Democrat believes 6th Assembly District has gotten nothing from GOP reps

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

The Republicans found a candidate to get behind for the 6th Assembly District election, and now Democrats have found their own as Shirley Hinze, of Shawano, has announced she's pursuing the legislative seat.

Hinze said she's running in the hopes that her community benefits from the actions the Wisconsin Legislature takes.

"In the 10 years I've been here (in Shawano), this community has voted Republican," Hinze said. "I live in this community, and what do we get? Nothing. They keep voting for this and this, and there's nothing coming back into the district."

Hinze walks everywhere, so she's used to seeing people one-on-one and talking with them about issues. She's an alternate on the Shawano Plan Commission, and she served on the planning commission in Hartland.

Hinze was secretary of American Legion Auxiliary 492, on the board of the Harbor Advisory Commission in Marquette, Michigan, a Boy Scout leader and a Sunday School teacher. She was a stay-at-home mom for 12 years and a school health volunteer.

In an interview with NEW Media, Hinze said that she wants to be a legislator who listens to the people.

"I want to take that and not sit on my haunches and let stuff slide," she said.

Because most of the 6th District is rural, Hinze wants to make sure that what she does in office will benefit and not harm farmers.

"One thing that I'm concerned is the potential loss of the Affordable Care Act," Hinze said. "I do believe that will affect farming families significantly."

Hinze also wants to make sure that farmers know what funding at the state level is available for agriculture producers and realize that it's not just welfare. She feels voting for Republicans actually hurts agriculture, which is the lifeblood of Wisconsin.

"Unfortunately, when there's funding for things like this, they're being told it's Shawano's hometown heroes will be honored through a new public program created by members of the 2024 Leadership Shawano County class.

Past and present members of the Armed Forces will be recognized on banners that will be hung along Main Street from Elizabeth Street to County Road B from Memorial Day to Veterans Day.

Samantha Sperberg, a member of the leadership class, said presentations for community projects are introduced to each group at the start of their yearlong class.

"Heather Kroll presented this to the group, and we decided to take it to the community," Sperberg said.

More students leaving Shawano schools

Over 300 students living in Shawano go to other public schools

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

Shawano School District had a nearly 2-1 ratio more than a decade ago on students coming into the district through Wisconsin's open enrollment program versus local children attending school in other districts.

That trend has since flipped, with many more students in the Shawano area attending schools elsewhere than students outside the district boundaries attending the local public schools, according to data revealed at the May 13 Shawano School Board meeting.

Cory Kaisler, the district's data coordinator, said that the district received 21 new applications during this year's open enrollment period from February through April, but four of them were denied. With the 17 accepted applications, that brings the student count for open enrollment to 185.

School districts are allowed to deny applications for a variety of reasons, mainly due to previous expulsions from school, habitual truancy and if students require special education services. Three of the denied applications were due to special education needs.

On the flip side, 65 new applications for enrollment have been made by 51 students, with only six being current Shawano students, to attend other school districts. According to Kaisler, that would bring the total of open enrollment students going out to 352 if all the students indeed go to other schools, as families sometimes change their minds.

That number will likely be reduced to 320, according to Kaisler, due to the school district's recent partnership with Rural Virtual Academy, which serves families preferring an online education. There are 32 local students attending RVA.

"We were on a waiting list. This will be our first year coming up that we've partnered with them," Kaisler said. "Next year, we'll be able to keep 32 students, which is a huge, huge win for the district."

Kaisler told the board that most of the students leaving the Shawano School District are applying with the Bonduel School District.

"They're killing us on the 4K (4-year-old kindergarten) side of the house," he said. "On the positive side, though, it looks like they're going to deny most of those students mainly because of the fact that they don't have space."

That statement is inaccurate, according to Bonduel School District Superintendent Joe Dawidziak. Although the Bonduel School Board set up that five spots would be available in 4K back in January, the number of interested applicants is prompting the board to revisit the issue, and many who have been denied could get in anyway.

Kaisler said that just because Bonduel denies some open enrollment applications doesn't mean those students would have to come back to Shawano. He noted there are two types of open enrollment — the regular open enrollment and an alternative open enrollment outside of the February to April time frame where additional criteria have to be met for schools to accept applications. Kaisler said the board did not have to approve applications from the alternative period.

"Once you approve, our office has to send acceptance or denial letters by June 7," Kaisler said to the board. "Denial letters, parents have the opportunity up to 30 days to appeal that decision by the district."

Kaisler expects to know final open enrollment numbers this summer, as parents who applied have to notify the district by June 28 about whether they actually plan to attend school in Shawano.

As a suggestion, Kaisler recommended the district look at creating a 3-year-old kindergarten program to compete with the one that Bonduel has.

"The fact is, when you create those bonds at a young age, you usually keep those students in the district," he said, noting that about 25 of the students being lost are due to better early education programs like 3K. "We could nip some of that in the bud. That trend has been happening the last few years."

Marketing the district is also something officials have not done well, Kaisler noted.

"I think we need to sell ourselves hard," he said. "We do a lot of great things, and we have some really awesome programs. It's just a matter of time before people start noticing."

Girl, 13, dies from ATV crash near Bonduel

A 13-year-old girl died May 15 as the result of an ATV crash south of Bonduel.

About 8:30 p.m., the Shawano County Sheriff's Department received a 911 call indicating there was an ATV crash in the area of Landstad and Two Creek roads. The caller advised there was a girl who was unconscious and not breathing as a result of the crash. Multiple law enforcement officers responded, as well as emergency medical service personnel. The crash occurred on private property near this location.

Upon arrival, CPR was in progress on the girl. Navarino-Lessor EMS and NEW Ambulance arrived on scene and requested ThedaStar Helicopter to respond to the area as well. Multiple crews performed life saving measures on the girl. Due to injuries sustained in this incident, the girl was unfortunately pronounced deceased on scene.

Because the crash was ATV related, the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources was called to assist. The initial investigation confirmed the girl was the sole occupant and the driver of the ATV when the crash occurred. There was one witness on scene who was able to provide clarity to law enforcement as to how this accident occurred. All parties, including the girl's parents, were cooperative with law enforcement.

The DNR is the primary agency investigating this crash and no further information will be released at this time. The sheriff's department reported it will not be releasing any names.

"We would like to encourage everyone and their families to keep ATV and UTV safety in mind as the weather continues to warm up," said Lt. Chris Madle, the county's emergency management coordinator. "Wear a helmet, buckle up, complete ATV/UTV safety courses and please drive safely and cautiously."

Five arrested in drug sweep on Menominee reservation

By NEW MEDIA STAFF

Charges were pending against five people after a drug bust May 17 on the Menominee Indian Reservation.

According to a news release posted on social media by the Menominee Tribal Police Department, three simultaneous search warrants were executed in the villages of Keshena and Neopit and the Southeast Bass Lake region.

The warrants were issued after an ongoing investigation identified several suspects as coordinating efforts to sell illegal drugs throughout the reservation, the release said.

As a result of the warrants, five adults were arrested and booked into the Menominee Tribal Detention Facility. Illicit drugs and evidence of illicit drug sales were located during the search.

Several young children were located at each of the locations and referred to Menominee Tribal Family Service Workers. Charges are being forwarded to the Menominee Tribal Prosecutor's Office pending the continued investigation.

The news release said tribal police were assisted during the execution of the warrants: Menominee Tribal Conservation Department, Menominee Tribal Rescue, Menominee Tribal Family Services and the Menominee County Sheriff's Office.

Lyerly has eye on Gallagher's Congressional seat

Doctor focusing on health rights, turning 8th District blue

BY LEE PULASKI
City Editor

A Democrat has joined the growing list of people seeking to claim the 8th Congressional District seat formerly held by Mike Gallagher, and she made a visit May 15 to Shawano in the hopes of bringing her fellow Democrats locally out of hiding.

About 50 local residents came out to meet Kristen Lyerly, who currently is not facing any challengers in the August primary but is waiting to see if she will face Andre Jacque, Roger Roth or Tony Wied come November. Lyerly admitted to being surprised to see so many Democrats, not only in Shawano, but on other campaign stops she's made recently, as the district has long been under Republican control.

"We're sometimes afraid to be who we are because of our surroundings, but we don't have to be," said Lyerly, a first-generation college student in her family and the mother of four boys. "If ever there was a time to talk about the things we care about, now is that time."

Lyerly said her family grew up in Kaukauna, and her family has been in northeast Wisconsin for six generations.

"We're dairy farmers. We've worked for the paper mills," Lyerly said in describing her roots. "You are my people."

On the top of the list of concerns for Lyerly, an obstetrician and gynecologist, is the overturning of Roe v. Wade, which reverted the decision of abortion rights to the states instead of federally protecting them.

"As a doctor, I've been doing a lot of advocacy work for my entire career," Lyerly said. "Women's health is always on the ballot, whether it's payment or access to contraception or abortion, the hard one to talk about. By the way, you don't have to talk about abortion with people. You can talk about freedom to make your own, personal health care decisions. You don't have to use hard words. You can talk about it on the level where you feel comfortable."

Lyerly said her advocacy work has allowed her to hear many deeply personal stories about their health, from pregnancy to menopause to cancer, and that is why she's always sided with people, not government, deciding how to handle their own care.

"When the Dobbs (v. Jackson) decision happened, that was devastating, even for those of us who are past our child-bearing years," Lyerly said. "With young people, you look at families and you look at decisions people have made in their lifetime, and you recognize whether you're men or women, reproductive health affects the rest of our lives, and this Dobbs decision taking this away from us and forcing people to do things for political reasons doesn't make sense."

LEE PULASKI | NEW MEDIA

Lyerly previously tried running for the Wisconsin Assembly in 2020 and lost, noting that it was a different time then with the pandemic and the gerrymandered maps, but electing liberal Supreme Court justices in 2020 and 2022 showed that northeast Wisconsin's red roots were turning to blue in her view.

"What (former Gov.) Scott Walker did all those years ago, we were sick of it, and we were going to use our voices and our votes to change it," Lyerly said. "If ever our voices mattered, it's this year. We're all in this together."

Lyerly reiterated how local votes mattered when she referred to school districts having to organize referenda for capital needs or operational overrides of state-mandated budget caps.

"We can't fund our schools without referendums, and that's all local and statewide leadership," Lyerly said.

Gov. Tony Evers recently announced a special election will be held at the same time of the general election to allow the 8th District to have a representative for the last two months of 2023, so Lyerly is running in both elections.

"All of us working together, this is how it's supposed to be," Lyerly said.

Peterson aims to turn 2nd Senate seat to Dems

Retired journalist to go up against Wimberger in November

BY LEE PULASKI
City Editor

A retired journalist who teaches at Northeast Wisconsin Technical College's Shawano campus is on a mission to turn the Wisconsin 2nd Senate District blue, and she made stops May 15 in Shawano and Keshena to meet with people with the message that the Democrats will do a better job of looking out for all of Wisconsin than Republicans.

Kelly Peterson, of De Pere, made her apologies to the Shawano County Democrats at the Shawano Civic Center for being tardy, noting her visit to the Menominee Reservation went past its scheduled time.

"I was invited up there, and it was just awesome to be a part of that community," Peterson said. "It was mainly a meet and greet with the chairwoman, and it was impromptu. We just kind of showed up, and they said, 'Oh, come in. We'd love to meet you.' It was a very welcoming experience."

Peterson is expected to take on Republican Sen. Eric Wimberger, who found himself living in the 2nd District after Wisconsin's legislative maps were redrawn. Sen. Robert Cowles has been the district's representative in Madison since 1987, but he has opted not to run.

Peterson teaches the 4X4 program at NWTC, which helps high school students get ahead on college credits, and she noted that she ran into three of her former students while in Keshena. She believes her 30 years of journalism experience will be a benefit during her foray into politics.

"I retired from journalism and saw a lot of things fall like Roe (v. Wade)," Peterson said. "That's when I started getting together with the local (Democrat Party) chapters in Brown County, Outagamie, Shawano."

Peterson told the crowd that the 2nd District has the potential for turning blue after she went canvassing door to door and found herself at the home of the Brown County Republicans' chairman and talking with his wife.

"She looked at me, and she said, 'Do you have any idea whose house you're at right now?' and I said, 'I have no idea,'" Peterson said. "I said, 'I'm not here to get your vote. I'm here to get your signature (for the petition),' and she looked at me, and she looked over my one-sheet again, and she signed it. She looked at me and said, 'I'm a moderate Republican, too.' So, I know we can get there."

Peterson said she wouldn't have considered running two years ago, enjoying her semi-retirement, but things are different in 2024. She called on the local Democrats to help get out the word.

"The whole reason I'm here tonight is because of you and this district and the community of Wisconsin," Peterson said. "I'm not doing this for the sole purpose of myself, but I can't do this alone."

Vehicle repair business in Town of Herman gets OK from county committee

BY KEVIN PASSON
Editor-in-chief

Ryan McVickar is one step closer to opening his own business, RBS Auto and Truck Repair, in the Town of Herman.

His business plan and conditional use permit was approved in March by the Town of Herman, and on May 1, approval was granted by the Shawano Planning, Development and Zoning Committee. Now, it's being forwarded to the Shawano County Board for final approval.

The business will be located at N4909 County Road U, Shawano. The site contains a house and two outbuildings, with the repair business to be located in the northernmost building.

McVickar said the business will offer repairs and maintenance of cars, trucks, boats, trailers, RVs and other vehicles. It will not include body repair or painting beyond "touchups."

Preventive maintenance will include such things as oil changes, fluid changes, tire rotations, vehicle inspections, Wisconsin Department of Transportation (DOT) inspections, suspension and brake repair, engine diagnostics and repair, electrical, exhaust and some welding services.

McVickar cited several years of experience in his application to the county.

He said he is DOT annual inspection certified, air brakes certified, ASE certified, has years' experience at an auto dealer setting, eight years as a diesel heavy truck technician in a dealership setting and three years in customer service and managing a business.

The county placed several standard conditions on the business, including limiting the business to three vehicle repair bays and no more than 10 vehicles, including those of McVickar, on the site at any time.

WRLHS graduation focuses on close ties, Jesus

Principal: 'You will always be a part of our family'

By WARREN BLUHM
News Editor

The small size of the Wolf River Lutheran High School Class of 2024 meant that each graduate could be given special attention during the private school's May 17 commencement ceremony.

Nine seniors walked across the stage in the school gymnasium to accept their diplomas. Principal Shellie Kosmerchock had time to congratulate and share positive thoughts about each of them.

"You will always be a Silver Eagle. You will always be a part of our family," Kosmerchock told the graduates. "May you carry the light of Christ wherever you go, illuminating the world with love, compassion and grace."

Pastor Michael Paholke led the opening prayer and shared devotional thoughts from the book of Ecclesiastes. He told the seniors he graduated from Gillett High School 49 years ago.

"My goals certainly have changed since then. Back then I would have never dreamed that I would be a pastor," Paholke said. "But you never know where God will lead you in your life."

He encouraged them to include their Lord as they establish their future goals in life.

"Too many people set goals without Jesus in their life," Paholke said.

Salutatorian Isaac Young said he was honored to have spent the last two years at Wolf River Lutheran after being homeschooled. He credited the individual attention of the faculty for aiding his success.

"Within the first few months of high school, Mr. (Jonathan) Berkesch discovered that I like to grow plants," Young said. "Fast forward to last spring when we had horticulture class and a working greenhouse filled with hundreds of beautiful seedlings."

Isaac Young gives the salutatorian address during the Wolf River Lutheran High School graduation ceremony May 17. WARREN BLUHM | NEW MEDIA

He said he treasures the friendships formed with his classmates.

"I can honestly say I have the best friends in the world," Your said. "I think I speak for all of us when I say we're graduating not just with, but because of one another."

Valedictorian Luke Hammond compared graduation day to the starting line of a race as well as a finish line.

"Let us view this moment not as an end, but as a new beginning," Hammond said. "The starting line of our journey and the endless possibilities that lie ahead, for our race has only started."

He called on the class of 2024 to forward diligently "never forgetting where we came from."

The main commencement speaker, retired teacher Ralph Beversdorf, encouraged the graduates to keep learning.

"More than anything else, from now on, you're in control of your destiny. You're adults now!" Beversdorf said. "You get to make your decisions as an adult."

He quoted several famous figures like Albert Einstein, who said, "Life is like riding a bicycle. To keep your balance, you must keep moving."

His took his central theme from poet and philosopher Ralph Waldo Emerson: "The purpose of life is not to be happy. It is to be useful, to be honorable, to be compassionate, to have it make some difference that you have lived and lived well."

Beversdorf urged the grads to take Emerson's words to heart.

"Compassion means sympathy and sadness for those who are suffering and not wanting them to suffer alone — and wanting to help," he said, noting that the apostle Paul called upon Christians in his letter to the Galatians to "carry each other's burdens and so fulfill the law of Christ."

French found guilty of theft, murder charges

Request to reduce bond from $750K to $10K denied

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

Stephany French is led out of the courtroom May 16 to return to the Shawano County Jail after pleading no contest to homicide and theft charges related to a man's death at Mohican North Star Casino Resort in 2021. She will be sentenced Aug. 20. LEE PULASKI | NEW MEDIA

A Green Bay woman is expected to get a prison sentence of 10-15 years after being found guilty of first-degree reckless homicide and theft May 16.

Stephany L. French, 29, of Green Bay, pleaded no contest to one count of first-degree reckless homicide by delivering drugs and one count of theft from a person or corpse. A misdemeanor count of duty to aid a victim or report a crime was dismissed.

According to Shawano-Menominee County District Attorney Greg Parker, his office is recommending 10-15 years for the reckless homicide count, where drugs were a factor, as well as five years in prison on the theft count. These sentences are expected to be run concurrently, he said.

If the plea had not been accepted, there would have been a four-day trial starting June 4, and two drug possession counts would have been part of the proceedings.

"There still may be some restitution, and we have some restitution that is listed in the file from the victims," Parker said.

Defense attorney Eric Maciolek confirmed French would accept the recommendations from the DA's office.

"I know she's not content with the state's recommendations, but she's doing this voluntarily," Maciolek said.

A presentencing investigation is underway, and the sentencing hearing will take place at 3 p.m. Aug. 20 in Branch I of the Shawano County Courthouse.

French has been in the Shawano County Jail for two years on a $750,000 bond, according to Maciolek. He requested that the amount be reduced to $10,000.

"She has very limited financial means. I know there's a note in the complaint that she has a large amount of cash available," Maciolek said. "I can tell you that money's gone. The $10,000 requested by the defense is not something she can personally be able to post today. She's relying on family to do that.

"She has lost the presumption of innocence after this plea, but $10,000 is still a substantial amount."

Shawano-Menominee County Circuit Court Judge Katherine Sloma denied the bond reduction after Parker objected.

"There's even more incentive for the defendant to flee (after being found guilty)," Parker said. "The court will recall that the defendant fled the hotel (in 2021), and officers had to find her."

"We have 44 light poles available to use," Sperberg said. "All of the banners will be double hung, so our 20 banners will only 10 poles this year."

Sperberg said the group had a goal of 20 banners for this first year.

"We actually have 19 veterans, and we made one general banner to honor all the branches," she said. "We thought 20 was a good number for our first year, and we hope to grow over the years."

Each banner is 30 inches by 60 inches and futures the hero's name, branch of service and military photo.

Around Veteran's Day, the group plans to hold a ceremony and present the banners to the veterans or their families to keep.

"We hope to partner with the Shawano School District, which always has Veteran's Day activities," Sperberg said. "We'd like to be part of that and present the banners to the veterans or their families at that time."

Honored this year are:

• Raul Beltran Jr., Marines, corporal, Gulf War.

• Henry L. Brener Jr., Army, sergeant, Korean War.

• Harry R. West, Air Force.

Any veteran who served in the U.S. Armed Forces, including Army, Marine Corps, Navy, Air Force, Coast Guard, Space Force, National Guard or Reserves, is eligible. This includes any active service member or honorably discharged veteran. The men and women must currently live or have lived in the area (54166 ZIP Code).

"We work with Paul Pionke (Shawano County Veterans Service Office) to vet the nominees, to make sure they are active duty or honorably discharged, and that they lived in the 54166 ZIP Code," Sperberg said.

Anyone can be a nominee, including the veteran.

Also, banner sponsorships are always accepted. Sponsors can include the nominee, his or her family, businesses, nonprofit groups or any individual.

Funds collected cover the cost of the banners and expenses to get this new program running. Any extra funds will be donated to local veteran organizations.

Sperberg said the vetting process and the making of the banners takes about two months. The nominee or next of kin must also approve the final banner.

Shingler retires from education — again

Kenneth Shingler has made a lot of life-changing decisions.

For 58 years, he has steered area high school and college students along their educational journeys. The time has come for Shingler to officially call it a career.

Born in Clintonville, Shingler received his formative education at St. Rose Catholic Military School. He then graduated from Clintonville High School where his favorite classes were football, basketball and baseball. It was his high school English teacher who made an indelible mark on his life.

"She forced me toread books that weren't sports related," Shingler said. "In so doing, she opened my eyes to the world of literature. She told me that if I didn't try anything new, I wouldn't learn anything new about myself."

Shingler was recruited to play baseball at what was then called Wisconsin State College-Oshkosh, but has since merged into the University of Wisconsin System, becoming the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh.

"I struck out with baseball, but managed to complete a double major — English and biology," Shingler said. "Later, I completed my reading specialist degree."

In 1966, Shingler accepted his first teaching position at Oconto Falls High School, but after two years he took his talents to Shawano High School where he taught English for 33 years.

"Teaching in the '60s was both exhilarating and frustrating," Shingler said. 'Times they are a-changing,' sang Bobby Dylan — and they sure were at Shawano. Long hair, miniskirts and 'pagan' music were the main concerns of the administration. Teaching was a rollercoaster ride with its ups and downs, but overall, I enjoyed teaching not only high school English, but also connecting to students from all walks of life including the gifted and talented students and my favorite group of kids, those overcoming adversity."

Shingler's first foray into retirement didn't last long. In 2001, he received a call from the College of Menominee Nation that changed his life.

"I had been retired for a few weeks, when I received that call from Dee Bisley, recruiter at CMN, who wanted me to consider teaching an English class for CMN," Shingler said. "It turned out to be one of the better decisions I have ever made."

For 23 years, Shingler always felt welcomed and appreciated while teaching at the college.

"Although my title has been English teacher, I have also been a student," he said. "I learned much about the Menominee culture, traditions and values. These lessons have greatly enriched my life."

When asked about advice he would share with students, Shingler said: "Accept new challenges, follow your passions, and embrace your struggles whether they be in the classroom or outside of the classroom. After all, any meaningful growth is preceded by a struggle."

Unsurprisingly, Shingler sees the role of an educator as more than a mere bearer of knowledge.

To colleagues, he affirms, "Teaching is more than following a sequence of lessons on a syllabus. Teaching is helping students gain confidence in themselves and encouraging them to leave their comfort zones. Eventually, when students reflect on their college classes, they may not remember their grades, but they will remember how you made them feel. You are the bow, your students are the arrows. Aim them in the right direction."

CMN honored Shingler three times during his final week as an educator. He was gifted an American Indian Higher Education Consortium quilt at the all-employee convocation, a maple wooden bowl that was created by local artist Jeremy Pyatskowit during the pre-commencement faculty gathering, and the coveted 2024 CMN Faculty of the Year Award at the May 17 commencement ceremony.

At the commencement, CMN Chief Academic Officer Geraldine Sanapaw stated, "During his time at CMN, Ken has been a cherished member of our liberal studies faculty, helping to set standards for both student writing and assessment. In the past two decades he has served on countless committees, numerous task forces, and has become a staple of our institution. Ken has also been a tireless advocate for our Learn and Earn Program for incoming high school students and an invaluable ally for anyone facing adversity."

Shingler is known for quick quips known as "Shinglish," and when asked about how he felt about the recognition he responded in trademark fashion— "I'm as happy as a gopher in soft sand."

About his retirement plans, Shingler said: "I hope to travel, pursue my hobby of buying and selling antiques, and read, read, read."

Although Shingler has made a lot of life-changing decisions in his life, those going forward will be deservedly less consequential.

"My biggest decision in retirement will be decaf or regular for my morning coffee," he said.

Maec waewaenen (Big thanks) for a lifetime of service to the craft of education, Ken. May your antiquing be thrilling, coffee refreshing and books enlightening.

Behind great Memorial Day was motivated woman

If you aren't planning to attend a Memorial Day Ceremony this year, I'll skip the usual sermon scolding you for viewing the holiday as the kickoff to summer fun and not the solemn occasion it should be. Instead, I'll share the history of Memorial Day. As is too often the case, it never made the history books that it was women who were most instrumental in creating this patriotic exercise embedded in our national identity.

Three years after the Civil War ended, Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic General John A. Logan issued a proclamation calling for a nationwide Decoration Day. As leader of a group of Union veterans, Logan directed May 30 to be set aside as a day for the nation to decorate the graves of the war dead with flowers.

With his proclamation, Logan adopted a practice begun three years earlier by southern ladies mourning the Confederate dead, but it was Logan's wife, Mary, who deserves credit for persuading her husband to declare a national commemoration honoring all of the fallen.

Mary had good reason to support honoring all soldiers killed in the Civil War. As a volunteer Union Army nurse, she held the hand of many a dying bluebelly and grayback. After hearing that ladies in Columbus, Mississippi, had placed flowers on the graves of both Union and Confederate soldiers in the city's cemetery on April 25, 1866, she watched as the custom caught on all across the South. Though not observed on any particular date, it was always a simple and somber ceremony for veterans and their families.

Mary envisioned the ritual as a template for a national celebration to help heal the country. John agreed, selecting May 30 as the day Americans should lay flowers and decorate the graves of more than 620,000 soldiers killed in the Civil War. Legend says John picked May 30 because it was a rare day that didn't fall on the anniversary of a Civil War battle.

Perhaps, but many historians think that date was chosen to ensure that flowers across the country would be in full bloom, important because Logan's proclamation contained a tragic truth: "These are men whose bodies now lie in almost every city, village and hamlet churchyard in the land."

The American people embraced John and Mary Logan's notion immediately, and Decoration Day enjoyed a century of popularity. In fact, in its first year, on May 30, 1868, more than 27 states held a ceremony. Over 5,000 people gathered at Arlington National Cemetery. By 1890, every former state of the Union had adopted it as an official holiday reserved for commemorating those killed in the Civil War. When America entered World War I in 1918, the tradition was expanded to include those killed in all U.S. wars.

From 1868 to 1970, Decoration Day was celebrated on May 30. In 1971, the name was changed to Memorial Day, a newly minted national holiday to be celebrated on the last Monday in May. At the time, a deeply divided United States was still embroiled in the Vietnam War, and Americans were tending thousands of fresh graves all over the country. I remember my parents being upset about the changes, and many older folks I knew called it Decoration Day for the rest of their lives.

However, changing the name and date did not alter the commemoration itself. Official Memorial Day celebrations have remained somber ceremonies ever since; with music, speeches and tributes to the fallen, delivered via a mixture of religion and celebratory national pride. The passage of time proves Mary Logan was right. Memorial Day gives us a way to make sense of our history in terms of the personal sacrifice required to build a better nation.

One hundred fifty-six years after General Logan's proclamation, we continue to celebrate Memorial Day. The commemoration has become a heartfelt way to not only pay tribute to the war dead but to tend all graves at local cemeteries. Small towns to mega-cities hold events, and many include parades. Doylestown, Pennsylvania, has run an annual Memorial Day parade since 1868, claiming to be the nation's oldest such public display of patriotism. That is not correct. It's actually the Village of Rochester in Racine County, whose parade predates Doylestown's by one year.

So, if you don't usually attend a ceremony, please go this year, and take the kids or grandkids. With our country more divided than since the Civil War, it's an opportunity to join together with fellow Americans in honor of those who paid the ultimate price. I'll be at the annual ceremony at Veterans Park in Wabeno at 9:30 a.m. on May 27. Join me. I guarantee the holiday will mean a lot more if you do.

Tungsten topples last-minute tom in miracle shot

I've been called a pain in the butt by more than one person. Just ask my wife.

A real pain in the butt in the form of Piriformis Syndrome was threatening to ruin my precious spring turkey hunting.

Piriformis is essentially a mimic of sciatica pain, caused by muscle spasms in one buttock and radiating down the leg. Sitting and sleeping in certain positions was painful, but standing seemed to mostly relieve the worst of it.

Chiropractic adjustments, combined with steroids and muscle relaxers from my doctor, finally got this literal pain in the butt under control, but I only hunted one day during Season C (May 1-7).

Perhaps I was having sympathy pains for my wife, who had a more severe back situation. She awoke one morning with excruciating back pain and learned she had three herniated disks. Chiropractic care and a spine epidural eventually relieved the worst of it, but her doctor ordered her off work job for three weeks. Her struggles made my pain more manageable. She needed me to do most of the heavy lifting.

One of her keen observations gave me some insight into the turkeys at my hunting spot. We both literally drive past my turkey haunts every day, and she typically cruises past before sunset. I drive by around 8:30 a.m.

"I never see any turkeys there in the morning, but I almost always see them there when I come home," she said in that matter-of-fact way that wives often lob at us like a silent hand grenade. Poof.

I started turkey hunting around the mid-1980s in Iowa, mostly with bow and arrow, and have been hunting turkeys almost continuously ever since. You turkey hunt in the morning. You locate birds with owl hooters and try to set up near a roosting bird, or hide in a blind, and you call them. I started thinking back and don't remember ever hunting them in the afternoon, except to "roost" a bird before dark. In fact, some states used to close the season at noon or 1 p.m.

Turkey hunting can be exciting when the gobblers are talking, and when a bird is close enough that you can hear it spit-vaaaaaarr-roooom as it drums and dances, it will make you wriggle like a puppy on its first point. It can also be like watching concrete harden. If you hate getting up early (I'm waving my hand right now), it can even suck eggs.

Columnist Ross Bielema shot this 18-pound, 4-ounce turkey May 14 with a 65-yard shot using a 20-gauge single-shot shotgun and Browning TSS tungsten shot. ROSS BIELEMA

The idea of sleeping in and hunting in the afternoon was crazy, but I'd had so many rough morning hunts on this farm for years that I was willing to try anything, even turkey hunting heresy.

So after my one and only morning hunt during the Season C period, I decided to try an afternoon hunt during Season D (May 8-14). Sitting in a thick patch of willows on the edge of a plowed farm field, I was delighted to watch a few hens, along with sandhill cranes and Canada geese, poking and searching in the dirt clods for bugs and corn.

Although I'd seen strutting gobblers in this and several other adjacent fields many times when driving, no toms appeared. Still, I didn't feel sleep-deprived and craving a nap like most morning hunts.

Still facing the nagging pain in my fanny and leg. I returned to my familiar a.m. hunt pattern to get out on my last day (May 14).

A steady stream of hens provided the entertainment, with up to five in the field at one time. I texted my wife a few times with some photos, telling her that maybe the live hens would draw a tom better than my decoys were.

Just before 9 a.m., I was getting the feeling the jig was up for another year. That's when two more birds wandered into the field. I immediately noticed they were larger, although the bright sun was actually masking their colors. Then I saw the beard on the lead bird. It's go time.

I may not be a great turkey hunter, but I'm a darned good turkey caller, thanks to 35-plus years of practice. I can get sweet sounds with a diaphragm call, and I like the slates, too, but I sound like a feathered version of Whitney Houston with my trusty box call. I let fly some rich yelps and got the single-shot 20 gauge ready.

One of the two toms gave a half-hearted strut, using only one wing and part of his tail. It was pathetic.

Since when is the male of any species not in the mood? They walked left into tall grass, getting slightly closer to me but then moving off. It was clear this wouldn't be a gimme shot.

It was difficult to judge the distance in the uniform grass, but when the two toms were in a straight line with me, I decided to take a shot. The $35-a-box Browning TSS No. 7 and No. 9 tungsten blend had patterned well at 35 yards, but this felt more like 50. I waited till they separated slightly and touched off.

Both birds flinched and then looked confused, as did I.

I decided to move a tad closer, so reloaded and crouched, walking slowly toward the edge of my cover. I took aim again and this time, one fell in the grass. The other stared at his pal as if to say, "We really should be going now."

I was amazed to step off 65 paces on the way to my 18-pound, 4-ounce adult tom. I certainly didn't expect to shoot that far, but I'll take it. Tungsten shot has made lead shot obsolete in my mind.

White, Gerds to hold book signing

Noted Lakewood wildlife artist Joan White and veteran writer Warren Gerds have released a unique children's book titled "A Friendly Tree."

The two have scheduled a book signing from noon to 3 p.m. May 25 at Joan White Nicolet Studio, 15346 Gage St. in Lakewood.

Surrounding the story in the book, White has included 170 images of wildlife. She urges youngsters to "find the critters" in each of her drawings. A key in the book identifies each animal and bird. Also, White offers simple tips for youngsters for drawing with pencil and paper.

A real tree that is disfigured is the basis for the book's story, which has a moral: "What the tree looks like makes no difference to the animals around it," Gerds said.

White is in her 40th year in her studio/gallery, a former church off Highway 32.

Along with being available at the studio/gallery, "A Friendly Tree" ($25) is on sale at the Neville Public Museum gift shop in Green Bay and Bosse's News and Tobacco in De Pere.

Gerds was a journalist with the Green Bay Press-Gazette for 45 years and more recently WFRV Channel 5 for nine years.

"A Friendly Tree" has been accepted into the Library of Congress in Washington, D.C.

Three Shawano athletes sign college letters of intent to continue athletic careers

By KEVIN PASSON

Passion. Respect. Integrity. Dedication. Excellence.

That's how Shawano Community High School cross country assistant coach Luke Wojta summed up the four-year careers of seniors Grace Chelberg, Ethan Onesti and Lillian Guenther as they signed their college letters of intent at a May 15 ceremony at the school.

"If you take the first letters of these five key ingredients, they spell out PRIDE," Wojta said. "Lily, Grace and Ethan have shown Shawano Hawk pride each and every day they have attended Shawano High School."

Onesti signed up to attend University of Wisconsin-Green Bay and run cross country for the Fighting Phoenix. Guenther committed to the UW-Eau Claire Blugolds to run cross country, as well as track and field. Chelberg will attend Liberty University (Lynchburg, Virginia) to run cross country and track for the Flames.

Shawano cross country head coach Steve Stomberg coached all three athletes all four high school years but noted they were running together in middle school and elementary school.

"Grace and Lily have similar accomplishments as they ran every day together all through high school," Stomberg said. "Their freshman year, they were the Bay Conference championship team for the second time in school history."

Both also received all-conference recognition.

"In 2021, their sophomore year ... they ended up taking second place in the sectional and qualifying for the state cross country meet," he said. "This turned out to be the start of three consecutive years these two girls and our team made it to the state meet."

With Joe Guenther, her father and track coach, sitting beside her, Lillian Guenther commits to attend UW-Eau Claire. She will run cross country and track for the Blugolds. Not pictured is her mother, Yu-Chin Fang.

In 2022 and 2023, both were part of the team that won the sectional meet and participated at the state meet.

"They are dedicated to their sport and (are) two of the most valuable runners in the history of Shawano girls cross country," Stomberg said.

He had just as many good things to say about Onesti.

"Ethan has been on the first team all-Bay Conference all four years of his high school career, individual sectional champion his sophomore year and member of the sectional championship team his sophomore year," Stomberg said.

He was part of the sectional runner-up teams his junior and senior years, and he helped the boys make three straight appearances at state cross country meet.

"Ethan will go down as one of the most valuable runners for the Shawano boys cross country team," Stomberg said.

Joe Guenther, father of Lillian Guenther, is also coach of the track and field team.

"Ethan got stronger each year as he went through," Guenther said.

Onesti is the fifth fastest in school history in the boys 800-meter run and 1,600-meter run, seventh fastest in the 3,200-meter run and is part of the 4x800-meter relay team that is also the seventh fastest.

"The other good part that is so cool to see about these guys still running is that nobody hits their potential as a high school athlete," Guenther said. "That doesn't happen until their 20s. It'll be neat to see what they can do."

Chelberg holds the school record in the girls 1,600 and 800, and she is part of the fastest 4x800 relay team.

She is also part of the second-fastest 4x400 team and is third in the 3,200.

Guenther is the fastest in the 3,200 and is part of the fastest 4x800 relay team. She is also second-fastest in the 1,600 and eighth best in the 800.

Guenther said many believe girls peak in eight or ninth grade and then slow down.

"They (Chelberg and Guenther) help dispel that myth, and if you work hard and work with your body as it changes, you can get faster and stronger and advance to the next level," he said. "The sky's the limit."

All three athletes thanked their parents, families, coaches and teammates in helping them succeed.

Following graduation and summer break, the three athletes will embark on their next academic and athletic adventures.

"Always remember, it's go time," Wojta said.

Reduce risk of injuries in young athletes

Among the most common injuries in youth sports are strains and sprains – strains being the tearing or stretching of muscle or tendons, and sprains being the tearing or stretching of ligaments, said Zach Furtak, licensed athletic trainer, Aspirus Northland Orthopedics. However common, there are still several ways to keep children active while also reducing their risk of a sports-related injury.
CONTRIBUTED

Participating in youth sports can lead to immediate and long-term benefits for children. Unfortunately, sports injuries can, and do, occur.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), more than half of the seven million sports- and recreation-related injuries that occur each year are sustained by youths between ages five and 24.

"The most common injuries we see here in youth sports are strains and sprains. Strains being the tearing or stretching of muscle or tendons, and sprains being the tearing or stretching of ligaments," said Zach Furtak, licensed athletic trainer, Aspirus Northland Orthopedics. "Due to the variety of muscles, ligaments, and tendons we have in our body, that is the most common injury we see in youth sports."

However common, there are still several ways to keep children active while also reducing their risk of a sports related injury:

• Gear up – Whether during practice or games, athletes should be using protective gear, such as helmets, wrist guards and knee and elbow pads in addition to any other sports gear appropriate to their activity or player position.

• Use the right stuff – Be sure that sports protective equipment is maintained correctly and is in good condition. Poorly fitted equipment may be uncomfortable and may not offer proper protection.

• Practice makes perfect – Have athletes learn and practice skill sets relevant to their chosen activity. For example, appropriate tackling technique is important in preventing injuries in football and soccer. Correct biomechanics, or movement and alignment, also plays a role in preventing injuries during baseball, softball, and many other activities.

• Be well conditioned – Be sure to safely and slowly increase activities to improve physical fitness; being in good condition can protect players from injury.

• Hydration and nutrition – Remind athletes to take care of their bodies by making sure they are properly hydrated and eating a well-balanced meal.

• Be a good model – Communicate positive messages about safety and serve as role models for safe behavior, including wearing a helmet and following the rules.

Recovery from an injury is different for each athlete.

"Some of the basic injuries, days to weeks, some of the more severe injuries weeks to months; all depends on the nature of the injury," Furtak said. "Each injury is different, and each athlete is different in their healing process and the injury itself."

Safety and health should be a top priority for coaches and parents to keep athletes in the game and having fun, this includes listening to players' concerns and identifying injuries.

They can also encourage players to be honest if they are experiencing pain and not to push through it. If an injury does occur, parents and athletes can follow the acronym RICE to aid recovery.

• Rest and protect the injured or sore area.

• Ice or use a cold pack as soon as possible.

• Compression, or wrapping the injured or sore area with an elastic bandage.

• Elevation (propping up) the injured or sore area.

"Coaches should be coaching proper technique," Furtak said.

HINZE, CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

all about socialism," Hinze said. "A lot of times, they're just voting against themselves. I'm not happy about that. Can I turn that around? Maybe. Maybe not."

The loss of generational farms is also an issue that Hinze feels the legislature needs to stand up and take action on, and for all farms, the price of fuel is a factor, and she's seen how those prices negatively impact those who grow and raise the food people eat.

"A mega-farmer, because of what they have in income, they can afford a lot of different things," Hinze said. "Our other family farms are our bread and butter that put in soybeans, your beans, strawberries. So fuel prices are really hurting them. I would like to see our agriculture in our state look at the farmers and say, 'You can't compete in the dairy market.'"

Returning to Wisconsin, the state where she was raised, she's seen how things have changed in the agriculture industry, and she doesn't want it to dwindle.

"Two things made our state — lumber and farming," Hinze said. "We can't lose that. We can't lose our farmers."

Rural communities are suffering from a lack of health care as doctors and other medical professionals aren't flocking to smaller places, Hinze said, and so it ties in with fuel costs as small-town residents are traveling to bigger cities for their health care visits.

"The average time to drive to a hospital now is 20 minutes, and I started to laugh," Hinze said. "Our people are going to Appleton or Green Bay. That's 45 minutes one direction and 30 for the other direction. It's taking our farming families a lot longer."

Affordable housing is also a key issue Hinze wants to address in the legislature. She currently lives in her own home and said her income is comfortable to live on, but she sees elderly people on limited incomes being pushed out as property values skyrocket, and the taxes that come with it grow, as well.

"I'm OK for now, but I do know some elderly people who are on fixed incomes where taxes are going up, and maintenance costs are starting to climb," Hinze said. "There is a possibility that a lot of senior people are going to be put out of their homes, and unfortunately, where do they go?"

Hinze sees Shawano turning into a bedroom community for Green Bay, with that city's higher prices to rent seeping into Shawano County, too. Clintonville, which is now part of the 6th District, is experiencing similar issues, she said.

"We've had friends who moved into the apartments over by Hillcrest (Primary School) when they were first built," Hinze said. "She and her husband started paying $900 or something, maybe $850. By the time she left, when she was forced out of there, it was $1,300 per month. This is an elderly person, and I'm seeing the duplexes go for $1,800, maybe $2,000."

Hinze noted that having Elijah Behnke, a Republican from Pensaukee, be the endorsed candidate for the Shawano County Republicans is a concern for her because Behnke doesn't currently live within the 6th Assembly District boundaries, although he has vowed to move to the Town of Morgan near Gillett if he gets the seat.

"I believe you need at least a year's residency to run," Hinze said.

Another issue Hinze wants to address concerns wake boats on smaller waterways like the Wolf River. She noted that damage caused by these boats on the shorelines are an environmental concern.

"These boats belong on the big, big lakes, not on these waterways, because of what they do," Hinze said.

Hinze also doesn't want to see what's happening on this segment of the Wolf River to impact the Menominee Reservation, which is newly part of the 6th Assembly District.

"I am very passionate about our environment," Hinze said.

Hinze noted she's taking special care to make sure that when she campaigns on Menominee land, that she does it in a way that's respectful to their culture. She wants to make sure she's a representative for all of the people, not just the Democrats.

"Reaching out to that population, these people are apprehensive about government and everything else," Hinze said. "I'm not in this for me. I'm not in this for the party. I'm an older person. I don't have to do this, but I'm doing it for the people."

In Memory of our

Memorial Day, an American holiday observed on the last Monday of May, honors men and women who died while serving in the U.S. military. Originally known as Decoration Day, it originated in the years following the Civil War and became an official federal holiday in 1971. Many Americans observe Memorial Day by visiting cemeteries or memorials, holding family gatherings and participating in parades. Unofficially, at least, it marks the beginning of summer.

EARLY OBSERVANCES OF MEMORIAL DAY

The Civil War claimed more lives than any conflict in U.S. history, requiring the establishment of the country's first national cemeteries. By the late 1860s Americans in various towns and cities had begun holding springtime tributes to these countless fallen soldiers, decorating their graves with flowers and reciting prayers.

It is unclear where exactly this tradition originated; numerous different communities may have independently initiated the memorial gatherings. Nevertheless, in 1966 the federal government declared Waterloo, New York, the official birthplace of Memorial Day. Waterloo—which had first celebrated the day on May 5, 1866—was chosen because it hosted an annual, community-wide event, during which businesses closed and residents decorated the graves of soldiers with flowers and flags.

DECORATION DAY

On May 5, 1862, General John A. Logan, leader of an organization for Northern Civil War veterans, called for a nationwide day of remembrance later that month. "The 30th of May, 1868, is designated for the purpose of strewing with flowers, or otherwise decorating the graves of comrades who died in defense of their country during the late rebellion, and whose bodies now lie in almost every city, village and hamlet churchyard in the land," he proclaimed. The date of Decoration Day, as he called it, was chosen because it wasn't the anniversary of any particular battle.

On the first Decoration Day, General James Garfield made a speech at Arlington National Cemetery, and 5,000 participants decorated the graves of the 20,000 Union and Confederate soldiers buried there. Many Northern states held similar commemorative events and reprised the tradition in subsequent years; by 1890 each one had made Decoration Day an official state holiday. Many Southern states, on the other hand, continued to honor their dead on separate days until after World War I.

EVOLUTION OF MEMORIAL DAY

Memorial Day, as Decoration Day gradually came to be known, originally honored only those lost while fighting in the Civil War. But during World War I the United States found itself embroiled in another major conflict, and the holiday evolved to commemorate American military personnel who died in all wars.

For decades, Memorial Day continued to be observed on May 30, the date Logan had selected for the first Decoration Day. But in 1968 Congress passed the Uniform Monday Holiday Act, which established Memorial Day as the last Monday in May in order to create a three-day weekend for federal employees; the change went into effect in 1971. The same law also declared Memorial Day a federal holiday.

MEMORIAL DAY TRADITIONS

Cities and towns across the United States host Memorial Day parades each year, often incorporating military personnel and members of veterans' organizations. Some of the largest parades take place in Chicago, New York and Washington, D.C. Americans also observe Memorial Day by visiting cemeteries and memorials. On a less somber note, many people throw parties and barbecues on the holiday, perhaps because it unofficially marks the beginning of summer.

As of our 2024 event, Sundrop Dayz has donated over $100,000 to local nonprofit organizations. Every year, new nonprofits are selected to receive all proceeds from the event. Attend the event at no cost and enjoy live entertainment, kidz activitiez, and much more. All activitiez are admission-free thanks to our local business sponsors. Craft vendors, food, beer, and soda are for sale. Join us for summer'z most refreshing event.

This year's SunDrop Dayz will support:

NAVARINO NATURE CENTER

WAMSCO

SHAWANO SKI SHARKS

SHUFFLES PERFORMANCE DANCE TEAM

HAPPILY EVER AFTER ANIMAL SANCTUARY

SHAWANO SCHOOLS PERFORMING ARTS BOOSTERS

To date, Sundrop Dayz has donated over $100,000 to nonprofits right here in Shawano County. If you would like to nominate a local nonprofit or have your nonprofit be considered for the 2025 event, please fill out the form at www.sundropdayz.com.

THE BANDZ

Spark Spark BANG

4:30-6:30 p.m. Friday

Spark Spark BANG is ready to bring you an experience! As performers, they merge the intensity of a wild punk act with the refinement of seasoned pop professionals. Covering various genres their goal isn't to fit a typical mold but to keep the crowd singing and having fun all night.

Driftwood

7-10 p.m. Friday

This isn't your ordinary country band ... NO NO NO ... Driftwood brings together a high energy rock show and a family-friendly country show. You have to see them to believe it! Driftwood has been nominated twice for a Wisconsin Area Music Industry Award (WAMI) for Best Country Band. Over the years Driftwood has had the honor of sharing the stage with not only great local acts, but also national acts like Randy Houser, David Nail, Hairball, Love and Theft,Thompson Square, and Eli Young Band.

Wet Possum

3-6 p.m. Saturday

If the year on your driver's license starts with a "1", you are going to love this band. Wet Possum is a ragtag bunch of friends whose only desire is to play the greatest pop punk and alt-rock hits of the 1990s and 2000s. After just five minutes of Wet Possum you will feel all the feels, log back into Myspace, charge up your Motorola Razr, and bust out your old skinny jeans.

The Glam Band

6:45-10 p.m. Saturday

A few friends sitting at a bar talking about how cool 80's rock was led to an inaugural show on a Tuesday night at Riders Saloon in Kimberly back in 2007. The crowd reaction at that first event was unbelievably positive, and The Glam Band was born. The band started out as a five-piece ensemble, and later added a keyboardist in 2013. This six-piece band is now in their 17th year of bringing a killer decadent 80s rock show to venues across the region, including SunDrop Dayz 2024!

Five faves for Florence County

Florence County Historical Society Museum
201 Florence Ave., Florence
Open Thursdays, Fridays, Saturdays, June 13 to Sept. 14
10 a.m. to noon
In 2007, the Florence County Historical Society officially opened the historical museum at 201 Florence Ave. Three permanent exhibits and several newly designed exhibits are featured each season. A special area has been set aside to honor veterans. A vast picture collection from the county's eight townships can be viewed at the museum.
LaSalle Waterfall
LaSalle Falls Road, Florence
The Pine River drops 22 feet at LaSalle Falls, making it one of the most scenic in the area. Best seen from a steep and challenging hill to the base of the falls. For a guided trip to this waterfall and other water adventures, contact Nature's Water Park by texting 715-889-4693.
ATV/UTV Trails
Florence County is home to over 160 miles of off-road vehicle trails. The northern part of the Nicolet State Trail runs through the western part of the county. It winds through Spread Eagle Barrens State Natural Area and county, industrial and national forests. Riders will find three ATV/UTV campgrounds. For a Blue Ox trail map, go to https://www.exploreflorencecounty.com/i/f/files/Blue%20Ox%20Map%20Side%202022.pdf
Rustic Road 74
Florence County between state Highway 139 and state Highway 101 in the town of Fence
This rustic road is a 32.5-mile stretch in the Chequamegon-Nicolet National Forest. R-74 passes the former Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) Camp Newald, which operated from 1933-42. The route crosses the Popple River, a Wisconsin undeveloped "Wild River." Sighting a secretive bear, fisher, eagle or many other wildlife species is very possible.
For a map of the road go to https://wisconsindot.gov/Pages/travel/road/rustic-roads/rr74.aspx
Spread Eagle Barrens
The Spread Eagle Barrens State Natural Area is 7,155 acres rich in plant an animal life. It is open to visitors for hiking, fishing, hunting and berry picking, but there are no official hiking trails. The most noticeable topographic features of the Spread Eagle Barrens are the kettles, or "frost pockets." Every night, cool dense air flows down into the frost pockets. Frost can form in the lower parts of these giant potholes even when it is warm outside the pockets. Sometimes fog forms in their depths and looks like clouds from the rim of the frost pocket. Frost has been recorded in these pockets in all 12 months of the year.

Grandfather Falls, berries and ice cream

Five faves in Lincoln County

Sun-kissed and ready for pie (or just eating), strawberries can be picked or picked up at Engelberry Farm in Merrill. CAROL RYCZEK

Grandfather Falls Recreation Area
N4581 WI-107, Merrill
The Grandfather Falls segment is one of the most popular section hikes of the Ice Age Trail, but it also makes a scenic hike for those who just want a day outing. The hike begins just north of Merrill on state Highway 107. It is a moderately difficult 4-mile hike along the banks of the Wisconsin River. The falls looks more like a rapids than a traditional waterfall, but it creates an 89-foot drop over a mile, making it the highest waterfall on the Wisconsin River.
Engelberry Farm
N2591 WI-107, Merrill
7 a.m. to 1 p.m. as long as there are berries to pick
Locally owned and operated for over 30 years, this is the place to find strawberries. Look for berries from early to mid-June to early to mid-July. The season depends on the weather and the berries. Berries can be pre-ordered. The biggest berries are at the start of the season but after the first pick, the picking is easier and denser. Call ahead to hear about hours and berries, 715-536-9091.
