Grilling steaks in Tigerton

Steak fry at Community Center to raise money for Lions

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

Steaks were sizzling at the Tigerton Community Center on the evening of May 8.

Dozens of Tigerton residents filled the Community Center for a dinner of boneless ribeye steaks, potatoes, vegetables, desert and water, soda, beer, or mixed drinks. The event was put on by the Tigerton Lions Club. The steak fry was ran in conjunction with a raffle for prizes, as well as a 50/50 raffle.

The money that was raised, from visitors eating and entering raffles, will go to the Tigerton Lions Club.

"We are holding this event for the Tigerton Lions Club — to donate to local organizations," said Lions Club Vice President Steve Reinert.

Reinert said that the Lions was hoping to see around 100 visitors at the event.

"You always want to see 100-120 people come," said Reinert.

spring and one in fall.

"All of these community events have brought a good public reaction," said Reinert.

Along with the steak fry, hunting items were raffled off. Things like a crossbow, pop up blind, fishing poles and a camera were won by residents who entered tickets. A cooler of alcohol was also available to be won.

"We bought some of this stuff, but it is all mostly donated," said Lions Club President Kevin Willman. "For our cooler, I go around to local businesses and ask if they want to donate."

Raffle tickets for the prizes were on sale for $20.

Willman said that the money that is raised for the Tigerton Lions Club goes toward projects in the commu-

CORRECTIONS

An article in the April 30 Wittenberg Enterprise and Birnamwood News contained some inaccuracies about the renovation of the Birnamwood American Legion post building. The building at 355 Wausau St. is the headquarters of Darling-Gunderson Post 341, which was chartered in 1921; records are unclear as to when it was built. A filled-in ditch running along the street on the side of the building, not around the building itself, contributed to foundation issues. Post 341 helps to sponsor the Bloecher-Johnson Post 502 American Legion Baseball team that's made up of players from Wittenberg-Birnamwood, not little league. We apologize for the errors.

nity, scholarships, and organizations within the community, like the food pantry.

With the COVID-19 pandemic going and affecting a couple events, Willman said that he enjoys seeing community members coming out again.

“There have been a lot of faces that we haven’t seen for a while because of COVID-19,” said Willman. “People are starting to get vaccinated and coming out a little bit more to socialize in the community.”

Willman said that, due to COVID-19, they had to cancel their 2020 spring steak fry, but they still provided take out.

“As you see today, it doesn’t look like COVID-19 is affecting us much right now,” said Willman.

He also said that the general consensus for the events have been positive.

“Last year, we voted not to have this event, but the year before, there were no complaints,” said Willman.

Boneless ribeye steaks were on the grill on May 8 at the Tigerton Community Center for visitors to enjoy in order to raise money for the Lions Club.

According to those who attended the event, having a community gathering is a bright spot for its residents.

“This is an event that brings the community together to socialize and raise money for a good cause,” said Dave Freitag, a Tigerton resident.

Another Tigerton resident enjoyed his experience at the event.

“It went really well tonight,” said Tyler Schulke. “This is a great community with great people — this event is a good help to the community.”

Willman said that the money raised is a good support to the community that helps a lot of people out.

“It goes to organizations that need help, and it also goes to our Lions foundation that always needs some money,” said Willman. “We support our local businesses, our parties that we have for the elderly and the fire department.”

All together, around 100 people showed up and enjoyed an evening of eating, socializing and support their community.

Ho-Chunk tribe reports progress in coronavirus vaccinations

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

The Ho-Chunk Nation is seeing some progress in its coronavirus vaccinations, a member of the Ho-Chunk Tribal Legislature reported to the Shawano County Tribal Affairs Committee on May 6.

Rep. Larry Walker Jr. told the committee that efforts to vaccinate tribal members spread across the state, including Wittenberg, have so far been successful. The tribe has work for the tribe.

“We’re pretty spread out throughout the state, being non-distributed almost 13,000 vaccinations across the reservation, he said, including 270 in Shawano County. Most of the 270 shots include tribal members and employees who contiguous, but we have our primary sites where we hand out the vaccinations — one in Black River Falls and one in Wisconsin Dells,” Walker said. “We also do some mobile areas, as well, with the inclusion of Wittenberg, Madison, Milwaukee and La Crosse.”

Most of the mobile vaccinations have been done through pre-registration, and the appointments have quickly been filled, according to Walker. However, the tribe is also opening up for surrounding communities whenever they have extra shots not being used.

“When we do not have enough people, or some people do not show up for their appointments, we can also register onsite at the Siga Fun-maker Community Center and be able to start with their first or their second dose,” Walker said. “This is not only for tribal members and employees but for the surrounding communities, as well.”

WBHS tech students make crosses for American Legion building

Crosses to memorialize veterans who have passed away

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

Students at Wittenberg-Birnhamwood High School are aiding in honoring area veterans by constructing memorial crosses for the American Legion building in Birnamwood.

The project is being headed by WBHS technology education teacher Waylon Resch. A former WBHS district employee, Nancy Resch, was leading the project but passed that duty onto Waylon Resch. Waylon Resch and Nancy Resch are second cousins. Nancy Resch said she wanted to do something to memorialize veterans in the Wittenberg-Birnhamwood community, because she has had multiple family members who have served.

"I always keep in the back of my mind that I am an advocate for the military," Nancy Resch said.

Numerous people in the Wittenberg-Birnhamwood community have been involved with the military, she said.

"I am blown away by how many people in the community have served," said Nancy Resch.

The crosses are made by cutting wood, painting the wood and using a laser to engrave names, about 130 crosses in all.

"We are making these as a memorial for those veterans who have passed away," said Waylon Resch.

The crosses will each include the name of the veteran being memorialized, the branch that they served in and the years that they served.

The crosses will be displayed in the school yard as well as the yard of the American Legion building.

Waylon Resch said that this would be a positive addition to a community as patriotic as Wittenberg-Birnhamwood.

"Having a memorial for veterans makes everyone in the community feel good," said Waylon Resch. "We are honoring their service ... These crosses make veterans proud, and it teaches the youth about our history."

Nancy Resch said that youth within the community are becoming more curious of the history surrounding local veterans, and the project has been well received.

"We have had a lot of people locally that inquire about getting a cross made for a family member," she said. "Multiple people say that they are honored that one of their family members is being honored."

She also said that the students' contribution to the project has worked well because it brings their attention to those who have served and fallen.

The American Legion made a $250 donation to help with expenses on wood, paint and other materials needed for the project.

The finished crosses will be housed at the American Legion Building in Birnamwood and will be displayed on the lawn as well as at the school yard.

Wittenberg-Birnhamwood High School senior Austin Worzella and Wittenberg-Birnhamwood High School Tech Ed teacher Waylon Resch display a model of what the crosses will look like when they are finished. The crosses will display the name of the veteran, what branch they served in and how many years they served.

Retrospective showcases WBHS student talent

Arts, trades among some of the highlights shown to parents and community members

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

Works of art, rocking chairs, finished quilts, pigs in pens and even a tiny house were among some of the sights that visitors to Wittenberg-Birnamwood High School saw during the school's Retrospective presentation May 5.

Retrospective allows the school to showcase the artistry, craftsmanship and skills of its students and show that the high school experience is not limited to the basics.

For Sarabeth Bernarde, a junior, showing off a quilt with patterns of bees and honeycombs was particularly satisfying.

"I picked out seven different fabrics, and then I had to cut each fabric into a 3½-by-3½ (inch) square," Bernarde said. "When you sew them together, you do it in a 9-by-9 (inch) block, and you do the same pattern in each block."

The quilt consists of 72 of those blocks, Bernarde said, and it has to be done in strips with alternating patterns.

"There's an internal pattern within the actual pattern of the quilt," she said. "It's folded like a sandwich, and it holds everything together."

Bernarde put the quilt together in under six weeks, but a lot of the time, she took the quilt home to work on it there.

"I would work on it in class, but then I would take a lot of it home," Bernarde said. "I think I spent three solid days just organizing blocks. The last night that I worked on it, I worked for three hours."

This was not Bernarde's first quilt, however. She worked with her aunt on another quilt previously, and after that, she knew she wanted another smaller quilt. The quilt was part of the independent project that was part of her sewing class at the high school.

Bernarde's family is into beekeeping, which is why the quilt had a motif of honeycombs and bees.

While Bernarde was showing off the quilt, Olyvia Stark, another junior, was cloistered away in the art room, crafting a ceramic bowl. She was using a spinning wheel to help the bowl take shape.

"I've been doing it for about three years," Stark said. "Basically, you just put the clay on the center, and then you make it so it doesn't move around a lot. Then you stick your thumb in and move the edges out more. Then you basically have a bowl."

Stark estimated she's made about 500 bowls in her time, but she's also made mugs, plates, a tea set, a casserole dish and other ceramics, too. From start to finish, each item takes her about three to five days.

LEE PULASKI | NEW MEDIA

"It takes me about 15 minutes to make a bowl," Stark said. "It takes quite a while in the kiln. I need to bake it, glaze it, bake it again."

Stark stumbled onto ceramics by accident. She needed to take an extracurricular activity at a previous school and decided to pursue ceramics. It turned out to be a good match.

"I started out sculpting clay not on the wheel, just like sculpting little figures and little animals, and then I got into this," Stark said. "It's very enjoyable and very relaxing."

She sees herself continuing with ceramics after high school but figures it will be more of a hobby than a career. Stark already exhibits her work outside of Wittenberg, noting that her stepmother owns the 1966 store in Madison.

"I support local artistry down at my stepmom's store, and she does, too," Stark said. "Sometimes I'll make a bowl and have it on display there, and she'll either keep it or sell it."

A couple of doors down in the wood shop, a number of student-constructed wood pieces sat on display for visitors. One of them was a wooden rocking chair with the silhouette of a deer etched on the backrest made by Larken Betry, a senior.

"I was looking for a project, and I found one online," Betry said. "I thought I'd look into it and see what I could do."

He decided to use a deer silhouette to go along with his interests in hunting. He went a step further by incorporating shed deer antlers around the legs and the back. The process took Betry about four or five months to complete, he said.

LEE PULASKI | NEW MEDIA

"I felt like it would have a rustic look with some antlers," said Betry, who noted it took him a while to come up with the dimensions for the chair. "It's kind of rewarding to see the end finish for something like this. It was my goal to make something that I could remember and look at a lot."

Retrospective also gave community members a chance to see the new agriculture building and how it was being used. Matt Christian, the agriculture teacher at WBHS, noted that the current greenhouse is leaps and bounds better than the old lean-to greenhouse that the FFA had.

"This space makes it so much easier," Christian said. "Everything in here is temperature-controlled, run by a control panel behind the door. If it's 76 degrees, the roof vent will open to start the cooling process."

On the other side of the ag building is a facility for students to raise animals — including pigs, goats and cows. Christian noted that the school is working with Jake Roth of Jake's Pig Palace in Eland, who donated some of the pigs for the students to work with.

Another attraction at Retrospective was a tiny house that students have spent more than a year building. The house, which is expected to be finished by the time school ends in June, will be sent to Colorado to be used for a rental unit through AirBNB, according to Caleb McPhail, a trades teacher at the high school.

"It's been a great opportunity for our students to learn a lot of the aspects of building — electrical, plumbing, the framing, roofing and now finish work," McPhail said, noting that the schools closing in March 2020 due to the pandemic slowed things down considerably. "We're making the cabinets and the cabinet doors. Pretty much everything is getting made in-house."

A student-designed re-creation of Wittenberg-Birnamwood High School's Chargers logo is on display at the school May 5 during the Retrospective event.

OBITUARIES

David Allen Kreitzer Aug. 6, 1966 - March 12, 2021

David Allen Kreitzer, 54, of Wittenberg, passed away March 12, 2021, on hospice care in his sister's home with family in Wittenberg.

David was preceded in death by his mother, Sharon (Janke) Gauthier.

He is survived by his father, Butch Kreitzer; daughters, Samantha (three grandsons) and Madelyn; brother, Steve (Jamie) Kreitzer; sisters Karon (Dan) Weisensel, Kimmyra (Jeff) Bowers and Sheryl Desotelle; nieces, Claire, Manda and Cassandra; and nephews, Cody, Steven, Seth, Ethan, Lukas and Dylan.

David was a welder at Glover's

Manufacturing in Wittenberg. He enjoyed spending his time riding his Harley with his friends and best friend, Ronnie Glover. David was a one-of-a-kind guy that would help his friends out any way he could. He spent his last months with several close friends and family that stopped in on a regular basis. David's friends were generous and kind, putting together one "last ride," showing up on all their bikes and making his day. A blessed event that warmed David's heart and a memory that his family is truly grateful for.

A special thanks to his friends Ronnie Glover, Mike Glover, Tim Glover (and their families), John Anderson, Mike Thorson Sr., Kristy Roth, Wally Pfeil and so many more who were there by his side through his journey.

David's celebration of life will be held at the Village Inn on May 15 at noon. Lunch will be provided at 12:30 p.m.

Transgender woman's case goes to Supreme Court

'Ella' seeks to find sex offender registry unconstitutional

By KEVIN MURPHY
Correspondent

A transgendered Shawano woman wants the Wisconsin Supreme Court to find the state's juvenile sex offender registry unconstitutional as it allegedly violates her right to free expression and constitutes cruel and unusual punishment.

Ella is a pseudonym used by a 20-year transgendered woman who was convicted as a boy, identified only as C.G., in a 2016 sexual assault of a boy. Ella is challenging the state law that requires the Wisconsin Department of Corrections to maintain a registry of sex offenders by name and alias. The statute prohibits the offender from changing his or her name or identifying him or herself by a name not recognized by the DOC.

After serving a sentence of detention in juvenile facilities, Ella asked Shawano County Circuit Judge William Kussel Jr. to stay the order to register as a juvenile sex offender. Kussel denied the request in 2017, and earlier this year, after several extensions, a state appeals court upheld Kussel.

In affirming Kussel, the District III Court of Appeals concluded that the sex offender registry law prohibiting Ella's changing her legal name doesn't restrict her First Amendment right to free expression. Even if it did, it is permissible because the restriction is gender or content neutral.

The court also found that the registry law is constitutional because "it furthers an important government interest in an incidentally restrictive manner," Judge Mark Seidl wrote.

The government's interest is law enforcement's effective use of the registry and that outweighs any harm to Ella caused by her requiring to register her legal name, according to the appeals opinion.

The appeals court also rejected Ella's claim that having her legal name on the registry not matching the gender she presents "outs" her as a male without her consent each time she has to supply her legal name. That constitutes cruel and unusual punishment in violation of the Eighth Amendment, she had argued.

In a 2000 ruling, the state Supreme Court found that the sex offender registration requirement doesn't constitute punishment because it doesn't intend to punish sex offenders but protects the public and assists police.

The appeals court said it is bound by the higher court's ruling and requires it to conclude that the registry isn't a form of cruel and unusual punishment.

The state Supreme Court announced May 7 that it was accepting the case but has not set the case for oral argument and gave Ella's attorneys until May 27 to file the first brief in the case.

Ella's attorneys and attorneys for Juvenile Law Center, National Center for Lesbian Rights, and Trans Law Help Wisconsin did not return calls for comment.

Ella's conviction stemmed from when she was 15 and, with the help of a girl, held down a 15-year-old boy with disabilities so Ella could perform oral sex on him. The boy was 5 feet, 10 inches and 110 pounds; Ella was 6 feet, 5 inches and 345 pounds.

The boy's parents learned of the offense when they searched his cellphone and found Facebook messages of the incident.

Ella was sentenced from six to 10 months juvenile detention and required that she be listed on the state's sex offender registry. After a second unprovoked attack, which required hospital treatment, Ella was transferred from Lincoln Hills to Mendota Juvenile Treatment Center partly because she was transitioning as a youth from a male to a female identity.

After being released from Mendota, Ella requested Kussel to stay her registration on the sex offender list. A psychologist, specializing in sex offender treatment, said that the public wouldn't be protected by Ella's registration as a sex offender but there was a possibility that registration would harm her. Kussel denied the request, and the appeal began.

ThedaCare doc discusses symptoms and care for pink eye

It happens: You notice your eye turning red, and maybe it's itchy or watering.

Maybe it feels like you've have sand stuck in it, and you wonder what's going on. Is this pink eye, and how can you make it go away?

Pink eye, or acute conjunctivitis, is an infection or inflammation affecting the conjunctiva, the thin membrane that covers the white part of the eye. It's a common eye problem that can impact both adults and children.

Patients experiencing pink eye normally have one of three types: bacterial, viral or allergic, according to Dr. Felix Odathil, family medicine physician at ThedaCare Physicians-New London. Viral and bacterial conjunctivitis are both highly contagious and are spread through directly or indirect contact with someone else who is infected.

"Bacterial conjunctivitis usually has thick green or yellow discharge from one eye," he said. "That infection can spread to the second eye later, with no other systemic signs."

FELIX ODATHIL

Viral conjunctivitis, on the other hand, usually manifests in watery, thin strands of mucous coming from both eyes. Patients may feel like their eyes are gritty or burning, and often report feeling like sand is in their eyes. Viral conjunctivitis may be a symptom of the onset of other diseases, including COVID-19. People can also experience pink eye along with colds and respiratory infections.

"Both bacterial and viral conjunctivitis are contagious," said Odathil. "Washing your hands frequently and avoiding contact with others can help reduce the risk of contracting conjunctivitis."

Other ways to reduce your risk of contracting pink eye include the following:

- Avoid touching your eyes with your hands.

- Don't share eye cosmetics such as mascara or eyeliner, and don't share towels and washcloths.

- Regularly change your pillowcases and use clean washcloths and towels each day.

- Do not wear contact lenses longer than recommended and clean them properly.

A third type, allergic conjunctivitis, is associated with congestion, sneezing, thin watery discharge from both eyes, and "allergic shiners," Odathil said.

"It can be activated when the body produces histamines in reaction to irritants such as pollen, medicines or pet dander," he said. "The inflammation from allergic conjunctivitis can cause itching, tearing, nasal discharge and sneezing as well. Allergy eye drops might provide some relief of the issues."

According to Odathil, antibiotics can help speed healing from bacterial conjunctivitis, but other types of pink eye don't benefit. Most cases of pink eye will heal within a week or two. Over-the-counter eye drops, or artificial tears, can help with symptoms. Cold compresses also can help reduce redness and swelling.

"If you do notice symptoms of pink eye, call your provider to determine whether you should be seen," he said. "Symptoms that indicate you may need medical attention include pain, a very red eye, discharge, crusty eyes upon waking, blurry or foggy vision, or sensitivity to light. If you were exposed to an irritant, such as a chemical splash, or your eye was recently scratched, you also should visit your provider."

Newborns could experience pink eye because of a blocked tear duct and require a visit to their provider. Pink eye can lead to inflammation in the cornea in both adults and children that can adversely affect vision.

"People who have weakened immune systems should also see their provider if they have symptoms of pink eye," Odathil said. "It's important to receive proper treatment to avoid more serious eye problems."

Panel looks at how to spend compact funds

County eyes spending $82K from Ho-Chunk on park improvements in Wittenberg, Tigerton

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

The Shawano County Tribal Affairs Committee could get a chance to have a say in what capital projects get funded with gaming compact money the county gets from the Ho-Chunk Nation.

Annually, the county gets $82,500 from the tribe as part of its compact with the state, accounting for the amount of land the tribe occupies within the county's borders. The money has gone toward capital improvement projects, but the committee, which is responsible for maintaining relations between the county and the area tribes, has not had a voice in determining which projects get funded with the compact money.

"In the past, we've never had a say with the Ho-Chunk's money," said Supervisor Kathy Luebke at the committee's May 6 meeting.

The committee is looking at asking for some of the funds to be applied toward projects at the parks on the western portion of the county, including Hayman Falls County Park near Tigerton and Wilson Lake County Park in Wittenberg. According to Keith Marquardt, county parks director, the county has already been making strides with setting up campsites at the two parks — six at Hayman Falls and four at Wilson Lake. Self-registration posts are being added this month, and the sites include fire pits and picnic tables.

"There's some leveling we have to do with our tractors at Wilson Lake," Marquardt said, noting that a county conservation grant was used to pay for constructing the campsites. "They should be up and running by next week at the latest."

The committee asked Rep. Larry Walker Jr. of the Ho-Chunk Tribal Legislature if the tribe had any preferences for where the money went, but Walker said it was something the legislature hadn't really discussed.

"The concentration of our Ho-Chunks (for Shawano County) are in the Wittenberg area, so any projects would be appropriate in that vicinity," Walker said.

Marquardt said some projects that the parks department is considering putting in a walking trail at Wilson Lake, and in order to make a full-mile loop, a boardwalk would need to be constructed to get over wetland areas. Also, there are plans to clean up the beach area around the lake, with Marquardt noting the area has become "overgrown" with weeds.

"The lake level has gone up, so there's not really a beach area," Marquardt said.

There are also preliminary plans to bring electricity to the campsites, according to Marquardt.

"Campsites are a little more popular when there's electricity available," he said.

Other suggestions included cross-country ski trails on the west side of the county and improving Wi-Fi at the libraries in Wittenberg, Birnamwood, Tigerton and Mattoon.

Marquardt noted he has not done any official number crunching or filled out a capital project request. Any capital project requests for 2022 need to be completed by mid-June.

Supervisor William Switalla, who lives in Wittenberg, suggested an extension of the existing fishing dock as a potential improvement at Wilson Lake.

"Because of the way things are overgrown, it's hard to shore fish out there," Switalla said. "If we could maybe extend that further."

Administrative Coordinator James Davel suggested that it might be possible to fund some of the suggested projects with money coming in from the American Recovery Act. The only problem, he said, is that the federal government has not provided any guidance or boundaries on what can and cannot be paid for with the funding.

"We have to use those funds by 2024," Davel said. "They've got to be gone. They can't go into a bank account."

Davel said he'd spoken with state Sen. Robert Cowles and Rep. Gary Tauchen when they were in Shawano a week earlier, and they both told him that the state has not received any input from the federal government, either.

"It's stuck in the bureaucracy in D.C. right now, because they said, 'We're going to give this money, blah, blah, blah,' and they passed it, but the people who execute that, the workers, they're like, 'Wait a minute. We've got to put the rules on it,'" Davel said. "It's really nuts."

Regardless of the status of the American Recovery Act funds, Luebke made it clear she wanted the committee to weigh in on projects using tribal compact funds.

"I don't want another year to go by and the tribal (affairs) committee not being able to submit something (to the capital improvement projects committee)," Luebke said.

Supervisor Deb Noffke recommended that the committee look at consulting the tribes more on capital projects that utilize their compact money and see if they have any needs that the county could fulfill.

"There are real community needs, and it would be nice to take the money and apply it to something more meaningful," Noffke said.

Cost to replace jail windows causes sticker shock

Price tag goes from $12K to $42K due to having to replace metal frames

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

A project to replace windows at the Shawano County Jail has jumped up in price more than three-fold, and members of the county's public safety committee are not happy about it.

Greg Nelson, the jail administrator, told the committee May 5 that plans to replace the windows in the shower area have gone from a $12,000 price tag to about $42,000 due to the discovery of decaying frames around the windows. Nelson said the project was approved several years ago.

"We agreed to fund that out of the inmate welfare account," Nelson said. "It has become a much bigger problem than just replacing the glass."

Nelson said the $42,000 quote came from Felts Construction.

"This is one of those things where they dig into it and we hope that the frames and the windows are the only issues," Nelson said.

Nelson recommended using the jail assessment fund, noting that when defendants appear in court for a hearing, they are assessed a fee that goes to the jail for maintenance and operations. The fund is under the purview of the county's maintenance department, according to Nelson.

He also suggested using the sheriff's department carryover fund, which is a portion of unused money left from the previous budget year that can be used when issues like the jail windows arise.

"There's money available in there," Nelson said.

Supervisor Theresa Serrano expressed frustration with the project's bottom line going up more than $30,000.

"I know things have increased, but $30,000? It's crazy," Serrano said. "I think we need to do our homework and get a second opinion. You always want to go shopping around locally, but I think these guys are gouging us, and I would respectfully request a second bid before we move on, and then you'll know what your numbers are."

Nelson pointed out that the increase in price is due to having to fabricate new frames, remove the old ones, put the new ones in and fortify them with concrete. He said the county could solicit additional quotes, if the committee felt it was best to so. The issue came up during the jail report and was not specifically on the agenda, so the committee couldn't vote on the matter.

Still, Serrano said, getting additional bids would be a good idea.

"I would feel more comfortable with a second opinion on the costs, and then we'll want to know where the funds are going to come from," Serrano said.

America behind in fixing its infrastructure

To the editor:

After decades of disinvestment, our roads, bridges and water systems are crumbling. Our electric grid is vulnerable to catastrophic outages. Too many lack affordable, high-speed internet and quality housing. It's embarrassing that the greatest nation in the world is ranked 13th in the overall quality of infrastructure, according to a study in 2019.

Government officials from both parties have been promising for years how they will move forward with an infrastructure plan. Former President Donald Trump announced two different infrastructure weeks that never happened. Gov. Tony Evers promised if elected he would fix "the damn roads." Finally, we have a president and a governor who are working on infrastructure at the same time.

Evers' Badger Bounceback agenda shows his commitment to fixing the 1,949 miles of crumbling roads as well as the 198 bridges which are in poor condition in Wisconsin. His 2021-23 budget brings the state's investment in transportation aid for local roads to its highest level ever.

Infrastructure telecommunications include internet connectivity and broadband access. Every Wisconsinite should be able to access and afford internet. Evers' would like to invest five times the amount invested in the 2013, 2015, and 2017 budgets combined making internet services affordable to all income levels.

President Joe Biden is also committed to improving our infrastructure. Biden's American Jobs Plan is an investment in America that will create millions of good jobs and rebuild our country's infrastructure.

The American Jobs Plan will invest in America in a way we have not invested since we built the interstate highways and won the Space Race in the late 1960s. The past year has led to job losses and threatened economic security. Our nation is falling behind its biggest competitors on research and development, manufacturing and training. It has never been more important for us to invest in strengthening our infrastructure and competitiveness, and in creating good-paying jobs of the future.

In a Monmouth University Poll survey, 68% of U.S. adults supported the president's infrastructure package dealing with physical needs including road, bridge and tunnel upkeep, as well as broadband internet expansion and electric vehicle investments.

Hopefully our elected officials can support the people, compromise, and come up with infrastructure plans that improve life for all Americans.

Jan Koch, Shawano

Extend kind words to ones keeping the peace

To the editor:

Much has changed in policing since 1962 when President John F. Kennedy set aside May 15 as Peace Officers Memorial Day and the week in which it falls as a time to recognize America's peacekeepers, but the dedication and self-sacrificing nature of the men and women who commit themselves to the profession has been ever present. Some may view policing as just one of many career options, but in reality, if you ask most law enforcement professionals, you'd likely learn many regard it as a calling.

Most are unaware that the contemporary model of modern law enforcement goes back to the founding principles of the nation. Today's peace officer acts as a representative of, by and for the people in maintaining the quality of life we have come to enjoy through efforts to maintain order and enforce laws enacted to help preserve life and protect property. We are reminded that peace officers are also our friends, neighbors and fellow community members who have accepted a tremendous amount of responsibility, and I can assure you that whether on or off duty, they are constantly vigilant.

Sadly, we regularly watch and hear about tragic encounters in what seems to be an increasingly violent society, and over the course of the past few months we have seen that in our own region of America's heartland. We are not immune. Nationally, in 2020, 264 peace officers came to their end of watch paying the ultimate price. Thus far in 2021, 96 have fallen in the line of duty as well. Our thoughts and prayers go out to those they left behind.

Despite the growing complexities of policing in the modern era, the commitment of our professional peace officers is apparent. Frequently, I receive calls or letters of thanks from people who have had positive experiences with deputies as they fulfilled their duties in both keeping the peace and community caretaking. This coming week, as we pause to remember those no longer with us and their loved ones, I would ask that you also take the time to extend a kind word to those who still serve daily. Perhaps offer your gratitude, because they have mine.

Adam C. Bieber, Shawano County sheriff, Shawano

Men without morals denigrate Christians

To the editor:

God is not governed by mankind's propositions. Therefore what men and women think about the mind of God has no place in secular politics. To believe that we know what God thinks is the height of hubris, the pinnacle of pride.

There are many in this community and in this nation that irrationally superimpose their feelings on abortion upon their feelings on politics. Consequently, they will demonize a solid and good Catholic Christian who rightly separates his personal spiritual beliefs from his secular responsibility to govern our nation.

At the same time, these same folks will sanctify the former leader who claims to be a pro-lifer when in reality, he embodies the banal nature of a secular satan. It becomes OK in their minds that he denigrates all those who are not loyal and continues to demonstrate his amoral nature simply by telling the pompously pious what they want to hear.

For me, it is quite ironic that the same folks that profess such a sacred regard for human life before birth will immediately turn on those who have a child with no means to care for that child. These same people then will complain about the welfare state and the fact that they are called upon to support said people.

Then there is the Catholic church. Many in leadership are calling for the administration of the sacrament of the Eucharist to be withheld from President Joe Biden because he correctly does not believe that it is the government's responsibility to manage reproductive capacity. At the same time, this same institution has systematically covered up the sexual abuses of the clergy despite its assertions to the contrary.

Consider the recently launched investigation announced by Wisconsin's Department of Justice. Respect for life to be valid must extend to the church's cleansing first before imposing its man-made views on the definition of life's beginning.

Certainly, it needs to stay out of politics. By its very construction, our Constitution is a secular document. No mention of God or a creator is mentioned and that was by design. The United States was formed as a republic, not a theocracy.

It is time to realize that continuing to honor a man with no ethical foundation such as our former president and his sycophants is to dishonor the central message of Christianity. "Love your neighbor as you love yourself."

Ken Kroenke, Shawano

Understanding supply chain will help to lower drug costs

Even before the COVID-19 pandemic hit, one of the most significant issues facing Wisconsinites was the high cost of prescription medications. With routine health care and medication being vital to a patient's well-being, increases in medication costs can create untenable, unsustainable situations for our most vulnerable — including deciding between medications and other daily necessities. This is completely unacceptable.

The good news is that recently our state lawmakers reached across party lines to find a solution for all Wisconsinites to have better access to affordable quality health care, especially in the face of a global pandemic. Lawmakers passed and Gov. Tony Evers signed into law a bipartisan bill that will benefit all Wisconsinites and lower prescription medication costs for patients at the pharmacy counter.

The new law is an important step to improving patients' ability to access affordable care, increasing transparency in the prescription drug pricing process and reining in the power of pharmacy benefit managers (PBMs).

For too long, we have witnessed pharmacies and patients struggle with medication costs resulting from the one-sided nature of PBMs. It will help the health care system greatly now that lawmakers are finally beginning to hold them accountable.

Few people outside of the health care industry understand the role of PBMs. Until a recent Supreme Court ruling, PBMs flew under the radar of state and federal regulation, abdicating government oversight. Unfortunately, it has led to PBMs gaining significant influence in the prescription drug market, with PBMs deciding which medications are covered by insurance plans, where patients can pick up prescriptions and how much pharmacy providers will be reimbursed. Making matters worse, as the predatory practices of PBMs become exposed and they receive more scrutiny, like here in Wisconsin, they are trying to divert attention. Unfortunately for pharmacists, PBMs have begun attacking and mischaracterizing the only advocates we have to try and level the playing field — pharmacy services administrative organizations (PSAOs).

With PBMs having so much influence, their contracts are often take it or leave it. How can a Wisconsin small business owner take on corporations worth billions of dollars? Whether they want to or not, pharmacies are often forced into contractual relationships with PBMs so we are able to serve patients. PSAOs help give pharmacies an amplified voice during PBM contract negotiations and ease time-consuming administrative burdens.

PSAOs certainly do not solve all of the problems, but they help independent pharmacies navigate the complex market PBMs have created and give us a seat at the table that we would not otherwise have. It is crucial to our businesses that PSAOs do not become collateral damage to increased PBM scrutiny.

Understanding the prescription drug supply chain is the only way we will lower the cost of medication meaningfully and permanently for patients. Yes, it is complex, but Band-Aids on the health care system are no longer acceptable. Our new PBM law in Wisconsin is a step in the right direction, and I hope lawmakers continue to hold PBMs accountable without buying into their diversion tactics.

5 Shawano teens earn Eagle Scout honors

Boys complete various service projects to better community

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

Five Shawano Boy Scouts were recently honored with achieving their goal of being an Eagle Scout.

The five scouts, Will Crawford, Damon Montour, Chris Teeter, Owen Krueger and Gabe Bohm, were honored May 2 at Camp Joseph north of Shawano.

Unlike a typical celebration, those who were allowed to attend were limited to four guests per scout. A typical celebration would consist of family members of the scout being honored as well as extended family.

According to Troop 32 Scoutmaster Bob Smits, the five boys who were honored rose the ranks within the Boy Scout organization. The ranks are tenderfoot, second class, first class, star, life and finally eagle.

"Becoming an Eagle Scout is a lengthy process," said Smits. "There are no guarantees to becoming an eagle."

Smits said that it was a unique situation having five boys honored together, rather than one or two.

Troop 32 has seen close to 25 boys become Eagle Scouts in the last 10 years, with 53 total in the troop's existence.

Smits said that only 4% of all scouts end up becoming Eagle Scouts.

In order to become an Eagle Scout, Boy Scouts must finish several steps along the way. These steps include earning the 12 required merit badges and nine elective merit badges, serving in a leadership role within the troop for a total of 16 months, and serving at least 13 hours on a service project. In addition to these steps, the Boy Scouts also create a proposal for a service project, they draw up the plan and they lead a team of scouts to bring the project to fruition.

The process of becoming an Eagle Scout ends with the Boy Scouts speaking to the board of review from the Bay Lakes Council, based in Appleton.

Crawford completed a project that revolved around building beds for dogs at the Shawano County Humane Society. Montour moved and refurbished a playground set for Bridge the Gap Inc. Teeter cleaned and restored paths, as well as built benches for St. James retreat. Krueger built a pergola and rest area along the Mountain Bay Trail for Shawano Pathways. Bohm added landscaping around the flag poles at the Veterans of Foreign Wars post in Shawano. In total, scouts and volunteers put in a combined 430 hours of time.

"The projects are not about the length of time," said Smits. "They are about the process — the scouts learn how to create a proposal, how to draw up a plan, they figure out who to get into communication with, and they serve as the leader of the project."

According to Smits, the projects are meant to give back to the community.

"The community supports the Boy Scouts by donating money or items, giving us a place to hold meetings, supporting fundraisers and giving their time to share talents and places of business," said Smits. "These projects give back to the community."

Smits said that through the process of becoming an Eagle Scout and leading these projects, the boys learn lessons that can be used for the rest of their lives.

"These lessons do not end at 18 years old," said Smits. "This process teaches them leadership and builds character — things they will use for the rest of their lives."

He said perseverance is taught in the Boy Scouts as they rise the ranks to Eagle Scout.

"The final steps of this journey were not easy in the year of a pandemic, but each persevered and reached their goal," said Smits.

According to Smits, Troop 32 has 37 scouts and he hopes that the number continues to grow.

"The Boy Scouts are a phenomenal organization," said Smits. "It is a great foundation for the youth to become great adults."

MIHS teachers causing wisdom to sprout with plants

The Menominee name for the month of May is Pahkwan-kesoq — The Budding Moon. While many Wisconsinites will spend the month cultivating their own gardens in anticipation of a fruitful crop, Menominee Indian High School students will mark Pahkwan-kesoq through culturally grounded cross-curricular activities centered on planting and gardening.

Although the pandemic has halted some educational opportunities due to COVID-19 restrictions, MIHS has used its school's shutdown as a catalyst for monthly collaborative teaching initiatives that span their course offerings. Yet, this is more than a theme for MIHS — it's demonstrative evidence of how the school uses a restorative practices based approach to teach the whole student body about their culture.

The school begins each month with Menominee Language and Culture Coordinator John Teller Jr. and Menominee Language, Culture, and History Teacher Dawn Wilber presenting the wisdom embedded in that month's teachings, thereby enabling the entire staff to gain an appreciation of the tribe's seasonal practices.

"The goal is for our teachers to gain insight on our tribe's culture and then recognize how they can infuse it into their classroom teachings," Wilber said.

MIHS's mission states that it strives to "provide a safe learning environment that allows every child an opportunity to succeed culturally, intellectually, academically, emotionally, socially, and physically." The connectivity of this teaching strategy is evidenced in how the school instructs its students through hands-on learning.

April was Supomahkwan-kesoq — Sugar Making Moon, and so the students and staff donned masks and held a sugar camp to tap the maple trees near MIHS. While the work was completed, those gathered recognized how each subject area offered opportunities for critical reflection.

John Teller and Dawn Wilber work to incorporate Menominee teachings into all aspects of Menominee Indian High School's curriculum.

MENOMINEE INDIAN HIGH SCHOOL

"The health classes compared the nutritional value of real maple syrup with those sold in stores, math and science classes delivered lessons on the equations involved in the process, the English classes wrote poetry about it all, and the physical education courses even talked about the best ways to traipse through the snow," Wilber said.

While the appreciative gains for the teachings are evident, MIHS is also ensuring that lessons are taught using the pedagogy of their ancestors — namely, the oral tradition.

"We're storytellers," Wilber said about the Menominee people. "We tell stories to teach students how to listen because that's how our culture has always been taught."

To help facilitate students' access to tribal stories within their culture courses, Wilber began recording herself performing Menominee stories. Like all schools, MIHS has students of varying abilities, and Wilber's recordings level the playing field by enabling them to engage with the teachings in ways reading alone cannot replicate.

Wilber also capitalized upon the opportunity to use Menominee language, incorporating both the words and their pronunciation. Still, the most important lesson is that the stories themselves model the Seven Grandfather Teachings — wisdom, love, respect, bravery, honesty, humility, and truth.

"Our class begins with an explanation on why oral stories are so important and why learning them as they were passed down is equally important." Throughout the teachings, be it inside or outside the classroom, Wilber specified, "Students realize that our ancestors weren't just sitting around and making up stories. The stories all have meanings. They all teach us about life."

Associate Principal Kate Mikle noted that while the 2020-21 academic year has featured faculty members' sharing how their specific discipline connects to each month's traditional meaning for Menominee people, next year the focus will shift to the students, asking them to consider how what they're learning is reflected in ancient Menominee wisdom.

The outside enthusiasm for their culturally grounded pedagogical approach is palpable, as was evidenced by Teller's much-lauded presentation about the initiative at the April Wisconsin Indian Education Association's virtual conference. He was praised for noting that MIHS was not asking for non-Native teachers to become experts, but rather to be conduits for Menominee teachings.

MIHS is thinking beyond the next two years, as Wilber added, "Our goal is for our students to get a better view of their identity and who they are as Menominee people. That means having respect, love, kindness, and trust surround our hearts."

If the proceeding months are any indication, Pahkwan-kesoq's teachings at MIHS will germinate literal and metaphorical seeds that yield a rich cultural harvest.

Ryan Winn teaches communications, English and theater at the College of Menominee Nation. Visit www.menominee.edu for more information about the school.

Frank, Muenster capture 1st victories of year

Christians, Sobiesczyk and Westphal win other 3 features

By DAVE BUSS

Special to NEW Media

A bad night at the racetrack is often better than a good night anywhere else on a Saturday night, unless you're a driver in early May. Seasonable temps greeted the die-hards in the stands as racing returned May 8 for week four at the Shawano Speedway.

The action on the track continues to be some of the best around, as young guns and veterans fight it out for wins each week. This week saw Jeremy Christians, Tyler Sobiesczyk, Todd Frank, Eddie Muenster and Tanner Westphal find their places in victory lane.

The IMCA Stock Cars led off feature action, and like every other week, they set the bar for great feature action. Christians found himself back in the pack to start the feature event with a host of heavy hitters in front of him.

At the front of the pack was an announcer's nightmare as Mitch Stankowski, Josh Mroczkowski and Dan Michonski battled it out with Kyle Frederick and Chucky Forstner. Mroczkowski grabbed the lead and looked to escape the pack, and for awhile, it looked like he did.

Christians had other plans as he continued to pick up positions and eventually found his way to the runner-up spot. Christians cut into the lead lap after lap until eventually grabbing the top spot. Christians then cruised to another feature win, while Frederick was the best of the rest, grabbing the second spot. Mroczkowski and Trent Nolan rounded out the top four.

Eddie Muenster picked up the IMCA Modified feature win May 8 at Shawano Speedway.

TURN 2 PHOTOS AND DESIGN

The IMCA Sport Mods competed through a caution-filled, time-shortened feature to see Sobiesczyk grab his spot in victory lane. Sobiesczyk tried to check out from the field after each restart, only to have Jayden Schmidt and Zackary Raab brought back to his bumper with each caution.

Each time, the Sobiesczyk car was up to the challenge, leaving Raab and Schmidt to fight it out for the runner-up spot. Last week's feature winner, Jeffery Teske, joined the battle for second with Schmidt and Raab as Sobiesczyk made his breakaway.

When the checkers flew, it was Sobiesczyk leading Raab, Schmidt and Teske across the line. Max Oreskovich grabbed fifth after charging from mid-pack at the start.

The Late Model division came into the night missing some perennial front-runners as a couple regulars were traveling for other events. To those on the track, that didn't matter as they still faced tough competition.

Aaron Wickersheim looked to grab a feature win as he jumped to a dominating lead from the front row starting spot. Further back, Iowa's Frank began his attack by moving into the second spot. Once in second, Frank faced a nearly two-second gap to the leader.

Running the high side of the track, Frank began to move forward and gain on the leader. Frank grabbed the top spot on lap 11 and began to pull away. Wickersheim, determined to grab the lead back, didn't lose sight of Frank and late in the race had one more shot when lapped traffic slowed the Frank machine. Frank eventually sneaked by the lap car and pulled away for the win.

Wickersheim was second, with Luke Postl, Derek Janke and Joel Bennett completing the top five.

The IMCA Modifieds looked to add to the excitement of feature action; however, Muenster had other plans. That isn't to say the race wasn't exciting, and I would love to give Muenster a few more props, but he simply checked out and dominated to the win.

If fans took their eyes off the leader and looked further back, they would have witnessed Konnor and Jerry Wilinski battling with Jordan Bartz and Kevin Feck for the runner-up spot, with positions changing hands lap after lap.

Marcus Yarie, battling mechanical issues all night, was regulated to a 21st starting position in the feature. Yarie and his crew made the right decisions to get the car right as he drove to the top five. When everything settled out, it was Muenster who was victorious, with Jerry Wilinski grabbing third from his son Konnor. Yarie was fourth and Bartz fifth.

Lucas Hacker looked to take the checkered flag in Mighty 4 action as he jumped out to the early lead. Westphal began to give chase and put another plaque on his wall as he moved into the second spot. Troubles for last week's feature winner, Jason Stueck, brought the field back together as the caution lights illuminated the track.

Westphal wouldn't let Hacker get away on the restart and was able to get by for the lead a lap later. Westphal cruised to another feature win, with Hacker running second. Brad Wedde continued his strong season with a third-place finish, as Clint Malueg and Tony Everard completed the top five.

COLLEGE HIGHLIGHTS

By NEW MEDIA STAFF

Lawrence University

Shawano Community High School graduate and former Lawrence University softball player Amanda Jaskolski was recently named to the Midwest Conference Centennial Top 100 list. The conference is celebrating its 100th season by naming the top 100 athletes in league history.

A 2015 Lawrence graduate, Jaskolski played two seasons for the Vikings and was a first-team All-America shortstop. A career .439 hitter, Jaskolski set eight school records in two seasons after transferring to Lawrence. She pounded out 17 doubles, two triples, 19 home runs and drove in 76 runs. She holds Lawrence season records for hits (54), RBIs (46), runs scored (37), homers (13), total bases (104) and walks (31).

The 2014 and 2015 Midwest Conference North Division Player of the Year, Jaskolski also was a first-team National Fastpitch Coaches Association All-Great Lakes Region selection in both of those seasons.

Jaskolski then became Lawrence's first softball All-American when she earned first-team honors in 2015 after hitting .462 with nine doubles, one triple, 13 homers, 46 runs batted in and an .889 slugging percentage.

UW-Eau Claire

Suring grad Mitch Stegeman competed in five individual events for the University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire men's track and field team at the WIAC Outdoor Championships on May 7 and 8 in River Falls.

Stegeman's top finish came in the pole vault, placing fourth after clearing 4.8 meters. He claimed seventh in the javelin (49.2 m). Stegeman placed 12th in the 110-meter hurdles (15.68), 13th in the high jump (1.83 m) and 21st in the long jump (6.32 m).

St. Norbert College

Oconto Falls graduate Emily Gonnering and current athlete for the St. Norbert women's track and field team took part in four events during the Lawrence Invitational on May 8.

Gonnering placed eighth in the javelin throw (25.31 m) and discus (33.38 m). She took 12th in the hammer throw (29.01 m) and 16th in the shot put (7.18 m).

Oconto Falls graduate Mason Sef-cik, Bonduel graduate Noah Beilfuss and Wittenberg-Birnamwood graduate Simon Stewart pitched for the St. Norbert baseball team when the team was swept in a pair of doubleheaders against the University of Chicago (Illinois) last week.

In a 5-2 loss on May 8, Beilfuss pitched an inning and allowed two runs on three hits. Sefcik was dealt the loss in a 6-2 setback that day after allowing six runs over seven innings and striking out four batters. Stewart worked a scoreless inning in the contest.

Stewart pitched another scoreless inning during a 7-2 loss on May 9. Stewart then pitched two more scoreless innings in the team's 7-6 loss later that day.

HIGH SCHOOL GOLF

Witt-Birn claims top finish at Thornberry Creek Invite

By NEW MEDIA STAFF

The Wittenberg-Birnamwood High School boys golf team earned another first-place finish after posting the top team score at the May 4 Thornberry Creek Invite at Thornberry Creek at Oneida in Oneida.

Witt-Birn earned a score of 343, comfortably ahead of Manawa (373) and Laona/Wabeno (397). Bonduel (418) placed fifth, Marion (445) eighth and Menominee Indian/Gresham (468) ninth.

Ian Resch led the Chargers to their top finish after an 18-hole round of 79, tied for the best individual score on the day.

Calvin Scheurer fired a round of 80, while Maverick Beran shot an 87. Nolan Fraaza (97) and Pierson Potrykus (100) filled out the five-golfer team.

Cooper Uelmen carded a round of 91 to lead Bonduel on the course. Reed Luepke (100) and Jake Dreyer (105) finished second and third on the team, while Louis Hrabik (122) and Ayden Dunst (134) filled out the lineup.

Marion was led by Ellen Radies' round of 103, with Isaiah Gueths (105) two shots back. Quinn Tolan (115), Sam Gueths (122) and Kasey Roethle (144) were the other Mustangs on the course.

The Menominee Indian/Gresham co-op was guided by Saswaen Shawa-nokasic's round of 97. Bryson Nelson (120), Jake Hoffman (124), Will Jensen (127) and Jack Haffner (129) filled out the lineup.

Witt-Birn places 1st at CWC meet

Witt-Birn posted a team score of 349 to also place first at a Central Wisconsin Conference meet May 3 at Stevens Point Country Club in Stevens Point. Bonduel (389) placed fourth, while Marion (447) was eighth and Menominee Indian/Gresham (473) ninth.

Resch and Beran led Witt-Birn on the course with 18-hole rounds of 83.

Fraaza fired a round of 91 for the Chargers. Scheurer and Brian Nelson each shot 92s.

Bonduel was led by Uelmen's round of 90, while Luepke and Dreyer each shot 94s. Trey Vandenbrook (111) and Mason Moore (113) filled out Bonduel's team.

Radies was Marion's top finisher, carding a round of 99. Isaiah Gueths (108), Tolan (111), Sam Gueths (129) and Roethle (162) filled out the team.

Shawanokasic shot a round of 99 to lead the Menominee Indian/Gresham co-op. Jensen (120), Haffner (126), Hoffman (128) and Anna Petri (132) were the team's other four golfers.

ATHLETE PROFILE: MAVERICK BERAN

Witt-Birn senior golfer off to strong start

The Wittenberg-Birnamwood High School boys golf team has earned several top finishes already this spring. Senior Maverick Beran is a big part of the reason why.

Beran got his senior season started by posting a round of 88 at the Weymont Invite on April 22 in Weyauwega. That score was good enough to tie for seventh as an individual and helped the team place first. A day later, he posted a nine-hole round of 38 to finish first as an individual and help Witt-Birn take down Tomahawk in a dual at Inshalla Country Club in Tomahawk.

Beran again led the Chargers during the Whistling Straights Invite on April 26 at Whistling Straights Golf Course in Sheboygan. He carded a round of 86.

At the first Central Wisconsin Conference meet of the spring May 3 at the Stevens Point Country Club, Beran tied teammate Ian Resch for the team's top individual round of 83, which helped the team place first again. The next day he helped the Chargers to another victory by posting a round of 87 at the Thornberry Creek Invite at Thornberry Creek at Oneida in Oneida.

Q: When did your interest in golf begin?

A: My interest in golf began at about 13 years old, when I played with some friends.

Q: What is your favorite part about the golf season?

A: My favorite part is the golf bus rides with the team, because we all mess with each other and have a good time.

Q: What has golf taught you over the years?

A: Golf has taught me patience and mental toughness. It also has taught me how much a little white ball can be so complicated to get in a hole.

Q: What's your favorite memory of competing on the Wittenberg-Birnamwood golf team?

Wittenberg-Birnamwood's Maverick Beran putts the ball during the WIAA Division 2 Mosinee Sectional at Indianhead Golf Course in Mosinee on May 28, 2019.

TINA BACON

A: My favorite memory of the Witt-Birn golf team is when I took first place at our meet at Tomahawk (on April 23).

Q: Do you have any individual goals set for your senior season?

AT A GLANCE

ATHLETE: Maverick Beran

SPORT: Golf

SCHOOL: Wittenberg-Birnamwood High School

YEAR: Senior

A: To win the conference as a team, to get first-team all-conference, to win team MVP and to qualify for the state tournament.

Q: What will be the biggest key to team success this spring?

A: The key to team success will be for all of us playing our style of golf, with confidence and mental toughness, as well as team consistency throughout.

Q: You're off to a strong start to the season. What would you attribute your fast start to?

A: The work I put in over the summer. I spent three different times every single day at the golf course working on my game and getting better — along with the confidence and encouragement of my teammates and coaches.

Q: Do you have any rituals you go through before a meet starts?

A: I pray to God for a safe and fun-filled day out on the golf course.

Q: Favorite TV show, movie and musical artist?

A: TV show — "SEAL Team."

Movie — "Happy Gilmore." Musical artist — Morgan Wallen.

Q: Name one thing about yourself that not many people know.

A: I hate lettuce.

Q: What's the greatest piece of advice you have ever been told?

A: If things get tough, don't quit. Just outwork and keep a positive mindset, and you will overcome it.

Q: What are some things you hope to accomplish after graduating high school?

A: I'm going to be an apprentice electrician, and I hope to complete that and become a master electrician.

Bowler baseball, softball teams drop nonconference games to Lena/STAA

36 total runs scored in softball contest

By MORGAN RODE
Sports Editor

The Bowler baseball and softball teams each suffered nonconference losses to the Lena/St. Thomas Aquinas Academy co-op May 4 in Bowler. The baseball team lost 8-2, while the softball team was defeated 24-12 in five innings.

Baseball

Lena/STAA got a strong start on the mound before a four-run seventh inning helped seal up the win. The visitors scored once in the first and third innings before a two-run fifth.

Bowler’s Logan Thiex was handed the loss after allowing two unearned runs across the first three innings. He struck out five batters in his time on the mound.

Lane Schultz then surrendered two runs across three innings before Ashwuut Mohawk and Beau Brunner teamed up to pitch the seventh.

Bowler was limited to just four hits in the entire game, with Schultz, Thiex, Brock Strassburg and Wylee Dodge having the hits. Strassburg and Gavin Klose each drove in a run in the seventh, scoring Schultz and pinch-runner Karter Kolpack.

“They pitched well. They were hitting spots, changing speeds and changing eye levels,” said Thiex of Lena/STAA’s pitchers. “We were watching the ball good but hits were

Softball

The softball game was a wild back-and-forth slugfest in the first couple innings before the teams were able to settle in.

Lena/STAA jumped out to a 2-0 lead before Bowler put up seven runs in the bottom of the first. The co-op answered back with six runs in its half of the second, only to have Bowler score twice in the bottom half to retake the lead.

The visitors took control after scoring 11 times in the third inning and then held Bowler to just one run in the bottom half. An additional four runs in the fourth and one more in the fifth helped Lena/STAA out to a 14-run lead, and then the co-op was able to hold Bowler to two runs in the fifth to end the contest.

Lena/STAA was credited with 12 hits in the game, but they also took advantage of 12 walks and nine Bowler errors.

Spencer and McKayla Putnam each drove in two runs to lead the team at the plate. Spencer, Morgan Paiser and Weengeetah Mohawk all scored twice. Mohawk homered in the fifth inning.

The Panthers drew 16 walks in the game, but they were unable to capitalize much after the second inning.

"After the first and second inning, I feel like we all got in our heads," said Paiser. "We made a lot of mental errors that could have easily been prevented."

Putnam pitched the full game for Bowler. She struck out seven batters.

'Daffodils' chronicles love, loss during WWI

This week's book was "Daffodils," the first book in Alex Martin's Katherine Wheel series. Early in the 1900s, the strict rules separating the social classes keep the residents of Upper and Lower Cheadle apart. Sir Robert Smythe owns nearly all the land around the village, and most of the area residents work for the Smythe estate. Agnes and Bert Beagle have worked for Sir Robert for many years. Now their son Albert and daughter Katherine, or "Katy," work there, too.

While her parents are content to live out their lives in service to the Smythe family, Katy often shirks her duties to read from the many books in the Smythe library. She longs for travel and adventures beyond the small village.

Jeremy "Jem" Phipps grew up working beside his father in the Smythe gardens. He loves working the land, seeing crops grow and has no plans to ever leave. World War I has begun, and Charles Smythe has enlisted. During a short visit home, he and Katy commit a minor social faux-pas, and Katy loses her job.

Jem has always loved Katy, but she hasn't shown any interest in him. Yet she agrees to marry him to save face. She is amazed at how quickly she learns to deeply love Jem. Within a year, little Florence Phipps is born, and Katy can't imagine being happier.

Sadly, Sir Robert's refusal to upgrade the water facilities causes little Florence to die from typhoid. Katy's grief overwhelms her and drives a wedge between the young couple. Her deep depression combines with other issues, and soon Katy is near death with pneumonia. She recovers, but the relationship remains distant.

Hoping to do something positive, Jem enlists and soon finds himself in the midst of the front lines. His natural calm under duress and positive outlook makes him popular. Meanwhile, Katy manages day-to-day tasks and lives for Jem's rare letters.

Her world implodes when she receives notice that Jem is missing in action and presumed dead. Her pain is so great that she lets herself slide into the river, happy to drown and be with Jem and Florence again. To her amazement, Jem pulls her from the water and kisses her.

Katy responds in joy and disbelief only to learn that she has been rescued by the vicar, Lionel White. She'd always thought he was a bit arrogant and is aghast when proclaims that has always loved her and now that Jem is dead, he wants to marry her. Lionel White might have charmed anyone else, but Katy unceremoniously throws him out of her house.

With Jem dead, Katy must leave the house provided by the Smythes. Katy tells no one that she received a letter written after the notice of Jem's death. She is sure that he is alive.

Cassandra Smythe has joined a women's military corps driving ambulances, so Katy signs up for a nursing corps. On her way to London, she meets Ariadne Pennington and the two become instant friends. Eventually they end up working on the ambulances in France - Katy as a mechanic and Ari cleaning and sanitizing them after each run.

As they endure the horrific results of the war, Jem is also enduring the hell of a German POW camp. When the war finally ends, the troops are processed through the camp where Katy works. Suddenly Jem is standing in front of her. He has survived influenza, near starvation and the loss of an arm, but he looks perfect to Katy.

This book ends with Katy, Jem, Cassandra and their friends reuniting at the Smythe's estate. They mourn the loss of Charles Smythe and Albert Beagle, but celebrate what they still have together. I'm sure book two will be worth following this stalwart group into what comes next.

Paiser Family Dairy announces expansion

County accepting comments through May 17

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

The Paiser Family Dairy, a Shawano County farm, is planning to expand its herd in the near future, it was announced on May 7.

The dairy submitted an application with Shawano County for a livestock expansion license that would allow it to have up to 1,264 animal units. Such applications are required for any agricultural operation when there are more than 500 animal units on the land, according to county conservationist Scott Frank.

According to Frank, the last application that the Paisers submitted was on April 3, 2013, when it applied to have up to 999 animal units. The 1,900-acre farm is located at W9388 Butternut Road in the Town of Richmond.

Paiser Family Dairy is planning to expand its milking herd to 650, along with replacement stock. A public information meeting was held May 7 to get comments from the public, but written comments will be accepted through May 17.

LEE PULASKI | NEW MEDIA

A final decision from the county is expected no later than July 28, but Frank said it was likely the decision would come much sooner. The county has up to 90 days to make its decision to grant or deny the license.

Erik Lietz with Oakridge Engineering, based in Chippewa Falls, spoke on behalf of the dairy and has been working with owner Trevor Paiser. He said that the term "animal units" does not specifically mean the number of animals. A milking cow is considered to be 1.4 animal units, and Lietz said the dairy plans to have 650 milking cows plus replacement stock.

"There's dairy cattle, and then there's other animals — beef, swine, poultry," Lietz said.

The expansion includes a new barn, which will be to the west of existing facilities, and there will be a new round, concrete storage tank that will be used to house animal waste, according to Lietz. The tank will be able to hold up to 189 days worth of waste; the minimum requirement from the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources is 180 days.

"If you're driving along the road, you're not even going to be able to see the new waste storage facility," Lietz said.

Naomi Schroeder and her husband, Gene, own property east of the Paiser Family Dairy, and she had nothing but good things to say about the dairy at a county meeting to gather public input.

"We go there quite often, especially in the summertime, because we have a cabin there," Schroeder said. "We have never had any issues with odor or manure or runoff or complaints. We both feel they've been doing everything they're supposed to be doing in the past, and we don't see any reason they wouldn't do it in the future."

The county is accepting public comments through May 17.

WEDC grant to help expand Gresham fab lab

Additional laptops, other equipment will help school be on cutting edge of career learning

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

Gresham Community School will be able to get more equipment for its new fabrication lab with the help of a grant from the Wisconsin Economic Development Corporation.

WEDC gave the school a $19,500 grant to purchase equipment such as laptops and printers to add to what was already provided to the school via a $100,000 gift from the Stockbridge-Munsee Tribal Council. With the required matching funding from the Gresham School District, the school will have almost $30,000 to purchase the items.

Tim Bosman, lab director, had dealt with WEDC funding when he was a teacher in Antigo, and he felt Gresham could benefit from the funding, as well.

Twelve laptops will be purchased with state-of-the-art video editing software and other programs to enable the creation of wood and metal items, according to Bosman. Three-dimensional printers will help to make plastic items, and large-format printers will allow students and staff to print banners for the community.

“That will allow us to do more with art, with canvas prints, the graphics end of things,” Bosman said.

The grant will also help purchase updated equipment for the shop room, including tools for the wood computerized numerical control machine, sanders and a “decent” drill press, Bosman said.

“We’ve got a good start from Stockbridge, who really helped us out and got us some nice equipment in here,” Bosman said. “Our shop, we still need to update everything in there.”

The school will be able to apply for additional WEDC funding two more times in future years, according to Bosman, up to $25,000 with each attempt. If successful, it could make Gresham a state-of-the-art location for community printing and development needs, as the school could get an additional laser engraver and other equipment to test metals.

“We’re looking at how to make everything more efficient and utilize this equipment that we have, to take it a step farther,” Bosman said. “We can apply for it again next year, and I think we probably will.”

Gresham has its one-to-one learning program with Chromebooks to help individual students in class, but those computers are not designed to handle complex programs for CNC and three-dimensional printing, which is why the school is purchasing other laptops to assist middle and high school students in their technology education classes. There are currently only 16 laptops for the whole school that can be used for fab lab projects, according to Bosman, and if the two teachers in the fab lab have classes at the same time, that presents a problem.

“(Chromebooks) are not what the industry is using,” Bosman said. “We want to get (students) into college and career-ready end of it. As we’re looking at the classes that are coming about next year and going away from the exploratory classes, we’re going to be treating it like an apprenticeship program in a sense. They have to get the experience, not just developing the skills but the interpersonal stuff like being in the class on time

Tim Bosman, left, director for Gresham Community School's new fab lab talks about the new facility on April 5 as he holds up a welcome sign designed by a student as Stockbridge-Munsee Tribal Council member Joe Miller looks on. The school has also received a Wisconsin Economic Development Corp. grant to purchase additional fab lab equipment.

and getting jobs done on time, working together — all those readiness skills.”

The school hopes to expand opportunities to work with businesses in Gresham and Shawano and provide some of their needs while teaching students trades that would prepare them to find jobs and careers after high school. Bosman hopes to get more community involvement in the summer and fall to give students projects to test their skills.

Bosman added that not to have the WEDC grant would limit the small school at a time when technology is growing by leaps and bounds and make it more difficult for students to compete in the world.

“Life would go on. That’s the one thing about a rural school is you make do with what you have,” Bosman said. “With not getting it, it would have made things quite difficult with trading out who gets the laptops, who gets to use things. For making good use of the CNC and other equipment, it would minimize the extent we could go.”

WEDC’s Fab Labs Grant Program is designed to support hands-on learning in the subjects of science, technology, engineering, art and mathematics by assisting public school districts with equipment purchases for instructional and educational purposes, according to a state press release.

“WEDC has invested over $3.4 million for the past six years to provide 95 school districts across the state with the equipment necessary to help students learn high-demand skills, including technology, manufacturing and engineering,” said Missy Hughes, secretary and CEO of WEDC. “Fab labs benefit not only the students themselves with important technology and career skills, but they also benefit Wisconsin employers, who will be able to find workers with the right skills to allow their companies to grow and thrive.”
