

DEER PURSUED BY CORN AT JULY 4 PARADE

One never knows what they'll see at an Independence Day parade, but even those who watched Bonduel's parade on July 4 might have done a double-take as they saw a yellow Jeep with two giant deer being followed by an equally massive ear of corn. The Jeep and deer were representing Antler's Supper Club, which is in downtown Bonduel, and the motorized ear of corn served as a reminder of Bonduel's annual corn roast, which takes place this year on Aug. 5. Bonduel's Independence Day festivities also included live music in village park, food, live music, a bike raffle for children and more. The annual baseball game between Bonduel and Shawano was called off due to rain, but the precipitation had moved on by the time the village had its annual fireworks show at dusk. Shawano School Board hires new principals

Board members question why more information was not provided

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

The Shawano School Board approved new principals for three of its schools June 29, but not without some debate about why information was not given or had been withheld.

Heidi White was named the new principal for Hillcrest Primary School and LEADS Primary Charter School, taking over for Troy Edwards, who is becoming superintendent of the Marion School District, and Jessie Hanssen, who was LEADS executive director before being hired as Gresham Community School's principal. White had previously worked as a director for early learning in Eau Claire and has 27 years of educational experience, according to business manager Josh Swanson, including 15 years in administration.

William Traver is the new Shawano Community Middle School principal, taking the place of Stuart Russ, who was recently hired to be principal at Wittenberg-Birnamwood High School. Swanson said Traver has 10 years in the education field, four of them in administrative positions. Traver served as principal for grades 5-12 and was the pupil services director for the school district in Iron Mountain, Michigan.

Cynthia Pavelski was hired to be Shawano Community High School's new principal, replacing Scott Zwirschitz, who resigned to take a teaching position in the Clintonville School District. According to Swanson, Pavelski previously worked in the Appleton School District and brings 26 years as an educator to the table, including five years of administrative experience.

The board had approved promoting Matthew Peterson as principal for Olga Brener Intermediate School on June 6 after he had received a non-renewal notice for being the school's dean of students.

At the June 29 meeting, the board also hired two associate principals. Kayla Hokenstad, previously an English teacher at SCMS, will fill the role at that school, while Deanna Arrowood will be the associate principal at the high school after being a math interventionist for two years.

Board member Mart Grams questioned whether he and his colleagues should be voting for new principals without knowing what their salaries would be, and he said it would have been more beneficial to the board if one of its members had been involved with the interviews.

"I have a real problem with the list that was written. Many of them are very young," Grams said. "A principal, to me, is much more important than a superintendent; they're actually running the game. Some of those people have been out of school very little and have very little experience."

Grams suggested that it would have been better to have had a board member involved to make sure the principals coming in "are for the betterment of our district." Grams also said he was baffled about the non-disclosure agreements that interviewers had to agree to, saying he'd never heard about that practice.

Board member James Davel, who is administrative coordinator for Shawano County, pointed out that it was common practice for the county when it interviews new employees.

"Why we do that is to not give information to other potential candidates unfairly, you know, going and helping one candidate," Davel said. "I think, in the future, it is a discussion the board can have to discuss a (new) way to go about this, but for now, this is water under the bridge, at this point."

Board member Chris Gull said he knew the information about the principal candidates and said it was a matter of pressing the district administration regularly to see if progress had been made on filling the positions.

"It's simple phone calls," Gull said, noting that he didn't get the names of the candidates but did get their experience and qualifications. "It's simple communication, which most of us in the room don't do."

Board member Jeana Winslow argued that, even when she makes inquiries, she doesn't get the information she feels she needs to come to a decision.

"When I ask, it's not given," Winslow said. "I don't know how I got pegged as that person who doesn't get the information."

Board president Mike Musolff also expressed frustration about voting on new principals with such limited information. He said he sent an email requesting the resumes of the candidates.

"Now we are supposed to vote when none of us have any idea what we're supposed to vote on, and that's driving me insane," Musolff said, noting that it used to be common practice to at least receive a synopsis of new hires at the board meetings.

Musolff added that the agenda only listed "appointments" with no indication on who the appointments would be. He noted that he volunteered to be part of the interview process but received no response from the district office.

Gull shot back that having a board member be part of the interview process is not in district policy, and that Musolff shouldn't use his presidential position to circumvent matters.

"You're one member with one vote," Gull said.

The board voted 6-2 to hire the principals and associate principals. Musolff and Grams voted against, and board member Chuck Dallas was absent from the meeting.

Shawano chamber hires new executive director

Wittman has experience working in the Clintonville, Fox Cities Chamber of Commerces

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

A new face will be at the head of the Shawano Country Chamber of Commerce starting in July.

Suzanne Wittman will be starting as the executive director of the chamber on July 11. She will be taking over for Nancy Smith, who has been with the chamber for 20 years.

"She was hired because she has had prior experience with other chambers, like the Clintonville Chamber of Commerce," said Zachary Linsmeyer, Shawano Country Chamber of Commerce president. "She has also worked with a branch of the Appleton chamber — so she has that experience. During the interview process, she also said that she was the Women's Empowerment Center director of the YWCA of Greater Green Bay."

Wittman added that most of her background dealt with working with businesses and communities.

"Much of my work has revolved around business retention and attraction, community and economic development, marketing, management and grant writing," said Wittman.

Having worked for other chamber of commerces in the past, Wittman said she believes that she is ready and suited to take on the role at the Shawano Country Chamber of Commerce.

"My chamber experience, as well as my time working for nonprofits has helped me recognize the importance of all of the businesses and organizations within a community," said Wittman. "What makes a community are the people who serve there."

She added that part of the reason why she applied for the executive director position was to continue to help meet the needs of the community.

"I have always loved my time in the chamber world because it allowed me to meet the people behind the businesses," said Wittman. "As a leader of any chamber, you have to be willing to build strong, authentic relationships if your business is going to succeed."

With experience in nonprofit organizations, as well as tourism, Linsmeyer said that Wittman fit the bill of who the chamber was looking for.

"Obviously the chamber helps out in a variety of different ways and technically, they are a not-for-profit organization," said Linsmeyer. "We wanted someone who has that background in fundraising and also building relationships with businesses in the area."

Linsmeyer pointed to Wittman's eagerness to work with community organizations as a reason why she can successfully work as the executive director.

"We felt that there was a big need for a go-getter right away," said Linsmeyer. "We believe that she has the personality and attitude to be self-sufficient and get things done and run with it right away."

He said that the expectations for Wittman, from the chamber's board, are to pick up where Smith has left off.

"We want her to get familiar with the role and to get familiar with different businesses in the area," said Linsmeyer. "We want her to build off of what Nancy has done for the last 20 years and make the chamber better and continue to work closely with city, county and economic leaders."

Wittman also noted that she wants to continue with what Smith and her staff have laid out in Shawano County.

"I know I have an obligation to continue the good work that Nancy Smith has done at the chamber," said Wittman. "I've been fortunate to have worked with Nancy in the past and am very happy that we'll have a chance to work closely together for a few weeks before she retires."

She added that in order to follow in Smith's footsteps, Wittman will have to learn about the community, as well as continue to build relationships, before jumping right in.

"I have always been someone who has to examine all of the parts before creating that bigger vision, so I will take the time to learn what has worked and be open-minded towards what needs to be changed," said Wittman.

Wittman said that with her past experiences, she could bring something new to the chamber.

"Within the past two years, I've spent much of my time delving into Diversity, Equity and Inclusion (DEI) work," said Wittman. "Shawano County and Menominee County are not that different, where we cater to a diverse population. It's important that we recognize this, uphold the traditions that make our communities strong, and work together so we can be an area that welcomes all others, regardless of their background, color or race."

Linsmeyer said that he and the rest of the chamber's board are excited to bring Wittman on.

"We do believe that this will be a success working with Suzanne," said Linsmeyer. "I think that she will be a great addition to the chamber."

Wittman echoed Linsmeyer's excitement level as she starts in mid-July.

"To say I'm excited is an understatement," said Wittman. "I've always felt that the Chamber world was the perfect place for me, so I'm eager to dive in and get to know everyone."

Court finds probable cause in Washington disturbance

Defendant being held on $50,000 cash bond

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

A Shawano-Menominee County Circuit Court judge found probable cause June 30 to send a former Fond du Lac man to trial after a preliminary hearing relating to a June 20 incident.

Lanathan Wallace, 32, who is now listed as homeless, is charged with one count of second-degree recklessly endangering safety, 10 counts of bail jumping, two misdemeanor counts of battery and two misdemeanor counts of disorderly conduct.

If convicted, Wallace faces up to 10 years in prison along with $25,000 in fines for second-degree recklessly endangering safety, nine months and a $10,000 fine for each misdemeanor battery charge, 90 days and a $1,000 fine for each disorderly conduct charge and a $10,000 fine and six years for each bail-jumping count if convicted.

Wallace allegedly began dumping soda and water down the drain on June 20 while a female companion was sleeping. After the victim awakened and put her hands on Wallace's shoulders, he allegedly yelled expletives at the victim and struck her with a closed fist. After Wallace allegedly struck another woman who was trying to break up the situation, and the victim threatened to call the police,

Wallace allegedly grabbed all of the knives from the knife block, held them in his hands and said, "Go ahead and call them and see what happens. The only way I am leaving is in a blood-bath."

During Wallace's preliminary hearing, sheriff's Deputy Ryder Steff testified that he was dispatched to an address on Country Lane in the Town of Washington.

"I responded to the scene and I saw the defendant (Wallace) standing outside of the residence and I saw a female running away from the residence," Steff said. "I attempted to ask Lanathan questions about what was going on, and I received no answer."

Steff said that he had talked to the victim.

"She stated that Lanathan had struck her and her sister," said Steff. "With a closed fist. She stated that it caused her pain."

Assistant District Attorney Joseph Kaupie asked Judge Katherine Sloma to take judicial notice of the bond for Wallace in two other cases in Fond du Lac and Shawano counties.

"I would also ask the court to take judicial notice that provisions of the state statute of the bonds provides that the defendant should not commit any crimes," said Kaupie.

Wallace is currently being held on $50,000 bond. Sloma scheduled Wallace's arraignment for July 27.

Plenty of sights at Bonduel's July 4

PHOTOS BY LEE PULASKI • CITY EDITOR

While many parades across the country feature Uncle Sam prominently, Bonduel's Independence Day parade was unique in showing the patriotic symbol flipping burgers on a grill.

There was plenty of red, white and blue on the dresses of a pair of girls tossing candy into the crowd while aboard a float for Engel's Wolf River Holdings Corporation from Shawano during Bonduel's Independence Day parade July 4.

Wrapping up the Independence Day on July 4 in downtown Bonduel were a pack of horseback riders from Helmuth Horse Training and Trimming from Shawano, showing their patriotic streaks and wrapping up an hour-long parade.

Dancers from Shuffles Dance Studio performed a routine to "Footloose" July 4 as they journeyed along Green Bay Street during the Bonduel Independence Day parade.

Police conduct critical response exercise

Simulated shooting at Olga Brener tests officers' response time, reactions to school incident

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

The Shawano Police Department and Shawano County Sheriff's Department conducted a joint critical response exercise June 30 at Olga Brener Intermediate School to test their response time in the event that a school shooting incident would take place.

Most law enforcement, save the command staff, were unaware that such an exercise was taking place, so that leaders could tell in real time how long it took officers to respond. While officers were arriving on scene, Shawano school resource officer Tyler Thornborrow was inside the school, banging on metal with a pipe to simulate gun shots being fired.

The first officer inside the building stopped near the stairwell and listened for a moment to determine where the faux gun shots were coming from. After ascertaining it was coming from the second floor, he hurried up the stairs, stopped in the hall to listen for shots again and then moved quickly to the classroom where he apprehended Thornborrow.

Two more law enforcement officials arrived soon after and quickly hit the classroom. In about 15 minutes, the exercise was over, and the officers on the scene debriefed to see what could be improved for the next time.

Shawano Police Chief Bradley Rabideau and Shawano County Chief Deputy George Lenzner both felt the exercise went well. Both noted the drill had been laid out in advance but pointed out that events like the mass shooting in Uvalde, Texas that killed 19 children and two teachers in May has put officer training in the spotlight again.

"In Shawano, we've been conducting these types of drills and school safety for almost 10 years," Rabideau said. "It's something that you have to constantly train and re-train. Obviously, nationally there's some things that have come up that bring it to the national forefront. However, in Shawano, it's something we've always taken seriously."

Lenzner noted that there are several different scenarios that officers can train on, but there's only so much a training exercise can do without risk to life.

Shawano County Sheriff's Detective Rich Wright, left, simulates pointing a long gun as shooting suspect Tyler Thornborrow as Shawano Police Lt. Mike Mulsolf looks on during a critical response exercise held June 30 at Olga Brener Intermediate School. The exercise was held to train officers how to respond in the event there is a school shooting, something that was once again brought into the national spotlight in recent months. LEE PULASKI | NEW MEDIA

"It's hard to keep it realistic," Lenzner said. "They're not using real guns. Sometimes when we train, we'll use simunitions and actors, using paintballs and soft guns. That makes it more realistic, but with this, we wanted to see how officers respond and get it in their heads so they're always thinking about it."

Lenzner said it was good for the county deputies to take part because their patrols usually are not in the city of Shawano. With the city police handling that area, deputies are responsible for covering the rest of Shawano County.

"These schools are new to them; they're used to going to the schools in the county," Lenzner said. "It's nice to get them in the city schools because there's always a chance they'll have to respond."

While the simulation took place with no staff or students present, Rabideau noted that finding a shooter is not always easy.

"What you quickly realize is that, even a school like this, even without any chaos going on, it can be difficult to pinpoint where a sound may be coming from," Rabideau said. "Every school is a little bit different. You think of the high school or the middle school or Hillcrest or out in Wittenberg, every school is built slightly different and the sounds carry differently in those schools."

Rabideau noted he had one officer who couldn't break away because he had somebody in custody at Theda-Care Medical Center-Shawano, while another officer had to break away from a call he was on to report to the school.

"Wherever they were is where they came from," Rabideau said. "In a situation like that, officers are probably not going to get a whole lot of information because there is not going to be a whole lot of information coming out except maybe there's an active shooter or an active threat."

Rabideau noted that other area police agencies were not involved with the exercise in order to make sure their areas were adequately patrolled. Even deputies on the east and west side of the counties were ordered to stand down for the exercise in order to see what the local response was.

"We still need to have coverage," Rabideau said.

Lenzner noted the county is updating maps of the schools and making sure they're digitized so all law enforcement officials have access to them. He said there will also be continuous work done to make sure officers are aware of protocols for when there really is a shooter, like having an area for media and a place where parents can be relocated.

"You know what's going to happen when the public finds out there's a school shooting," Lenzner said. "Every parent is going to rush here and want to get into that school to be by their child."

Proposed Twig's mural gets commission's OK

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

Twig's Beverage only has one formality to go after the Shawano Plan Commission signed off on a conditional use permit for its proposed mural June 29.

Normally, murals don't fall under the city's purview, according to City Administrator Eddie Sheppard, but once a company's logo or name is featured prominently on the art, it's considered to be a sign, same as any blade sign or frontage sign, and therefore must get city approval if it doesn't fit in the standard sign regulations.

"Murals that are no way identifying the business are not considered signs," Sheppard said, citing the mural with the word "Shawano" that is on the building on Division Street between the downtown area and Franklin Park. "It's the technicality that says when it's representing a business is when it's considered a painted wall sign."

The mural is expected to include 56 square feet of sign space where the Twig's logo will go, with the

This is how the proposed mural going up at Twig's Beverage is expected to look when it is completed. The reason the mural has to go through Shawano's plan commission and common council is because of the Twig's logo on the right, which constitutes business signage.

CONTRIBUTED

full mural expected to 31 feet by 13 feet when completed, and it will be featured on the northern wall of where its soda museum is located on 920 S. Franklin St. The logo will go on a bottle that's expected to be part of the mural, according to zoning administrator Dave Moesch.

Sheppard noted that the bottle was the only thing that needed approval, as the rest of the mural is considered to be art and therefore not subject to the sign code.

"We've tried to figure out a way to make it work but treat it consistently with how we've handled these things in the past," Sheppard said.

The Twig's mural only has one more hurdle left to go. The permit must gain a final blessing from the Shawano Common Council, which meets July 13.

OPINION

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Tax churches to care for mothers and children

To the editor:

The U.S. Supreme Court has overturned Roe vs. Wade, ruling that all abortions are illegal, including those performed for rape, incest or health of the mother.

In the state of Mississippi, 70% of abortions are performed on minority women. Most of these women are living in poverty. It seems that most of our Christian churches are for the fetus from conception until birth and then assume that the baby is on its own.

It's time to tax all Christian churches that are against abortion. The tax would include all income from investments and property, plus income from all donations and collections. The money, along with public tax dollars, would be used in each state to assist those children born in poverty with their healthcare, nutrition and childhood services.

In addition, each state should have a quality orphanage system, as well as a foster home system to take care of the unwanted babies.

Herbert Grover, Gresham

Life for babies should be the choice always

To the editor:

Love is the reason I write this letter today. I am a wife of 21 years and a mother of four beautiful children. I am 41 years old and have endured sexual abuse, numerous miscarriages, and a season of waiting and longing for motherhood. I have seen babies' hearts beating at six weeks after conception. I have seen numerous ultrasounds confirming life. I have seen and felt babies hiccup in the womb. I have witnessed babies sucking their thumb in the womb. They are alive. There is no doubt in my mind that life begins at conception. So today I will stand and be a voice for the unborn.

Too much attention has been given to the abortion rights that so many fear are in danger, but what about the rights of the unborn babies that people so ruthlessly kill each and every day? How can our society be OK with the destruction of our future? How did we get to this place of acceptance of killing innocent babies? They are babies. There is life in the womb.

Psalms 127:3 says, "Lo, children are an heritage of the Lord: and the fruit of the womb is his reward." Children are our gift — a reward. They are not a curse, but a blessing. Abortion does not have to be a right or a choice. Life should be the choice always, in every circumstance. I understand that there are cases of rape and unwanted pregnancies; why add more trauma to the body? Adoption is a beautiful process.

I have a challenge for those pro-choice and pro-abortion people out there: Watch the amazing drama titled "Unplanned." For those of you who stand with me as pro-life, watch the movie as well. It will confirm what you believe. No need for popcorn, just a box of tissues.

Morgan town meeting was eye-opening

To the editor:

My husband, Bob, and I attended the June 13 Morgan Town Hall meeting. We had heard there was still a lot of controversy about the Birch solar project and the recall election. We have been out of touch since we have been ill or taking care of family for the last two years.

We could feel the tension in the room. The meeting proceeded until we discussed mowing the ditches and its cost. Karen Nelson-Kispert kept asking over and over that she "didn't understand" the price or how that number was figured out. It was quite annoying. Finally, Leonard Wahl said: "Fine, I withdraw my bid." He didn't yell or flip out, just stated his intent. I don't blame him. Leonard has done this for around 20 or more years to save the town money. It seems that the new people and the older people were at odds. Bob's family moved here in 1941.

personal attacks. Only one letter per writer will be published in a 14-day period, and letters from new writers will be considered first over more frequent participants. Longer pieces of up to 800 words may be considered for guest columns. All

The meeting closed, and Chris Huntley asked to speak up about a few things. I commend him for that. It was getting better until Jeff Folts screamed "(expletive deleted) Leonard" and launched himself across the table at Leonard. Three guys held him back. Wow! This guy is running for our new town supervisor. I think I'm changing my vote to Leonard. Such behavior is uncalled for.

So, I started to do some Facebook research. The things I saw on the "Town of Morgan Chat + Stop Birch Solar Farm" website infuriated me. I could not believe the lies and misinformation I saw. The name calling. The mean and the arrogant. This has turned into a personal assault on the board members, and sorry, they don't deserve that.

The meeting was also recorded on video — for who? We hardly have cell coverage let alone decent internet. I think they recorded it to try and catch anybody that might slip up and say something wrong if they were harassed enough to get flustered. I think I didn't see the camera rolling when Jeff launched himself at Leonard. Hmmmmm.

Sure enough. Not even an hour later, the minions were slamming people again. I would rather have someone tell me face-to-face than backstab me in the chicken way. I would also like to tell them face-to-face how I feel also. Perhaps they will attend the next town meeting so I can.

Sherry Peterson, Town of Morgan

Article about Morgan did not tell whole story

To the editor:

The article "Morgan Town Board meeting reflects recall tensions" is from your point of view as the editor listening to what was heard, or your interpretation of your understanding. To only attend a few meetings and not be a resident of the town, honestly you have no clue as to what is actually happening.

"Wahl's firm Morgan Excavating" is not correct. There is a business called Morgan Excavating. As for the price of $4,999, that was not to skirt the law. Nothing was being done wrong. The board could have accepted the bid with no comment from the public. Anyone can submit a bid. People know that once a year the town does ditch cutting. The town has been using the service of Morgan Excavating for 25 years; why change now?

As for your statement, "the proposed NextEra solar farm is the heart of the recall election," the reasons listed on the recall petition were: misrepresentation of vision statement, conflict of interest, lack of transparency, and biased representation. NextEra did not contact the town about solar farming. NextEra only contacted land owners to see if there was an interest. As stated by state Rep. Jeffery Mursau, the Town of Morgan and Oconto County have no jurisdiction in the building of a solar farm in Morgan.

Continuing through the article, yes, Chris Topher (correct name Chris Huntley), a resident of the Town of Morgan, was trying to fix the division. People today don't know how to be civil or even act as an adult. The language people use sometimes is improper and uncalled for. Stating that I said the f-word is totally wrong.

I know Jeff Folts, who is running for town supervisor, used that word with a gesture, but why are you not stating his name or his running position? The resident (Karen Nelson-Kispert) who was inquiring about the $4,999 bid or the resident (Jolene Barkhaus) who used Facebook, why aren't their names mentioned? This article seems to be a one-sided story targeting town board members. Why can't the media ever tell the truth? Media should state facts without putting a side in the story, and let the reader pick the side.

I agree there is tension between the residents and the board members. However, this has been going on for close to two years. In a nutshell, hearts have been broken. The question is how to fix a broken heart? How to build trust and respect between the residents and board members? I am willing to listen to ideas or suggestions.

Leonard Wahl, Town of Morgan

Menominee Indian School District receives $500 supply of free batteries

Batteries Plus of Green Bay has selected the Menominee Indian School District as one of its Schools of the Year. In a collaboration with Duracell/Procell, Batteries Plus will reward MISD with a $500 supply of free batteries.

Through a nationwide contest, MISD schools were identified as being among the most deserving educational institutions for going above and beyond during pandemic, overcoming obstacles and making a significant difference in the lives of students and their community.

MISD schools will receive Procell Constant and Procell Intense batteries – the world's first dual brand portfolio of device-specific batteries from Procell.

"The past two years have been challenging for everyone, and to have a national business like Batteries Plus step forward and do something to help schools across the country is outstanding," said Superintendent Wendell Waukau.

Notice of 2022 Board of Review for Town of Richmond, Shawano County

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Review for the Town of Richmond, Shawano County, Wisconsin, shall hold its first two hour meeting on Wednesday, July 20, 2022 from 6:00 P.M. to 8:00 p.m. or later, at the Richmond Town Hall, N5170 County Road MM, Shawano, Wis. 54166.

Please be advised of the following requirements to appear before the board of review and procedural requirements if appearing before the board:

1. No person will be allowed to appear before the board of review, to testify to the board by telephone, or to contest the amount of any assessment of real or personal property if the person has refused a reasonable written request by certified mail of the assessor to enter on to property to conduct an exterior view of the real or personal property being assessed.
2. After the first meeting of the board of review and before the board's final adjournment, no person who is scheduled to appear before the board of review may contact or provide information to a member of the board about the person's objection, except at a session of the board. Open book shall occur no less than 7 days prior to the board of review.
3. The board of review may not hear an objection to the amount or valuation of property unless, at least 48 hours before the board's first scheduled meeting, the objector provides to the board's clerk written or oral notice of an intent to file an objection, except that upon a showing of good cause and the submission of a written objection, the board shall waive that requirement during the first 2 hours of the board's first scheduled meeting, and the board may waive that requirement up to the end of the 5th day of the session or up to the end of the final day of the session if the session is less than 5 days with proof of extraordinary circumstances for failure to meet the 48-hour notice requirement and failure to appear before the board of review during the first 2 hours of the first scheduled meeting.
4. Objections to the amount or valuation of property shall first be made in writing and filed with the clerk of the board of review within the first 2 hours of the board's first scheduled meeting, except that, upon evidence of extraordinary circumstances, the board may waive that requirement up to the end of the 5th day of the session or up to the end of the final day of the session if the session is less than 5 days. The board may require objections to the amount or valuation of property to be submitted on forms approved by the Department of Revenue, and the board shall require that any forms include stated valuations of the property in question. Persons who own land and improvements to that land may object to the aggregate valuation of that land and improvements to that land, but no person who owns land and improvements to that land may object only to the valuation of that land or only to the valuation of improvements to that land. No person may be allowed in any action or proceedings to question the amount or valuation of property unless the written objection has been filed and that person in good faith presented evidence to the board in support of the objections and made full disclosure before the board, under oath, of all of that person's property liable to assessment in the district and the value of that property. The requirement that objections be in writing may be waived by express action of the board.
5. When appearing before the board of review, the objecting person shall specify in writing the person's estimate of the value of the land and of the improvements that are the subject of the person's objection and specify the information that the person used to arrive at that estimate.
6. No person may appear before the board of review, testify to the board by telephone, or object to a valuation if that valuation was made by the assessor or the objector using the income method of valuation, unless no later than 7 days before the first meeting of the board of review the person supplies the assessor with all the information about income and expenses, as specified in the assessor's manual under s. 73.03 (2a), Wis. stats., that the assessor requests. The Town of Richmond has an ordinance for the confidentiality of information about income and expenses that is provided to the assessor under this paragraph that provides exceptions for persons using information in the discharge of duties imposed by law or the duties of their office or by order of a court. The information that is provided under this paragraph, unless a court determined that it is inaccurate, is not subject to the right of inspection and copying under s. 19.35 (1), Wis. stats.
7. The board shall hear upon oath, by telephone, all ill or disabled persons who present to the board a letter from a physician, surgeon, or osteopath that confirms their illness or disability. No other persons may testify by telephone unless the Board, in its discretion, has determined to grant a property owner's or their representative's request to testify under oath by telephone or written statement.
8. No person may appear before the board of review, testify to the board by telephone, or contest the amount of any assessment unless, at least 48 hours before the first meeting of the board, or at least 48 hours before the objection is heard if the objection is allowed under s. 70.47 (3) (a), Wis. stats., that person provides to the clerk of the board of review notice as to whether the person will ask for the removal of a member of the board of review and, if so, which member, and provides a reasonable estimate of the length of time the hearing will take.

Notice is hereby given this 15th day of June, 2022.

Anxiety rises for children during storm season

The changing seasons and warmer weather can create the perfect climate for severe weather and storms.

For children, and even some adults who might have a fear of storms, it can be a struggle to cope during the season.

“Storms can be scary,” said Dr. Patrick Terry, a family medicine physician at ThedaCare Physicians-Oshkosh. “It’s normal for children to be afraid of storms. The unpredictability can be especially unsettling for some. It’s important to take steps to address your child’s concerns if their fears or anxiety from storms begin to disrupt their daily life and typical routines.”

While children of all ages may experience storm anxiety, it can be present at different times depending on their age. It can be helpful to first find out if your child has storm anxiety. If your child is experiencing nightmares during storms or complaints of stress-related ailments they may have weather-related anxiety.

“For some children with a significant fear of storms, it’s not so much the storm itself, but the anticipation of a storm,” said Terry. “That anticipation can result in ongoing stress and anxiety.”

Some of those stress-related ailments to watch might include headaches, stomach aches, crying, being overly clingy, being irritable, nightmares, trouble sleeping and bedwetting.

Terry said that many children’s fear of storms can start to lessen as they age, but for some children, it may still be a concern. There are several ways to help your children overcome their fears of storms.

Experts provide the following recommendations to help your children overcome their fears of storms, including:

- Give your child the opportunity to ask questions. Helping your child have a better understanding of storms can help children sort through their emotions. Give your child some time and space to think about and express their concerns.
- Talk with your child about their fears. If your child expresses fear, then reassure your child that you understand storms can be scary. Also, let them know that you’re there to keep them safe. Listening to their concerns can go a long way in helping ing children feel comforted. As you work through ways to help them handle their fear, remember to be supportive and encouraging. Never punish or belittle a child for being afraid.

- Model calm behavior. Children pick up and mimic parents’ behavior, so if storms stress you, your children may learn to respond the same way. Try to model a calm approach. Take deep breaths and monitor your thoughts to help yourself cope and plan ahead to increase your sense of control.
- Be honest about the possibility of danger during storms. Overlooking your child’s fears and not validating their concerns can create more fear and anxiety. Let children know that you’re there to help and keep them safe.

• Create a family storm plan. A storm safety plan helps reduce anxiety before, during and after a storm. Create a storm plan so everyone knows where to go in case of severe weather. Typically, everyone should go to the lowest level or basement, away from doors and windows. It’s also ideal to have an emergency kit with you with items such as a flashlight, batteries, weather radio, candles, matches, food, water, pet supplies and other essentials.

• Offer distractions. Another idea is to keep a couple of board games, cards, or children’s toys near the storm meeting spot to pass the time and remain calm. Parents can make things fun with board games, puzzles, play-doh or card games to pass the time.

Terry said that it’s important to seek professional help if your child continues to struggle or their fears of storms do not subside.

“As a family medicine physician or pediatrician, we’re always here to have those conversations with families,” said Terry. “Once we understand what a child might be experiencing, we can work with the family to talk through options and determine the best plan to help. We want families to feel comfortable, empowering their children to overcome their fear of storms.”

Shawano's Henning tabbed Bay's top player

4 other Hawks also recognized

By MORGAN RODE
Sports Editor

Five Shawano Community High School baseball players were named to Bay Conference teams this spring, with junior Ashton Henning being tabbed the Player of the Year.

Henning and senior Zac Jurmu were unanimous picks to the first team as an infielder and outfielder, respectively. Senior Carson Popp made the first team as an at-large pick. Senior pitcher Jacob Polzin made the all-conference second team, while junior infielder Jacob Landon made the honorable mention list.

Henning finished Bay Conference play with a .419 batting average. He doubled seven times, tripled three times and clubbed two homers. Henning drove in 25 runs and scored 19 times.

Henning pitched 34 innings for the Hawks, picking up five wins and one save. He struck out 48 batters and had a strong 2.60 earned run average.

"It's a really great honor, and it's a goal of mine I have had in the back of my head for awhile now," Henning said. "To actually achieve that goal is amazing."

"This motivates me to work even harder this offseason to see what I can do next year," he continued. "Right now the sky is the limit, and I'm really looking forward to what next year brings."

Jurmu was an on-base machine at the top of Shawano's lineup. He posted a .421 average and was on base at a .528 clip.

The senior outfielder doubled six times and tripled once. Jurmu scored 18 runs and drove in 10 other runs.

"Receiving unanimous first team all-conference as a senior is extra special to me because it is the exact goal that I set for myself following the end of my junior season, when I received second team all-conference," said Jurmu. "I went to a few hitting clinics and camps over the offseason and really just learned how to trust in my ability to play baseball well."

"It's pretty obvious that the majority of the Shawano varsity team had that same mentality, because there are numerous other players other than myself that received an all-conference spot this year. It just feels like a picture perfect way to end off my high school baseball career. I would not have wanted it any other way."

Popp was the team's primary catcher this spring. He helped guide pitchers through games, but he was also a big threat at the plate.

Popp recorded a .377 average in Bay action. He drove in 13 runs and scored 14 times.

"It was really awesome to be recognized as a first-teamer, especially in our conference where there are a lot of really great players," said Popp.

Polzin covered 29 innings on the mound to earn his honor. He picked up a pair of wins and a save while striking out 26 batters and sporting a 1.90 earned run average.

Landon capped his junior season with a .348 average. He doubled seven times and drove in 10 runs. Landon also scored 14 runs for the Hawks.

Shawano tied for the Bay title with Menasha with 12-6 conference records. The Hawks went on to win a regional title before coming up just short of a sectional semifinal win.

Gillett/Suring pair, STAA/Lena player make M&O 1st team

Teams have total of 5 all-conference players

By MORGAN RODE
Sports Editor

The Gillett/Suring and St. Thomas Aquinas Academy/Lena softball co-ops each had players named to the Marinette & Oconto Conference first team after strong spring seasons.

Gillett/Suring senior Madison Vandavelde and freshman Emma Kristof and STAA/Lena junior Chaela Rabas all made the first team.

Gillett/Suring sophomore Autumn Dryja and STAA/Lena freshman Peyton Dorow both were honorable mentions.

Vandavelde earned her first-team honor as an outfielder. In her senior season, she turned in a .310 batting average and .444 on-base percentage in conference play.

The outfielder doubled twice and tripled once among her nine total hits. Vandavelde drove in 10 runs and scored four times.

"I think it is really important to me," said Vandavelde of the honor. "It's something I never expected. Not only my team but the conference made me grow as a person, student and athlete. It is such an honor to be recognized by all of the M&O coaches for all of the hard work I put in to get to this point."

Kristof quickly made a name for herself in her freshman season, batting .559 in conference play to go along with a .595 on-base percentage.

Kristof doubled eight times and tripled twice among her 19 total hits. She drove in 14 runs and scored 10 runs.

She also spent 12 1/3 innings in the circle in conference play. She struck out 10 batters.

"To me, making first team makes me feel like everything I worked for all season has paid off," said Kristof. "It also makes me feel like people are now seeing what I can do on the field.

"Now that I got first team this year, I feel like I have to work harder to get it the next year. It will also motivate me to work hard on the field to get better each day."

Rabas made the M&O's list as the top catcher. The junior batted near the top of the team's lineup and was solid defensively behind the plate.

"Making first team is a huge accomplishment for me," said Rabas. "It shows that all my hard work in the offseason is paying off.

"This will motivate me for next season as I strive to be on first team again and finish my high school career on a high note."

Dorow dealt with an injury this season, but she was able to show enough in her time on the field to earn an honorable mention nod as a freshman.

"Making the honorable mention team was really special to me, especially since I only got about half of a season with my injury. It was amazing to receive an award like this," said Dorow.

"This award and that honor will motivate me to not only make myself better for the upcoming years, but make me aware I'm fully capable of anything — even coming back from an eight-month injury strong enough to receive an award."

Dryja had a strong season at the plate and also did some pitching for the Gillett/Suring co-op.

She finished with a .385 batting average and an outstanding .590 on-base percentage after walking 10 times. Dryja doubled twice among her 10 total hits. She also scored seven runs and drove in three during M&O play.

Dryja pitched 45 1/3 innings in conference play, striking out 23 batters along the way. She earned the team's only conference win.

STAA/Lena also had one conference win.

4 Pulaski players honored for FRCC play

Klingeisen makes 1st team as senior

By MORGAN RODE
Sports Editor

The Pulaski High School baseball team had four players land on a Fox River Classic Conference team this spring.

Senior Jonah Klingeisen was a unanimous first-team selection. Sophomore Kyle Olson made the second team, while senior Logan Hochevar and junior Lincoln Simons were both honorable mentions.

Klingeisen finished the spring season with a impressive batting average of .449 to go along with a .481 on-base percentage. He had 12 extra-base hits among his 31 total hits, drove in 22 runs and scored 12 times.

The senior also covered 17 innings across 10 games pitched. He struck out 14 batters and earned a pair of wins.

"It is a super special accomplishment as all my years of hard work have come together to shape me into the player I am today," said Klingeisen. "I couldn't have done it without all the support I received from my parents, coaches and teammates over all the years. I couldn't have asked for a better way to wrap up my senior season."

Olson was Pulaski's most-used pitcher, covering 48 innings across nine games and eight starts. The sophomore earned four wins, struck out 45 batters and had a strong 2.77 earned run average.

At the plate, Olson drove in eight runs on 12 hits and also scored 10 times.

"It means a lot to me for getting second team — shows a lot of who you are and the hard work that you have done," said Olson. "I'm not satisfied with second team though, and I'm gonna keep pushing myself to get first team and hopefully even Player of the Year.

"I will be motivated for the next two years to keep improving not only on myself but as a team and pushing each other to do great things. Pulaski will be better and stronger next year and looking for a state run."

Hochevar capped his senior year with a .344 average and .446 on-base percentage. He drove in 16 runs and had nine extra-base hits among his 21 total hits.

Simons tallied a .278 average and .435 on-base percentage for the Red Raiders this spring. He posted 15 hits and 11 RBIs while scoring 15 runs.

The junior covered 15 innings on the mound, striking out 11 batters along the way.

"To make the honorable mention team for baseball feels like a huge honor to me, especially considering how hockey is my main sport," Simons said. "To achieve all-conference awards in two sports is super cool to me."

"This honor will motivate me for next year because I know we lose some really good hitters," he continued. "So I will have to do even better than I did this year in order for our team to have the success we are hopeful for."

Bucks' Beauchamp overcomes adversity to reach NBA

By RICH ROVITO
The Associated Press

There was a stretch of homelessness while growing up. A constant shifting from one high school to another. The cancellation of an NBA draft training program due to the pandemic. A year proving himself with a G League developmental team.

MarJon Beauchamp's journey to the NBA has been fraught with so much adversity, he questioned whether he'd even have the opportunity to get here. At one point, after missing out on the training program, Beauchamp dealt with depression and felt his chances had run out.

"There was a point that I didn't really believe in myself," Beauchamp told the media June 28. "I didn't have (any) opportunities, and I wanted to be in the league so bad."

He cried on draft night when the Milwaukee Bucks took him with the 24th overall pick and received welcoming text messages from Bucks stars Giannis Antetokounmpo and Khris Middleton. But it wasn't until he arrived in Milwaukee this week, saw his image on a billboard and met with coaches and team personnel that he finally knew "it's getting real."

"I think all the adversity prepared me for this moment," Beauchamp said. "The obstacles I had to go through to get here was a little different from everyone. Getting through the adversity made me who I am today and made me more thankful of my opportunities. I don't want to lose this opportunity."

General manager Jon Horst said he was thrilled that Beauchamp remained on the board when the Bucks' pick came up.

"This is an incredible opportunity for us when you look at the player and the person ... and the things he's overcome in his life to get to where he's at," Horst said. "We believe this will be someone who will be a great fit for us both for basketball and from a personality and character standpoint."

Beauchamp's humility has impressed Mike Budenholzer, but the Bucks coach stressed that Beauchamp will have to win a spot on the roster and playing time with a team that won the NBA title in 2021.

The chance to play with a championship-caliber team has Beauchamp excited about landing in Milwaukee.

"It's a blessing to be in a winning situation and with a winning team because I feel like I'm a winner," he said. "I feel like I can flourish with this team."

Beauchamp sees himself fitting in first and foremost as someone with "young energy" who can contribute immediately on defense while providing outside shooting on the offensive end, a sore spot for the Bucks in last season's playoffs.

"I know there's a lot of attention on Giannis, and I feel like I can knock down that 3-ball in the corner," he said.

Beauchamp, who credited his grandmother for keeping him focused throughout the challenging periods, said he continues to be motivated by a goal he set some time ago, one that reflects the hurdles he's faced.

"My goal is to get my mom a house one day," Beauchamp said.

Gresham's Hannah Cerveney and Valarie Cerveney, Bonduel's Allaina Robaidek and Lena's Max Beyer all played in 45th annual Wisconsin Basketball Coaches Associated All-Star Games on June 29 and 30. All games were played at JustAgame Fieldhouse in Wisconsin Dells.

The Cerveney girls played on the Division 5 girls game on the North team. The team was defeated 68-51.

Valarie Cerveney made a pair of free throws in the first quarter, while Hannah Cerveney made two free throws in the third quarter.

"I was so thankful that I was chosen to play on the WBCA All-Star D5 North team," said Hannah Cerveney. "It was such an amazing experience, and I had a blast.

I made new friends, and it was so special that I got to experience it all with my cousin Valarie. It was definitely very special for me to be able to play in that game for my last high school game."

"Was really cool to kind of have like a second last high school game, it was a bittersweet moment," said Valarie Cerveney. "After seeing one of my brothers and one of my sisters play in the games as well, one of my goals for the season was to make the all-star team."

The teams spent time on the practice court in the couple days leading up to the game, but also had plenty to do when not playing.

The teams stayed at the Great Wolf Lodge and got to swim at a waterpark before eating at Buffalo Phil's. After dinner, teams continued to bond.

The all-stars got to enjoy jet boat rides the following day, along with a tour on the river and more swimming at a waterpark. The night before the games, there was a banquet to recognize the all-stars and the money that was raised for the MACC (Midwest Athletes against Childhood Cancer) Fund.

"Our team was so close, we got along so well," said Valarie Cerveney. "From day one it was like we knew each other forever, it was so fun."

"The actual game was super fun and I had a great time," said Hannah Cerveney. "It was a really awesome experience to play against some of the best players in the state."

Robaidek played in the Division 4 game on the North team.

Robaidek's team lost 63-54, but the Bonduel grad scored nine points. She knocked down a pair of 3-pointers in the first quarter and then converted an and-one in the third quarter.

"Being surrounded by amazing girls really put a highlight on my career," said Robaidek. "The amazing friends I made just topped the experience and made it a memory I

"Playing with/against girls with such amazing talent really opened my eyes to the world of Wisconsin basketball. It's honestly one of the greatest and most hard-working groups of women out there. It was an honor to be included in such an amazing group of girls."

Beyer was on the Division 5 boys red team that earned a 99-88 win on June 30.

"It was a huge honor to play with all of the guys and get to go out one last time," said Beyer.

Beyer scored eight points in the contest to help his team to victory.

"It was awesome playing with and against everyone — such great talent and it was definitely a memory I'll never forget," said Beyer.

Angie's says goodbye to its customers

Owner closing downtown mainstay after decades of cooking up meals for community

By LYNN ZAFFRANN
Correspondent

On the days leading up to the July 1 closing of Angie's Main Café in downtown Shawano, diners by the dozens appeared, getting one last taste of Angie Bistoff's breakfasts and lunches.

Nostalgia reigned at the 1950s-style diner, as guests greeted Bistoff for one last time and reminisced about the 24 years the diner graced Main Street in Shawano.

With just two days to go before the end of an era and 15 minutes before the scheduled 2 p.m. closing, Bistoff was still at the cooktop completing orders, with at least ten tickets hanging above the grill. She worked her magic non-stop to get the orders completed for the waiting customers.

"You should have seen when there were too many tickets to clip above the stove," Angie said with a laugh. "The staff started piling them up for me."

Carry-out orders were sent on their way by her dedicated staff and diners waited patiently at booths, tables and counters. At 2:15 p.m., Bistoff completed the remaining two tickets. By 2:30 p.m., final dessert orders were filled by her staff. A few customers lingered at tables and the counter, while Bistoff and her staff cleaned up.

"Business has been booming since I made the announcement on June 24," she said. "It's been packed every day and I'm so humbled and grateful and thankful that everyone's coming out to see us all. They've become part of the family."

Numerous customers made a point to come in to eat and visit with Bistoff and her staff after hearing about the restaurant's scheduled closing. Long-time customers recalled their favorite meals, talked about the camaraderie with staff and the general social atmosphere found at Angie's. Customers voiced that Angie's will be sincerely missed.

"I'm just overjoyed and wish a big, big thank you to everyone who has come out to support us all these years and I'll see them on the other side — of the counter," Bistoff said.

Despite the number of meals that she needed to prepare, Bistoff took time for hugs and goodbyes with long-time customers and friends, and customers who had become friends.

One customer, Tammy Clauss, said

Customers sit at booths and tables at Angie's Main Café enjoying homestyle food and enjoying the camaraderie of Angie Bistoff and her dedicated staff. July 1 is the scheduled date for the downtown Shawano's popular breakfast and lunch dining spot.

Three generations of the Clauss family enjoy a last get-together at Angie's Main Café in downtown Shawano before the restaurant's July 1 closing date. Tammy Clauss, bottom left, is a long time customer who always made a point of eating at the diner when coming in to Shawano. "This is my youngest grandson's first and last visit to Angie's," Clauss said. The baby is pictured with his mother on the right.

that she always came to Angie's with her sister, Christine Fletcher, who has a physical impairment, making her very slow-moving.

"Angie always made time to come out from behind the counter and give Chris a hug," Clauss said. "Every time we came in to Shawano, we made it a point that we'd eat at Angie's. Even when my father was alive. We're really going to miss her and all of her staff."

Clauss made her last visit at the restaurant with her family, including three grandsons, one of which is just five weeks old.

"This is his first and last visit to Angie's," she said.

In 1992, Bistoff started as a cook when the location was Popp's Diner, owned by Marvin and Judy Popp. She purchased the diner in 1998 and renamed it Angie's Main Café.

"Judy Popp taught me everything I know," Bistoff said.

When the Pops were selling, she was reluctant to buy the business, but did so and remained for the duration.

She said that the menu stayed the same over the years, with the same recipes.

"I added gluten free items," Bistoff said. "I make my own gluten free bread. Everything here is made from scratch, we use real potatoes, real burgers without fillers. I have veggie burgers. I added a few items to help people with special diets."

Bistoff said she's loved the hard work, but it's gotten to be too much working seven days a week.

When asked what is next, she sighed and said, "I'm just going to take the summer off and get my mind together. I never could have done this without the great team here, the great people that come out here. I always say that I have the best staff in the universe and the best customers and friends. They've supported us all these years, and I thank them from the bottom of my heart."

The building, built in 1948 by Henry Dehn as an ice cream shop, changed little over the years. The future is wide open for its new uses, but Angie's legacy will remain in the hearts of her employees and customers.

Jehovah's Witnesses eager to resume public ministry

Virtual ministry still an option for officials

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

Members of the Jehovah's Witnesses in Shawano County have returned back to their public ministry, two years after it was suspended due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

"The key is living with COVID, so that we can continue to be careful and vigilant," said U.S. Jehovah's Witnesses spokesman Robert Hendriks III.

Shawano minister Jacob Wheeler said that he is both excited and nervous to bring public ministry back to Shawano.

"Within the past couple of weeks, we were able to visit some of our friends at their work and have nice conversations, so that took away some nervous feelings," said Wheeler. "It is exciting for the community, because we are excited to help them see the hope from the Bible."

Wheeler said it is invigorating for him to be able to use literature in public ministry again.

"We have those literature carts every Saturday morning at the farmer's market in Shawano, starting in July," said Wheeler. "I like using those carts, because it allows those in the community to approach us. It also lets us highlight our website, jw.org, where the public can learn more information."

Much like appearing at the farmer's market, Wheeler said there are some local strategies for how the Jehovah's Witnesses are getting back to the public.

"We are able to go out and do some businesses and talk to those who are at work," said Wheeler. "That has been exciting, because we know that we may not be able to contact them at home. It is exciting to just be able to share a brief article. Many have been appreciative of that."

Wheeler said that throughout the time that ministry was virtual, he came to miss the face-to-face interaction between members and the public.

"We can have a genuine conversation and see their reactions and body language when we talk face-to-face," said Wheeler. "Being one-on-one helps me to show more personal interest in them, and hopefully those in our community can really tell that we are not some stranger over the phone."

Hendriks said that June 1 was the date that the organization wanted to look at getting back out into the public.

Shawano minister Jacob Wheeler, left, shares messages from the Jehovah's Witnesses in person to the public. Jehovah's Witnesses recently made the decision to go back to public ministry after having it suspended due to the COVID-19 pandemic in early 2020. Jehovah's Witnesses will continue to provide virtual ministry too for those who feel more comfortable going that route.

CONTRIBUTED

"We, as Jehovah's Witnesses, have spent a lot of time isolated in our homes and not visiting people — in fact, we have not done our ministry on the streets; we haven't had Bible studies," said Hendriks. "June 1 was that moment in time where we could say, 'Let's begin to look at other ways to be productive in our ministry and turn the page to this living with COVID-19 phase.'"

As of June 1, members of the Jehovah's Witnesses have begun to appear back in public areas, like airports, subways, street corners and community events.

"It is very gratifying, because being isolated and writing one-way communication has been challenging," said Hendriks. "We are very much looking forward to being able to reestablish that personal connection with our neighbors in a safe way."

Public ministry was suspended in early 2020, when the COVID-19 pandemic started to ramp up. Hendriks noted that when deciding to go back to public ministry, officials knew it was going to be a slow process.

"On March 20, 2020, when the word went out that there would be no more in-person meetings or in-person ministry, we stopped cold in our tracks," said Hendriks. "Most of us thought that the only way we would stop our ministry is if we were in jail or if we died. Within just days of the announcement we realized this was a deadly disease. That decision to suspended in-person activities was a wise one, and it probably saved many lives."

Hendriks added that fatigue started to set in with members of the Jehovah's Witnesses, many of whom wanted to get back out and resume in-person ministry.

"We were excited to say that we know how to be careful and live with COVID," said Hendriks. "We need to start our in-person meetings and ministry again."

He added that the first couple of weeks back in person has been a little bit of a transition.

"The reaction has been careful and nonjudgmental," said Hendriks. "Yes, there has been joy and many have participated 100%, but this is also something that will take time. We are phasing this process, so that we don't say this is mandatory."

Hendriks noted that the Jehovah's Witnesses will continue to hold virtual meetings and ministries for those who feel more comfortable participating that way.

"For many, this will take time and that is OK," said Hendriks. "We want everyone to make a personal choice. To give people that choice — that is the key. We did not have the choice before."

Wheeler said that before the COVID-19 pandemic, those strategies of using literature and meeting people at their jobs were successful.

"Many times, we will see people pull out their phones after talking to them, and maybe they are looking up more information," said Wheeler.

Moving forward, Wheeler added that Jehovah's Witnesses are continuing to look for more events and venues where they can continue to spread their message.

"We are always looking for more opportunities to find where the public is," said Wheeler.

A new spin on golf: Disc golf comes to Shawano

Father's Day takes on special meaning at the disc golf course at Don Martzke Park next to Shawano Community High School.

For Eric Jansen and his 15-year-old son, Braylon, both of Kimberly, tossing discs at an area course has been a Father's Day tradition since Braylon was 6.

ROSS BIELEMA

"It's a constant challenge," the elder Jansen said of the sport as the father-son duo warmed up at a practice basket before Hole 1 of the 9-hole course. His parents are retired and live in Shawano, so it's a natural that they would spend Father's Day in the woods of this relatively new course.

Sean Miller, of Cloverleaf Lakes, an avid disc golfer and single-parent dad to two grade-schoolers, says he took up the sport just about the time he became a dad. Tossing a plastic disc was a way to get a breather from parenting responsibilities, if only for a few hours, he explained.

Now his children Zariah, 6, and Silas, 5, regularly accompany him to the course at Martzke Park as well as other courses in Clintonville and New London.

The beauty of disc golf is that almost anyone can play. There are no clubs to be fitted for and to replace as kids grow bigger. That's a good thing for the elder Jansen, as his son is almost as tall as him. Serious disc golfers carry backpacks or bags full of discs for drives, curve shots and putts, but a beginning player could get by with two or three discs.

"Frisbees were way different than they are today," said Miller.

College students in the 1960s started Frisbee golf by tossing discs in garbage cans, and later evolved into a formal sport. Those larger "flying saucers" were bigger and more whippy than today's smaller, more wind-resistant discs. Ironically, the Wham-O Corp., inventor of the Frisbee, is no longer a major player in disc golf. Brands like Innova and Discraft now dominate the sport, and pro tournament players play for huge jackpots.

Miller, who grew up in Shawano, was introduced to the sport seven years ago by his buddy Jeff "Gumby" Waymire of Clintonville. They played their first game together at Olen Park in Clintonville, one of two courses there. A few months later, Miller became a dad, adding more stress to his responsibilities. The fresh air, walking and repeated throwing of discs was just the exercise he needed at just the right time.

Sean Miller, of Cloverleaf Lakes, tosses a disc on the practice tee at Shawano's disc golf course at Don Martzke Park on Father's Day. The nine-hole course, completed in 2020, continues to draw disc golfers to its scenic, wooded 18 acres.

ROSS BIELEMA

"This sport has tripled in size since COVID," he said. That's a good thing for Miller's nephew, a former Shawano man who now runs an online disc golf company in Salem, Oregon. David Miller's Swift Discs is taking off like the bird it is named after. The 26-year-old entrepreneur was born and raised in Shawano, but had one simple reason for moving away in 2016.

"I could not handle how cold it was in Wisconsin," he said. It's only snowed around Salem three times since he moved there. He had never actually played disc golf in Shawano, partially because there were no courses at the time. He started playing with friends out there, then got hooked on some of the swirly designs and colors of the discs themselves. Soon he became more of a disc collector than a player.

"I was always looking for these amazing discs and figured I could get them for a wholesale price," he said. He placed his first wholesale order for $1,000 and Swift Discs was airborne. Although his personal collection has expanded to a modest 60 discs, he now has about 1,000 discs for sale at his growing business,

BY THE NUMBERS

Most discs used for disc golf feature a series of four numbers that show the flight characteristics of that disc. In order, the numbers represent the speed, glide, turn and fade:

SPEED: 1-14 (14 is fastest). Faster discs cut the wind but require more arm strength. Slower discs are generally more accurate, especially for beginners.

GLIDE: 1-7 (7 has the most glide). Glide is the ability of a disc to remain aloft. More glide is better for beginners; less glide is more accurate in strong winds.

TURN: +1 to -5. Turn is short for High Speed Turn, a disc's tendency to turn over or bank to the right (for a right-handed player). A +1 disc is most resistant to turning over, while a -5 is most likely to turn over. More turn is easier for beginners; less turn is more accurate in the wind.

FADE: 0-5 (5 has the most hook at the end of the flight). Fade is short for Low Speed Fade, a disc's tendency to hook left (for right-handers). A 0 fade disc finishes the straightest. High-fade discs are used for skip and spike shots.

which stresses speedy shipping.

David Miller said the sport is popular and growing because it is affordable. The only equipment needed is a few discs, and many courses don't even charge a fee to play. The sport appeals to all ages, and as his uncle and others have proven, it's definitely a family sport.

The biggest foes you are likely to face on the disc golf course are the sun, mosquitoes and ticks, because most challenging courses feature lots of woods. Shawano's course is a bit swampy in spots, so don't wear your new shoes.

The city spent about $10,000 on the course, including premium baskets and concrete pads, said Matt Hendricks, Shawano's parks and recreation department director. He used his expertise when he worked in Marshall and oversaw construction of a tournament-level disc golf course (Bird's Ruins 28-hole course) to help plan Shawano's course, along with an expert designer. Planning began in 2018 for construction on 18 acres of woods (which also has a cross-country running trail and walking trail), and was completed in 2020.

Additional pruning of trees has been done, in part with the input of players, he said.

"It's one more way to get out and walking," Hendricks said.

Pay attention to plants, hanging baskets

You have taken the time and creativity to plant or purchase summer blooming annuals, as well as your summer fruit and vegetable crops. Now that the heat of summer has arrived, your plants will thrive beneath the summer sun. Be aware, however, that summer blooming plants, as well as edible crops, do need your attention from time to time to keep looking and performing at their best.

ROB ZIMMER

Caring for hanging baskets and combination planters is simple and easy, as long as you stick to a few regular maintenance activities.

Gardening is a verb. It is an action. Once you purchase an annual hanging basket or porch or patio planter, it is not as simple as just setting the planter outdoors or hanging the basket on a hook.

To keep these stunning and carefully created masterpieces looking their best and flowering continuously, it is important to provide at least a minimal amount of care, sometimes daily.

Most importantly, these containers and hanging baskets must be watered thoroughly, sometimes daily. On windy and exceptionally hot days, it may even be necessary to water hanging baskets twice each day.

Once a hanging basket or container dries out, it is sometimes difficult to get it to return to its full glory. Providing consistent, regular watering helps to keep the basket or container thriving.

Fertilizing annual baskets and containers is also necessary to keep these arrangements thriving throughout the entire summer season. Often, gardeners forget to fertilize and the basket or container dwindles in flowering beauty over several weeks during the summer season.

The easiest way to fertilize a hanging basket is to use a high-quality, bloom booster-type fertilizer and apply according to the package directions. I prefer the water-soluble fertilizers over granules, especially for annual planters and baskets. The water-soluble mixtures give instant availability to the food source, whereas the granules often take far too long to release into the soil.

The benefits of an instant fertilizer boost from a water-soluble, bloom

Annuals bloom best when fertilized regularly throughout the growing season.

ROB ZIMMER

Deadheading, or removing spent blooms, keeps plants looking healthy and creates more buds for even more color all season.

ROB ZIMMER

booster fertilizer, such as Miracle Gro or other, is just what your annual planters need to continue to produce new blooms throughout the season. You can fertilize every time you water using these water-soluble fertilizers at a lighter ratio, or fertilize at full strength every few weeks or so.

Be sure to use the correct fertilizer for the types of plants you have in your containers. For explosive bloom, it is best to use one of the bloom boosting fertilizers.

One of the most important aspects of container gardening with hanging baskets and planters that many gardeners neglect is pruning, trimming and deadheading.

Even the most stunning and beautiful planter or basket requires some pruning, trimming and deadheading to continue to be vigorous throughout the season. Sometimes, a simple haircut will do. Just shear several inches of growth every few weeks.

Sometimes, you also need to prune at the center of the planter, pinching off old growth and trimming leggy stems.

Deadheading keeps annuals looking healthy, as well as stimulates new growth. Deadheading is simply popping off or removing spent blooms to keep the container looking healthy, as well as encourage new buds to form.

Give your planters and hanging baskets some routine care throughout the summer season to keep them thriving and bringing you joy for months.

Angels guard humanity, protect folks from harm

Do you believe in angels? The definition of an angel according to the Merriam-Webster dictionary is “a spiritual being serving as a divine messenger and intermediary and often as a special protector of an individual or nation.” The word angel derives from the Greek angelos, meaning “messenger.” It is used in the Bible to denote God’s attendants, with angels often depicted as being guardians of humans.

I believe in angels. I believe they are here to give us messages, hope and strengthen our faith in God. Have you ever listened to the song “Angels Among Us” by the group Alabama? I urge you to listen to this song, especially if you are having hard times or your faith is weak. Let me share some of my experiences with angels.

My husband was an over-the-road set me down on my feet on the floor, standing straight up. I did not fall or waiver. No other human being was on the truck with us. I believe it was an angel.

I find that when things or happenings in life are at their worst or become unbearable, angels come to help. They may be in the form of a truck driver, and we were in the semi driving down the road. I was climbing on the bunk to reach something on the shelf. He had to hit the brakes. I, at that moment, felt someone lift me up and friend who calls at your most desperate moment or a kind stranger helping to pay with groceries when your wallet is empty. You might say these are just coincidental acts, but are they?

This past year, I really needed angels. We moved up here from a more populated city in Wisconsin. We did not know anyone in the area. I reached out to some local churches and asked if anyone could help us unload the things we moved with. Several people (my angels) from the community church came and helped unload. What a blessing that was.

About three weeks later, my husband was hospitalized in a coma and on a ventilator. He remained on the ventilator for 38 days and in the hospital for three months. I fell to my knees and asked God to send angels, and they came. They prayed with me and held me and told me to keep believing. Today, my husband is alive and progressing in his recovery.

The angels helped strengthen my faith and give me hope through the most difficult times in my life. With all the bad and sad things happening in this world today, why not try to believe and ask for help and guidance from angels? What do you have to lose? You just may regain your faith when you feel all is lost. You may see more good than evil. Could you be the angel someone may need right now?

Bless you.

AROUND THE COMMUNITY

CWEC electricity safety demonstrations return

To help promote Electricity Safety Month in May, linemen from Central Wisconsin Electrical Cooperative (CWEC) conducted electricity safety demonstrations for fourth-grade students in Birnamwood, Bowler, Tigerton and Wittenberg.

"Knowing the importance of electricity safety, we were excited to once again be able to bring these safety demonstrations back to the classrooms of area schools," said Bert Lehman, member relations specialist at CWEC. "The students seemed to enjoy the safety demonstrations and had a lot of good questions."

The demonstrations showed students firsthand the dangers that could occur if they aren't safe with electricity. Students got to see some of the safety equipment linemen have to wear when they work around power lines, as well as what above ground and underground power lines look like. Linemen also showed students what happens if a tree branch, kite string, and fishing line come in contact with a power line.

To help convey how dangerous electricity is, students were shown what would happen if a human hand touched a power line. A hot dog was used to demonstrate this.

Finally, students were informed about what to do if they were involved in a vehicle accident that resulted in a downed power line and, if need be, how to properly exit a vehicle in that situation.

Northwoods Quilters to meet July 11

The Northwoods Quilters' Club will meet at 9:30 a.m. July 11 at Pioneer Presbyterian Church, 1947 Riverside Ave., Marinette, to work on charity projects. The meeting will also include the election of new officers for the next year.

The quilters will be helping out Crivitz, Peshtigo, Marinette, Menominee and Mid-County residents. There is no size limit, color or type. Quilter can make these at home and bring to club meetings.

Fourth-grade students at Wittenberg Elementary-Middle School are shown by CWEC lineman Mack Yarbrough what happens when a body part touches a power line. A hot dog was used in the demonstration.

CONTRIBUTED

Northwoods Quilters is open to new members of all skill levels. The club alternates morning and evening meetings to accommodate those with daytime jobs.
