Village board votes to change mask mandate

Mask mandate changed from required to strongly recommended at community center

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

The Wittenberg Village Board voted to adjust the mask mandate in the village's community center April 20.

The change in the mask mandate goes from requiring that masks are worn to strongly recommending that masks are worn.

The change is coming on the heels of vaccinations being more readily available for members of the Wittenberg community. With the staff at the community center getting vaccinated, a conversation arose of the need to keep the mandate in place.

"Now that our staff has been vaccinated, I think a lot of it was to keep our staff and visitors safe," said Barb Buchholz, board trustee.

Members of the village board have noticed that visitors in the audience have attended the meetings without a mask on.

"We have had people come to meetings and they weren't wearing them, even though we mandated it for business hours," said trustee David Timm.

There was previously a mask mandate on the building, requiring everyone who comes into the building to wear a mask during the regularly scheduled business hours.

Board trustee Paul Yaeger said at the April 6 village board meeting that he was in favor of the board approving to lift the mask mandate within the community center. Yaeger said the statewide mask mandate had expired, and that he thought the community center should follow suit.

"If people want to keep wearing them, then they can," said Yaeger on April 6. "Seeing that the state can do it, can't we lift ours?"

Board trustee Marlene Wepner said that businesses in the communities surrounding Wittenberg were starting to take down masking signs.

"I went to town today in Wausau, and there were no signs on the stores that were saying to wear a mask," said Wepner. "There were still some people wearing masks. The workers were wearing masks."

The board discussed the idea that if someone doesn't want to wear a mask then they do not have to, but that option is always there to wear one.

"I think that the big thing is the term — required," said Buchholz. "Obviously, if you want to wear one, you can wear one — it is just a matter of requiring it."

Board trustee David Timm made the original motion to implement a mask mandate in order to protect employees within the community center. At the April 19 meeting, he made the motion to change the community center from requiring that masks be worn to strongly recommending that masks be worn.

"I felt more comfortable after talking to Village Clerk Traci Matsche and she had talked to the employees, so I have been thinking about this a little bit," said Timm. "This is no different than what the county just put out."

The board agreed that changing the mask mandate would give visitors the option to wear a mask if they wanted to. The motion passed unanimously to change the mask mandate within the community center.

Signs will be up at the Wittenberg Community Center stating that masks are strongly recommended.

WBHS Retrospect to show off student skills

Wittenberg-Birnamwood High School is bringing back Retrospect, its career and technical education student project exhibit, which will be held from 5-7 p.m. May 5.

Admission is free. There will be a freewill dinner sponsored by the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, and flowers will be available to purchase in the agriculture department.

In addition to dinner and flowers, this year's show will also feature projects from the content areas of wood-working, manufacturing/transportation/STEM lab, family and consumer science, information technology and art. Live demonstrations will be exhibited in woods and art. Visitors will be able to watch as students throw pottery on the pottery wheel in the new art studio. They can also tour a tiny house and see the laser engraver, CNC router and 3-D printer in action.

Not only will this event provide an opportunity to get a behind-the-scenes look at student work within the classroom, visitors will be able to check out the new and improved facilities at the high school — constructed as a result of the 2019 referendum approved by voters. Student exhibits will be displayed in the library and the upgraded classrooms.

Farm requests expansion in Town of Almon

Strassburg Creek Farm looks to upgrade from 1,650 animal units to 2,530

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

About a dozen people were in attendance at the Almon Town Hall on April 21 to listen to details about a license request with a proposed expansion of a livestock facility on the Strassburg Creek Farm, N7339 Regina Road, just north of Bowler.

The proposal of the expansion, coming from the Kenneth and Shirley Strassburg Revocable Trust, would be from 1,650 animal units to 2,530 animal units. An animal unit is a way to measure how an animal impacts a farm in relation to food and waste. Larger animals often have an animal unit above one.

According to Scott Frank, Shawano County conservationist, the meeting was held in order to provide an explanation on the application for the expanded livestock facility and to receive public input on the application. Frank also mentioned if people within the community wanted to submit questions to the county land conservation office, that they can do so through May 3.

"The county shall grant or deny the application within 90 days after giving notice that the application is complete," said Frank. "That 90 days is up to July 8."

Frank added that past licensing procedures have not typically approached 90 days.

Frank also mentioned that the farm's existing license was approved on March 5, 2008, which led to the 1,650 animal units.

"The decision on the license is based upon odor management, waste and nutrient management, reviews of the waste storage facilities, run off management and setbacks that have to be set for livestock structures and waste storage structures," said Frank.

Jeff Strassburg, owner and operator of Strassburg Creek Farm, mentioned that the farm has grown over the years while keeping key employees.

"With the expansion here, our hope is that to milk 300 cows with the same amount of labor," said Strassburg. "We want to keep continuing doing what we do and keep the key employees that we have. It also allows us to bring the next generation into the farm."

Jennifer Keuning, an environmental consultant representing GHD out of Green Bay, presented the details of the application to those in the audience.

The expansion of Strassburg Farm would include upgrading from 1,650 animal units to 2,530 animal units. Animal units are measurement of how an animal affects a farm in terms of food and waste.

Jennifer Keuning, an environmental consultant from GHD in Green Bay explains the details involved in the proposal to expanded the Strassburg Creek farm. Keuning predicts that there will be an addition of 250-300 animals on the farm.

LUKE REIMER | NEW MEDIA

"Today, our application that we are putting forth is for 2,530 animal units," said Keuning. "That will be accommodated through the addition of a new free-stall barn."

Keuning also mentioned that the 377 foot by 255 foot free-stall barn will include robot milkers.

"This will allow the farm to adopt new technology and continue to do all of the work with the same amount of labor," said Keuning. "That new free stall barn will have room for 540 cows."

This will allow for the rest of buildings on the farm to not be too overcrowded. All together, Keuning predicts that there will be an addition of 250-300 animals.

According to Keuning, the design for the free stall barn also includes a manure channel that will move manure out of the barn into a reception tank.

Keuning mentioned that there is an emergency response plan in place in case of an accident on the farm.

"We will stop the leak or the spill, assess the situation and make the phone calls that we have to make," said Keuning. "It is not against the law to have a spill, but we have to do the right thing if it happens."

Part of the proposal included an odor management plan. In the odor management plan, Keuning stated that the farm needed to be kept clean.

"I always tell my clients that people smell with their eyes," said Keuning. "If the place looks like a dump, then people are going to assume things that may not be true — but they are still going to assume it."

At the meeting, there was no public concern for the details of the expansion of the farm.

After May 3, when all public comments are considered, the Shawano County Land Conservation Department will go through the process of making the decision to approve or deny the application.

A map detailing the proposed plans of the site is included on the Shawano County website, <https://www.co.shawano.wi.us/i/f/files/4-14-21%20LCD%20Strassburg%20Site%20Plan.pdf>

Renovations continue on American Legion Post

Volunteers helping to construct new basement for Darling-Gunderson Post 341 in Birnamwood

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

Volunteers are working on renovating Darling-Gunderson Post 341 of the American Legion in Birnamwood.

Located at 355 Wausau St., the American Legion building was chartered in 1921.

A new basement is being added to the existing American Legion building due in part to that being the first step to adding any more renovations.

“There was a basement there, but unfortunately it was not usable,” said post commander Dave Humblet. “The water was coming through the cracks in the foundation — so we had to do something.”

“The rest of the framework is all in good shape, but it is not good if you lose your foundation — that’s where we had to start,” he added.

Humblet said that the post needed renovations due to the ground’s effect on the foundation of the building.

“At one point there was a ditch around the building — when the village filled it in, due to the pressure and the ground water, ground started to push in on the foundation,” said Humblet. “It was an old stone foundation that started to crack and fall into the building.”

Humblet said that the building has needed repairs for a while, including the foundation and a hole in the roof.

“It was to the point where we had to do something or we were going to lose the building,” said Humblet.

According to Humblet, every small town used to have a veterans organization’s post, whether it be American Legion or VFW, not only to show that there are veterans in the area but to give veterans an area to operate.

“Having a building of our own kind of gives us somewhat of an identity,” he said.

Along the way, the history of the building has been lost as older members pass away. The belief is that the building was built in the early 1920s due to the granite stone foundation.

“Some of our longer-standing members remember the building being a kindergarten and a library,”

LUKE REIMER | NEW MEDIA

Humblet said. “The building has been used for different purposes throughout the years.”

Humblet said having the American Legion is important to communities.

“The American Legion sponsors government education, which are programs that teach about state, local and federal government,” said Humblet. “It is things to help educate our youth on how government works from the county to the federal government.”

The American Legion is also an advocate for veterans rights, said Humblet.

“Things that may affect health care — they are advocates for lobbying Congress on behalf of veterans,” said Humblet.

The American Legion is very involved in the Birnamwood community, as they sponsor little league baseball and provide military honors for veterans’ funerals.

Darling-Gunderson Post 341 has typically not been open to the community, unless there have been prior plans to reserve it. Humblet said it will be used for meetings and storage of flags and weapons.

According to Humblet, the American Legion is about volunteering, and Legionaires and others in the community are helping to make the renovations on the post in Birnamwood. He also said that the building trades class at Wittenberg-Birnamwood High School is going to help out with the renovations as part of their class curriculum.

Due to limited funds and limited time, Humblet is unsure when the renovations will be completed. He did mention though that once the basement is in, they should have better picture of a timetable for the remaining renovations. He predicts that the basement renovations should be completed before Memorial Day.

“Obviously we want to get it to usable condition as soon as we can,” Humblet said. “We are looking at different ways of getting donations of materials — not just money.”

According to Humblet, Home Depot offers a program to apply for a grant.

“The more that we get in — funds or materialwise — the quicker we can get done,” said Humblet.

The funds for the renovations of the building come from fundraisers in towns. Humblet said that the post’s Memorial Day chicken dinner fundraiser has been the biggest help to bringing in money to put towards the building. Gun raffles and summer picnics also help in the aid of raising money.

Humblet said a picnic is planned on Aug. 15 to mark the 100th anniversary of the American Legion Birnamwood post being chartered.

“We will sell burgers, brats, beer and soda,” he said. “We will have music and raffles throughout the day as well.”

Humblet believes that the public should be interested in this project because it brings pride to the community.

“It is right in the center of town and can provide a bright spot in Birnamwood,” said Humblet.

Donations from the community are welcome. Memorials to veteran family members or in honor of other veterans, are also welcome, he said.

“We take pride in representing our community,” Humblet said. “We want people to be proud of having us here.”

Forensics teams conclude unusual season

Performance competitions were done virtually this year

Birnamwood and Wittenberg forensics students finished a successful season with short awards ceremonies.

Like so many other things, this year forensics was different due to COVID. Students had to record their performances several times, pick out their best performance and send it to the Level 1 judges, who viewed their performances and sent students their score sheets digitally. Then they had to repeat the whole process again.

Birnamwood students earning all A ratings at both Levels 1 & 2 and receiving blue ribbons included: eighth-grade prose reader Sage Blum, who performed "Priscilla and the Wimps," eighth-graders Marli Novy and Maddy McRae on their play "Juliet and Ophelia"; and seventh-grader prose reader Madeline Gottschalk, who performed a selection from "Harry Potter and the Order of the Phoenix."

Earning an A- rating at Level 1 and a B+ rating at Level 2, red ribbon award were sixth-graders Roman Johnson and Christina Schreurs for their Readers' Theater "Gym Bags and Other Horror Stories." Earning a participation award was Lily Holbach. Special congratulations to Maddy McRae and Marli Novy who earned A+ ratings. The team received their awards on April 6.

Wittenberg students earning A ratings at both Levels 1 & 2 and blue ribbons are eighth-grader Alexandra Jaskolski for her poetry reading "Families and Friends"; seventh-graders Chekotey Horacek for his poetry reading "The Shooting of Dan McGrew" and Sadie Ostrowski for her prose reading from "Handle with Care"; and sixth-graders Kelsie Davis, Charlie Eichman, and Lily Metropolis for their Readers' Theater "Big Talk." Earning participation certificates were Alex Robbins, Hadlee Pruess, and Adrienne Brenic. Special congratulations to Chewy, Sadie, Lily, Charlie, and Kelsie who also earned A+ ratings. The team received their awards on April 20.

A 'Living Treasure' becomes a centenarian

Longtime resident Ann Block turns 100

By NEW MEDIA STAFF

One of Shawano County's "Living Treasures" turned 100 on April 22.

Ann Block has lived in Wittenberg for 75 years and celebrated her 100th birthday with her friends at the Homme Home. She operated a beauty shop in town for more than three decades, said her daughter-in-law, Linda Block.

In 2009, the Shawano County Aging Unit honored Block as one of seven local "Living Treasures" during May Older Americans Month, and the Wittenberg Enterprise and Birnamwood News carried the write-up from the program:

Ann Block was born April 22, 1921, near Symco in Waupaca County. When she was 8, she knew she wanted to be a beautician. By age 12, she started working by doing housework in the neighborhood. She was also taught how to cook, iron and sew. Her parents wouldn't let her go to high school, so she continued to work and also farm. Ann met her husband Ben in New London. They were married in 1940 and moved to Tomahawk. In 1946, they moved to Wittenberg. They had two boys, Randy and Wayne. Ann has six grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren. (Now 13 great-grandchildren and three great-great-grandchildren.). Ann did fulfill her dream and took the high school equivalency test, and for funerals. They had great teamwork.

Ann is very active at Redemeeer Lutheran Church where she is ready to clean, bake and sew. Ann enjoys making quilts for Lutheran World Relief and for Homme Home for the Aging. The quilts are sold to raise money to benefit the residents. Last year, she helped make 48 quilts for went to school to become a beautician and passed her state boards. She owned her own business as a beautician for 31 years. Ann and Ben used to make and decorate cakes for the grandchildren

Homme Home. Ann also enjoys visiting the residents and, in the past, she would drive others to doctor appointments. Ann has sewn quilt toys, made grapevine wreaths and used to do sewing and alterations for friends. Ann enjoys golfing and used to walk the course up until this year. Ann and Ben used to travel to many different states to golf. Ben has been deceased for nine years. She continues to play canasta with her friends. She is also known for her sweet rolls and cream puffs. Ann loves to bake and shares with family and friends.

Lois A. May

Lois A. May, 92, of Clintonville, passed away Tuesday evening, April 20, 2021, at the ThedaCare Regional Medical Center in Neenah.

Lois Annette Salzmänn was born Feb. 4, 1929, in the Town of Pella, Shawano County. She was the youngest of nine children of Arthur and Minnie (Anderson) Salzmänn. Lois graduated from Shawano High School and, having an adventurous spirit, moved to California, where she met Eugene Mullens. The couple were united in marriage and moved to Illinois until Eugene's death just a short while later.

Lois then moved back home to the Clintonville area where she became an executive secretary at the Seagrave FWD Corporation. While at work, she caught the eye of Oscar May, who also worked for Seagrave. The couple were wed on Aug. 27, 1960, at the Evangelical United Brethren Church and were inseparable ever since. They were both very active members of the now-named United Methodist Church in Clintonville, where Lois volunteered often and enjoyed singing with the Bell Choir.

Lois and Oscar were very close with their nieces and nephews, making them feel like their own children. Oscar preceded Lois in death on Jan.

30, 2010, and altered her life immensely. Lois was very routine oriented and could always find peace by spending time near the Embarrass River on her home farm. She loved being outdoors — whether it was gardening or just watching the deer, eagles, loons and other wildlife. Her strong faith and love of family will always be remembered.

Survivors include numerous nieces, nephews, great-nieces and great-nephews, as well as a sister-in-law, Wanda Schwartz.

Shawano County honors poster contest winners

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

Shawano County had two children place in Wisconsin's land and water conservation poster contest, and one of them will see his poster compete at the national level.

Flynn Bushman, of Wittenberg, took first place in the division for second- and third-grade students, while Aliya Cynor, of Bonduel, took second place for the division for seventh through ninth grades. Bushman's poster will continue to the National Association of Conservation Districts

Conservation Poster Contest.

This is the third year that the county has participated in the conservation poster contest, according to Scott Frank, county conservationist. The theme for the contest was "Healthy Forests, Healthy Communities."

Mary George, an office assistant at the land conservation office who spearheads the poster contest effort for the county, noted that efforts to get children involved with the contest this year were more difficult because of the coronavirus pandemic.

"With the schools closed, it was hard to get the information to the children," George said to the Shawano County Board of Supervisors at its April 20 meeting.

Despite the pandemic, five children entered at the local level. All first places go to an "area level," George said, which covers seven counties. Then those winners continue to the state level, followed by the national level.

"I give them a lot of kudos for that," George said. "They were so brave to take the time and do that and take time out of their virtual learning to create beautiful posters."

George added that this is the first year that Shawano County has had two posters place at the state level.

"That's really a big accomplishment for us," she said.

George proclaimed both Bushman and Cynor as "professional artists" because they each won $25 for getting first place at the area level.

In addition to the state honors, FWD Seagrave in Clintonville provided backpacks with assorted items to Bushman and Cynor, according to George.

Millers win harrassment injunction against Retzlaff

Marathon County judge issues temporary restraining orders

By NEW MEDIA STAFF

A Marathon County judge has ordered the owner of a Shawano County campground to cease harassment of a county supervisor and his wife.

Ann Retzlaff is prohibited under restraining orders issued April 27 from contact with Joe and Jackie Miller and must stop what the judge called “false claims and/or allegations of criminal or violent behavior.”

Judge Suzanne O'Neill's injunctions, which followed a hearing via Zoom from both Marathon and Shawano county locations, will be in force for four years.

Retzlaff and the Millers are residents of north central Shawano County. Joe Miller is a member of the Shawano County Board of Supervisors and a member of Stockbridge-Munsee Tribal Council, as well as the Bowler School Board.

The Millers individually filed a request for the restraining orders April 14. The hearing was moved to Marathon County after the Shawano County circuit court judges recused themselves, citing Joe Miller's position on the county board.

Among the items submitted as evidence of harassment was a March 26 email sent to Shawano County Sheriff Adam Bieber, Shawano County Supervisor Jerry Erdmann and Shawano School Board member Mart Grams. In it, Retzlaff said that Joe Miller and the other county board members who voted in March against a resolution establishing Shawano County as a Second Amendment sanctuary “need to be removed, fined, tried, jailed.”

Retzlaff claimed in the email that the Millers “openly promote hatred” toward her and her business, Annie's Campground, but have not spoken or written to her about their concerns. She claimed the Millers started a petition against her a year ago that caused “haters” to threaten and harass her.

At the hearing, the Millers denied circulating the petition.

Retzlaff claimed that the Millers “are drug traffickers in our area and I suspect know or are a part of the child/sex trafficking at our two casinos/tribal lands,” referring to the Mohican North Star Casino Resort, which is operated by the Stockbridge-Munsee Tribe, and the Menominee Casino Resort operated by the Menominee Tribe.

During the hearing, Jackie Miller said that the allegations had an impact on her role as a guardian ad litem (a court representative of children's interests) for the Stockbridge-Munsee Band of Mohican Indians tribal court. She said she received a copy of the email from the parent of one of her clients and had to remove herself from the case.

Jackie Miller added that Retzlaff alleged that she had committed violence against Bieber at a county board meeting where the sheriff had not been present.

During the proceeding, the judge allowed the Millers, individually, and Retzlaff to ask questions about each other's testimony.

Retzlaff asked Jackie Miller if the allegations of drug and sex trafficking were true, to which she responded, “No.” She then asked, “Are you a good witch or a bad witch?” Retzlaff explained that when dealing with satanic sex and drug trafficking, “there are good witches and bad witches. I am a good witch.”

O'Neill cut off the questioning, saying it was not relevant to the testimony provided by Jackie Miller.

In her letter, Retzlaff also claimed that Joe Miller “is despicable and needs to be charged with numerous crimes, treason, defamation of character, verbal assault against our sheriff and more ... This needs federal attention and resolution.”

Joe Miller denied the sex trafficking and drug allegations and said that Retzlaff's allegations of treason, based on the riot of Jan. 6 at the Capitol in Washington, D.C., were words that “take on new meaning to anyone.”

“The respondent speaks to her rights. I ask the court, what about our rights? We beg the court for protection against these libelous and defamatory allegations,” Joe Miller said.

The judge issued the injunctions at the end of the hearing.

Retzlaff said she would comply with the order to avoid contacting the Millers, because she felt she had already been avoiding contact.

“As far as exercising free speech — she's (O'Neill) in trouble with what she ordered me to do,” Retzlaff said.

Jackie and Joe Miller said they were pleased with the court's decision.

Seeking more dementia-friendly communities

Dementia care specialist program works with individuals, caregivers, businesses, organizations to educate and advance understanding

By WARREN BLUHM

Editor-in-chief

The idea of dementia is scary: A disease or syndrome that slowly steals your memories and beliefs, all of the things we think of as uniquely us.

It's Mary Jo Ruleau's job to demystify those fears and help people understand.

Ruleau is a dementia care specialist (DCS) with the Aging and Disability Resource Center (ADRC) of the Wolf River Region; Kristin Waukau of the Menominee Nation is another. Together the 29 ADRC dementia care specialists and four tribal DCSs across Wisconsin provide support for individuals with dementia and their caregivers, as well as community education and business training to teach others about it.

"We want to enhance the quality of their life as they make this journey and help them stay in their homes as long as they can," Ruleau said during an interview at the ADRC office in Oconto Falls. The region also has offices in Shawano, Keshena and Bowler with satellite locations in Wittenberg and Lakewood.

Not a specific disease, dementia is defined as a chronic or persistent disorder of mental processes characterized by impairment of brain functions, such as memory, judgment, social skills and thinking ability. Alzheimer's Disease is the most common cause of dementia.

The dementia care specialist can offer classes, resources and "someone to talk to," Ruleau said.

Among the ADRC's efforts is to encourage dementia-friendly businesses and communities.

"The goal is to reduce the fear of dementia and the stigma associated with it, so people can feel more comfortable discussing what they're going through," she said.

Ruleau can lead a "Purple Angel" class for business owners and employees, which she described as a "Dementia 101" session about how to recognize when a customer might be having difficulty.

Mary Jo Ruleau, dementia care specialist with the Aging and Disability Resource Center of the Wolf River Region, helps people in Shawano, Menominee and Oconto counties to understand dementia and its impact on lives.

WARREN BLUHM | NEW MEDIA

AT A GLANCE

The Aging and Disability Resource Center (ADRC) of the Wolf River Region has six locations:

Menominee County - Health and Human Services building at W3272 Wolf River Road, Keshena

Oconto County - 229 Van Buren St., Oconto Falls

Shawano County - W7327 Anderson Ave., Shawano

Stockbridge-Munsee Community - Elderly Center, N8651 Maplewood St., Bowler

Satellite offices are open for appointments only

Wittenberg - Located in the Wittenberg Community Center, 208 West Vinal St., Wittenberg

Lakewood - Located within North Lakes Community Clinic, 15397 State Highway 32, Lakewood

When an individual calls and visits the ADRC, 8 a.m.-4:30 p.m. weekdays, they can speak to an Information and Assistance person, who is able to provide free, confidential Options counseling, access to publicly-funded long-term care programs, pre-admission consultation and relocation, transitional services for young adults, customer advocacy, access to emergency services and short-term coordination. If the customer gives permission, that customer can be referred to the dementia care specialist, if there is a need.

Also, The Dementia and Caregiver Network of the Wolf River Region is a coalition that brings together people from the community to work on dementia-related initiatives, which the local dementia care specialists are a part of. The Forget Me Not Fund supports the Network.

"We talk about what to look for, how to respond, to help them be warm and accepting," she said.

An estimated 120,000 people in the state of Wisconsin are coping with a form of dementia, she said, and about 6 million people in the United States.

Ruleau and her fellow dementia care specialists are always organizing classes and activities such as the Dementia Friendly Book Club, a three-week series about that's about to begin and featuring discussion of "My Two Elaines: Learning, Coping, and Surviving as an Alzheimer's Caregiver," the 2017 book by former acting governor Martin J. Schreiber about his wife, who was diagnosed with Alzheimer's in 2007.

The online information portal Caring.com lists the book among its "Best Caregiver Books," saying it's "infused with patience, guidance and even humor as he talks about how to provide round-the-clock care to the loved one who no longer recognizes you."

The book club will meet via Zoom or telephone from 2-3 p.m. Wednesdays starting May 5 in sessions organized by the Menominee Tribe, Marinette County ADRC and Wolf River ADRC. Schreiber is scheduled to make a virtual guest appearance at the May 12 session.

Other programs include DICE (Describe, Investigate, Create, Evaluate), an interactive session to learn how to assess and manage the behavioral symptoms of dementia. The next virtual session is scheduled for 10-11 a.m. May 4.

Dementia friendly caregiver activities sessions focus on 300 creative ideas that caregivers can complete from A to Z — making applesauce to creating zen sun catchers and everything in between. The free session includes an interactive group activity, with materials mailed prior to the session. The next session, also via Zoom or telephone, is scheduled for 2-3 p.m. May 11, with another set for June 22.

The state Department of Health Services hosts monthly webinars by dementia care specialists in Wisconsin from noon-1 p.m. on the second Wednesday of each month. The May 12 webinar is titled "Building a Support Network," and on June 9 the topic is "Safety Planning."

Most of these programs were held in person until COVID-19 became a concern in March 2020, and in-person activities are starting to return in limited numbers, Ruleau said.

Among these is "Boost Your Brain," an eight-week program that takes a holistic, evidence-based approach to improving brain health. The program is scheduled for 1-2:30 p.m. Wednesdays starting June 16, with in-person or virtual options for participants.

Speakers and trainers will discuss topics like maintaining spirituality, nutrition, physical and emotional health, socialization and exercising participants' cognitive reserves, Ruleau said.

People can register for these events or receive more information by contacting Ruleau at 715-526-4712 or maryjo@adrcwolfriver.org.

New apartments going up in Shawano

S.C. Swiderski breaks ground on Engel Drive complex

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

Ground has been broken on new apartments in Shawano.

Mosinee-based S.C. Swiderski LLC began building a new apartment complex on Engel Drive in Shawano on April 22.

The apartment complex will be built on just over 18 acres. The complex will consist of six 16-unit, two-story apartment buildings with attached garages, four 20-unit, two-story apartment buildings with detached garages and four six-unit, single-story apartment buildings with attached two-car garages. The complex will also feature two road entrances, one from Engel Drive and one from County Road B. Construction costs are estimated to be $20 million.

According to Jacqui McElroy, S.C. Swiderski director of business development, 200 apartments will be added to help with the housing demand in Shawano.

City Administrator Eddie Sheppard said Shawano has been struggling with adequate multi-family development housing.

"This is something that we know that we needed for a long time," said Sheppard. "We have been looking for a partner like Swiderski to get in here and build something. As they did their research, they recognized that we just have a lack of it in the community."

Sheppard said that, as more people are coming to Shawano, they haven't been able to keep up with the demand of adequate housing in the area.

"The supply just hasn't kept up with the demand," said Sheppard. "We just haven't had the construction over the last few years to meet the needs."

With the apartments being added, Sheppard said that they are going to need more housing in the future.

Jacqui McElroy, director of business development at S.C. Swiderski, presents the details of what the new apartment complex will entail at the site on April 22.

LUKE REIMER | NEW MEDIA

"I think that this is going to help," said Sheppard. "We still know that we need more, and we are always looking at continuing. You are always bringing in new businesses — you have to look at places for people to live, too."

McElroy mentioned that through research, Shawano was found as an area with an opportunity for development.

"We have been working very closely with the city of Shawano on planning this site," said McElroy. "We do research throughout the state, and this Shawano project has one of our highest feasibility scores that we have seen."

S.C. Swiderski has been building and managing apartments since 1992. McElroy mentioned that all of the departments within the company work together to provide something known as the "SCS Difference."

"From our design team to construction to property management, we are all working together to make sure that we deliver quality housing and great service for our tenants," said McElroy.

Sheppard hopes that these apartments and the businesses coming into the community will help to raise the population.

"It is great to have people who are willing to commute and work here, but we want them to live here and be in our community," said Sheppard.

Sheppard forecasts that some units from the apartment complex will be open as soon as October. In total, the whole project will take 18-20 months to complete.

"I think by the end of 2022, everything will be built up," said Sheppard.

S.C. Swiderski was looking at this area to expand their housing, too. According to Sheppard, this worked out as the city owned the land on which the apartments are being built.

Sheppard said that adding $20 million of additional infrastructure into the tax base will help to ease the burden among all of the Shawano taxpayers.

"In general, anytime you are able to grow your tax base, it is good for your community because it spreads that burden out," said Sheppard.

The COVID-19 pandemic has not affected the overall plans of the apartment complex being built.

"Surprisingly, it hasn't affected us," said Sheppard. "This was always the original timeline. S.C. Swiderski has been pretty open and honest with us all along the way, and fortunately they didn't have any delays."

Sheppard believes adding these apartments to Shawano should excite residents due to the continued growth of the city.

"This is a step in growth in our community," said Sheppard. "There is clearly a need for additional housing, which means that people are looking at Shawano as a place that they want to be. It is always a good sign when people want to live here."

"We still know that we need more, and we are always looking at continuing. You are always bringing in new businesses — you have to look at places for people to live, too."

Kolaskes expect business to boom in summer

Green Gables in Bonduel is a new gathering facility for those looking to hold social events

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

A new gathering facility for weddings and parties is ready to make a name for itself this summer.

Bill Kolaske, who owns the Red Rooster in Bonduel, purchased the property at N3711 Highway 47 mainly for the barn that was there. A bonus was the 1870s Victorian-style farmhouse that sat next to it. In 2018, the Kolaske family started renovations on the property. Kolaske is assisted by his seven children and their families in staffing the venue.

"He wanted to open a bed and breakfast when he bought this," mentioned Bill's son Ben Kolaske. "The setting and the location was prime for hosting events. He wanted a business that his kids could take over."

Since the renovations were finished on the house and the barn in 2020, Green Gables of Bonduel has become a popular destination for groups of people seeking to host weddings, parties and other gatherings.

"People who did not know that this was here are very impressed with how the renovation went from a barn to as neat as what it did," said Ben Kolaske. "They like the rustic feel and the rustic look."

The family-run business is not limiting itself just to weddings, however. The Kolaskes are also accepting reservations for banquets, class reunions, graduation parties and anniversaries. A craft show, yoga nights and bluegrass music are on the docket for summer, he said.

While the renovated farmhouse did not end up becoming a bed and breakfast, the Kolaskes have put the facility to good use. "We have had small dinner parties for a maximum of a dozen people," said Ben Kolaske. "We provide all of the food."

Stephanie Kolaske, Ben's wife, mentioned that summer will be a busy time at the event space. "We are booked pretty much all of June," she said.

To that end, their staff has plans to continue renovating and improving the grounds to make it a top-notch destination for their clients. "We also have plans to paint the barn and build an arbor to place weddings and receptions wherever the guests want to go," said Ben Kolaske.

All told, the space is large enough for a significant number of guests. "For a sit-down meal, we can hold about 250," said Stephanie Kolaske.

"We want to accommodate however many people that those holding the gathering want there," said Ben Kolaske.

As word spreads about the new facility, Stephanie Kolaske said she is noticing interest from people outside the local community.

"We have had people come in from down by Green Bay and Appleton," she said. "We even had someone from Missouri who is interested in booking an event."

Stephanie Kolaske mentioned that even with the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic, the size of their facility has led to minimal issues.

"We are lucky in that we have not had much trouble with the pandemic," she said. "We have had groups who wanted to socially distance, and we were able to accommodate them."

In addition to allowing for sufficient spacing, the business can also provide extra cleaning for additional peace of mind.

As the weather continues to get warmer and the pandemic slows, business is expected to boom at Green Gables.

"We are expecting to be fully booked by 2022," said Stephanie Kolaske. "We have had a lot of people already. This year we are devoting to exposure and getting people into the barn. 2022 is looking good."

"Any weekends that we have open this year, we want to use as an advertising weekend," added her husband. "We have looked into having a kids' day — having someone come out and do balloon animals and a magician, just to bring people in and know that we are here."

The community is expected to play a big role in the success of Green Gables, as Stephanie Kolaske mentioned that she wants this facility to hold more than just personal events.

"We really want to be a big community place," she said. "We want to hold a lot of community events, hence an FFA dinner banquet and yoga nights."

The Kolaskes mentioned that this facility is needed for the community because of the increased demand for different settings for gatherings. They also said they hope their success will spill over and help other community businesses to thrive.

"The uniqueness of the Green Gables is something that people take into consideration when planning their event," said Ben Kolaske. "It also brings in more business for the community."

"We just want to be a place for people around here to just come and hang out," said Stephanie Kolaske. "There is not much like this facility around Bonduel."

Open house at Horsens

Shawano County residents witness new robot milking technology

The cows at Horsens Homestead Farms poke their heads out of their feeding stations to greet visitors on April 24. The farm milks around 720 cows with state-of-the-art milking technology.

Dozens of visitors took advantage of the April 24 open house at the new robotic milking facility at Horsens Homestead Farms in Cecil to witness the latest in modern farming.

Co-manager of Horsens Homestead Farms, Ryan Horsens mentioned that an opportunity opened up to finally show community residents the new facility. Horsens is a fifth-generation farmer, with the farm starting in 1879.

“We built this project 16 months ago and with COVID-19 and everything, we were always wanting to do an open house,” said Horsens. “A lot of neighbors were asking if they could see things and check it out — there was finally a good opportunity to show everybody what we did.”

The robot milkers were introduced to the farm in December 2019. According to Horsens, the farm’s new robot milkers were a main draw of residents coming to the open house.

Horsens mentioned that robots came out in the last decade, but in the last couple of years, that technology has really improved. He mentioned that Horsens Homestead Farms has included these robots in their facility because it gives the cows more comfort.

“For us, what we were drawn to was the cow comfort,” said Horsens. “It’s kind of the cow’s world, which has always been what we have been striving to do.”

Visitors at the open house mentioned that the technology at the farm is a surprising sight to see.

“It is very interesting,” said Gillett resident Rich Rademann, who grew up on a farm. “It is unreal to see how modern farming has become.”

Roger Salzwedel, a Shawano County resident, was in awe at the new technology in the barn.

“It is simply amazing,” Salzwedel said.

Horsens said a cow knows when it’s ready to get milked when it feels it in its udder, and the cows in the barn have become accustomed to the robots and some cows try to get milked multiple times a day.

“It is a combination between them feeling it in their udder, when they are starting to get more milk, and they get a treat in the robot,” said Horsens.

In total, the farm is milking about 720 cows. With nine robot milkers in place, this equates to 60 cows per milking robot.

“We are very happy with this because we were a little nervous with Brock Herzog, a Gillett resident, meets a cow at the Horsens Homestead Open House on April 24. Herzog was one many area residents who came to the farm to see the cows and the new milking technology.

All of the cows at Horsens Homestead Farms are Holsteins. Ryan Horsens says the cows “just know” when it’s time to be milked.

Dozens of Shawano and Oconto County residents pack the walk ways of the barn to get a closer look at the cows on April 24. Visitors were also treated to a lunch of burgers or brats, cheese curds, vanilla ice cream and milk.

Horsens Homestead Farms opened up the milking stations for visitors to come and see at the open house on April 24. Co-manager Ryan Horsens described the new robot technology as modern agriculture.

our higher producing cows — that we might not get that number,” said Horsens. “But it has really worked out where we are able to have that many cows.”

In comparison to working without the robots, Horsens mentioned that the introduction of the robots is similar to what they were doing before.

“The only thing that changed for us was how we got the milk,” said Horsens. “The other 99% of the cow’s day, we try to either keep it the same or improve it.”

Horsens mentioned that a way to improve the cow’s living situation was changing how air was ventilated.

“We ended up going from naturally ventilated barns to mechanically ventilated barns,” said Horsens.

“What we were worried about was cows that were further away from the opening, making sure that they have fresh air. We want to make sure that the air that the cow breathes closer to the opening is the same as further away — it is probably one of the things that I was most proud of in the project.”

Horsens believes that the public needs to care about this because of the advancement in agriculture.

“It is modern agriculture,” said Horsens. “Being able to see where things have come in the last 50 years — going from where my grandparents were to where we are now, still maintaining a family farm, but also adapting to new technologies that put the cow first.”

The main philosophy of Horsens Homestead Farms has always been putting the cow first.

“Our key things that we always talk about are comfort, consistency, and quality forage,” said Horsens. “When you get those three things working, it really makes the best environment for the cow.”

Cow comfort is a main focus of the Horsens family with the introduction of the robot milkers. Visitors at the open house noticed this as well.

“This is a very modern choice,” said Tim O’Harrow, an Oconto County resident who runs O’Harrow Family Farms. “The cows look very healthy and comfortable.”

Horsens mentioned that all 720 cows that are milked in the barn are Holstein breeds.

With the introduction of the robots, Horsens Homestead Farms has also introduced collars on the cows that track when the animals are in heat and how long the cows are eating.

“This allows us to figure out what cows are sick, or what cows need attention,” said Horsens. “Even though we are bigger, we are making sure that things aren’t falling through the cracks.”

Horsens said that the farm averages 104 lbs of milk per cow per day. The milk is sent to Agropur in Little Chute, where it is made into cheese.

PBS Wisconsin launches 'Why Race Matters'

PBS Wisconsin has announced the launch of "Why Race Matters," a nine-part digital series focused on important issues affecting Wisconsin's Black communities.

In the new series, host Angela Fitzgerald interviews Black Wisconsinites about race, identity and achieving racial equity in the state. Through conversations with experts, artists, community organizers and health professionals, viewers will hear the historical context to modern issues impacting the state's Black residents, including mental health, civic engagement, maternal well-being, the school-to-prison pipeline, agriculture and land ownership.

"Why Race Matters" is now available for viewing on all PBS Wisconsin digital platforms. Subsequent episodes will premiere 7 p.m. Wednesdays at pbswisconsin.org/whyracematters. Episodes can also be viewed on the free PBS app on Roku, other digital streaming devices and Smart TVs.

In summer 2020, with an urgent and amplified national conversation about race following the killing of George Floyd, Fitzgerald, host of "Wisconsin Life," felt moved to use her role in public media to help localize the discussion about improving the conditions of Black Americans. Out of this comes "Why Race Matters," an extension of Fitzgerald's commitment to foster a Wisconsin that repairs its stark racial disparities and achieves equity for Black people living in the state.

Each episode of the digital series sets up the conversation with background and context about the history of a systemic issue. In-depth interview conversations between Fitzgerald and her guests follow, where personal stories and how they relate to the larger topic are shared.

"We are building out a library of resources to accompany each episode to reflect that way of thinking," Fitzgerald said. "Here are some organizations, here are some things you can read up on, other things to help that energy maintain itself, to hopefully lead to whatever action makes sense."

Week two of the racing season at the Shawano Speedway rolled onto the track with heavy jackets, stocking caps and blankets filling the grandstands as cold temperatures were the story of the night.

With other tracks having to cancel due to weather, the pit area was full of travelers and regulars for the night of racing. Hardy fans came out to see Jared Siefert, Luke Lemmens, Tyler Sobiescyk, Mike Mullen and Tanner Westphal pick up feature wins.

The IMCA Sport Mods led off feature action with Dylan Waldvogel and Sobiescyk on the front row. Sobiescyk wouldn't let his great starting position go to waste as he stormed out to a commanding lead in the early part of the race.

Waldvogel was challenged and eventually passed by John Holtger, who got close to the Sobiescyk machine on a couple of occasions but was not able to make the pass.

Back in traffic, Jayden Schmidt made his way forward in a spirited battle with Jeffrey Teske and Max Oreskovich. Schmidt eventually grabbed the third spot with Teske finishing fourth.

The IMCA Mods ran second on the night and early on it looked like it would be the Eddie Muenster show. Muenster jumped out to a large lead on lap one and began to pull away as last week's feature winner Mullen began moving forward along with Marcus Yarie.

Mullen and Yarie both started in the fifth row, and by lap seven, they were starting to reel in Muenster. Mullen got by the Muenster machine on lap eight, with Yarie grabbing second on lap nine. Lucas Lamberies followed suit and grabbed the third spot on lap 10.

Mechanical problems ended the night for Muenster, while Mullen was cruising to victory. Yarie held off Lamberies for second, with Johnny Whitman and Konnor Wilinski rounding out the top five.

The Late Model Division saw longtime driver Siefert and Justin Ritchie starting in the front row. Siefert capitalized on a great start to grab the top spot and began to pull away from the Ritchie machine. Ron Berna began to challenge Ritchie for the runner-up spot.

A lap seven caution slowed action. On the restart, Berna got past Ritchie and began to challenge Siefert for the lead. Siefert was up to the challenge and again started to extend his lead.

On lap 13, caution flew again and once again give Ritchie and Berna an opportunity to get to Siefert's back bumper. Ritchie used this restart to retake the runner-up spot, with Nick Anvelink moving to third past Berna. Running an exceptionally smooth line, Siefert picked up the feature win with Ritchie, Anvelink and Berna in tow.

The IMCA Stock Cars continue to show why they are the most exciting class to watch every week at the speedway. Dan Michonski, coming off a miserable opening night, went to a backup car while his primary car was being repaired. Michonski started on the pole position in the feature event.

Michonski jumped to an early lead but soon was joined by Chucky Forstner and Eric Arneson in a battle for the top spot. Trent Nolan also joined the battle throughout the middle of the race. A caution took the Arneson machine out of contention a few laps later.

Meanwhile, Lemmens powered his way to the front and eventually wrestled away the top spot from Forstner in a great side-by-side battle. Lemmens, returning to the speedway for the first time in nine years, grabbed the checkered flag with Forstner finishing second. Travis Van Straten took third, with Nolan finishing fourth.

The Mighty 4 feature saw Westphal get past pole sitter Alexis Michonski in the opening laps to grab the top spot. Last week's feature winner Brad Wedde moved into the runner-up spot on lap six, with William Hoefs grabbing the third spot.

Westphal cruised to victory with Wedde doing everything he could to get by. Lucas Hacker, racing for the first time this year, made an impressive run to the third spot, with Hoefs rounding out the top four.

Spring Hearing questions involving Shawano, Oconto counties all pass

By NEW MEDIA STAFF

ONLINE

A story on Wisconsin fishing opener can be found online at www.newmedia-wi.com.

The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources released results from the 2021 Spring Hearing on April 19.

A pair of questions regarding Shawano and Oconto counties, plus a citizen resolution for Oconto County, all passed.

The Shawano County question asked if individuals favored “applying a daily bag limit of three trout in total with a minimum length limit of eight inches for all trout species in the Little Wolf River from its headwaters to the downstream end of the classified section.” The question included the connected creeks of Comet Creek, Jones Creek, Jackson Creek, Flume Creek, Rainy Creek, and Bradley Creek in Marathon, Portage, Waupaca and Shawano counties.

The question passed by a vote of 4,915-753. Of people who indicated they recreate in Shawano County, the question passed 368-62.

The lone Spring Hearing question involving Oconto County was asking if individuals “support applying no minimum length limit for largemouth bass and a daily bag limit of five bass in total for White Potato Lake.”

The question passed 4,935-1,270. Of those that recreate in Oconto County, 480 were in favor and 98 were against.

The lone citizen resolution submitted in Shawano or Oconto county came from Oconto. The resolution was to remove burbot from the list of Wisconsin rough fish, which would require legislation. A total of 78 individuals voted on the resolution, with 54 in favor and 24 against.

Of the 57 total Spring Hearing questions, only two were voted down.

People voted against legalizing the harvest of white (not albino) deer statewide. A total of 4,895 people were against it, while 4,704 were for it.

Individuals also voted against allowing dog training, trialing, and hunting on state-owned land from April 15-July 31 without requiring the use of an 8-foot leash. After the votes were counted, 4,870 people were against it, while 3,934 were for it.

Full results can be found at <https://dnr.wisconsin.gov/about/wcc/spring-hearing>.

Public input received through this process is advisory to members of the natural resources board, department staff, and anyone who is working on these issues. No final decisions have been made at this time; rather results of this public input will be considered by the Conservation Congress, DNR and Natural Resources Board in the coming months.

Wisconsin adds former Wake Forest guard

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wisconsin has added Wake Forest transfer Jahcobi Neath to its backcourt.

Neath, who is 6-foot-3, averaged 3.8 points, 1.7 assists and 15.8 minutes this past season as a sophomore at Wake Forest. He played in 20 games and made four starts.

As a freshman, Neath had 5.3 points, 2.2 assists and 1.9 rebounds per game.

“We have seen that the college game is moving more and more towards using more versatile lineups,” Wisconsin coach Greg Gard said in a statement. “Having backcourt depth is essential in today’s game, and Jahcobi can give us not only more depth at the point guard position, but he is also versatile enough to play off of the ball and allow us to play multiple guards.”

Wisconsin will have a much different team from the one that went 18-13 and reached the second round of the NCAA Tournament last month before losing to eventual national champion Baylor. The five leading scorers from that team were all seniors.

Brad Davison is the only senior from the 2020-21 team who has indicated he plans to play for the Badgers again next season.

ATHLETE PROFILE: IAN RESCH

Witt-Birn senior has lofty goals for himself, team

After a strong start to his high school career, Wittenberg-Birnamwood senior golfer Ian Resch has some lofty goals set for himself and the team this spring.

Before having his junior season eliminated by the coronavirus pandemic, Resch was trending in the right direction.

As a freshman, Resch was a sectional qualifier as an individual. He then helped the Chargers qualify for sectionals as a team in his sophomore season.

Resch finished just five shots off of qualifying for state as an individual that season.

Also in his sophomore season, Witt-Birn claimed second in the Central Wisconsin Conference. Resch made the all-conference first team to help lead the team.

In the team's first two events this spring, Resch placed second on his team.

He placed third overall as an individual at the CWC's opening invite April 22 at Weymont Run Country Club in Weyauwega. Resch fired a round of 41 to help Witt-Birn take down Tomahawk in a dual April 23 at Inshalla Country Club in Tomahawk.

Q: When did your interest in golf begin?

A: I first became interested in golf at a very young age. My father (Shane) was really the one who got me into it; he would take me out almost every weekend. This is really when I started to love the game.

Q: What is your favorite part about the golf season?

A: My favorite part about the golf season is hanging out with the guys — just getting to take a day off of school and hang out with my friends and play some golf.

Q: What has golf taught you over the years?

A: Golf has taught me over the years not to get too worried about what has happened. Focus on what's about to happen. You can't change the past, but you can change the future.

Q: What are your individual goals for your senior season?

A: Some of my individual goals are to try and pick up right where I left off sophomore year by trying to make it back to sectionals and hopefully to state.

Q: Do you have any rituals you go through before teeing off?

A: I do not have any.

Q: What's your favorite memory of competing on the Wittenberg-Birnamwood boys golf team?

AT A GLANCE

ATHLETE: Ian Resch

SPORT: Boys golf

SCHOOL: Wittenberg-Birnamwood High School

YEAR: Senior

A: My favorite golf team memory was making it to sectionals as a freshman. Being able to come out right away and make it that far was a great experience.

Q: What is your favorite golf course to play at, and why?

A: My favorite course to play at is definitely Whistling Straits. This is the most difficult course we play at, and I really enjoy the challenge.

Q: After missing last spring, what do you believe will be the most difficult part about getting back into the swing of things this spring?

A: The most difficult thing is definitely losing our two seniors (Logan Balliett, Justin Keeney). They both would have made a big impact on our team and not having them is really going to hurt us.

Q: Favorite TV show, movie and musical artist?

A: TV show — "The 100." Movie — "Avengers: Endgame." Musical artist — Juice Wrld.

Q: Name one thing about yourself that not many people know.

A: I broke my arm in kindergarten.

Q: What's the greatest piece of advice you have ever been told?

A: Just worry about the next shot; the last shot doesn't matter anymore.

Q: What are some things you hope to accomplish after graduating high school?

A: After I graduate high school, I hope to graduate from Madison Technical College and become a marine biologist. I hope to take golf as far as I can.

Why wait?

HIGH SCHOOL GOLF

Witt-Birn boys win 1st CWC competition of spring

By NEW MEDIA STAFF

The Wittenberg-Birnamwood High School boys golf team got its spring season started on a strong note after placing first in the Weymont Invite on April 22 at Weymont Run Country Club in Weyauwega.

The Chargers posted a team score of 348, comfortably ahead of second-place finishing Wisconsin Valley Lutheran (376) in what was the first Central Wisconsin Conference competition of the season.

"This was a good way to start our season," said Witt-Birn coach Chris Bartletti. "We had decent conditions with some wind, but better than we have had for practice lately. The entire team had a tough time getting started, but showed dramatic improvement on their second nines."

Calvin Scheurer led Witt-Birn on the day, posting an 18-hole round of 82, including a 37 on the back nine. He tied Port Edwards' Carson Parks for the top individual score on the day.

Witt-Birn's Ian Resch fired a round of 84 to come in third as an individual. Maverick Beran tied for seventh with a round of 88. Brian Nelson (94) and Nolan Fraaza (95) rounded out the Chargers' five-golfer team.

"Ian played solid, and I was happy with the way Maverick was able to right the ship after some tough holes in the beginning of his round," said Bartletti. "I was especially pleased with Calvin's performance. He has been playing some really good golf in practice and it was nice to see him translate that to a competitive meet."

"I think Brian and Nolan were able to figure some things out today and should be able to use that tomorrow when we go to Tomahawk. It also helped us get a gauge on where things might stand in the conference with every team there with the exception of Iola and Manawa. Overall it was a nice start, but we still need to get better if we are going to achieve the goals and high expectations we have set for ourselves."

The following day, Witt-Birn topped Tomahawk in a dual at Inshalla Country Club in Tomahawk. Witt-Birn posted a team score of 166, well ahead of Tomahawk's 227.

Beran turned in the top individual score on the day, with a nine-hole round of 38. Resch fired a round of 41.

Nelson (43), Scheurer (44) and Fraaza (45) filled out Witt-Birn's team.

Brewers top prospect Mitchell to open minor league career in Appleton

The Milwaukee Brewers informed the Wisconsin Timber Rattlers that Garrett Mitchell, the No. 1 pick of the Brewers in the 2020 MLB Draft and the No. 1 prospect in the organization, will start his minor league career at Neuroscience Group Field at Fox Cities Stadium.

The Brewers drafted Mitchell, an outfielder from UCLA, with the 20th pick of last year's draft.

Mitchell was the starting center-fielder in all 15 games played by the Bruins in his junior season and hit .355 with an OPS of .909 before the COVID-19 shutdown. Mitchell made his professional debut playing in the Cactus League with the Brewers during spring training by appearing in 22 games, going 11-for-30 with a homer, six RBI, and an OPS of .973.

Ten of the 12 first-round picks signed by Milwaukee since 2008 have worn a Timber Rattlers jersey. Mitchell will become the 11th.

This will not be Mitchell's first trip to the Midwest. In 2018, he was a member of the Mankato MoonDogs, a team in the Northwoods League.

The remainder of the Timber Rattlers roster will be announced May 1 in conjunction with the team's departure from the Brewers spring training complex in Maryvale, Arizona.

Manager Matt Erickson will lead Mitchell and the rest of the Timber Rattlers into the first game of the season on May 4 against the Beloit Snappers. Game time is 6:35 p.m.

Knott keeps Parker's Cole and Hitch entertaining

The late Robert B. Parker was one of my favorite authors. I liked the way he used minute details and sparse dialogue to tell his stories. When I was skimming the public library e-book selections, I noticed that thanks to Robert Knott, new Cole and Hitch westerns were available.

"Buckskin" was one of the later books but stood alone very well. We follow two very distinct storylines as they move toward an inevitable collision.

Thanks to the discovery of gold, the city of Appaloosa, New Mexico, has grown by leaps and bounds. It boasts many thriving businesses as well as a theater, yet still has its share of wild west crimes.

U.S. Marshall Virgil Cole and his best friend, Deputy Marshall Everett Hitch, are stationed in Appaloosa. They assist local law enforcement as needed. Virgil has settled down with shop owner Allie French. Everett has just met the lovely actress/singer Martha Kathryn and romance has begun to bloom.

Several years ago, mine owner Henri Baptiste sold a chunk of land to James and Daniel McCormack and they struck gold, too. Both camps have hired gunmen to protect their interests. So, when one of the McCormack's miners disappears, Virgil and Hitch investigate. The two camps of hired guns are eager to fight, but Virgil and Hitch do their best to prevent any bloodshed.

The parallel story features a young man call Kid. The Kid's only childhood memories include harsh conditions and frequent beating from 'the Old Man.' As soon as he is able, the Kid takes off on his own and wanders the lands near the Mexican border. His early life left him with no qualms about killing to get what he needs or wants.

Little by little he works his way to a lonely shack where the 'Old Man' is slowly dying. He shows the Kid an old tintype and in a raspy voice tells him that it is a picture of his two sons and the Kid's mother. Then he drops the bomb. The sons died fighting over who fathered the boy, the woman ran off and the Old Man admits that he is really the boy's father.

Enraged, the Kid kills the man and burns the shack to the ground. He then heads for Appaloosa to find his mother. Along the way he meets a burly teamster and his gypsy wife. She immediately sees things in the Kid that suit her plans. Using special 'teas' and potions she molds Kid to her needs. Soon they are on the road together.

They reach Appaloosa just before the Appaloosa Days Celebration. While they were traveling James McCormack dies from poison. Days later his brother Daniel dies the same way. Virgil and Hitch learned long ago to follow the money and soon deduce that office manager/nephew Lawrence stood to inherit the mine if both men should die.

With Lawrence under arrest, they step into the street to enjoy the fireworks but are stopped by a woman holding a gun. She accuses Virgil of killing her father but before anyone can react, the Kid pulls a gun behind them. While Virgil shoots the boy, Hitch fires his eight-gauge, killing the woman.

Their attention is then focused on gunfire near Henri Baptiste's office. By the time they get there the fight is over. The McCormack and Baptiste gun hands shot it out leaving no survivors.

At the same time the badly-wounded Kid manages to crawl into Allie's dress shop, where Allie, Martha Kathryn and James' widow, Bernice McCormack, have huddled. He tries to show them the tintype, but the bullet went through the woman's face. In his dying breath he tells them that one of them is his mother and reminds her that when he was a baby, she called him Buckskin.

Some cliffhanger endings are maddening – some just seem to fit. YOUR public library has books with every kind of ending. Make plans to check it out soon.

Legislators get earful on marijuana legalization

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

State Rep. Gary Tauchen and Sen. Rob Cowles listened to several issues from local constituents during a budget listening session April 22 at Shawano City Hall, including marijuana legalization, long-term care facilities and where the funding from the American Recovery Act could go.

Roy Martin, a disabled veteran living in Gresham, urged Tauchen and Cowles to support Gov. Tony Evers' initiative to legalize medical and recreational marijuana in Wisconsin. He noted that the pandemic has had him at home for a year since being let go from a meat packing plant, giving him time to research marijuana and its medical applications.

Martin is taking medicinal marijuana for his cancer, and his lung capacity has reached 53%, which he said his doctor now considers him to no longer be a terminal patient, but he is also facing criminal charges from a 2020 case where he was arrested and charged in Shawano-Menominee County Circuit Court with felony counts of possessing and manufacturing THC, a key part of marijuana, among other charges. Martin said he obtained the marijuana legally in Michigan, but it's a crime in Wisconsin.

Being home during the pandemic, he said, gave him the opportunity to research and even go to school to get certification in cannabis and cannabis patient care.

"It really opened my eyes even further to the missed opportunities in the state of Wisconsin on the business end of it because of the unique nature of the cannabis industry," Martin said. "Everything has to be done within the state."

Martin said he tried to bring things up at the federal level, but he was informed that the states had the tools to formulate legalization. He estimates it could a $1 billion annual industry for Wisconsin if marijuana were to be legalized.

"My illness came from my time in the war (while serving in Bosnia), and now that I'm home, being in Wisconsin, I'm not allowed to get the same level of care that is afforded to other veterans in other states because our state won't allow it," Martin said. "I stood up and defended this country when they called, and now I'm just asking you guys to stand up for me and stand up for other vets who are dying, like myself."

Martin said he would at least like the state to look into legalizing medical marijuana. At least 36 states have legalized marijuana for medical and/or recreational use, and another 10 are looking into the issue, according to Martin.

"Our only options shouldn't be jail, die or leave Wisconsin," he said.

He added that, with Coors and Miller brewing companies seeking to offer cannabis-infused drinks, having Wisconsin still criminalizing marijuana might prompt officials to not invest in their state plants.

"It is just money that is being left on the table when our business owners could be getting that money," Martin said.

Cowles said he's open to legalizing medical marijuana but is not yet on board with recreational legalization. He noted that it's likely going to be brought up as a policy issue in the fall, separate from the state budget.

"There are some doctors that want to do it, and others who don't," Cowles said. "It's a mixed bag."

Tauchen told Martin it's something that should be looked at, but legislative leadership could put the kibosh on it.

"I know there are some bills out there, but I don't know if there is the will from leadership to be able to move forward," Tauchen said. "We'll have to see."

Low pay sending public safety officials away, supervisor says

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

“Who do you call when you need assistance? 9-1-1, of course. The calm voice on the other end asks you what your emergency is and how may we help. They listen to the caller, ask pertinent questions and then dispatch the deputy, fire and/or ambulance personnel in the area.”

Shawano County Supervisor Theresa Serrano said those sentences to start off her speech to the county board on April 20 as she continues to crusade for better wages for county employees, especially those involved with law enforcement. She was speaking of the dispatchers who work the emergency lines at the sheriff's department.

Serrano, who sits on the county's public safety committee, continued by saying the dispatchers are doing all this work while dealing with multiple computer screens and maintaining a level of professionalism while dealing with emergencies. The high-stress position demands a certain level of pay, but Shawano County currently pays $17.67 per hour for those just starting. As a result, she said, other nearby counties offering higher pay are scooping up existing dispatchers, and finding others to fill the positions has been extremely difficult.

“This is the lowest starting wage in the field for all of the adjacent counties,” Serrano said.

It's not just dispatchers, though. The sheriff's department is having a difficult time holding onto deputies and correctional officers, as well.

“Our Shawano County deputies are men and women who have chosen to serve and protect each one of us day after day,” Serrano said. “They put their lives on the line every day.”
