Bowler School District to offer COVID-19 testing

School needs consent from parents to administer tests

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

The Bowler School District is offering free COVID-19 testing at the school for students and staff.

"The Wisconsin Department of Health Services sent out surveys to districts saying this is going to be an option for you, free of charge," said Superintendent Glenda Butterfield-Boldig. "So we filled out this survey to explain what would best meet our needs, and then they partnered us with providers to help fill the needs."

Butterfield-Boldig said that Bowler indicated that it wanted an option for students and staff to take a COVID-19 test if they believed that they have been exposed or are showing symptoms. She also detailed other options that could have been chosen.

"Other options that we could have chosen were weekly screenings or event testing," said Butterfield-Boldig. "We said that we were just interested in giving people the option. Not a requirement or a mandate, we just wanted to give the option to make people feel more comfortable and confident in how we were handling things."

Prevea partnered with Bowler for the tests.

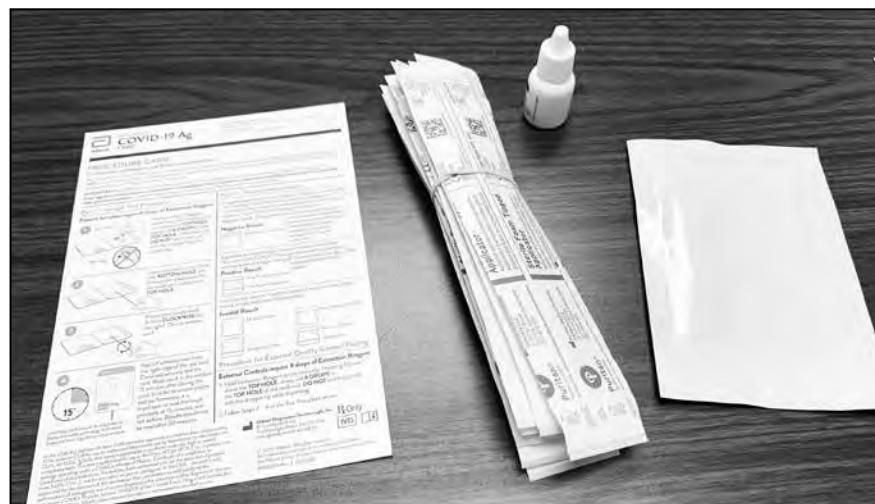

"They are the one that are providing us the rapid antigen tests," said Butterfield-Boldig. "We get results within 15 minutes."

She said that the school nurse is available for two days a week and will administer tests. She also said one member of the secretarial staff has been trained in performing the test.

The COVID-19 test in the district is a nasal test.

Butterfield-Boldig said that as soon as the school gets results for the test, they get sent to the Shawano County Health Department.

"We can find out within 15 minutes if someone is positive or negative," said Butterfield-Boldig. "One of the things that we learned from the pandemic was that we were being extremely cautious. We know that there are other factors that can cause COVID-like symptoms. With these tests, we know for sure if someone tests negative that they can stay at school."

The tests that will be administered are sent from Prevea. Students will have to have consent from parents to administer the tests.

She said that if a student has symptoms and tests negative, then they can return to class and school officials can contact that student's parents to give them an update.

"This gives us better information to make the best decisions," said Butterfield-Boldig.

According to Butterfield-Boldig there were a couple of reasons why the school district found it necessary to include these tests within the school.

"First of all we want to keep students and staff in the building," said Butterfield-Boldig. "We also want to keep families and staff feeling confident in our response. This also helps us get quick answers in case we have to use those mitigation strategies."

The Bowler school district received their tests on Sep. 2 and hope to to begin testing soon. In order to receive the test, consent forms are sent to parents. A consent form will be sent out every three months to parents.

"We are not trying to get this signed consent every time they take a test," said Butterfield-Boldig. "Students may be tested more than once in three months. Our plans for students are to contact that parent every time their child gets tested. We don't want to make it look like we are over testing."

She also said that there are guidelines in place from the state saying that students 14 and older must also give consent to get tested.

"If a mom says it's OK to get a test, but the student says that they don't want it, then we can't do it," said Butterfield-Boldig.

Butterfield-Boldig said that she has not heard any reaction from Bowler and surrounding communities in the school district yet.

"From my perception, staff are feeling good about having it as an option," said Butterfield-Boldig.

She also said the school district is unable to provide the tests to families of students and staff. With that, Butterfield-Boldig believes that this is a positive for the school.

"I am happy that we have staff that are willing to do this," said Butterfield-Boldig. "I like that we can offer this five days a week. It is one more layer that we can put into our mitigation strategies that we can make the best decision with the given information."

Butterfield-Boldig said that the qualified staff are able to administer the test after watching a video that walked them through training.

School officials share thoughts on COVID-19

Witt-Birn and Bowler will not require masks and will provide free COVID-19 testing

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

With the new school year underway, superintendents gave their thoughts the possible impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on the school year.

“We are prepared for the COVID-19 pandemic,” said Wittenberg-Birnamwood School District Superintendent Garrett Rogowski. “Our response will be similar to that of the last school year.”

WBHS’s COVID-19 response includes optional masking, constant cleaning and disinfecting and encouraging recommended vaccinations.

“We are now dealing with higher vaccinated adults,” said Rogowski. “We also have optional masking in place. Some kids are wearing masks, but they are not required.”

WBHS also has a plan in place to offer COVID-19 testing on site, where students, staff and families can go to the schools to be tested.

“I don’t anticipate this to have a high use,” said Rogowski. “It could be used, though, if we have a high spread in the school.”

The Bowler School District is also offering free testing for students and staff.

Bowler superintendent Glenda Butterfield-Boldig said that the free testing was just one of the many mitigation strategies that are in place in the Bowler school district.

Along with the free testing, Butterfield-Boldig said that the Bowler School District will continue to monitor COVID-19 cases using tools put together by the Shawano County Health Department.

“Right now we are in pretty good shape,” said Butterfield-Boldig.

She added that masking is not required, rather recommended and supported.

“The supported aspect is the part that was important to us,” said Butterfield-Boldig. “This is so families knew that if they wanted their children to wear masks, we were able to provide a safe environment to do that.”

Bowler also has protocols in place, like sanitizing stations, eating breakfast in classrooms, social distancing, and signs around the school promoting hand washing and masking.

In terms of quarantines, Butterfield-Boldig said that the board of education recommended to follow Centers for Disease Control and Prevention guidelines.

Students in Amber Johnston's fourth grade class in the Bowler School District attend their third day of the school year with some wearing masks and some not.

With the rise of different COVID-19 variants, Rogowski noted that things will be the same at WBHS.

“With the Delta variant, we are not going to operate and live in fear,” said Rogowski.

Both Butterfield-Boldig and Rogowski said that with masks not being a requirement, some students and staff in both school districts are still wearing masks.

The Bowler School District is also live streaming indoor sporting events, if community members don’t feel comfortable attending the event. These events can be found on the school district’s Facebook page.

Rogowski acknowledged the job that the staff in the Wittenberg-Birnamwood school district has done during the pandemic.

“Our staff has done a great job being flexible with the resources available during this time,” said Rogowski.

Through the first week, both Rogowski and Butterfield-Boldig said that the new school year has been running smoothly.

CONTRIBUTED

The Wittenberg Area Historical Society plans to present “A History of the Bethany Indian Mission” at 1 p.m. Sept. 12, at the Wittenberg-Birnamwood High School auditorium, 400 W. Grand Ave., Wittenberg.

Betty Bergland, Ph.D., professor at the University of Wisconsin-River Falls has interviewed students and staff from the Mission; examined the Bethany Indian Mission archives at Luther Seminary, St. Paul, Minnesota, and published articles on the complex and intriguing efforts of the mission.

Bethany Indian Mission was founded in Wittenberg by the Norwegian Lutheran Church in America and operated from the late 1880s to 1955. Bergland’s presentation will explore the mission’s complicated history.

The mission was moved many times until a substantial set of buildings was erected in the location of the present Witt-Birn High School. All that is left now is a historical marker near the ball diamond.

The historical society has gathered a panel to expand the scope of the presentation. Joining Bergland are Richard Gonzalez, a consultant on historical trauma; Susan Sihler, daughter of the Rev. E. Sihler, mission superintendent; Paul Rykken, grandson of the Rev. Rykken, mission superintendent; Dr. Verna Fowler, former College of Menominee Nation president; and Heather Bruegl, a Mohican cultural historian.

Redistricting process to take 6 months

County to keep supervisory districts at 27, won't reduce

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

The Shawano County Redistricting Committee opted Aug. 31 not to pursue a condensed timeline for redrawing county district maps, which means those who run for county office in 2022 will be bound by the current districts.

The county had the option of trying to accelerate the redistricting process to have it ready by Dec. 1, when the next county election cycle begins, or to go the traditional process, where the county would spend about six months redrawing the maps, getting public input, and coordinating with municipalities to get them aligned.

Normally, the redistricting would be completed by now, but the pandemic delayed everything, including the latest U.S. Census numbers, which were released to the county last week. As a result, the six-month process will conclude around the end of February.

Committee members saw the condensed timeline as unrealistic, especially with trying to coordinate with the municipalities.

“That gives us two months to finish the process and then to work with the towns to go along with it,” said Supervisor Tom Kautza. “I don’t see that happening.”

The committee will also be keeping the number of districts at 27, even though they were presented with options for reducing the districts to 25, 23 or 21. Even with the total districts remaining the same, county residents, especially those in the western section, can expect some potential shifts in boundary lines.

The county has lost about 1,000 residents in the last 10 years, according to the latest U.S. Census numbers, but some areas have been harder hit than others. The Town of Morris dropped its population by over 20%, while Mattoon dropped about 23%.

Very few communities increased their populations, according to Dave Poffinbarger, who composes the maps for the county. Even Shawano saw a drop in population, although the Town of Wescott saw an increase.

Supervisor Arlyn Tober questioned the census numbers when there are new homes being built across the county.

“I know it’s the official numbers, but I can’t believe it,” Tober said. “You just drive around through Shawano County and see all the houses going up around the county. My road alone has an extra 10 or 11 houses.”

If the county opted to reduce the number of districts, the result would be less representation for the western side of the county, according to Supervisor Jerry Erdmann. He noted his district is the largest in size, even though the population is constant with other districts.

“My mind is set on simply staying at 27 because, if you want to downsize, it’s all going to come out of the west because the west has more forest land and less people,” Erdmann said. “That’s what happened 10 years ago and will be what happens again.”

Supervisor Kathy Luebke said the drop to 25 districts would only result in an additional 100 residents per district, but since there was no opinion one way or the other on remaining at 27, she felt it was best to stay put.

Poffinbarger said he will be drafting four to six maps for the committee to consider at its next meeting Sept. 14.

Fair ceremony full of patriotism, pride

County event celebrates 140th year

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

The 140th Shawano County Fair opened Sept. 1 with the usual pomp and circumstance as almost 200 people watched from food stands, benches and any other spot within view of the microphone.

The opening ceremony is usually a simple affair, with a color guard consisting of the American Legion, Vietnam Veterans of America, Veterans of Foreign Wars and AmVets standing with the sun dipping closer to the horizon in the west and the usual speakers praising the fair and all it stands for.

"We veterans are proud to present our colors and join the Shawano County Agricultural Society in the grand opening of this great fair," said Dennis Bohm, who regularly leads the color guard in parades and ceremonies.

Dale Hodkiewicz, president for the agricultural society, said there's a reason why the fair has been a staple for the county, being one of the few things not canceled when the coronavirus pandemic was in full swing in 2020.

"It's because of the people standing right over here," Hodkiewicz said as he pointed to the veterans, "who give us the rights and freedom to be here tonight."

Keeping with his theme of patriotism, Hodkiewicz urged the folks in the crowd to say a prayer for the Americans still in Afghanistan, but he added that the somber moment shouldn't take away from the six days of fun that the fair provides.

Brad Luepke, the fair's marketing coordinator, echoed the patriotism in his comments before handing out the Friends of the Fair awards.

"This is what America is all about," Luepke said. "There are stars and stripes everywhere. Everybody had their hats off for the National Anthem. This is a great thing to be a part of."

Shawano Mayor Bruce Milavitz told the crowd that it was an honor for the fair to be taking place in the city.

"This just is the land of the free," Milavitz said. "When you look around and think about what is going on, how many wars have happened in 140 years, I am so appreciative to the fair board for your efforts to keep this going all these years. I'm extremely appreciative of all of you that come to this event and enjoy yourselves and make this special and wonderful."

Livestock auction draws a crowd

Youth raise 168 animals to bring in record-setting $506K from bidders

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

Hundreds of people packed the building as children involved in various 4-H and FFA programs around the county put their animals up for bid during the 51st annual Shawano County Fair livestock auction on Sept. 3 in the Coliseum on the fairgrounds.

Hogs, steer and sheep that were raised by kids were shown off in a pen in front of everyone as the bidding took place.

Surrounding businesses then bid on the animals that these children have raised.

"The kids put a lot of time and effort into being a part of this event," said Paul McClone, vice chairman of the Shawano County 4-H livestock committee. "I don't know of another fair that has something like this."

McClone said that there was $506,000 spent between 168 animals this year, a fair record.

He said that the money that is spent on each animal goes to the child who raised the animal and put it up for auction. This helps to set up their future plans.

"A majority of the money that the children makes helps them in the future," said McClone. "They could use the money for college, tech school and even a nice tool set. The money gets spent in a reasonable way."

In preparation for the auction, children could spend a year or longer raising the animals and building a connection with them.

McClone said that due to the connection that the children build with these animals, it can be sad to see them go.

"Ninety-five percent of the animals that are bought harvested for butchering," said McClone. "It is hard on the kids to let them go. We see a lot of kids crying."

He said that a big takeaway for the kids for entering animals in this event is that they learn a lot about responsibility.

"The kids work with the animals all summer," said McClone. "This is a great event to teach the kids a life lesson."

With the popularity of the auction, McClone said that it is incredible to see the support of the community.

Bowler resident Beau Brunner shows off the cow that he raised during the livestock auction at the Shawano County Fair on Sept. 3. LUKE REIMER | NEW MEDIA

"It really is overwhelming to see the amount of support from surrounding businesses and community members," said McClone. "The kids write these businesses letters and they (the kids) get rewarded generously."

At the auction, businesses also have the opportunity to win the bid on the animal, donate the money back and have the animal put up for bid again. This money then goes to a scholarship fund for students who are moving on to college.

McClone said that seeing the amount of people in the crowd was encouraging to the children and the auction officials.

"We had a very good crowd," said McClone. "We had 12 to 15 new buyers, which is more than normal."

Last year during the COVID-19 pandemic, the auction was held virtually with kids showing their animals at the Crawford Center.

McClone said that it was good to get people back together at the fair to bid on the animals.

"There were a lot of people at the fair this year," said McClone. "I think that there are a lot of people that are over COVID. Everyone just wants to get back to normal."

He said that, outside of the auction, the fair had a great turnout.

"I would imagine that the fair was close to record attendance," said McClone. "I talked to some food vendors and they said that they were very happy with the turnout."

McClone said that the auction has grown in popularity since the first year it was held. This is proved by the record number of money spent in 2021.

"The auction gets more and more popular every year," said McClone. "The kids take their time and put in a lot of hard work. It is great seeing new people come every year."

The Shawano County 4-H Livestock Committee also has a feeder cattle program, where the animals are fed all year in preparation for the auction.

"The kids feed their animals all year," said McClone. "Some people already have their animal that they are going to put into next year's auction."

He also added that the children buy their animals from local and state-wide animal breeders.

McClone said that the popularity surrounding this event has been very positive to see.

"A lot of people came to partake and watch this event," said McClone. "That shows that people think this event is very cool."

Fair food competition sees more participation

Food and nutrition preservation event sees between 350-400 entries

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

The annual food and nutrition preservation event at the 2021 Shawano County Fair was packed with entries Sept. 3.

The event showcases different foods and desserts that were submitted to judges in an effort to win the blue ribbon as best in each category.

"This event is for the county fair," said Jerry DeSchmidt, foods and nutrition superintendent. "This is just for fun competition. We want to see who the best baker is."

DeSchmidt said that certain factors go into how a dish is judged and what separates one dish from another dish.

"With the dairy promotions, they are promoting dairy products," he said. "They need to have at least two dairy products — another part of the dish is presentation and taste."

Subcategories for the dairy dishes include cakes, yeast breads, quick breads, muffins, cookies, bars, dried foods, decorated foods, pies and canned goods.

He added that judges leave comments on entries to help competitors learn what they can do to make their dish better.

"Some judges give a lot of comments," said DeSchmidt. "They enjoy giving those comments. You are free to ask judges why you got a certain score after the judging."

Judge Ila Sanders said when she judges food for competitors, she tries to leave as many comments as possible to help them improve on their cooking and baking.

"I try to write comments as I can," she said. "I want to communicate what maybe didn't put them in a blue ribbon position. Hopefully it is a learning experience."

She added that the big takeaways for people who enter their food are improvement, fun and satisfaction.

"They will see how they compare with others," said Sanders. "They will look at those comments and see how they can improve. There is also an energizing feeling from seeing others bake and cook different items as well."

According to DeSchmidt, judges are qualified to examine these entries through criteria set by the state of Wisconsin. He also said that food related professions give judges experience and qualifications to make their decisions.

"I think most of the judges have been around food in their work history," said DeSchmidt.

Sanders said that she enjoys judging this event every year. She has a degree in home economics.

"I was raised in Shawano County as a 4-Her," she said. "I always said that I wanted to be a food judge. I love to look at the foods and see the satisfaction that people are getting from it."

DeSchmidt said a lot of new exhibitors wanted to get their food judged during the 2021 Shawano County Fair. He attributes the rise to people who have witnessed the event in the past.

"It is just from people last year who came through and said, 'Oh, I can do that,'" said DeSchmidt. "We told them that they can enter and see how well they do."

DeSchmidt views the increase as a positive thing.

"I enjoy the competition," said DeSchmidt. "If we could fill up every single food case, I think we would all be really happy."

With more people getting vaccinated and coming out to the fair this year, DeSchmidt said that he thought the turnout of people who entered the competition was great. He said that there were between 350 and 400 entries this year.

Last year, the food and nutrition preservation event was held during the COVID-19 pandemic and it looked a little different than this year.

"This was different from last year in that judges were the only one who could taste the food last year," said DeSchmidt. "This year if you want to try the food, you can ask the judge and they will cut off a little bit for you."

LIBRARY DIRECTOR JOB POSTING OCONTO FALLS PUBLIC LIBRARY

The Board of Trustees of the Oconto Falls Public Library in Oconto Falls, Wisconsin, is seeking an organized and spirited leader to direct the operation of its community library. The City of Oconto Falls is a dynamic and growing community of just over 3,000 citizens and is located on the beautiful flowing Oconto River. The library also serves as a community resource for outlying rural townships and villages. This community has an excellent school system, two beaches, east and west side, a 9-hole golf course, hiking and biking trails, three banks and one credit union, two health clinics, and the HSHS St. Clare Memorial Hospital.

RESPONSIBILITIES: Under the direction of the Board of Trustees, this position manages all aspects of library operations including but not limited to:

1. The hiring, mentoring and supervision of all librarians, assistants, substitutes, and volunteers who work in the library.
2. Managing of all library resources, including human resources.
3. Purchasing, cataloguing, and organization of acquisitions.
4. Designing and implementing services and programs for users of all ages.
5. Budgetary preparation, monitoring and maintenance, with emphasis of use of spreadsheets and databases.
6. Assisting the Board with long-range planning and policy development.
7. Overseeing the maintenance and safety of the library building and grounds; collaborating with city personnel.
8. Work closely with Nicolet Federated Library System and OWLSnet Consortium following policies and procedure established by both.
9. Knowledge of a variety of computer systems, and the ability to teach systems to both staff and the public.

QUALIFICATIONS: A Bachelor's Degree from a four-year university and a Wisconsin Public Librarian Certification, Grade II, or eligibility for a Grade II Wisconsin Library Certificate within two years of hiring; knowledge of current library practices, technology and trends; advanced budgetary planning and monitoring experience; excellent interpersonal skills; and the ability to develop and maintain effective working relationships with their staff, the Board, the City of Oconto Falls officials, community organizations, and the general public.

COMPENSATION: The total compensation and benefits is based on qualifications, work history and experience, with a minimum starting salary range of $38,000 to $45,000 for a full-time position. The position may at times require working evenings and Saturdays. Benefits include vacation, sick, personal time, holiday pay, and retirement, with dental and vision available as an add-on.

APPLICATION PROCESS: Applicants are requested to submit a cover letter, resume, college transcript, a City of Oconto Falls job application form (available at <https://cityofocontofalls.com/employment>), and three professional references by September 30th, 2021. Finalists may be required to furnish additional information. Materials should be submitted as follows:

BOOKS AND STUFF

Willow Rose novel has lots of twists and turns

“It’s Not Over” by Willow Rose is a multilayered tale of love, loss and revenge that will be hard to sum up in a single column. I will do my best with a thumbnail sketch.

Former FBI agent Eva Rae Thomas has settled into a healthier routine. Her mother moved in to handle the household, and her three children are doing OK. Eva isn’t ready to marry yet, so her fiancé, Matt, and his son, Alex, live separately.

JAN JONES

She and her wealthy actress sister Sydney have purchased and staffed House of Freedom, where girls they rescue from sex traffickers can receive treatment and care.

Matt is a police detective, so Eva does her best to keep him in the dark because the rescues aren’t really legal. He knows and chooses to look the other way.

Eva has just finished a rescue when a young FBI agent arrives. The FBI need Eva’s help. Ten years ago, Mary and Peter Marshall were vacationing in Florida with their twins, Maggie and Blake. One evening, the couple puts the children to bed then slip downstairs for an anniversary dinner. Mary insists on checking on the children every half-hour. Peter grudgingly agrees, and they take turns.

When Mary enters the room, she sees the beds empty and the patio door open. Someone has taken her babies. Blake’s body is found in a nearby lake, and the killer is sentenced to death.

Now, the Marshalls have returned to Florida for a vacation with their 7-year-old son, Cole, and he’s been abducted just like his siblings.

The story then bounces between the life of Roy Hudson and the present. Roy adored his overly protective mother but felt distant from his father. When his mother died the distance increased. Roy was unhappy when his father married a woman with a 2-year-old girl he called Maggot.

Roy’s father blames him for an accident that left his new wife paralyzed. He takes the teen to a secluded lake, knocks him out and runs the car into the water. He tells the authorities Roy stole his car and attempted suicide, then bribes a doctor to declare Roy brain damaged so he could be committed to a mental hospital. Realizing what had happened, Roy vowed revenge and eventually escaped, returned home and killed his father and stepmother before disappearing.

In the present time, Eva Rae digs for clues to who would have taken Cole and why, while the cunning killer hides the now drugged child in the same hotel waiting for the right moment to kill him. It is a cat-and-mouse game as Eva Rae and her team close in, but they are always a step behind.

When 15-year-old Jessica sees a news bulletin about Cole, she is desperate to contact Eva Rae but is snatched by sex traffickers. Miraculously, the place is raided, and Jessica tells Sydney things that Eva Rae needs to know.

The horrifying picture is complete when they learn that Jessica is actually Maggie. The child managed to survive and reach safety. Afraid to tell anyone that her abductor was her own father, she’s been living with an abusive foster family, but now she needs to save Cole from him.

Peter Marshall is Roy Hudson. His revenge plot included finding and marrying his stepsister, Mary (Maggot), then killing her beloved twins. Killing Cole was to be his coup de gras, but Eva Rae won’t let that happen and risks her life to save both Cole and Mary.

Finally home, Matt confronts Eva Rae with her positive pregnancy test. Matt is happy but she’s not sure she’s ready to have a newborn at age 42. One way or another, they know they’ll work it out.

HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL

Witt-Birn dominant in home conference win

Chargers have strong showings on both sides of ball

By MORGAN RODE
Sports Editor

The Wittenberg-Birnamwood High School football team improved to 3-0 on the season after a 40-0 drubbing of Central Wisconsin Conference-Large Division foe Spencer/Columbus Catholic on a rainy and cool Sept. 3 night in Wittenberg.

Witt-Birn senior Ben Wesolowski bounced back from an early fumble and went on to account for four of the team's six touchdowns. The Chargers' defense was stifling, allowing just two first downs all game.

"We knew what they were gonna do. We watched a lot of film. Our coaches put in a good gameplan, so we were really prepared," said Wesolowski on the team's strong showing.

"We had to adjust because it was wet, so we knew if we could just pound the ball up the middle, we'd be good," the senior added on the offense's play. "Our linemen blocked insane again tonight."

Despite the lopsided score, the start to the contest wasn't perfect for the Chargers.

After surrendering one of the first downs before forcing a Spencer/Columbus Catholic punt on the first drive, Witt-Birn saw its first offensive possession end in Wesolowski's fumble, setting the Rockets up with great field position.

The Chargers' defense was up to the challenge though, starting the drive with a tackle for loss and then overcoming a flag by registering a sack on the fourth down play.

It was a sign of things to come, as Witt-Birn defenders lived in the Spencer/Columbus Catholic backfield all game.

"It was a blast," said senior Kaden Schmidt, who plays safety on defense. "Our linebackers, our defensive line just getting through and they were just laying the hammer on them guys. I didn't have to do anything. I had a free night. Just watching those guys go to town was the coolest thing ever."

The Chargers' second possession wasn't going too smoothly, and a high snap on the third-and-6 play had lost yardage and potential turnover written on it. Instead, Wesolowski was able to pull down the snap, gather himself and then weave his way through the defense for a 57-yard touchdown run.

The teams traded punts, with the Chargers' defense forcing a turnover on downs on the drive starting in their territory, before the host's offense heated up.

Witt-Birn's balanced next drive lasted about six minutes before Wesolowski scored on a 4-yard run to make it 12-0.

The Chargers strong defensive play was put on full display on the ensuing drive. Junior David Gauderman made a big hit on a screen pass for a loss of seven yards before senior Ben Flak recorded a sack to force fourth down. The snap on the punt sailed high and went out of the back of the end zone for a safety, making it 14-0.

"We build off each other's momentum really well," said Gauderman. "I make a play, then our other defensive end Flak just comes with a sack. It kind of goes both ways."

After Schmidt had a long return on the kick after the safety, it took the Chargers just four plays to find the end zone again. This time, Wesolowski threw a 19-yard touchdown pass to senior Luke Muscha.

Another tackle for loss set the visitors in a second-and-16 situation on the next drive, and the Chargers took advantage with more aggressive play, forcing and recovering a fumble to get another chance to score in the half.

After a couple incompletions, Wesolowski found a seam in the defense and scored on a 22-yard run to make it 27-0 at halftime.

Witt-Birn's strong play continued to open the third quarter, as Schmidt sprinted 62 yards for a touchdown run on the first offensive play.

The Chargers' defense forced another punt, helping set up a short field for the offense. Several plays later, sophomore Marshall Fraaza scored on a 1-yard run to make it 40-0.

"It's a credit to them, they accept their coaching, which is good," said Witt-Birn coach Bernard Holsey on his team's defense. "I can call anything under the sun but if they don't accept their coaching, it's not gonna work. I think they bought in — I shouldn't say I think — I know they've bought in and they accept their responsibility and role in this team and on the defense."

Spencer/Columbus Catholic's other first down came late in the third quarter, but the Witt-Birn defense later forced a turnover on downs to get the ball back.

After emptying the bench, the Chargers were content to run clock and seal up their third win of the season.

Witt-Birn will head to Amherst next Friday in a battle of top-10 ranked teams in Division 5.

ATHLETE PROFILE: ELIZABETH ROBBINS

Tigerton senior all about her team

Teams often get the most out of their seasons when players are most interested in putting their teams first instead of chasing individual statistics. Elizabeth Robbins is that player for the Tigerton High School volleyball team.

Robbins makes a conscious effort to always put her team first, although she also racks up plenty of statistics with her play on the court.

The senior led Tigerton with 22 assists and also had 12 service points during the team's four matches at the Bonduel Invite on Aug. 24. Robbins had 49 assists, 35 service points and five aces during the Tigers' second-place finish on Aug. 26 at the Marion Invitational.

She recorded 11 assists and nine service points in a loss to Menominee Indian on Sept. 2.

Q: When did your interest in volleyball begin?

A: Growing up and watching my sisters (Rachael and Erin) play volleyball in high school definitely got me interested in playing. They have been an inspiration for me to push myself to accomplish my goals.

Q: What is your favorite part about the volleyball season?

A: My favorite thing about this volleyball season is how much our team connects. When we are on the court, all we care about is volleyball and helping each other. We have many traditions to keep our bonds strong.

Q: In order to achieve its goals this season, what does your volleyball team need to do?

A: To achieve our goals, we need to have confidence in each other and we need to hype each other up to play our game.

Q: After playing in the alternate fall season this spring, how does it feel to already be back on the court?

A: Coming back from a COVID season, being able to do more group activities and doing things normally feels great and is helping our team grow.

Tigerton's Elizabeth Robbins tips the ball during a match against Suring at the Bonduel Invite on Aug. 24 in Bonduel.

Q: Do you have any individual goals you hope to accomplish this season?

A: I don't really have an individual goal, as long as I can help lead my team to victory and we are having fun doing it, I would say that my goal is complete.

Q: As a senior, how are you helping lead the rest of the team?

A: As a senior, I help lead the team to have confidence in themselves. Getting the team pumped up and getting them ready to play their best game is important to me.

Q: Do you have any rituals you go through before a game starts?

A: Personally, I don't have any rituals but the team does. Before each game, we sing "I Want It That Way" by the Backstreet Boys. It has become a tradition we do since I was a freshman. Singing that song is our favorite thing we do on the team and it brings us together and gets us ready to play ball. We also do a chant and that helps us before each game to pump us up and get us going before each game.

Q: What's your favorite memory of competing on the Tigerton volleyball team?

A: My favorite memory is junior year during regionals. It was between us and Gresham for regional champs. That game is one of the best games we have played. I remember the game being really intense and everyone was playing their best game. This was also the first game that we got to have a little student section since COVID, and I was so excited that they were there. Unfortunately, we didn't win, but we made so many memories that day. We were more sad that we were not able to play volleyball together anymore more than losing the game. I was proud of my teammates and sad to see it end.

Q: Favorite movie, TV show and musical artist?

A: TV show — "The Office." My family and I quote it all the time, and it is such a classic. I can't choose one favorite movie, I have too many, but if I had to choose, I would choose "Anchorman." My favorite artist is Scotty McCreery, and I have loved him since I was 7 years old when he won American Idol. I love his music, and going to his concerts is so special to me.

Q: Name one thing about yourself that not many people know.

A: One thing that many people don't know about me is that I don't drink soda. I never liked the after-taste to it, and fizzy drinks are not my favorite.

Q: What's the greatest piece of advice you have ever been told?

A: Greatest piece of advice I have gotten is take in the little things in life and stop waiting for something big to happen. If you want it, go get it. Life is too short to wait for things.

Q: What are some things you hope to accomplish after graduating high school?

A: After high school, I hope to graduate college with a business and finance degree. I also hope to work at the bank here in town and start a family.

Shawano boys place 2nd at De Pere Invitational

Gillett, Lena/STAA teams also have solid showings

By NEW MEDIA STAFF

The Shawano Community High School boys cross-country team turned in a second-place finish at the De Pere Invitational on Sept. 2 in De Pere.

The boys team posted a score of 72, only behind Bay Port's 48. Gillett and Lena/St. Thomas Aquinas Academy also competed, taking sixth and ninth, respectively, on the boys side.

Shawano only had three girls competing, so no team score was recorded. The Gillett girls came in fifth. No Lena/STAA girls ran. Ethan Onesti was the top finisher

Errors costly for Badgers in season-opening loss

By STEVE MEGARGEE

The Associated Press

Jaquan Brisker and Ji'Ayir Brown intercepted Graham Mertz deep in Penn State territory in the final 2½ minutes to preserve the 19th-ranked Nittany Lions' 16-10 victory over No. 12 Wisconsin on Sept. 4.

Wisconsin (0-1) had its string of 25 consecutive victories in home openers snapped because of its red-zone failures. The Badgers dominated time of possession but had four scoreless trips inside Penn State's 25-yard line, including three inside the 10.

"It was a gutsy win against a really good opponent, a top-20 opponent," Penn State coach James Franklin said. "Our kids willed it to happen today."

The Badgers had first-and-goal at the 1 in the closing minutes on a drive that included a targeting penalty on Ellis Brooks that knocked Penn State's top tackler out of the game.

Then things went awry.

Mertz lost the ball on an apparent handoff attempt on first down, though Wisconsin's Isaac Guerendo recovered the fumble at the 7. Guerendo lost a yard on second down, then Joey Porter Jr. broke up a pass to Jack Dunn.

On fourth down, Mertz attempted a pass across the middle to tight end Jake Ferguson, but Brisker picked it off and delivered a 41-yard return with 2:16 remaining.

Wisconsin got the ball back on its own 18 with 1:11 left and got all the way to the Penn State 25 with 26 seconds remaining, thanks in part to a personal foul on Arnold Ebiketie. But after an intentional grounding call pushed Wisconsin back to the 32, Brown intercepted a Mertz pass on the game's final play.

"We've got to find a way to finish," Wisconsin coach Paul Chryst said. "We didn't do that enough."

USDA aid available for timber haulers and harvesters

The U.S. Department of Agriculture is providing up to $200 million to provide relief to timber harvesting and timber hauling businesses that have experienced losses due to COVID-19 as part of USDA's Pandemic Assistance for Producers initiative.

Loggers and truckers can apply for assistance through USDA's Farm Service Agency through Oct. 15. The Pandemic Assistance for Timber Harvesters and Haulers program (PATHH) is administered by FSA in partnership with the U.S. Forest Service.

The Consolidated Appropriations Act authorized this assistance for the timber industry. Timber harvesting and hauling businesses that have experienced a gross revenue loss of at least 10% during the period of Jan. 1 and Dec. 1, 2020, compared to the period of Jan. 1 and Dec. 1, 2019, are encouraged to apply.

"Like many facets of the agriculture industry, the logging industry has experienced its share of financial hardships throughout the pandemic," said FSA Administrator Zach Ducheneaux. "We're happy to work with the U.S. Forest Service to develop this new program to provide critically needed support."

To be eligible for payments, individuals or legal entities must be a timber harvesting or timber hauling business where 50% or more of its gross revenue is derived from cutting timber, transporting timber and processing of wood on-site on the forest land (chipping, grinding, converting to biochar, cutting to smaller lengths, etc.).

Payments will be based on the applicant's gross revenue received from Jan. 1, 2019, through Dec. 1, 2019, minus gross revenue received from Jan. 1, 2020, through Dec. 1, 2020, multiplied by 80%. FSA will issue an initial payment equal to the lesser of the calculated payment amount or $2,000 as applications are approved. A second payment will be made after the sign-up period has ended based upon remaining PATHH funds.

The maximum amount that a person or legal entity may receive directly is $125,000.

Loggers and truckers can apply for PATHH by completing form FSA-1118, Pandemic Assistance for Timber Harvesters and Haulers Program application, and certifying to their gross revenue for 2019 and 2020 on the application. Additional documentation may be required. Visit farmers.gov/pathh for information on how to apply.

Horsens wins Women in Auto Care Scholarship

Emelie Horsens, of Cecil, has been selected for a $5,000 Women in Auto Care Scholarship.

Horsens was selected in June from more than 1,000 applicants to receive a University of the Aftermarket Foundation Scholarship and plans to attend Northeastern Wisconsin Technical College to study collision repair. The foundation provides funding for aftermarket educational programs, research, and scholarships. Through its grant program, the foundation and other donors and organizations will award more than 300 scholarships in 2021 and have awarded more than 4,000 since the beginning of the program in 1995.

"It is a privilege to support the next generation of people looking to have a career in the auto care industry. We look forward to seeing them succeed," said Danielle Sonnefeld, co-chairman of the scholarship committee.

OPINION

Tragedy brings US together, but time pulls it apart

Twenty years ago, the vision of America changed. Before that time, we thought we were safe. We thought that nothing bad could happen on a massive scale in the United States.

That fantasy image of our country shattered abruptly on the morning of Sept. 11, 2001, as two planes crashed into the World Trade

LEE PULASKI

Center in New York, sending the Twin Towers falling. The image was erased from our minds and replaced with the sight of another plane crashing into the Pentagon in Washington, D.C. Any remnants of hope that the incident was just a dream or hallucination faded as we learned a fourth plane, suspected to be heading for the White House, was thwarted by American passengers fighting back and causing it to crash in Pennsylvania.

That day shook all Americans to their core. Our combined vision of the United States being a utopia and the greatest place to live was interrupted by the sight of structures on fire, people fleeing from plumes of smoke, dust and rubble, and emergency officials racing toward the danger zones to hopefully help survivors.

The numbers from the horrors of that day are staggering. We lost 2,977 people from the attacks themselves while over 25,000 were injured, and over $10 billion was spent to deal with the infrastructure and property damage. It was the deadliest terrorist attack in human history.

Even before the abysmal anniversary came upon us, we've had constant reminders of that fateful day. When America was attacked, we took the battle back to the enemy as we descended on Afghanistan to battle al-Qaeda — and we only left the country a few days ago. Whenever we go through airports, we must go through security checkpoints and have our bodies and belongings searched. We've seen stories on the news about police officers, firefighters and other rescuers dying from being exposed to the tons of toxic debris believed to have more than 2,500 contaminants.

Not that we've needed any reminders of Sept. 11. Most of us who were alive that day remember all too well where we were when we turned on our televisions and saw the fiery carnage. I was in my hometown getting ready to go to work and chase down the news of the community. It was supposed to be a relatively easy day for me, but my plans on shooting photos of community events were quickly scrapped as I, like many other journalists, had to shift our work to capture the local angle of what had just happened.

On that day, everybody in the community came together. It didn't matter if you were Republican or Democrat, what color your skin was, or any of the other differences that put us into conflict. Even if you hated your neighbors, you checked in on them to make sure they were all right, and they did the same for you. The petty squabbles that kept us apart were pushed aside as we realized we needed to unite as a country if we were to avoid having something similar happen again.

What happened to us?

Our unified vision has fractured since then. Where we once stood together, we now have become no different than the splintered pieces of glass from windows blown apart from the force of airplanes, only worse than before. If someone's views differ from ours, we call them deplorable and an enemy. Not even a global pandemic or an attack on the U.S. Capitol early this year have been able to bring us back together.

We're better than this. I saw America on that dark day 20 years ago and in the days following. We were a cohesive society that was united in one belief — that America was not going to fall. We realized we'd become too complacent and vowed to do what was needed to make sure that our country continued to be a beacon of hope for the rest of the world.

We need to find a way back to where we were 20 years ago. The death and carnage, we should skip, but the part where we found a way to agree to disagree and realize we're all one people, that needs to come back. I don't know if it's possible, but we should figure out how to do so without terrorists coming to town and trying to destroy our democracy.

As we observe the 20th anniversary of this pivotal moment in history, we should all look inside ourselves and figure out how to make this a better world to live in. Too many people paid the cost the last time our country drifted apart. Keep them in mind as you go about your weekend and realize that it's all too easy to tear something down. We were lucky in 2001. The next time, it might cost us more.

GUEST COLUMN

K-12 education isn't nearly as good as we think

The performance of the United States' K-12 public school system is so poor that nothing less than a major overhaul, something akin to what the state of Maryland is undertaking, will fix its problems.

Many measures of quality in the nation's public schools tell us what children do, not what they know. Metrics range from graduation rates to suspension rates, from school attendance to student-teacher ratios. There is an underlying assumption in these numbers that students absorb a sound base of knowledge as they travel through their K-12 journey. As we shall see below, this assumption is completely inaccurate for many children.

The most damning evidence comes from the assessment of adult competencies. The Program for the International Assessment of Adult Competencies, PIAAC, is a cyclical, large-scale study developed under the auspices of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development. It is a well-established measurement system used across the globe. In the most recent 2017-18 study, they assessed a sampling of the U.S. pool of 16- to 65-year-olds, a population of 219 million.

Thirty-eight countries participated in this study, but due to the resolution of ties, fewer than 38 countries are shown in the rankings. Here are the results for U.S. high school graduates:

- In literacy, 25% have the reading skills of a 10-year-old, placing the U.S. 12th among 29 nations measured. This dismal level of verbal competence worsened from 20% in the program's previous 2012 study.
- In numerical competence, 38% of Americans lack basic math-related skills. The U.S. ranks 22nd among 32 nations, and its "numeracy" shortfall has deepened; the previous level in this category was 33%.
- An assessment of "problem-solving in a digital environment" found 33% to be digitally incompetent, up from the 30% level the program reported in 2012. Currently, the U.S. ranks 11th among 25 nations.

This "getting worse" trend in their findings should be alarming to us all.

U.S. millennials (now 25 to 40 years old) are the least well-educated compared to similar age groups in the developed world. This result is drawn from competency testing.

The U.S. Department of Education assessments of math and reading skills have not improved in 47 years. One implication, the many federal programs have all failed.

International scores by the Program for International Student Assessment places the U.S. at 11th in reading, 29th in math and 15th in science.

Grade inflation is running rampant — "A" is the most often awarded grade in high schools. As a result, a national survey shows when parents were asked if their children were performing at or above grade level, 90% said they were. In fact, only 30% were.

Here is another example of "widening the plate." In 2014, a high school in Ohio awarded the honor of class valedictorian to 72 out of their graduating class of 222; the next year, a Virginia high school awarded this title to 117 out of 457 graduates.

Disruptive children are stealing teaching time in 80,000 U.S. schools. Our discipline collapse is a national tragedy. These results are derived from a 2004 study titled "Teaching Interrupted," published by the Brooklyn think tank, Public Agenda.

The state of Maryland, always a top contender for best state education system, recently assessed that only 40% of their high school graduates were college or career ready. My home state of Indiana is currently at 30%.

With all of these issues, the U.S. is facing a huge teacher shortage. The projection for 2025 is an annual need of 300,000 teachers and a supply of 100,000. We're going to have a major train wreck.

The state of Maryland is at the beginning of a major overhaul of its schools that should produce outstanding results. As we think about educating our children, we don't give thought to the return on our investment. This is a key result from the Maryland study.

They predict an outstanding return on their investment as assessed in dollars and cents but can't quantify the massive intangible returns. When implemented, their program will change society for the better and eliminate many inequalities.

The first step in making needed changes is to replicate the Maryland commission in each state. Only then will people believe they have serious issues in their own public-school systems.

Dr. Andres Schleicher, a prominent expert in the international field of education, says: "The quality of schooling in a country is a reliable predictor of the wealth that country will produce in the long run."

We're nowhere near where we should be; in fact, we're in deep trouble. We must make major changes; look at the Maryland proposal for guidance.

For a quick summary of the Maryland study, go to my website — elevateteachers.org — and look at Lesson 19.

Corridors bustle with energy as school year begins

Dear Wittenberg-Birnamwood District Residents,

With the start of the new school year upon us, it has been exciting to be a part of the energy and activities that come with the return of our students!

As I write this newsletter, it is currently the first day of school and it won't be long before the halls will be lined with examples of student work and bulletin board celebrations. Our staff has worked very hard to prepare for 2021-22 and look forward to challenging our students to another level of personal and academic success.

I want to again extend an invitation to take the opportunity to contact and visit your children's teachers, administrators, and myself as we embark on the start of another school year. The link between home and school is so critical in ensuring a successful experience for each of our students, and I hope that all of our families and residents have a very rewarding experience in this partnership.

I wish you all good fortune in 2021-22 and thank you for your continued support of Wittenberg-Birnamwood Schools!

Garrett Rogowski is superintendent for the Wittenberg-Birnamwood School District.

Green Bay with Super Bowl aspirations

Team looks to avoid third straight loss in NFC title game

By MORGAN RODE
Sports Editor

An offseason of rumors and speculation are in the rear-view mirror and it's finally time for the Green Bay Packers to step on the field and open the 2021 NFL season.

While the Packers again have aspirations of bringing the Lombardi Trophy back to Green Bay, it's still hard not to wonder if this is the final ride with this particular core of players on the roster.

Two fan favorites — quarterback Aaron Rodgers and wide receiver Davante Adams — are at the center of the speculation.

Rodgers, of course, was at the heart of most of the offseason news after news broke on the first night of the 2021 NFL Draft that he was unhappy with the team and wanted out of Green Bay. When he finally was able to tell his side of the story, Rodgers expressed that he just wanted to be part of the team's conversations involving players and things that impacted his job as quarterback, saying he'd earned that right after 16 seasons with the team.

Adams is set to become an unrestricted free agent at the end of the season but hadn't received a new contract as of the week before the regular season opened.

One of the league's best duos didn't do much to quell the speculation, posting Instagram stories on July 23 with the same picture of Chicago Bulls legends Michael Jordan and Scottie Pippen, hinting this could be their last season together in Green Bay, or "The Last Dance," like the popular documentary that aired in 2020.

Even with all the drama surrounding the team, the goal is still simple — win the Super Bowl.

"It's Titletown. It's championship or disappointment," said Rodgers in an interview a couple weeks back.

The last two seasons have seen Green Bay fall one win short of the big game. Last year, the Packers were unable to rally late in a loss to the Tampa Bay Buccaneers at Lambeau Field.

With a lower salary cap than in 2020, all NFL teams were forced to make cuts to their rosters and restructure several contracts to make the numbers align with the cap for this season.

The Packers did what they could to bring back most of their 2020 team, re-signing players like running back Aaron Jones, wide receiver Allen Lazard, tight ends Marcedes Lewis and Robert Tonyan and cornerback Kevin King.

Players lost to free agency were mostly backups, aside from center Corey Linsley, who the team replaced by drafting Ohio State's Josh Myers in the second round of the draft.

The team opened the draft by getting some defensive help in cornerback Eric Stokes, and then landed wide receiver Amari Rodgers in the third round.

In an effort to appease Rodgers, Packers General Manager Brian Gutekunst traded for beloved receiver Randall Cobb, so the offense should have plenty of weapons to work with.

With only three preseason games being played this year and the Packers choosing to hold out most of their starters on both sides of the ball, fans are still waiting to see what the arrival of new defensive coordinator Joe Barry can do for the unit that has had its ups and downs over the past couple seasons.

With a lot of familiar faces on the team, and with the success the team has had under coach Matt LaFleur, fans of the green and gold are eager to get the season started so the focus can shift to football instead of all the what-if scenarios that could arise after the season.

The team was scheduled to open the season in a tough road environment facing the New Orleans Saints. Instead, the game was moved to Jacksonville after Hurricane Ida ripped through New Orleans.

BY THE NUMBERS

By MORGAN RODE

Sports Editor

The Green Bay Packers open their 2021 season this Sunday against the New Orleans Saints, hoping to start strong on their quest for a Super Bowl.

Here are some numbers that Packers players and coaches have accumulated over the years and highlight some things to watch for as the season gets underway:

26

The amount of regular season wins the Packers have combined in Matt LaFleur's two seasons as the head coach, going 13-3 both years. The win total was enough to win the Packers the NFC North and receive a bye in the playoffs both seasons, but the team lost in the NFC Championship Games in both years.

4

Years of defensive coordinator experience for Joe Barry, who is the team's new defensive coordinator. He served in the position from 2015-16 with Washington and was Detroit's coordinator from 2007-08. Barry was on the Los Angeles Rams' staff in 2020, when the team posted the NFL's best scoring defense and overall defense numbers.

48

The amount of passing touchdowns for quarterback Aaron Rodgers during the 2020 season, a career high for the one day Hall-of-Fame player. The big season helped Rodgers win the Most Valuable Player award for the third time.

12

Touchdowns for wide receiver Randall Cobb while playing for the Packers in 2014. After playing for the Dallas Cowboys and Houston Texans the past two seasons, Cobb is back in Green Bay after being traded to the team in late July. The receiver was drafted by the team in the second round of the 2011 NFL Draft.

185

Receiving yards in three preseason games for receiver Malik Taylor, who made the team's initial 53-man roster. Taylor caught 14 passes and his 185 yards were the most of any player this preseason. The receiver had five catches for 66 yards and a touchdown for the team in 2020.

161

Pick number in the 2021 NFL Draft

MORGAN RODE | NEW MEDIA

for center Josh Myers, who is expected to start for the team. Myers played collegiately at Ohio State, which is where Corey Linsley — the player Myers is replacing at center — also attended college.

6

The number of weeks left tackle David Bakhtiari will miss, at least, as he starts the year on the physically unable to perform list and works his way back from a knee injury he suffered in practice back on Dec. 31. Elgton Jenkins is expected to move over to left tackle to replace the All-Pro lineman.

12 1/2

Sacks for outside linebacker Za'Darius Smith, which led the team in 2020. Smith has been battling a back injury during training camp and the preseason and could miss the game against the Saints.

5

Sacks in 2020 for outside linebacker Rashan Gary, who registered 2½ of those sacks in the final five regular season games before a 1½ sack game against the Rams in the team's post-season opener. Even if Smith were to play this weekend, Gary is expected to see a larger role on the defense in his third pro season.

122

Career high in tackles for linebacker De'Vondre Campbell back in 2019. Campbell is expected to start at one of the inside linebacker spots for the Packers, with Krys Barnes alongside him.

4.25

The 40-yard dash time for Packers rookie cornerback Eric Stokes. The Packers took Stokes with the 29th pick of the 2021 NFL Draft, hoping to add some speed to the defensive side of the ball and create some more competition in the cornerback room.

Interceptions by cornerback Jaire Alexander against Tom Brady and the Tampa Bay Buccaneers in the NFC title game last season. After another big season, Alexander was named to his first-ever Pro Bowl and was a second-team All-Pro.

45.9

The average punt distance in yards for new punter Corey Bojorquez, who the team acquired from the Rams as the team cut its roster to 53 players. Bojorquez replaces J.K. Scott, who was released.

16

Field goals made and attempted for kicker Mason Crosby in 2020. The 16/16 year set a new franchise record (with a minimum of one attempt per game) for field goal percentage.

KEYS TO THE GAME

By BILL HUBER
Correspondent

The Green Bay Packers (13-3 in 2020) travel to Jacksonville to face the New Orleans Saints (12-4) at 3:25 p.m. on Sept. 12. FOX will televise the game.

History

Packers lead 17-9, including a 37-30 win in New Orleans last season.

With Davante Adams sidelined by injury, Aaron Rodgers was 21-of-32 passing for 283 yards and three touchdowns. Allen Lazard caught six passes for 146 yards and one touchdown, and Za'Darius Smith had a pivotal sack and strip of Taysom Hill in the fourth quarter.

Coaches

Green Bay – Matt LaFleur, 26-6 entering third season. Since the NFL went to a divisional format in 1967, LaFleur and George Seifert are the only coaches in NFL history to win 11-plus games and a division title in each of his first two seasons. New Orleans – Sean Payton, 143-81 entering 15th season. His teams have won 11-plus games four consecutive seasons.

When the Packers have the ball

This will be a clash of the titans. Last season, Green Bay led the NFL in scoring. New Orleans' defense is strong, though. While the Packers piled up 37 points in an empty Superdome in week three, coordinator Dennis Allen's crew finished the season ranked fifth in points allowed (21.1 per game) and fourth in total defense (310.9 yards per game).

In fact, the Saints ranked in the top 10 of every major category with the exception of the red zone. Their defense stopped the run (fourth with 3.85 yards allowed per carry), sacked the quarterback (sixth with a sack rate of 8.08 percent) and forced turnovers (third with 26 takeaways, first with 18 interceptions).

"Dennis Allen is a guy that I've got as much respect for as anybody in this league, just looking at what he's been able to accomplish throughout the course of his career," LaFleur said. "When you watch that defense, man, those guys, they fly around, they attack the football. They're very, very physical. He gives you some challenging looks. Every week, they have a different wrinkle in that there's going to be some unscouted looks out there I know that they're going to be ready for us and we'll do our best to make sure that we're prepared for whatever they might show us."

The Saints have a star at each level of Allen's 4-3 defense.

Up front, six-time Pro Bowl defensive end Cameron Jordan leads the charge. Over the last four seasons, he's recorded 47.5 sacks. He generally rushes against the offensive right tackle, meaning a matchup vs. Billy Turner.

A pair of first-round picks, Marcus Davenport and rookie Payton Turner, and young veterans Carl Granderson and Tanoh Kpassagnon provide outstanding depth on the edge. The Saints aren't as good at defensive tackle, especially with David Onyemata opening the season with a suspension.

All-Pro Demario Davis leads the linebacker corps. Over the last four seasons, he's recorded 475 tackles, 18 sacks and 24 passes defended. Oft-injured veteran Kwon Alexander and former Wisconsin star Zack Baun will flank Davis.

The secondary is much like Green Bay's, with one stud at cornerback (Marshon Lattimore) and outstanding safeties (Malcolm Jenkins, Marcus Williams and Chauncey Gardner-Johnson). The question is at the other cornerback position. The pressure will be on Ken Crawley, who has allowed 10 touchdowns while intercepting only two passes in four seasons, and rookie third-round pick Paulson Adebo.

When the Saints have the ball

In his third tour of duty as a defensive coordinator, Joe Barry has what he lacked at previous stops in Detroit and Washington: Talent. As is the case with New Orleans, Barry has a game-changer on each tier of the defense with defensive tackle Kenny Clark, outside linebackers Za'Darius Smith, Preston Smith and Rashan Gary, cornerback Jaire Alexander, and safeties Adrian Amos and Darnell Savage.

There's a big change in New Orleans. That obviously is at quarterback, with Jameis Winston replacing future Hall of Famer Drew Brees. Stylistically, they could hardly be more different. Brees offset his limited arm strength with robotic efficiency. In each of his final four seasons, he completed better than 70 percent of his passes while tossing only 23 interceptions. In 2019, when Winston started for Tampa Bay, he completed 60.7 percent of his passes and threw a whopping 30 interceptions.

Payton is one of the NFL's great offensive minds, and he'll no doubt play to Winston's strengths while convincing Winston to play with patience.

Winston will play behind one of the best offensive lines in the NFL. Left tackle Terron Armstead and right tackle Ryan Ramczyk form the best tackle tandem in the NFL. They will be imposing road blocks standing between Winston and Green Bay's outside linebackers.

The best player on the field, with the possible exception of Rodgers, will be running back Alvin Kamara. Last season, he rushed for 932 yards (5.0 average), caught 83 passes and scored a league-leading 21 touchdowns. In each of his four seasons, Kamara has caught at least 81 passes. The Packers didn't have anyone capable of stopping Kamara last season, when he carried only six times for 58 yards but caught 13-of-14 passes for 139 yards and two touchdowns, and they don't this season, either. Latavius Murray is an excellent No. 2 back.

Both offenses will be without cornerstones. For Green Bay, it's left tackle David Bakhtiari (knee). For New Orleans, it's receiver Michael Thomas (ankle), who led the NFL in receptions in 2018 and 2019. The projected top three receivers are preseason star Marquez Callaway, kick returner Deonte Harris and Tre'Quan Smith.

Callaway had 21 receptions as a rookie last year, Harris has 26 receptions in two seasons and Smith has 80 receptions in three seasons. That's 147 career receptions; Thomas set an NFL record with 149 receptions in 2019.

Special teams

New Packers special teams coordinator Maurice Drayton will face a big challenge in his first game running the show.

When LaFleur was hired in 2019, Darren Rizzi was one of his targets to run the special teams. Instead, he was hired by Payton. Last season, while Green Bay finished 29th in Rick Gosselin's annual special teams rankings for SI.com's Talk of Fame Network, New Orleans finished fifth.

Harris handles both phases of returns. The 5-foot-6 dynamo has career averages of 10.3 yards on punt returns and 27.0 yards on kickoff returns. Harris gives the Saints a big edge over Green Bay's rookie returners Kylin Hill (kickoffs) and Amari Rodgers (punts).

Kicker Will Lutz, who has career marksmanship of 86.6 percent on field goals, is starting the season on injured reserve. Aldrick Rosas presumably will be promoted from the practice squad to take over. In his four seasons, he's topped 73 percent only once.

Both teams will have a new punter. Green Bay traded for Corey Bojorquez and dumped J.K. Scott. Bojorquez finished fifth in net average for Buffalo last season. For New Orleans, Blake Gillikin hasn't punted in a regular season game.

NOTEBOOK

The Green Bay Packers offensive and defensive lines collide as quarterback Aaron Rodgers, right, passes the ball during the team's Family Night practice on Aug. 7 at Lambeau Field. The Packers' new-look offensive line will face a stiff test when facing the Saints' pass rush in the season opener.

Shuffling on the line

Last season, according to ESPN.com Stats and Information, the Green Bay Packers' offensive line ranked No. 1 in the NFL in pass-block win rate and No. 1 in the NFL in run-block win rate.

That dominance was powered by two All-Pro, neither of whom will be in the lineup for the week one showdown against the New Orleans Saints. One is center Corey Linsley, who signed with the Los Angeles Chargers in free agency. The other is left tackle David Bakhtiari, who will miss at least the first six games of the season as he recovers from the ACL tear sustained on New Year's Eve.

Can the Packers' front wall, which powered Aaron Rodgers' MVP season and the No. 1 scoring offense in the NFL, be anywhere close to as dominant without those two? Or even adequate?

Pro Bowl left guard Elgton Jenkins will fill Bakhtiari's shoes for the first half of the season. Jenkins had an excellent training camp, but Bakhtiari is a five-time All-Pro and perhaps the best offensive lineman in football. No matter how good Jenkins is, he's almost certainly not going to be as good as Bakhtiari at protecting Rodgers' blind side.

"I'm very confident that he can go do this at a high level," general manager Brian Gutekunst said. "But left tackle in the National Football League is not an easy thing, and this is going to be a challenge for him."

When Bakhtiari suffered broken ribs at San Francisco at midseason last year, Jenkins moved from left guard to left tackle for 27 snaps in the second half. His main experience has come this summer, though, as he served as the No. 1 left tackle throughout training camp. While he didn't play in the three preseason games, his daily reps against Preston Smith and Rashan Gary have gotten him as ready as possible.

"I love it," he said of the team's confidence in him. "It's a challenge to me, going out there and playing at the same standard as Bak did. I love it they had the confidence in me, and I have the confidence in myself to go out there and just keep the ball rolling and hold it down until 69 gets back."

Maybe the problem won't be at left tackle. Rather, if there is a problem, perhaps it will be the domino effect. At left tackle, Jenkins isn't as good as Bakhtiari. At left guard, presumptive starter Lucas Patrick isn't as good as Jenkins. At center, rookie Josh Myers isn't as good as Linsley. At right guard, rookie Royce Newman might not be as good as Patrick. The only stability is at right tackle, with Billy Turner facing perennial Pro Bowler Cameron Jordan right out of the gate.

"I have not experienced two rookies, especially side-by-side like that, starting opening day," coach Matt LaFleur said. "But those guys, they've got a lot of good guys around them, and we've got a lot of confidence in their ability to go out there and perform at a high level. I've thought those guys have done an outstanding job of just kind of learning each and every day. But, ultimately, they've got to go out there and do it."

Maybe LaFleur and Rodgers will be able to navigate any stormy seas. Maybe Myers and Newman will grow quickly into reliable starters. Maybe Jenkins will be so good that he'll be viewed as the best lineman in football by season's end. But, as LaFleur said, confidence and potential aren't the same thing as protecting Rodgers and opening holes for Aaron Jones.

"When you're blocking for a Hall of Fame quarterback like Aaron, it's always a high responsibility for all the five guys on the line," Jenkins said.

"We take pride in blocking for him and making sure he stays up, stays clean, just going there and getting the job done."

Famous Jameis

With the retirement of Drew Brees, the Saints will go into the season with Jameis Winston as the starting quarterback.

The change at quarterback likely means a big change in the Saints' offense.

Last season, Brees' average pass traveled 6.07 yards. Of 35 qualifying quarterbacks, that ranked 34th. In 2019, when Winston was Tampa Bay's quarterback, his average pass traveled 10.36 yards. That ranked second.

Now, obviously, schematic differences play a big role in that. But Winston has a live arm, and Saints coach Sean Payton figures to use it.

"The No. 1 thing is leading your offense and moving the ball and scoring points," Payton said. "We feel like he's got the unique skill-set with his arm talent where he can get the ball down the field. He's done a really good job of working through some of the progressions. A lot of that falls on us (as a coaching staff) now."

With offensive tackles Terron Armstead and Ryan Ramczyk, the Saints should be able to protect Winston for those deeper-developing routes.

That's especially true if Packers outside linebacker Za'Darius Smith isn't ready to go after missing all but one practice in training camp with a back injury. However, with star receiver Michael Thomas on the physically unable to perform list, do the Saints have the weapons to make it go?

No place like road

With New Orleans hit hard by Hurricane Ida, the Saints have been displaced indefinitely from their home at the Superdome. So, this game will be played in Jacksonville.

The Jaguars are on the road for week one and the Saints wanted the game played, A, in the heat and, B, at a less attractive destination for Packers fans.

Whether Packers fans will fill TIAA Bank Stadium, anyway, remains to be seen, but it will be hot.

While the Packers will practice with temperatures hovering around 70 all week, the forecast for Sunday in Jacksonville is a high of 86 with 78 percent humidity. That means a "feels like" temperature of 99.

But at least the Packers, for a second consecutive year, will avoid the Saints' deafening indoor home.

"Being at a neutral site, not being in New Orleans, they have a great fan base, they're loud, the whole nine," Jenkins said.

"Playing at a neutral site, and we'll be able to have our fans, they'll be able to have their fans probably 50-50, you never know. But being able to play at a neutral site, it's kind of an advantage for both teams."

The Green Bay Packers go through drills during the team's Family Night practice as a strong crowd watches on Aug. 7 at Lambeau Field. Instead of having to play the Saints in New Orleans, the Packers will encounter a less hostile crowd in Jacksonville, where Sunday's game against the Saints is being played.
