HSHS St. Clare Memorial Hospital Prevea Health rural health centers - Oconto Falls, Lena, Gillett, Suring and Mountain - are RHCs and go through an annual process to be Rural Health Certified. In addition to location, services and staffing requirements, RHCs must also meet requirements for adhering to quality standards, policies and procedures, managing patient medical records, ensuring proper documentation and facility inspections.

HSHS also offers Pharmacy and Prescription Services at two retail pharmacies and three prescription service locations. Retail pharmacies sell prescription and over-the-counter medications, and have a pharmacist on site. Retail pharmacies are located within HSHS St. Clare Memorial Hospital and Pat's Market in Gillett. Prescription Services are offered in Lena, Mountain and Pulaski. These locations operate as an extension of our retail pharmacies and are for prescriptions only. The Prescription Services sites are staffed with experienced pharmacy technicians on site who are supervised by a pharmacist who verifies all prescriptions dispensed.

What this means for you, is that by maintaining our Rural Health Certification for these five health centers, HSHS St. Clare Memorial Hospital and Prevea Health are committed to providing high quality and timely health care services in Oconto County. While the Prevea Oconto Health Center is not designated as an RHC, primary care, lab and other medical services are offered there too. We are proud to be your neighbors throughout Oconto County and look forward to being here to serve your health care needs for years to come.

HIGH SCHOOL SOFTBALL

Pulaski routs Southwest in home opener

Well-rounded effort leads to win in four innings

By MORGAN RODE
Sports Editor

The Pulaski High School softball had just about everything go right in its 16-0 win in four innings over Fox River Classic Conference opponent Green Bay Southwest on April 14 in Pulaski.

Pulaski scored multiple runs in every inning, clubbed three home runs, saw pitcher Morgan Vertz throw a no-hitter and got strong defensive play behind her. It was about as perfect a home opener as the Red Raiders could dream up.

The only inning Vertz didn't completely dominate was the first, when she walked three batters. She got out of the inning by striking out three batters.

Vertz settled in from that point on, as just one more baserunner reached — on an error in the fourth. The junior, who is committed to the University of Northern Iowa, finished the game with 10 strikeouts.

"So I talked to coach after that first inning and I was like, 'the umpire is not calling the outside strike.' So obviously with my pitching coach, I have to adjust with that because you can't use both sides of the plate for strikes," said Vertz. "I just knew I had to settle in to just get more outs for the team."

Her team helped her out by putting up four runs in the bottom of the inning.

Hailey Wiedeman singled with one out before Vertz clubbed a home run over the left field fence. A few pitches later, Cassie Benberg hit another home run, this time to left-center field. Madeline Christenson capped the inning with a single that scored Haleigh Oleson.

"It's really nice, like obviously the home run from me and Cassie in the first inning, it really helps take the pressure off — and knowing that I have my players behind me," said Vertz. "It just really takes the pressure off and allows me to relax and do my job (in the circle)."

After three Vertz strikeouts in the second, the Red Raiders scored three runs in their half of the inning to go ahead 7-0.

Molly Molthen started the inning with a single before Wiedeman reached on an error. Both players scored on an error after a flyball to center from Vertz. Benberg followed with a sacrifice fly to plate courtesy runner Madison Boldt.

"Going into this game we wanted to win obviously and we knew we had the means to do so," said Benberg. "I think that we just took care of the ball on defense, really trusted our pitcher and catcher and let them do the things they know how to do, and took care of the ball at the plate and really took advantage of the pitches that we got."

After another quick inning and three more Vertz strikeouts, Pulaski scored three times in the third to push out to a 10-0 lead.

Alina Wolfe singled with one out before Molthen ripped a liner down the right-field line that turned into an inside-the-park homer.

"It was definitely fun," said Molthen of the homer. "Contributing to the score is always great."

Wiedeman followed with a single and came around to score on a double by Benberg.

Vertz put up another zero on the scoreboard in the fourth, and it turned out to be the last time that Pulaski had to take the field on defense after the bats scored six runs in the bottom of the frame to close out the game.

The Red Raiders had several extra-base hits in the inning, but went pretty much station-to-station after reaching second.

Boldt doubled in Paige Abendroth for the first run before Molthen doubled in Christenson. Ella Killinger also doubled, plating Boldt. Vertz nearly left the park for a second time, but settled for a double that scored Molthen. Benberg followed with a single to drive in Killinger.

While the Killinger run should have ended the game because Pulaski had reached a 15-run lead after three-plus innings, a scoreboard error kept the game going. Benberg scored on a dropped third strike for the 16th run of the contest, at which point the scoreboard read 15-0 and the game was called.

"Honestly, this just gives us more of a solid foundation and more of a notion that we can do this and can beat teams of all levels and in all circumstances," said Benberg of the all-around win. "It just further proves that all of our hard work does pay off."

Bowler doubles up Gresham for 1st win

Panthers pull away late

By MORGAN RODE
Sports Editor

The Bowler High School baseball team earned its first win of the season after doubling up Gresham 14-7 in a Central Wisconsin Conference-North Division contest on April 13 in Gresham.

Bowler built a 6-2 lead after four innings and then used a pair of four-run frames in the sixth and seventh to pull away for good.

“Finally — it feels good because we got 10-run ruled the last two games, that didn’t feel too good. This one definitely feels good, especially beating a rival,” said Bowler’s Tully Kroening of the win.

“It feels good to finally get a win under our belt so we can build off this momentum and keep our heads up because we know what we can play to. Hopefully we can use that to go forward and also learn from our mistakes, like not talking on the field and stuff like that.”

Kroening led Bowler at the plate with three hits and three RBIs. He scored four of the team’s runs.

Kroening pushed across the first run of the game after reaching on an error in the top of the first. Danian Schultz scored the run.

Gavin Klose was up next and also reached on an error, allowing Karter Kolpack to cross home plate. Later in the frame, Kroening scored on a passed ball.

Gresham scored an unearned run of its own in the bottom of the frame, as Bryson Nelson scored after a dropped third strike and Bowler throwing error.

After a couple scoreless half-innings, Bowler tacked on two runs in the third.

Kroening was hit by a pitch to start the inning and scored with two outs after Logan Windorski singled. An error on a Gage Wanta fly ball allowed Windorski to score, making it 5-1.

Gresham responded with a run in the bottom of the frame. Robert Kaquatosh drove in Kale James with one out.

Bowler got the run right back in the fourth. After the first out of the inning was made at the plate after a passed ball, Kroening drove in Marcus Malone. A big inning was thwarted after a popup and another out at the plate after a passed ball.

Gresham tightened the game back up with two runs in the bottom of the fifth.

James walked with one out before stealing second. He scored after a booming Kaquatosh double. Triston Olson plated Kaquatosh with two outs to make it a 6-4 ballgame.

“It just means our team has a lot of potential, putting up seven runs,” said Kaquatosh. “If we can fix the fielding, those are game-winning numbers up there (on the scoreboard). We had mistakes — easy fixes, easy wins for our team.”

Bowler regained control after its four-run frames in the sixth and seventh innings.

Schultz scored the first run in the sixth after Gresham threw to first base to secure a dropped third strike. Kroening followed with a RBI single, plating Malone. Kroening scored the third run after a double steal with Klose, who then scored on an error.

In the seventh, Derek Schreiber drove in Kolpack with a single before Windorski was plunked by a pitch with the bases loaded, scoring Kroening. Wanta followed with a walk that plated Klose and then Michael Miller was hit by a pitch, allowing Schreiber to score.

Kaquatosh capped a big game at the plate for Gresham with a RBI single in the seventh, scoring Nelson. Wyatt Neitzer plated James on a fielder’s choice before Kaquatosh scored the game’s final run.

Kolpack earned the win on the mound for Bowler after striking out five batters over five innings.

“Basically, I just try to do as best as I can for my teammates,” said

Kolpack of his pitching outing. “Just as the game goes along, I kind of learn what the batters are up to, how my catcher will respond to it and how my pitches will break and won’t. So as the game goes, I seem to get kind of stronger.”

“Even if one of my teammates makes an error, it’s an unearned run, but it doesn’t bother me,” he continued. “I have faith in my teammates for making the next play.”

Malone earned the save after working the final two frames for the Panthers.

Gresham used four pitchers to get through the contest.

Wanbli Spotted War Bonnett started and pitched three innings before Nietzer got the next nine outs. Nelson and James each pitched in the seventh frame.

Marion High School's baseball team opened its spring season with a 7-0 win over Central Wisconsin Conference-North Division rival Tigerton on April 10 in Marion.

Marion's Jaden Stuhr and Nick Malueg combined for a no-hitter on the mound as the team looks to back up its conference title from a season ago. The duo struck out 12 batters along the way.

"It's great. We have big goals for ourselves in conference and play-offs, but to get that first win is great — not just only for the team, but for the whole community," said Stuhr. "It helps everyone know that we're back and we're not going nowhere."

"It's amazing to be a part of it," said Malueg of the no-hitter. "Stuhr is an amazing pitcher, committed to Stevens Point as you know. But it's definitely cool to be right behind him to finish off the innings he can't."

Stuhr started the game and worked himself out of a jam in the first inning before getting through 4 2/3 innings and being lifted at 75 pitches.

Tigerton's Colby Wanta walked and then moved up to second when Loghan Wanta reached on a fielder's choice. A walk from Alex Soper loaded the bases with no outs still.

Stuhr induced a popup that turned into a double play and then got a strikeout to work out of trouble.

Stuhr only allowed one more baserunner the rest of his outing, with Colby Wanta reaching on an error. Stuhr finished with 10 strikeouts.

Malueg walked three batters, but he struck out a pair and induced several groundouts to finish off the contest.

Malueg led off the bottom of the first inning with a walk before stealing a couple bases and eventually scoring on a Ryan Malueg ground-out.

Jay Brei added to the hosts' lead with a single in the third that scored Stuhr and Ryan Malueg.

Stuhr delivered the knockout blow in the fourth with a bases-clearing triple; then he scored later in the frame to make it 7-0. Braxton Genskow, Logan Zeitlow and Nick Malueg scored on Stuhr's triple.

Marion let some other scoring chances slip by, but there was still plenty of smiles and good vibes coming from the home team's dugout as a busy and fast season got underway.

"With all the cancellations, this is definitely a season that's going to be a lot of three-game weeks. So it's going to be a struggle; it's going to be a little bit of a different year," said Nick Malueg. "One game at a time, and tempo, that's the way we're looking into this season."

Tigerton used several pitchers to get through the contest, starting with Colby Wanta on the mound.

Colby Wanta led the Tigers at the plate by reaching base in three of his four plate appearances.

"That we can hang with these guys, we know we can," said Colby Wanta on what the team can take away from the game. "First game of the year, a little nerves and jitters and all that. Pretty much, we just got to get our bats rolling and get on base when we can and score."

He added that some of the team's mistakes were by first-time varsity players, but he wasn't concerned long-term.

"We'll be better next time against them for sure," said Colby Wanta.

ATHLETE PROFILE: ABBY SWARTZ

Tigerton senior hopes to help team win conference

The Tigerton High School softball team hopes to compete for a Central Wisconsin Conference-North Division title this spring.

Senior Abby Swartz figures to play a big role in the team's success after making the CWC-North first team in each of the past two springs.

In the team's doubleheader against Marion on April 10, Swartz scored twice in game one and then got on base five times in game two, while also scoring twice and driving in one.

Q: When did your interest in softball begin?

A: I started being interested in softball at a young age. I had grown up watching my older cousins (Quinn Hoyord, Brianne Huettnr) play, so I knew I wanted to play too. As soon as I was eligible to play, my parents (Eric and Kelley Strike, Josh Swartz) signed me up, and I started playing. Ever since then, I've been hooked.

Q: What has softball taught you over the years?

A: Softball has taught me that everyone on the team is equally important. Without eight other girls on the field, I wouldn't be able to compete or excel. I am extremely thankful for every girl on my team.

Q: What is your favorite thing to do on the softball field, and why?

A: I love catching. I've been catching since my early days of playing, and it is by far my favorite position. Being the catcher means being the leader and keeping everyone on the field on the same page (hopefully). You're not only there for the pitcher but for the other fielders as well.

I loved playing on the field with my sister, Savannah Swartz, when we had the chance my sophomore year. She was the senior on the field playing short and I stole her spot catching. We always cheered each other on the most though. She was my No. 1 fan and I was her No. 1 fan. Unfortunately those days are over but it was the best while it lasted.

Q: With some big softball seasons already in high school, what kind of individual goals have you set for your senior year, and what will it take to achieve those?

A: My goal usually stays the same, improve from last year. I don't like settling with my skill levels, so I work hard in and out of practice. Getting extra reps in of throwing, fielding, or batting when I can.

Q: Talk about some of the work you've put in to become the softball player you are today.

A: I spent many summers being in traveling leagues and local teams to be playing as much as possible. Hours have been spent in practices or at my house working on throwing or batting. It took a lot of experience to gain some of the skills and knowledge I have in softball.

Q: What kind of goals does your team have, and what will it take to accomplish those goals?

A: I think personally and as a team we all want to win conference. The conference's size shrunk with only four teams all together. By playing a doubleheaders at each field against each team, we still get the games in.

After our first game against Marion, as a team, we realized we were going to have to fight to win conference. Gaining endurance to withstand doubleheaders is going to be a must. It's very easy to get tired after playing for so long.

Q: As a senior, how do you try to lead the rest of the team?

A: Between this year and last year, as a leader, I try to remind everyone of their importance to this team. If we don't work as a team, we can't accomplish any of our goals. So it's important to pick up any player who seems down or give advice if someone is struggling.

I also try leading by example. That means working twice as hard in practice to show working hard can pay off.

Q: Before a game starts, do you have any routines or rituals you go through?

AT A GLANCE

A: I don't have many routines or rituals before a game. I try to put Bio-freeze on where it's needed and have a teammate do my hair, mostly cause I can't do my own.

Q: What's your favorite memory of competing on the Tigerton softball team?

A: My favorite memory is my first over-the-fence home run last year. I remember the feeling of the ball leaving the bat and my first base coach, TP (Todd Pamperin), yelling at me to run hard. I only was slightly jogging cause I had a gut feeling it was either going to be caught or going over. Thankfully it was over the fence.

As I touched home, my teammates surrounding me and cheering doubled my excitement. I was so grateful for my coaches and the girls on my team.

Q: Favorite TV show, movie and musical artist?

A: TV show — "Dance Moms." Movie — I have my comfort movies, "Luca," "Coco," "Tangled," and "Moana." Musical artist — The Weeknd.

Q: Name one thing about yourself that not many people know.

A: The first 2-3 years of playing softball I used both right and left-handed gloves. By the age of 8, my mom made me decide which hand I was going to continue using. I chose to be left-handed in sports mostly because I already wrote left-handed.

Q: What are some things you hope to accomplish after graduating high school?

A: I plan on going to school for nursing where hopefully I can become a labor and delivery nurse.

ATHLETE PROFILE: JADEN STUHR

Marion senior off to fast start on baseball diamond

Marion High School's Jaden Stuhr has helped the baseball team get off to perfect start to the spring season.

On the mound, Stuhr tossed 4 2/3 no-hit innings against Tigerton on April 11, striking out 10 batters. He then struck out 11 batters over five innings against Northland Lutheran/Wisconsin Valley Lutheran on April 13.

At the plate, Stuhr had a bases-clearing triple against Tigerton, while also scoring twice. He tallied two hits, three RBIs and scored three runs against Bowler on April 11. Stuhr then had a single, walk, two stolen bases and a RBI against NL/WVL.

Q: When did your interest in baseball begin?

A: I began playing T-ball when I was 4, where I enjoyed playing. However when I began pitching in Little League when I was 7, that's where I really fell in love with the sport.

Q: What has baseball taught you over the years?

A: There will always be ups and downs, and it's how you handle those situations that decides how the outcome will be. Will you keep digging and fighting to get yourself out, or will you just roll over and let it happen? Always keep digging and keep fighting no matter how hard it seems.

Q: What is your favorite thing to do on the baseball field, and why?

A: My favorite thing to do on the diamond is to compete. No matter who I'm playing or what the score is, I love having fun, working hard, and enjoy the opportunities that present themselves each day on the field. I love competing and making myself better along with my teammates to better represent our community.

Q: You've turned into a strong hitter and pitcher at the high school level. Talk about some of the work you've put in to become the player you are today.

A: Working the hardest and most when nobody's watching has been very key to fulfilling potential, and I believe that I still have a lot of work to do to make that happen. From lifting and doing yoga daily, to hitting off the tee and doing my arm care routine, to bettering my mechanics from video has all helped me. The biggest thing is always having a positive attitude and mindset however, because without that I wouldn't be anywhere near where I am today.

Q: After a big junior season, do you have any individual goals you hope to accomplish by the end of this season, and what will it take to achieve those?

A: By the end of the season I have high goals and expectations for myself, the first and foremost is earning respect from other coaches, players, and umpires. The rest of my individual goals are to be a better player, better teammate, and see where it leads me. I want to build off of last year as there is still plenty of room for improvement and through hard work and dedication, those goals will arise.

Q: Your team won a conference title last year but probably didn't make it as far in the postseason as you'd hoped. What kind of goals does the team have, and how can the team accomplish those?

A: On the first day of practice, we went through all of our team goals and each one of us had stated the goal of winning the conference and winning a regional title. We believe that with the core of our team having the knowledge and experience that we hold, we will be able to achieve these goals as long as we always stay together as a family.

Q: As a senior, how do you try to lead the rest of the team?

A: I have been told that I am more of a lead by example type of person, as I am not too outspoken. I have gained a lot of knowledge from coaches and past high level players which I try to pass on to the younger players on our team. All in all I believe that each one of our seniors have a key role in leading our team and we all have our different ways that bring the team together.

Q: Before a game starts, do you have any routines or rituals you go through?

A: When I'm starting on the mound, I have a lot longer pregame routine rather than when I start elsewhere. Before game time I get stretching, arm bands, plyo throws, some long toss, and then a short bullpen to feel my pitches and see what's working best for the day. The last five minutes before the game, I like to sit in the dugout to meditate and reflect on how I need to approach each batter to bring another win to the program.

Q: What's your favorite memory of competing on the Marion baseball team?

A: My favorite memory by far is having the opportunity to be a part of such a successful team last year even though it was cut shorter than we had hoped. Winning conference with the group of guys we had was special, considering we had all played together since we were young and it was our last year with all of us together with some seniors graduating.

Q: Favorite TV show, movie and musical artist?

A: TV show — "Chicago Fire." Movie — "Major League." Musical artist — Johnny Cash.

Q: Name one thing about yourself that not many people know.

A: I enjoy listening to piano music when I do homework to keep myself relaxed and focused. Plus there are no words for me to sing along to which helps me get my stuff done.

Q: You'll be playing baseball for UW-Stevens Point at the next level. What kind of goals do you have for yourself at UWSP?

A: My main goal is to compete to the best of my ability and work hard day in and day out to help win a national championship. I want to bring out my full potential along with bringing out my teammates full potential as well. Becoming All-WIAC and eventually All-American will be a big goal for me too, that comes from all of the hard work and dedication in which I plan to continue throughout college.

Bears top Eagles to open CWC-East play

Bonduel scores 10 runs in opening innings

By MORGAN RODE
Sports Editor

The Bonduel High School softball team opened Central Wisconsin Conference-East Division action with a 10-0 win over Menominee Indian on April 11 in Bonduel.

The Bears cruised to victory, scoring 10 runs across the first two innings before letting pitchers Nakiyah Henning and Hailey Zernicke finish off the shutout.

All in all, it was a strong start to conference play for the reigning CWC-East champs.

“Being able to play on such a beautiful day for our home opener — there was a ton of fans here. I think we really started out strong and it was a great first win,” said Bonduel’s Hailee Thompson. “It really boosts the spirits for sure.”

Abby Stoltenow led off the bottom of the first inning with a walk before moving third on a Tatum Sporisky single. Sporisky stole second base, and on the throw to second, Stoltenow scampered home for the game’s first run. Thompson followed with a RBI single to plate Sporisky and later scored on a wild pitch.

After Henning and Macy Niles reached base, Audrey Weier drove in Henning with an infield single. Maddy Sokolski delivered a two-out triple to score Niles and Weier and cap off a six-run opening frame.

“It’s really exciting,” said Niles of the team’s hitting this early in the season. “We always usually do pretty good on defense, so to be able to hit the ball good and stay on the bats is really good too.”

Niles had one of the team’s top defensive plays of the afternoon in the top of the first inning. The senior, who served as the starting catcher with last year’s starter Lila Pleshek out with an injury, threw out a Menominee Indian baserunner for the third out.

After a three up, three down top of the second inning, Bonduel got right back to work with the bats.

a single and scored in the next at-bat on a Thompson double. After Zernicke reached base, Henning came through with a hit that scored Thompson.

Niles then plated Zernicke before Weier had another RBI single to score Henning, cap the inning and make it 10-0.

“We know that obviously hitting is a crucial part to the game,” said Thompson. “At the end of the day, we put in a lot of hard work in the hitting aspect. We know that in order to win games, we gotta hit well as a whole team, it can't just be two people. I think our whole team hit well, from the top to the bottom...”

While the Bears were piling up the runs, Henning was shutting down Menominee Indian’s offense. Henning pitched the first four innings and struck out three batters while allowing just three baserunners.

“Obviously, it’s my first time catching, but we’ve learned to work really good together. We learn how to give each other signs in new ways and if she doesn’t like them, she communicates with me,” said Niles of how she and Henning worked through the contest.

Zernicke came on to pitch in the fifth inning, along with several other Bonduel subs. After hitting the first batter she faced, Zernicke fanned the next three to complete the shutout.

Menominee Indian’s best scoring chance came in the third inning. Ana Sanapaw walked with two outs before Ashlee Corn hit a booming double, but a popup ended the threat.

Aniya Peters and Danica Sanapaw were the only other Eagles to reach base, each being hit by a pitch.

“I think overall we did better playing as a team than we did in our last game,” said Corn. “We still got a lot of things to work on, but I know we’ll get better over the season. We’re just really here to have fun and play softball.”

Peters pitched all four innings for Menominee Indian, striking out three batters along the way.

Tigerton takes two from Marion

Tigers score 39 runs across doubleheader

By MORGAN RODE
Sports Editor

The Tigerton High School softball team got its spring season off to a strong start after sweeping a pair of five-inning contests against Central Wisconsin Conference-North Division foe Marion on April 10 in Marion.

Tigerton claimed game one 25-4 in four innings before a 14-9 win in game two.

"On the way here, I know a lot of us were very nervous because this was the first time this season that we actually touched a field, and it had to be a conference game as the first game as well," said Tigerton's Skyler Hauser. "We were all very nervous, but we're all very, very happy with the outcome of what went on."

In game one, Tigerton racked up 17 hits and drew 12 walks to score its 25 runs.

The Tigers scored six runs in the first before Marion answered with three in the bottom half. Tigerton tallied five runs in the second. After the Mustangs scored once in the third, Tigerton put the game away with a 14-run fourth inning.

Maycee Carlson drove in five runs and scored three times to lead Tigerton at the plate. Jade Selle drove in four runs and scored three runs, while McKenzie Hoffman had four RBIs and two runs scored. Lillian Welch finished the game with three RBIs and three runs scored.

Sienna Breaker and Hauser each drove in a pair for the Tigers. Hauser scored four times, while Abby Swartz, Elizabeth Stueck and Breaker all crossed home plate twice. Angel Welch scored four runs.

"I think as we get going and as we start being on the field working on baserunning and all that, I think the knowledge and experience will start gaining — for some of the younger players, especially," said Swartz on the team's offense. "Hopefully that means the confidence will come in and we'll end up scoring a lot more earned (runs)."

after pitching all four innings, striking out nine batters along the way.

She also got the win in game two after working four total innings. This time, she struck out five batters. Angel Welch got three outs before Hauser was reinserted into the circle in the bottom of the fifth, and Hauser was able to shut the door to cap the doubleheader sweep.

"I believe that our team really builds off energy and obviously when you get two wins right in a row, you get really pumped up," said Hauser. "I feel like having this accomplishment is really gonna set us up for future successes."

Angel Welch led the Tigers at the plate in game two with five RBIs and two runs scored. Stueck had three RBIs, while Selle had two.

Hoffman scored three of the team's runs. Hauser, Swartz and Carlson scored two runs each.

Tigerton scored four times in the first and three times in the second to jump out to a 7-0 lead. Marion scored once in the bottom of the second, but Tigerton got it right back in the third.

Marion tightened things back up with a four-run third, but Tigerton created some more breathing room after a six-run fourth. The Mustangs scored three times in the fourth and then once in the fifth to cap the scoring.

Karlie Faehling, Karli Robinson and Dacotah Yonker all walked and scored in the first inning of game one for Marion. Yonker walked and scored the team's run in the fourth.

Faehling reached base in all three of her plate appearances, drawing three walks.

"Just getting more comfortable playing with each other and trusting each other more and getting confidence in ourselves," said Yonker on what the team hoped to improve on after the doubleheader.

In game two, Yonker scored the Mustangs' first run in the second inning after reaching on a single.

Caitlin Keller, Josie Gueths, Robinson and Hailey Krueger scored in the third, with Keller reaching on an error and Gueths, Robinson and Krueger all walking.

Keller, Krueger and Faehling crossed home plate in the fourth for the hosts. Keller scored her third run of the contest in the fifth inning.

Nora Wiesman and Gueths did the pitching for the Mustangs, splitting time in the circle in each contest.

Wiesman said the team just needs to get some games in to build up confidence across the team's whole roster. As a senior leader, she hopes to help the team out.

"We just really got to be talking, keeping the spirits high — make sure we're yelling, 'You got it. Keep going.' I think that really does help a lot of the people," said Wiesman. "Just gotta stay talking and not staying silent because that doesn't help anything."

HIGH SCHOOL SOCCER

Pulaski suffers tough loss to West De Pere

Red Raiders unable to score goal

By MORGAN RODE

Sports Editor

The Pulaski High School girls soccer team suffered its first loss of the season during a nonconference battle with West De Pere on April 14 in Pulaski.

Pulaski controlled the ball for most of the contest and had more scoring chances, but wasn't able to score any goals. A couple of defensive breakdowns allowed West De Pere to walk away with a 2-0 win.

"I think something we can take away from this is to use this as a learning opportunity," said Pulaski's Gianna Logue. "This isn't going to define us as a team, we're five games in. We know what we got to work on and we'll be back and hungry in the end of the season, so that's what matters right?"

"It really helps that West De Pere is in our sectional, so it's good to be able to see how they play," said Laci Lemke. "It makes us work harder for when we have to play them again."

Last season, Pulaski lost 1-0 to West De Pere in the regular season before taking down the Phantoms 1-0 in a regional final.

Pulaski had a couple strong advances early in the contest, but wasn't able to get off any clean looks at the goal.

Isabella Logue helped turn away a strong West De Pere chance to score, but a little bit later, West De Pere was able to score and grab the lead at the 7 minute, 25 second mark.

After the goal, Pulaski continued to keep the ball mostly in the offensive zone but not many scoring opportunities were there. Josie Steeno had a shot attempt sail high in the 14th minute in what turned out to be one of the few shots on goal early on for the hosts.

After Pulaski's defense turned away West De Pere in the 31st minute, the Red Raiders finally started getting some better offensive looks.

The hosts had a strong advance turned away in the 34th minute before shots on goal were either off target or saved in the final five minutes of the opening half.

After the halftime break, Pulaski continued to get opportunities to knot the match at one, but just couldn't break through. Gianna Logue had a couple looks, including a header that just missed sneaking into the goal.

Peighton Brandenburg made a big save for Pulaski in the ninth minute of the second half to keep the deficit at just one. Several minutes later, the Red Raiders had a corner kick and again nearly scored, but West De Pere's goalie was able to cover up the ball.

The teams traded scoring opportunities over the next several minutes, with Ellie Mangold having a shot push just left of the goal before the host's defense and Brandenburg turned away a couple West De Pere advances.

Plans of scoring a late goal to tie things up were thwarted when West De Pere scored its second goal with just over three minutes to play. It was another goal allowed that Pulaski's defense believed shouldn't have happened.

"We've been practicing on our defense and our defense has been very strong so we're very confident with that," said Lemke. "We're moving on from it and we're going to look forward to our conference games and getting the ball in the net."

The loss dropped Pulaski to 2-1-2 on the young season.

"It exposed us in a couple of situations and we're going to be hungry," said Gianna Logue after the setback. "We're going to put the ball in the back of the net sooner. Everyone just has to fulfill their roles and we're going to be looking good toward the end of the season.

"We gotta move forward from this. We can't sit and stay out here all night and think what could we have done better. We'll fix it for next game."

Seniors enjoy breakfast, learning at school

Bonduel shows community elders what's happening in school while gleaning ideas from them

By NICOLE R. FISCHER
Correspondent

Polish sausage, French toast, maple syrup and cantaloupe is what the students from the culinary arts program at Bonduel High School served area senior citizens during a recent breakfast at the school.

Bonduel School District has been hosting a senior citizen breakfast since Superintendent Joe Dawidziak came aboard almost five years ago, apart from having to press the pause button during the COVID-19.

"This is and always will be the highlight of my career," Dawidziak said. "I enjoy bringing the senior citizens inside our school so they can see everything we are doing here. The citizens love it, as do the students and staff. Nothing but positive feedback from this."

The cafeteria was filled with older residents. Students walked around chatting with them while serving them coffee.

Culinary arts teacher Jennifer Rozga feels the experience of preparing breakfast for a group is a great experience for her students. She noted that it also helps seniors.

"It's nice that the senior citizens get to come here and get insight on what's going on inside our school," Rozga said.

Dawidziak will have something different planned for the seniors each month, like the shop classes coming and showing them things they're making.

"It's important to keep students and the community in touch. Everyone benefits from it," Rozga said. "It's really a great thing Joe started here."

The seniors had many positives things to add as well. Marvin Broklewicz, a great-great-grandfather, saw his children graduate from BHS long ago, but he still enjoys knowing what is going on in the schools.

"My wife passed away this past year," Broklewicz said. "This gives me something to look forward to, gets me out of the house to see people and hear about all the things kids are doing in our school. They are doing a really good job here. I enjoy eating breakfast and listening to the superintendent and children."

Dawidziak said the breakfasts are a good thing for the school to do for the elders in the Bonduel area, but the information provided actually goes both ways, as seniors provide school officials with ideas for things to be implemented.

"Ice fishing club, making our own maple syrup, bringing back classes like home economics, a lot of other things I could add," Dawidziak said. "We take their ideas and apply them to what we are doing in school. It makes it that much better. The senior citizens' advice is so valuable to us. We are fortunate to have such a great community with so many that want to be involved."

Bonduel plans to host its next senior breakfast at 8:30 a.m. May 10 in the Bonduel High School cafeteria.

Jury's out on Mielke's guilty pleasure

Box in the Wood pulls back the curtain on courtroom drama '12 Angry Jurors'

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

It's a matter of life and death as a man's fate hangs in the balance in the Box in the Wood Theatre Guild's production of "12 Angry Jurors," coming to the Mielke Arts Center this weekend.

While care is taken during the jury selection process to put people without any skin in the game on the jury, the play shows that other biases can sometimes slip through, including ones related to race, poverty and more. In the play, 12 people from different walks of life are asked to determine if a man is guilty of murder. Eleven jurors believe that he is, while one holdout questions the flimsiness of the prosecutor's case.

The play was originally titled "12 Angry Men" and came out as a movie in the 1950s, a time when juries were filled strictly by males.

"The only reason we changed it to '12 Angry Jurors' is because we added women to it," director Mary Madsen said. "That one was set in the '40s, where we've set ours now to the late '70s, early '80s."

The "Angry" part of the title is due to having one juror believing in the young man's innocence, Madsen said, while the other 11 are certain the man did the crime and just want to finish their duty and go home, with the room being unpleasantly hot, and the jurors feeling the fatigue of sitting through the case.

"It goes around to the point where they're deliberating, and that's where the anger comes in, because there's all kinds of stuff like prejudice and other stuff, debating whether he's actually guilty beyond a reasonable doubt," Madsen said, noting that this is the first time she has directed a drama with her previous shows being comedies.

Hailey Falish, the assistant director, also noted the struggle to make truth the deciding factor in the case.

"They're trying to make a decision that's based on the facts and based on the truth of the story, getting the right answer instead of the first answer that comes to mind," Falish said.

Madsen noted that her husband, Tom, has always loved the movie, starring Henry Fonda, and this show will provide a live version of what audiences from almost 70 years ago experienced.

"This one has been really fun to do," Madsen said.

Falish likes the show because of its examination of human nature.

"Each juror really has their own personality, and their own thoughts," Falish said. "You really get to explore the dynamics of how those come together and how people work as a team to make that final decision on something so important as a man's life."

With this play, a guilty verdict means certain death, Madsen said, which is why the one holdout juror is not so eager to make an instant determination and call it a day.

"The prejudice comes out because one juror does not like 'his (the defendant's) type of people,'" Madsen said. "The one who is holding out in the beginning is the sound of reason and keeps coming back at it."

The show is very simplistic, with only a couple of props coming on throughout, Madsen noted, but it's also a tough for the actors because 12 of the 13 cast members are on stage the entire show, whereas other plays have people shuttling in and out of scenes.

One of the jurors, played by Dave Woosencraft, is racist in nature, according to Denise Riley, who plays another one of the jurors.

"Even though this play is an older play, I think this plays very well to a contemporary audience," Riley said.

Woosencraft agreed and noted that the play will highlight to audiences the importance of the innocent-until-proven-guilty mantra that the American legal system is supposed to be based on.

"So many people automatically assume he's guilty and want to let it out right away," Woosencraft said. "This portrays the message of, 'Hey, give people the benefit of the doubt.'"

Tom Webster, who plays the juror that doesn't believe the defendant is guilty, likes the show because the actors have to continuously emote on stage, even when they don't have any lines at the time.

"I find it really challenging to be on the stage the whole time," Webster said.

Joe-pye weed and other native wildflowers are excellent late season nectar sources for monarchs during migration and are thought to be perhaps even more valuable to monarchs than milkweeds during this time of year.

ROB ZIMMER

Monarch decline in Mexico cause for alarm

With the recent release of data from monarch colonies on their Mexican overwintering grounds, once again, monarch lovers were hit hard with bad news. From population estimates, monarch numbers overwintering in Mexico last winter decreased once again, this time by 22%.

Monarch lovers here in Wisconsin, therefore, must be more diligent than ever when it comes to planting host plants and nectar plants to help build numbers over the summer season.

Each winter, on the cool mountain slopes of interior Mexico, monarchs are counted by researchers as they cling to the trees in large, mostly dormant clusters. Estimates of both population of these amazing insects, as well as winter habitat size in acreage and hectares are made.

Both population and amount of

this valuable habitat, located in the mountains of central Mexico, is lost due to development and illegal logging. Combined with the loss of monarchs locally here in Wisconsin and other states due to habitat loss, development, pesticide use, changes in agricultural practices and other factors, the butterflies are in decline once again.

As gardeners and plant lovers, we can do much to help sustain monarch acreage available for monarchs decreased over the past winter.

Habitat loss in Mexico is one of the biggest factors in monarch population declines. Each year, more and more of numbers, at least here in our area. By helping to build strong monarch populations here in the Midwest during the summer season, we give the overwintering population a better chance. The more monarchs that make the journey, the more monarchs that hopefully will overwinter successfully and return to the southern states in spring where the population cycle begins again.

Planting native wildflowers is, of course, a benefit to monarchs, as well as many other pollinators. Providing monarchs with a rich supply of fresh, native milkweed throughout the season is also vital.

As you likely know, monarch caterpillars will only host upon species of native milkweed. Therefore, the more milkweed we can provide, the stronger the population will be when migration time comes in August and September.

Some of the best host plants for monarchs include swamp milkweed, orange milkweed, common milkweed and whorled milkweed.

In addition to these host plants, it is important to provide nectar plants, especially for late in the season, August into October, when monarchs are on the move.

Late season native nectar plants include New England aster, ironweed, joe-pye weed, black eyed Susan, purple coneflower, goldenrod, as well as annual flowers such as cosmos, zinnia, Mexican sunflower, salvias, heliotrope, tall verbena, lantana and others.

By incorporating all of these plants, and others, in your landscape, you give monarchs a fighting chance.

Reading and writing and orange biographies

Embracing a love of reading for as long as I can remember, I'd devour biographies and autobiographies of famous people, even as a small girl. Scouring the Marion Elementary library with a fine-toothed comb, I was ecstatic to discover new titles, which brought to life the significantly influential people on the pages. Lying on my back in the grass on the barn hill during a warm summer day or sprawled out on my bed belly-down, I always had a book in hand. I read a lot.

When I was in, I'd say, fourth grade, I remember reading a series of biographies, which really got me hooked. Presently, staring into space through my office window, I tried to recall the series name of the biographies I had read. They were all in the same format, alphabetized, historical fiction with a baseline of truth complete with flourishes to keep little readers engaged.

Googling "autobiographies for small children," brought me more information than I wanted. I desired "back in the day" reading for small children. Scrolling, I stumbled across an article by Nancy Pate and Sentinel Book Critic on www.orlandosentinel.com entitled "Return of a Classic Series: Biographies for Kids." Oh, the things one uncovers doing a Google search — much more effective than staring out an office window.

Ms. Pate interviewed Indiana publisher Florrie Binford Kichler as

KAY REMINGER

Mary would bring her "orange biographies," such as a biography of Mary Todd Lincoln.

When I read those words, it brought an "ah-ha" moment to me, along with a flood of memories. These were the books I read when I was a wee lass, books that brought heroes right to my doorstep, people like Harriet Tubman, Clara Barton, Florence Nightingale, Helen Keller, Booker T. Washington and Theodore Roosevelt.

They were fiction brought to life when I was a kid. The conversations in the books and many of the incidents were made up, but all based on fact, which, because of that vein of truth to the characters, made them come alive to me. I fell in love with reading, and although the time I could spend with my nose in a book has greatly varied through the years, I continue to hold a deep appreciation for a good book.

While there are alternatives to reading, such as audiobooks or Kindles, I prefer the solid feel of a book she recalled the days when she was confined to her bed for three months due to a bout with rheumatic fever. As there were no televisions in every room nor handheld video games, her Aunt in hand with a bookmark holding my current page. Occasionally, the marker is a folded sheet of notebook paper where I've written out main characters and their association with one another, making note of a distinguishing characteristic or two. I've found that, as I age, my recall ability is waning. Simply said, I forget stuff. Plus, during our monthly book club meetings, I don't want to appear dim-witted. This note-taking helps.

Out of the love of reading comes a natural desire to write. My one-hit wonder, a children's book I wrote called "Finding the Way Home," is still in print and, to this day, brings me a sense of accomplishment and satisfaction. Some have asked if I'd write another book, and while I never want to say never, I'm keeping that remote possibility on the back burner. It is no small task and quite the adventure.

Stemming from my love of reading and writing, I submitted a couple of articles I wrote in 2004 to then-editor Dan Brandenburg of the Marion Advertiser. That catapulted me to begin writing for the Shawano Evening Leader. After a number of years and, subsequently, the sale of the cows, I stopped writing due to a lack of material, which had gone right down the road with our trailer full of girls one rainy May morning.

After I stopped writing, I cried for a week. It was like I was wandering, listless, aimless and goal-less. Pulling myself up, brushing myself off, I carried on, and after a time, I asked the current editor of the Marion Advertiser, Sara Tischauser, if I couldn't just occasionally submit a column here or there when I felt I had something to say. As she had just newly purchased the paper and then found herself in the middle of COVID-19 restrictions and shutdowns, she was willing to accept my offer. It was, at the least, a filler when there was basically nothing going on.

Soon, the city editor at the Leader, Lee Pulaski, emailed me an offer I couldn't refuse. Once again, I am back in the throes of writing with a looming deadline, although at this time in my life with much more time, flexibility and, basically, a free range of topics. (Thank you, Lee.)

Everyone starts somewhere, and my awakening to the love of reading and writing started with those little orange biographies, lying in the gass on the barn hill of my childhood home farm.

If you'll excuse me, I'm off to stick my nose in a good book.

Late-stage colon cancer appearing in younger people

According to the American Cancer Society, colorectal cancer is the third leading cause of cancer death for both men and women in the United States.

There are more than 150,000 new cases of colon cancer in the United States, affecting all races and ethnicities. National health organizations now recommend regular colon cancer screenings beginning at age 45. Until recently, the recommended age to begin screenings was 50.

An increased incidence of late-stage colon cancer in younger people is the reason for this change of recommendations, according to Dr. Matthias Weiss, oncologist/hematologist at ThedaCare Regional Cancer Center. The U.S. Preventive Services Task Force (USPSTF) notes that rates of colon cancer in 40- to 49-year-olds has increased by almost 15% from 2000-2002 to 2014-2016. Weiss stressed the new age 45 guideline applies to most people.

"If you're 45 to 75 years old, getting screened regularly is a key step in helping to prevent colorectal cancer," said Weiss. "If you're younger than 45, and you believe you might be at a higher risk for developing colorectal cancer, perhaps because of a family history of the disease, we encourage you to talk with your provider about screening options and recommendations."

For people who do not have an increased risk of colorectal cancer, they can repeat a colonoscopy every 10 years.

According to Weiss, even though colonoscopy is considered the gold standard of screenings, there are three main ways to check for colorectal cancer. The fecal occult blood test checks for blood in the stool, which can be a sign of colorectal cancer. The stool DNA test looks for DNA markers that indicate the presence of colorectal cancer. Colonoscopies involve the insertion of a long, flexible tube into the rectum to visually inspect the colon for any abnormalities or cancer.

"We are encouraged by the up-

dated screening guidelines," said Weiss. "With new information and advances in screenings and prevention, we hope to provide better outcomes for patients through early detection."

More than 15 million colonoscopies are performed in the United States each year. However, data from USPSTF shows that in 2016, 25.6% of eligible American adults had never been screened for colorectal cancer, and in 2018, 31.2% were not up to date with their screenings.

Colorectal cancer might not cause symptoms right away. Weiss stressed symptoms can be non-specific, which is why regular screenings are important. Symptoms of colon cancer include rectal bleeding, changes in bowel movements (constipation, diarrhea, etc.), abdominal pain, fatigue, anemia, unexplained weight loss and decreased appetite.

Anyone who experiences any of the symptoms should speak with a health care provider as soon as possible. Early detection and treatment have shown to improve outcomes.

Risk factors include a diet high in red meat and processed foods, a sedentary lifestyle and smoking. To reduce the risk, physicians recommend focusing on four key lifestyles: Eat a Mediterranean diet rich in fruits, vegetables, whole grains and high-fiber foods; exercise regularly, which improves physical and emotional well-being and prevents unhealthy weight gain; quit smoking and limit alcohol consumption; and get a colonoscopy (even if you feel healthy) and other recommended cancer screening procedures.
