Tigerton says good luck to 11 graduates at commencement

Graduates, administrators reflect on the path to get to graduation day

Each of the 11 graduates honored at the May 17 Tigerton High School commencement stepped through an arch of purple, silver and black balloons, marking the conclusion of their secondary education and stepping through the door to the rest of their lives.

Pebbles Peterson, THS principal, spoke about the warmth and pride surrounding the graduates as hundreds of family members and other residents in the Tigerton area came together in the school gymnasium to watch the students walk across the stage to receive their diplomas and see a 15-minute slide show highlighting key points of their 13 years in the school district.

"This reflects the immense support and love that surrounds our graduates on this very special day," Peterson said.

She praised the graduates for their "dedication and determination" for making it to this point.

"As you stand on the threshold of a new chapter in your lives, I encourage you to reflect on the unforgettable experiences and valued lessons that you gained during your time at Tigerton High School," Peterson said. "Cherish those memories you've created and the friendships you've formed, for they will always be in a special place in your heart."

Peterson expressed confidence that the graduates were equipped with the knowledge necessary to overcome the many obstacles life can throw at them.

"As you embark on the next chapter, take a moment to express gratitude to those who have supported you along the way — your parents, teachers, mentors and friends," she said. "In a very real sense, your success is also shared by them. It's time to bask in this moment and savor everything you've accomplished."

Valedictorian Elizabeth Steuck expressed her gratitude during her commencement speech to her teachers.

"Our teachers were always believing in us and teaching us to do our best, even if we didn't want them to," Steuck said. "We greatly appreciate how much you've done to help us achieve our goals and dreams. Without you, we would not be where we are today."

Steuck acknowledged the transition that was taking place that night.

"As we approach this thrilling new chapter, we are expected to experience a range of emotions — pride, thankfulness, maybe even a bit of anxiety, but regardless of what the future brings, we can all be proud of the perseverance and hard work that got us this far," Steuck said.

Salutatorian Edythe Swanke described graduation as a hard fought prize, something that she and the rest of the class of 2024 has looked forward to since their freshman year.

"Guys, we did it," Swanke said to the other graduates sitting in front of her. "We're sitting her in our caps and gowns like many classes before us. We made it to this spot we were certain we'd never get

French found guilty of theft, murder

Request to reduce bond from $750K to $10K denied

A Green Bay woman is expected to get a prison sentence of 10-15 years after being found guilty of first-degree reckless homicide and theft May 16.

Stephany L. French, 29, of Green Bay, pleaded no contest to one count of first-degree reckless homicide by delivering drugs and one count of theft from a person or corpse. A misdemeanor count of duty to aid a victim or report a crime was dismissed.

According to Shawano-Menominee County District Attorney Greg Parker, his office is recommending 10-15 years for the reckless homicide count, where drugs were a factor, as well as five years in prison on the theft count. These sentences are expected to be run concurrently, he said.

If the plea had not been accepted, there would have been a four-day trial starting June 4, and two drug possession counts would have been part of the proceedings.

"There still may be some restitution, and we have some restitution that is listed in the file from the victims," Parker said.

Defense attorney Eric Maciolek confirmed French would accept the recommendations from the DA's office.

"I know she's not content with the state's recommendations, but she's doing this voluntarily," Maciolek said.

A presentencing investigation is underway, and the sentencing hearing will take place at 3 p.m. Aug. 20 in Branch I of the Shawano County Courthouse.

According to the criminal complaint, police from the Stockbridge-Munsee

Lyerly has eye on Gallagher's Congressional seat

Doctor focusing on health rights, turning 8th District blue

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

A Democrat has joined the growing list of people seeking to claim the 8th Congressional District seat formerly held by Mike Gallagher, and she made a visit May 15 to Shawano in the hopes of bringing her fellow Democrats locally out of hiding.

About 50 local residents came out to meet Kristen Lyerly, who currently is not facing any challengers in the August primary but is waiting to see if she will face Andre Jacque, Roger Roth or Tony Wied come November. Lyerly admitted to being surprised to see so many Democrats, not only in Shawano, but on other campaign stops she's made recently, as the district has long been under Republican control.

"We're sometimes afraid to be who we are because of our surroundings, but we don't have to be," said Lyerly, a first-generation college student in her family and the mother of four boys. "If ever there was a time to talk about the things we care about, now is that time."

Lyerly said her family grew up in Kaukauna, and her family has been in northeast Wisconsin for six generations. "We're dairy farmers. We've worked for the paper mills," Lyerly said in describing her roots. "You are my people."

On the top of the list of concerns for Lyerly, an obstetrician and gynecologist, is the overturning of Roe v. Wade, which reverted the decision of abortion rights to the states instead of federally protecting them.

"As a doctor, I've been doing a lot of advocacy work for my entire career," Lyerly said. "Women's health is always on the ballot, whether it's payment or access to contraception or abortion, the hard one to talk about. By the way, you don't have to talk about abortion with people. You can talk about freedom to make your own, personal health care decisions. You don't have to use hard words. You can talk about it on the level where you feel comfortable."

Lyerly said her advocacy work has allowed her to hear many deeply personal stories about their health, from pregnancy to menopause to cancer, and that is why she's always sided with people, not government, deciding how to handle their own care.

"When the Dobbs (v.

Jackson) decision happened, that was devastating, even for those of us who are past our child-bearing years," Lyerly said. "With young people, you look at families and you look at decisions people have made in their lifetime, and you recognize whether you're men or women, reproductive health affects the rest of our lives, and this Dobbs decision taking this away from us and forcing people to do things for political reasons doesn't make sense."

Lyerly previously tried running for the Wisconsin Assembly in 2020 and lost, noting that it was a different time then with the pandemic and the gerrymandered maps, but electing liberal Supreme Court justices in 2020 and 2022 showed that northeast Wisconsin's red roots were turning to blue in her view.

"What (former Gov.) Scott Walker did all those years ago, we were sick of it, and we were going to use our voices and our votes to change it," Lyerly said. "If ever our voices mattered, it's this year. We're all in this together."

Lyerly reiterated how local votes mattered when she referred to school districts having to organize referenda for capital needs or operational overrides of state-mandated budget caps.

"We can't fund our schools without referendums, and that's all local and statewide leadership," Lyerly said.

Gov. Tony Evers recently announced a special election will be held at the same time of the general election to allow the 8th District to have a representative for the last two months of 2023, so Lyerly is running in both elections.

"All of us working together, this is how it's supposed to be," Lyerly said.

Police Department were dispatched Sept. 3, 2021, to Mohican North Star Casino Resort after security reported that a housekeeper found a deceased male while cleaning rooms.

The housekeeper stated that at 11:05 a.m. he knocked on room 508 and opened the door, because it was after checkout time. The housekeeper said that when he opened the door, he saw a male sitting on the floor. He closed the door, thinking it was a late checkout. At 12:35 p.m., the housekeeper witnessed a woman exiting the room, walking faster than what he perceived as normal. He added that he saw the woman take the stairs, rather than the elevator.

The housekeeper said he went back to the room 30 minutes later and saw the male sitting in the same position, with a lean to the right.

According to the complaint, the man was sitting cross-legged between the bed and the interior wall. There were two cellphone chargers plugged into the wall in front of him. The document also stated that there were three empty plastic cups on his lap and an empty hotel ice container and a head bandanna next to him. The man's clothes were wet and his head was leaning to the right. Shawano County sheriff's deputies found a white powdery residue on the nightstand next to the bed, but no drugs or drug paraphernalia were located in the room.

Hotel registration showed that Lynn French was listed as the man's guest. After searching his vehicle, authorities found paperwork for the owner of the car. After speaking with the owner, he stated that the victim was with his cousin, Stephany French, and alleged that she had a $400 a day heroin habit. The victim's family stated that the victim liked to drink alcohol, but he was not a drug user.

A detective stated in the complaint that the woman in a surveillance video was identified as Stephany French. The detective ran records on locating the victim's cellphone, which was not in the hotel room. After finding the location of the phone, he did the same thing with French's cellphone records and found that it matched the victim's cellphone.

After French was arrested in De Pere, authorities received a search warrant for French's car. In the car, they found several cellphones, including the one that belonged to the victim. Other things found in the car included a room key to room 508, three drug smoking pipes and a gem pack of drugs. One pipe and the gem pack tested positive for methamphetamine. Also found were narcan kits. Almost 40 ATM receipts were also found in the car, showing that French spent approximately $310 a day between July 22, 2021, and Sept. 20, 2021.

According to the complaint, the cause of death from the autopsy report was listed as fentanyl, methamphetamine and ethanol toxicity. It said that the toxicity included pulmonary and cerebral edema.

French was interviewed several times, where she repeatedly denied involvement, according to the complaint. After the detective told French that there was video surveillance of her entering the room, she continued to deny her involvement. After showing her still photographs depicting her in the hotel, she stated that she didn't know what happened to the victim, according to the complaint.

After the detective explained that people overheat when using methamphetamine, he asked if the cups and ice tray were French's attempt of waking him up or cooling him down. French stated that she poured cold water on the victim to try to wake him up, according to the complaint.

French has been in the Shawano County Jail for two years on a $750,000 bond, according to Maciolek. He requested that the amount be reduced to $10,000.

"She has very limited financial means. I know there's a note in the complaint that she has a large amount of cash available," Maciolek said. "I can tell you that money's gone. The $10,000 requested by the defense is not something she can personally be able to post today. She's relying on family to do that."

"She has lost the presumption of innocence after this plea, but $10,000 is still a substantial amount."

Shawano-Menominee County Circuit Court Judge Katherine Sloma denied the bond reduction after Parker objected.

"There's even more incentive for the defendant to flee (after being found guilty)," Parker said. "The court will recall that the defendant fled the hotel (in 2021), and officers had to find her."

Wisconsin specialty cheese production up 1%

With 25% of the nation's total cheese production, Wisconsin maintained its ranking as the nation's top cheese-producing state in 2023.

At 942 million pounds, specialty cheese accounted for 27% of Wisconsin's total cheese production. This was an increase of 13.7 million pounds from 2022. Ninety-four of the state's 117 cheese plants manufactured at least one type of specialty cheese during 2023.

Wisconsin cheesemakers are known for offering a variety of high-quality specialty cheeses. A specialty cheese is a value-added product that commands a premium price.

Farm Service Agency 101 provides online education

The U.S Department of Agriculture has unveiled a new, online Livestock Indemnity Program (LIP) Decision Tool and farm loan resources available to agricultural producers and cooperators who help producers access USDA disaster assistance, farm loans and other federal farm programs.

The new LIP tool and the farm loan informational video resources were developed in partnership with FarmRaise and USDA's Farm Service Agency (FSA). These tools are now available at www.farmraise.com/usda-fsa.

"By providing collaborative outreach and technical assistance to the agricultural community, the Farm Service Agency's partnerships with organizations like FarmRaise, Inc. increase awareness of and broader participation in our extensive suite of farm and farm loan programs," said FSA State Executive Director Gene Schriefer. "Offering innovative tools and resources with help from our cooperators breaks down program delivery barriers ensuring equitable access to our programs for millions of rural, urban and small-scale to mid-sized producers."

FarmRaise, Inc. has created an online, educational hub — called Farm Service Agency 101 — comprised of videos and resources that enable cooperators and the agricultural producers they serve to learn about and access major FSA programs.

The newly launched LIP Decision Tool assists livestock producers who suffered losses from eligible adverse weather events and other causes of loss as well as cooperators who are helping disaster-impacted livestock producers navigate available federal disaster assistance programs.

The optional decision tool gives producers guidance on what is needed to gather and submit required loss documentation, reducing the amount of time needed to complete applications and enabling FSA county office staff to deliver much-needed assistance faster.

Through use of the LIP tool, livestock producers can provide supporting documentation, inventory numbers and loss numbers to FSA county offices. Doing so, in advance of the initial county office visit, will help FSA staff serve customers more effectively and efficiently. Producers will also need to complete an application for LIP assistance and, upon request, may be asked to provide additional supporting documentation.

For information about FSA farm and farm loan programs, visit fsa.usda.gov. To learn more about FarmRaise, visit Farmraise.com.

CORRESPONDENTS

NEW Media is looking for correspondents to help with every aspect of our information efforts. We're looking for the following:

- NEWS CORRESPONDENTS: With limited staff to cover government meetings, community events and other things taking place in Shawano, Oconto and Menominee counties, we're looking for people who like to track down news, write stories and take photos to keep locals informed. If you have the interest but not necessarily the skills to write stories, we can provide you with training through the Wisconsin Newspapers Association to help you learn how to be a top news hound.
- FEATURE CORRESPONDENTS: While hard news tends to dominate the papers, we occasionally get to showcase the brighter side of northeast Wisconsin, especially Shawano, Menominee and Oconto Counties. From incredible volunteers to brilliant authors and artists to theatrical productions and so much more, we want to show it all. Feature writers who are good at photography grab a lot of attention online and in print, and the area has plenty of talented people in the shadows that we hope to bring into the light.
- SPORTS CORRESPONDENTS: We're looking for sports writers interested in covering games in Shawano, Menominee and Oconto counties. These correspondents might also be asked to cover things like college signings and player features. We cover more than a dozen high schools in the area, and writers who can report a game fairly and accurately while producing jaw-dropping action photos can go far with us.

NEWS EDITOR

NEW Media's news editor is about to retire. We seek talented journalists who can seize someone's attention by being a talented wordsmith and photographer in a fast-paced news environment where digital comes first.

The news editor candidate would spend much of the time covering Oconto County, although occasionally a story could take them to Shawano County or Menominee County. The editor also works with freelancers to help out with additional stories when needed and seek out potential writers to add to the papers' richness.

While the office is a base of operations, we want someone who'll be out in the community gathering the news. All are welcome to apply, including recent or pending college graduates. Photography and copy editing skills are a must. Experience laying out pages is also helpful, but we can train in-house.

Send a resume, cover letter explaining why you want the job and four to six samples of your work to editor Kevin Passon at kpasson@newmedia-wi.com.

Send a cover letter describing your interest and writing/photography samples, if available, to city editor Lee Pulaski at lpulaski@newmedia-wi.com.

Adults need to keep vaccines up to date

Adults need to keep their vaccinations up to date, because immunity from childhood vaccines can wear off over time and there are risks for different diseases.

“Vaccination is one of the most convenient and safest preventive care measures available,” said Dr. Noel Deep, regional medical director and internal medicine physician with Aspirus Antigo Clinic and Aspirus Langlade Hospital.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), there are several reasons why it is important for adults to get vaccinated.

- Vaccines have saved lives for over 100 years, but serious disease is still a threat. Vaccines have greatly reduced diseases that once routinely harmed or killed babies, children and adults. People all over the world — including in the United States — still become seriously ill or even die from diseases that vaccines can help prevent. The protection some vaccines provide can fade over time, and additional vaccine doses (boosters) may be needed to maintain protection.

“Adults should receive a tetanus booster every 10 years to protect against infection from dirty wounds. The pneumococcal vaccine protects against severe cases of pneumonia, and shingles vaccine protects adults from developing shingles,” Deep said. “It’s important to talk to your health care provider about vaccination to see whether you might have missed any vaccines or

Dr. Noel Deep has been recognized for his work in promoting immunizations, tackling vaccine hesitancy and providing education to health care professionals and community members. His work includes advocating for improved access to vaccines and decreased financial burdens on patients, especially Medicare recipients, and leveraging partnerships with professional medical organizations and county health services.

CONTRIBUTED

need a booster. Adults with underlying health conditions are at higher risk of developing and succumbing to vaccine preventable diseases.”

- They are the best way to protect yourself and your loved ones from preventable disease. Vaccines help your body create protective antibodies — proteins that help it fight off infections. By getting vaccinated, you can protect yourself and also avoid spreading preventable diseases to other people in your community.

“Some people cannot get certain vaccines because they are too young or too old or they have a weakened immune system or other serious health condition,” Deep said. “Those people are less likely to catch a preventable disease when you and others around them are vaccinated against it. Help protect yourself and the people you love by staying up to date on recommended vaccinations.”

- Vaccines can prevent serious illness. Some vaccine-preventable diseases can have serious complications or even lead to later illnesses. For them, vaccination provides protection not only against the disease itself but also against the dangerous complications or consequences that it can bring. Some examples:
 - Seasonal influenza (flu) is a respiratory virus that sickens tens of millions of people every year in the United States. The annual flu vaccine helps you avoid infection and reduces your chances of being hospitalized or dying if you do become infected. Flu vaccine also protects you from flu-related pneumonia and flu-related heart attacks or stroke — complications that can affect anyone but are especially dangerous for persons with diabetes or chronic heart or lung conditions.

- Hepatitis B is a serious, potentially deadly infection of the liver caused by the hepatitis B virus (HBV). There is no cure, but vaccination prevents HBV infection as well as the chronic liver damage and cancer that hepatitis

B can cause.

- Human papilloma-virus (HPV) is a leading cause of cervical cancer and can cause other cancers in both women and men. HPV vaccine keeps you from being infected with the virus or passing it to others, protecting you and them from the immediate effects of the virus as well as from the various cancers it can trigger.

- Adults 50 years and older should get two doses of the shingles vaccine called Shingrix (recombinant zoster vaccine) to prevent shingles and the complications from the disease.

- Pneumococcal disease is common in young children, but older adults are at greatest risk of serious illness and death. Pneumococcal vaccines given to adults 65 and older or younger adults with underlying health conditions help to prevent infection and complications from this disease.

- The vaccines you receive are safe. Vaccine safety is a high priority. CDC and other experts carefully review safety data before recommending any vaccine, then continually monitor vaccine safety after approval. Vaccines can have side effects, but most people experience only mild side effects — if any — after vaccination.

“The most common side effects are fever, tiredness, body aches, or redness, swelling and tenderness where the shot was given,” Deep said. “Mild reactions usually go away on their own within a few days. Serious or long-lasting side effects are extremely rare, and vaccine safety is continually monitored.”

- Vaccines may be required. Certain vaccines are required for school, work, travel and more. Students, military personnel and residents of rehabilitation or care centers must be vaccinated against diseases that circulate in close quarters. Health care workers and others whose job puts them at risk of catching and spreading preventable diseases need to be vaccinated against them. And, of course, vaccination is required before travel to many places around the world.

“Because vaccination protects you and those around you, vaccines can be required for everyday activities as well as for extraordinary situations,” Deep said. “It is important that you stay up to date on recommended vaccinations.”

Deep has been recognized for his work in promoting immunizations, tackling vaccine hesitancy and providing education to health care professionals and community members. In 2023, he received the Immunization Champion Award, hosted by the Association of Immunization Managers and funded by the CDC.

His advocacy work includes advocating for improved access to vaccines and decreased financial burdens on patients, especially Medicare recipients, and leveraging partnerships with professional medical organizations and county health services.

Pediatrician offers tips for teen, tween skin care

Sometimes referred to as Sephora teens because of their obsession with skin care, tweens and teens are becoming major consumers of skin care and makeup products.

Videos highlighting teen influencers demonstrating their skin care and makeup routines are popular on social media sites such as TikTok and Instagram.

What teens and tweens may not understand is these influencers don’t necessarily have their best interests in mind. Many could be simply promoting a product to make money, get free products or gain clicks for themselves.

“The appearance of their skin always has been a major part of the self-esteem of tweens and teens,” said Dr. Abby Smolcich, a ThedaCare pediatrician. “Today, social media adds more pressure for kids to look good.” Smolcich added that attention to skin care isn’t a bad thing; in fact, it’s good for kids to develop good skin care habits.

“However, some of the products being touted online are too harsh for young skin and may cause future problems for these kids,” she said. “And many of them are quite expensive when common drug-store brands such as CeraVe, Cetaphil, Neutrogena and Eucerin may be just as effective.”

Some of the skin-care compounds Smolcich offered a warning about include retinol, antioxidants and exfoliating acids.

“These compounds are not appropriate for tweens and teens,” she said. “Extended exposure to these harsh chemicals can be irritating to their young skin, causing a scaly rash or other allergic dermatitis. Older people need these products, not teens.”

Smolcich recommended a basic skin care routine for most tweens and teens, both girls and boys:

- Wash your face with water and a gentle cleanser twice a day — once upon arising and then before bed. Use only your fingertips for washing; washcloths or skin scrubbers may irritate your skin.
- Use oil-free skin care and makeup products.
- Apply a hypoallergenic, non-fragranced or unscented moisturizer to your skin at night or if your skin feels dry.
- Apply a sunscreen of at least SPF 30 along with a physical blocker, such as zinc oxide, daily — rain, snow or sunshine. Reapply every 1½ to 2 hours if sweating or swimming.

Beyond that, Smolcich recommended that tweens and teens wash their face with a mild cleanser after any sweat-generating activity and never go to bed with makeup on.

She suggested that it’s good to wash sheets and pillowcases weekly so dirt and oils are not transferred back to the skin. She noted it is important to avoid picking at or popping pimples, which can lead to scarring or infection, or cause the pimple to take longer to heal.

“It’s so tempting to pop a pimple, but letting natural healing deal with an outbreak is best,” Smolcich said.

Next, she stressed the importance of a healthy diet.

“Research shows a connection between consuming high levels of sugar and skin breakouts,” Smolcich said. “Fresh fruits and vegetables, lean proteins, whole wheat bread and drinking lots of water are all good options to promote healthy skin.”

She also advised that exposure to smoke is bad.

“Tweens and teens should avoid being around smoke and smoking,” Smolcich said. “All types of cigarettes, including e-cigarettes and vaping, and even second-hand smoke are bad for anyone’s skin.”

Smolcich noted that celebrities and movie stars appearing to have perfect looking skin is not reality.

“Photos and videos of famous people are often highly modified. Many of them have strict rules about how they can be shown, and the same is true of teen influencers,” she said. “The faces they project in their photos and videos have likely been photoshopped or filters have been used to make their skin look perfect. You shouldn’t believe all you see or read online. Photos and videos can and do project false images.”

Smolcich encouraged parents to not hesitate to bring a child into his or her pediatrician or dermatologist if they’re experiencing problems with acne, scaly rashes, eczema or any other skin problem that won’t clear up with over-the-counter (OTC) products.

“Some skin problems need a little extra help beyond what OTC products can provide; there are many options doctors can choose from,” she said. “Sometimes if the teen is using an inappropriate product that’s causing a skin problem, they may listen to their doctor more so than their parents about discontinuing its use.”

to because this class is too hard or there's never enough time. Many jokes were made. Many argu-ments were fought. Yet, we still did it."

Loghan Wanta, class president, touched on the caps and gowns themes as he recalled being in elementary school and seeing the high school graduates then do a march through the school for all the children to see.

"It feels like just yesterday when we were standing in the elementary hallways, watching every-body walk in their caps and gowns, not realizing how soon that would be us," Wanta said.

Once graduates collect their diplomas and move their tassels, that's normal-ly the end of commence-ment, but Superintendent Douglas Nowak kept them in their seats a few mo-ments longer as he gave

Shingler retires from education — again

Kenneth Shingler has made a lot of life-changing decisions.

For 58 years, he has steered area high school and college students along their educational journeys. The time has come for Shingler to officially call it a career.

Born in Clintonville, Shingler received his formative education at St. Rose Catholic Military School. He then graduated from Clintonville High School where his favorite classes were football, basketball and baseball. It was his high school English teacher who made an indelible mark on his life.

“She forced me to read books that weren’t sports related,” Shingler said. “In so doing, she opened my eyes to the world of literature. She told me that if I didn’t try anything new, I wouldn’t learn anything new about myself.”

Shingler was recruited to play baseball at what was then called Wisconsin State College-Oshkosh, but has since merged into the University of Wisconsin System, becoming the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh.

“I struck out with baseball, but managed to complete a double major — English and biology,” Shingler said. “Later, I completed my reading specialist degree.”

In 1966, Shingler accepted his first teaching position at Oconto Falls High School, but after two years he took his talents to Shawano High School where he taught English for 33 years.

“Teaching in the ‘60s was both exhilarating and frustrating,” Shingler said. “Times they are a-changing,’ sang Bobby Dylan — and they sure were at Shawano. Long hair, miniskirts and ‘pagan’ music were the main concerns of the administration. Teaching was a rollercoaster ride with its ups and downs, but overall, I enjoyed teaching not only high school English, but also connecting to students from all walks of life including the gifted and talented students and my favorite group of kids, those overcoming adversity.”

Shingler’s first foray into retirement didn’t last long. In 2001, he received a call from the College of Menominee Nation that changed his life.

“I had been retired for a few weeks, when I received that call from Dee Bisley, recruiter at CMN, who wanted me to consider teaching an English class for CMN,” Shingler said. “It turned out to be one of the better decisions I have ever made.”

For 23 years, Shingler always felt welcomed and appreciated while teaching at the college.

“Although my title has been English teacher, I have also been a student,” he said. “I learned much about the Menominee culture, traditions and values. These lessons have greatly enriched my life.”

When asked about advice he would share with students, Shingler said: “Accept new challenges, follow your passions, and embrace your struggles whether they be in the classroom or outside of the classroom. After all, any meaningful growth is preceded by a struggle.”

Unsurprisingly, Shingler sees the role of an educator as more than a mere bearer of knowledge.

To colleagues, he affirms, “Teaching is more than following a sequence of lessons on a syllabus. Teaching is helping students gain confidence in themselves and encouraging them to leave their comfort zones. Eventually, when students reflect on their college classes, they may not remember their grades, but they will remember how you made them feel. You are the bow, your students are the arrows. Aim them in the right direction.”

CMN honored Shingler three times during his final week as an educator. He was gifted an American Indian Higher Education Consortium quilt at the all-employee convocation, a maple wooden bowl that was created by local artist Jeremy Pyatskowitz during the pre-commencement faculty gathering, and the coveted 2024 CMN Faculty of the Year Award at the May 17 commencement ceremony.

At the commencement, CMN Chief Academic Officer Geraldine Sanapaw stated, “During his time at CMN, Ken has been a cherished member of our liberal studies faculty, helping to set standards for both student writing and assessment. In the past two decades he has served on countless committees, numerous task forces, and has become a staple of our institution. Ken has also been a tireless advocate for our Learn and Earn Program for incoming high school students and an invaluable ally for anyone facing adversity.”

Shingler is known for quick quips known as “Shinglish,” and when asked about how he felt about the recognition he responded in trademark fashion— “I’m as happy as a gopher in soft sand.”

About his retirement plans, Shingler said: “I hope to travel, pursue my hobby of buying and selling antiques, and read, read, read.”

Although Shingler has made a lot of life-changing decisions in his life, those going forward will be deservedly less consequential.

“My biggest decision in retirement will be decaf or regular for my morning coffee,” he said.

Maec waewaenen (Big thanks) for a lifetime of service to the craft of education, Ken. May your antiquing be thrilling, coffee refreshing and books enlightening.

Ryan Winn, Ph.D., teaches courses in communication, English, history, and theater at College of Menominee Nation. For information about the school, visit www.menominee.edu.

Kenneth Shingler is retiring from education for a second time after spending over 20 years at the College of Menominee Nation.

Behind great Memorial Day was motivated woman

If you aren’t planning to attend a Memorial Day Ceremony this year, I’ll skip the usual sermon scolding you for viewing the holiday as the kickoff to summer fun and not the solemn occasion it should be. Instead, I’ll share the history of Memorial Day. As is too often the case, it never made the history books that it was women who were most instrumental in creating this patriotic exercise embedded in our national identity.

Three years after the Civil War ended, Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic General John A. Logan issued a proclamation calling for a nationwide Decoration Day. As leader of a group of Union veterans, Logan directed May 30 to be set aside as a day for the nation to decorate the graves of the war dead with flowers.

With his proclamation, Logan adopted a practice begun three years earlier by

Kathleen Marsh
Columnist

southern ladies mourning the Confederate dead, but it was Logan’s wife, Mary, who deserves credit for persuading her husband to declare a national commemoration honoring all of the fallen.

Mary had good reason to support honoring all soldiers killed in the Civil War. As a volunteer Union Army nurse, she held the hand of many a dying bluebelly and grayback. After hearing that ladies in Columbus, Mississippi, had placed flowers on the graves of both Union and Confederate soldiers in the city’s cemetery on April 25, 1866, she watched as the custom caught on all across the South. Though not observed on any particular date, it was always a simple and somber ceremony for veterans and their families.

Mary envisioned the ritual as a template for a national celebration to help heal the country. John agreed, selecting May 30 as the day Americans should lay flowers and decorate the graves of more than 620,000 soldiers killed in the Civil War. Legend says John picked May 30 because it was a rare day that didn’t fall on the anniversary of a Civil War battle.

Perhaps, but many historians think that date was chosen to ensure that flowers across the country would be in full bloom, important because Logan’s proclamation contained a tragic truth: “These are men whose bodies now lie in almost every city, village and hamlet churchyard in the land.”

The American people embraced John and Mary Logan’s notion immediately, and Decoration Day enjoyed a century of popularity. In fact, in its first year, on May 30, 1868, more than 27 states held a ceremony. Over 5,000 people gathered at Arlington National Cemetery. By 1890, every former state of the Union had adopted it as an official holiday reserved for commemorating those killed in the Civil War. When America entered World War I in 1918, the tradition was expanded to include those killed in all U.S. wars.

From 1868 to 1970, Decoration Day was celebrated on May 30. In 1971, the name was changed to Memorial Day, a newly minted national holiday to be celebrated on the last Monday in May. At the time, a deeply divided United States was still embroiled in the Vietnam War, and Americans were tending thousands of fresh graves all over the country. I remember my parents being upset about the changes, and many older folks I knew called it Decoration Day for the rest of their lives.

However, changing the name and date did not alter the commemoration itself. Official Memorial Day celebrations have remained somber ceremonies ever since; with music, speeches and tributes to the fallen, delivered via a mixture of religion and celebratory national pride. The passage of time proves Mary Logan was right. Memorial Day gives us a way to make sense of our history in terms of the personal sacrifice required to build a better nation.

One hundred fifty-six years after General Logan’s proclamation, we continue to celebrate Memorial Day. The commemoration has become a heartfelt way to not only pay tribute to the war dead but to tend all graves at local cemeteries. Small towns to mega-cities hold events, and many include parades. Doylestown, Pennsylvania, has run an annual Memorial Day parade since 1868, claiming to be the nation’s oldest such public display of patriotism. That is not correct. It’s actually the Village of Rochester in Racine County, whose parade predates Doylestown’s by one year.

So, if you don’t usually attend a ceremony, please go this year, and take the kids or grandkids. With our country more divided than since the Civil War, it’s an opportunity to join together with fellow Americans in honor of those who paid the ultimate price. I’ll be at the annual ceremony at Veterans Park in Wabeno at 9:30 a.m. on May 27. Join me. I guarantee the holiday will mean a lot more if you do.

Tungsten topples last-minute tom in miracle shot

I've been called a pain in the butt by more than one person. Just ask my wife.

A real pain in the butt in the form of Piriformis Syndrome was threatening to ruin my precious spring turkey hunting.

Piriformis is essentially a mimic of sciatica pain, caused by muscle spasms in one buttock and radiating down the leg. Sitting and sleeping in certain positions was painful, but standing seemed to mostly relieve the worst of it.

Chiropractic adjustments, combined with steroids and muscle relaxers from my doctor, finally got this literal pain in the butt under control, but I only hunted one day during Season C (May 1-7).

Perhaps I was having sympathy pains for my wife, who had a more severe back situation. She awoke one morning with excruciating back pain and learned she had three herniated disks. Chiropractic care and a spine epidural eventually relieved the worst of it, but her doctor ordered her off work job for three weeks. Her struggles made my pain more manageable. She needed me to do most of the heavy lifting.

One of her keen observations gave me some insight into the turkeys at my hunting spot. We both literally drive past my turkey haunts every day, and she typically cruises past before sunset. I drive by around 8:30 a.m.

"I never see any turkeys there in the morning, but I almost always see them there when I come home," she said in that matter-of-fact way that wives often lob at us like a silent hand grenade. Poof.

I started turkey hunting around the mid-1980s in Iowa, mostly with bow and arrow, and have been hunting turkeys almost continuously ever since. You turkey hunt in the morning. You locate birds with owl hooters and try to set up near a roosting bird, or hide in a blind, and you call them. I started thinking back and don't remember ever hunting them in the afternoon, except to "roost" a bird before dark. In fact, some states used to close the season at noon or 1 p.m.

Turkey hunting can be exciting when the gobblers are talking, and when a bird is close enough that you can hear it spit-vaaaaaarr-roooooom as it drums and dances, it will make you

Columnist Ross Bielema shot this 18-pound, 4-ounce turkey May 14 with a 65-yard shot using a 20-gauge single-shot shotgun and Browning TSS tungsten shot.

wriggle like a puppy on its first point. It can also be like watching concrete harden. If you hate getting up early (I'm waving my hand right now), it can even suck eggs.

The idea of sleeping in and hunting in the afternoon was crazy, but I'd had so many rough morning hunts on this farm for years that I was willing to try anything, even turkey hunting heresy.

So after my one and only morning hunt during the Season C period, I decided to try an afternoon hunt during Season D (May 8-14). Sitting in a thick patch of willows on the edge of a plowed farm field, I was delighted to watch a few hens, along with sandhill cranes and Canada geese, poking and searching in the dirt clods for bugs and corn.

Although I'd seen strutting gobblers in this and several other adjacent fields many times when driving, no toms appeared. Still, I didn't feel sleep-deprived and craving a nap like most morning hunts.

Still facing the nagging pain in my fanny and leg, I returned to my familiar a.m. hunt pattern to get out on my last day (May 14).

A steady stream of hens provided the entertainment, with up to five in the field at one time. I texted my wife a few times with some photos, telling her that maybe the live hens would draw a tom better than my decoys were.

Just before 9 a.m., I was getting the feeling the jig was up for another year. That's when two more birds wandered into the field. I immediately noticed they were larger, although the bright sun was actually masking their colors. Then I saw the beard on the lead bird. It's go time.

I may not be a great turkey hunter, but I'm a darned good turkey caller, thanks to 35-plus years of practice. I can get sweet sounds with a diaphragm call, and I like the slates, too, but I sound like a feathered version of Whitney Houston with my trusty box call. I let fly some rich yelps and got the single-shot 20 gauge ready.

One of the two toms gave a half-hearted strut, using only one wing and part of his tail. It was pathetic. Since when is the male of any species not in the mood? They walked left into tall grass, getting slightly closer to me but then moving off. It was clear this wouldn't be a gimme shot.

It was difficult to judge the distance in the uniform grass, but when the two toms were in a straight line with me, I decided to take a shot. The $35-a-box Browning TSS No. 7 and No. 9 tungsten blend had patterned well at 35 yards, but this felt more like 50. I waited till they separated slightly and touched off.

Both birds flinched and then looked confused, as did I.

I decided to move a tad closer, so reloaded and crouched, walking slowly toward the edge of my cover. I took aim again and this time, one fell in the grass. The other stared at his pal as if to say, "We really should be going now."

I was amazed to step off 65 paces on the way to my 18-pound, 4-ounce adult tom. I certainly didn't expect to shoot that far, but I'll take it. Tungsten shot has made lead shot obsolete in my mind.

White, Gerds to hold book signing

Noted Lakewood wildlife artist Joan White and veteran writer Warren Gerds have released a unique children's book titled "A Friendly Tree."

The two have scheduled a book signing from noon to 3 p.m. May 25 at Joan White Nicolet Studio, 15346 Gage St. in Lakewood.

Surrounding the story in the book, White has included 170 images of wildlife. She urges youngsters to "find the critters" in each of her drawings. A key in the book identifies each animal and bird. Also, White offers simple tips for youngsters for drawing with pencil and paper.

A real tree that is disfigured is the basis for the book's story, which has a moral: "What the tree looks like makes no difference to the animals around it," Gerds said.

White is in her 40th year in her studio/gallery, a former church off Highway 32.

Along with being available at the studio/gallery, "A Friendly Tree" ($25) is on sale at the Neville Public Museum gift shop in Green Bay and Bosse's News and Tobacco in De Pere.

Gerds was a journalist with the Green Bay Press-Gazette for 45 years and more recently WFRV Channel 5 for nine years.

"A Friendly Tree" has been accepted into the Library of Congress in Washington, D.C.

Three Shawano athletes sign college letters of intent to continue athletic careers

By KEVIN PASSON
Editor-in-chief

Passion. Respect.
Integrity. Dedication.
Excellence.

That's how Shawano Community High School cross country assistant coach Luke Wojta summed up the four-year careers of seniors Grace Chelberg, Ethan Onesti and Lillian Guenther as they signed their college letters of intent at a May 15 ceremony at the school.

"If you take the first letters of these five key ingredients, they spell out PRIDE," Wojta said. "Lily, Grace and Ethan have shown Shawano Hawk pride each and every day they have attended Shawano High School."

Onesti signed up to attend University of Wisconsin-Green Bay and run cross country for the Fighting Phoenix. Guenther committed to the UW-Eau Claire Blugolds to run cross country, as well as track and field. Chelberg will attend Liberty University (Lynchburg, Virginia) to run cross country and track for the Flames.

Shawano cross country head coach Steve Stomberg coached all three athletes all four high school years but noted they were running together in middle school and elementary school.

"Grace and Lily have similar accomplishments as they ran every day together all through high school," Stomberg said. "Their freshman year, they were the Bay Conference championship team for the second time in school history."

Both also received all-conference recognition.

"In 2021, their sophomore year ... they ended up taking second place in the sectional and qualifying for the state cross country meet," he said. "This turned out to be the start of three consecutive years these two girls and our team made it to the state meet."

In 2022 and 2023, both were part of the team that won the sectional meet and participated at the state meet.

"They are dedicated to their sport and (are) two of the most valuable runners in the history of Shawano girls cross country," Stomberg said.

He had just as many good things to say about Onesti.

"Ethan has been on the first team all-Bay Conference all four years of his high school career, individual sectional champion his sophomore year and member of the sectional championship team his sophomore year," Stomberg said.

He was part of the sectional runner-up teams his junior and senior years, and he helped the boys make three straight appearances at state cross country meet.

"Ethan will go down as one of the most valuable runners for the Shawano boys cross country team," Stomberg said.

Joe Guenther, father of Lillian Guenther, is also coach of the track and field team.

"Ethan got stronger each year as he went through," Guenther said.

Onesti is the fifth fastest in school history in the boys 800-meter run and 1,600-meter run, seventh fastest in the 3,200-meter run and is part of the 4x800-meter relay team that is also the seventh fastest.

"The other good part that is so cool to see about these guys still running is that nobody hits their potential as a high school athlete," Guenther said. "That doesn't happen until their 20s. It'll be neat to see what they can do."

Chelberg holds the school record in the girls 1,600 and 800, and she is part of the fastest 4x800 relay team.

She is also part of the second-fastest 4x400 team and is third in the 3,200.

Guenther is the fastest in the 3,200 and is part of the fastest 4x800 relay team. She is also second-fastest in the 1,600 and eighth best in the 800.

Guenther said many believe girls peak in eighth or ninth grade and then slow down.

"They (Chelberg and Guenther) help dispel that myth, and if you work hard and work with your body as it changes, you can get faster and stronger and advance to the next level," he said. "The sky's the limit."

All three athletes

thanked their parents, families, coaches and teammates in helping them succeed.

Following graduation and summer break, the three athletes will embark on their next academic and athletic adventures.

"Always remember, it's go time," Wojta said.

Reduce risk of injuries in young athletes

Participating in youth sports can lead to immediate and long-term benefits for children. Unfortunately, sports injuries can, and do, occur.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), more than half of the seven million sports- and recreation-related injuries that occur each year are sustained by youths between ages five and 24.

“The most common injuries we see here in youth sports are strains and sprains. Strains being the tearing or stretching of muscle or tendons, and sprains being the tearing or stretching of ligaments,” said Zach Furtak, licensed athletic trainer, Aspirus Northland Orthopedics. “Due to the variety of muscles, ligaments, and tendons we have in our body, that is the most common injury we see in youth sports.”

However common, there are still several ways to keep children active while also reducing their risk of a sports related injury:

- Gear up – Whether during practice or games, athletes should be using protective gear, such as helmets, wrist guards and knee and elbow pads in addition to any other sports gear appropriate to their activity or player position.
- Use the right stuff – Be sure that sports protective equipment is maintained correctly and is in good condition. Poorly fitted

Among the most common injuries in youth sports are strains and sprains – strains being the tearing or stretching of muscle or tendons, and sprains being the tearing or stretching of ligaments, said Zach Furtak, licensed athletic trainer, Aspirus Northland Orthopedics. However common, there are still several ways to keep children active while also reducing their risk of a sports-related injury.

equipment may be uncomfortable and may not offer proper protection.

- Practice makes perfect – Have athletes learn and practice skill sets relevant to their chosen activity. For example, appropriate tackling technique is important in preventing injuries in football and soccer. Correct biomechanics, or movement and alignment, also plays a role in preventing injuries during baseball, softball, and many other activities.

- Be well conditioned – Be sure to safely and slowly increase activities to improve physical fitness; being in good condition can protect players from injury.

- Hydration and nutrition – Remind athletes to take care of their bodies by making sure they are properly hydrated and eating a well-balanced meal.
- Be a good model – Communicate positive messages about safety and serve as role models for safe behavior, including wearing a helmet and following the rules.

Recovery from an injury is different for each athlete.

“Some of the basic injuries, days to weeks, some of the more severe injuries weeks to months; all depends on the nature of the injury,” Furtak said. “Each injury is different, and each athlete is different in their healing process and the injury itself.”

Safety and health should be a top priority for coaches and parents to keep athletes in the game and having fun, this includes listening to players’ concerns and identifying injuries.

They can also encourage players to be honest if they are experiencing pain and not to push through it. If an injury does occur, parents and athletes can follow the acronym RICE to aid recovery.

- Rest and protect the injured or sore area.
 - Ice or use a cold pack as soon as possible.
 - Compression, or wrapping the injured or sore area with an elastic bandage.
 - Elevation (propping up) the injured or sore area.
- “Coaches should be coaching proper technique,” Furtak said.

Health Information

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's safe drinking water hotline (800-426-4791). Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by cryptosporidium and other microbial contaminants are available from the Environmental Protection Agency's safe drinking water hotline (800-426-4791).

Educational Information

The sources of drinking water, both tap water and bottled water, include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity.

Contaminants that may be present in source water include:

- Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations and wildlife.
- Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, which can be naturally- occurring or result from urban stormwater runoff, industrial or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining or farming.
- Pesticides and herbicides, which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, urban stormwater runoff and residential uses.
- Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations, urban stormwater runoff and septic systems.
- Radioactive contaminants, which can be naturally occurring or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities.

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA prescribes regulations that limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. FDA regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water, which shall provide the same protection for public health.

Definitions

Term	Definition
AL	Action Level: The concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system must follow.
HA and HAL	HA: Health Advisory. An estimate of acceptable drinking water levels for a chemical substance based on health effects information. HAL: Health Advisory Level is a concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, poses a health risk and may require a system to post a public notice. Health Advisories are determined by US EPA.
HI	HI: Hazard Index: A Hazard Index is used to assess the potential health impacts associated with mixtures of contaminants. Hazard Index guidance for a class of contaminants or mixture of contaminants may be determined by the US EPA or Wisconsin Department of Health Services. If a Health Index is exceeded a system may be required to post a public notice.
Level 1 Assessment	A Level 1 assessment is a study of the water system to identify potential problems and determine, if possible, why total coliform bacteria have been found in our water system.
Level 2 Assessment	A Level 2 assessment is a very detailed study of the water system to identify potential problems and determine, if possible, why an E. coli MCL violation has occurred or why total coliform bacteria have been found in our water system, or both, on multiple occasions.
MCL	Maximum Contaminant Level: The highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.
MCLG	Maximum Contaminant Level Goal: The level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.
MFL	million fibers per liter
MRDL	Maximum residual disinfectant level: The highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for control of microbial contaminants.
MRDLG	Maximum residual disinfectant level goal: The level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.
mrem/year	millirems per year (a measure of radiation absorbed by the body)
NTU	NTU Nephelometric Turbidity Units
pCi	pCi/l picocuries per liter (a measure of radioactivity)
ppm	ppm parts per million, or milligrams per liter (mg/l)
ppb	ppb parts per billion, or micrograms per liter (ug/l)
ppt	ppt parts per trillion, or nanograms per liter
ppq	ppq parts per quadrillion, or picograms per liter
PHGS	PHGS PHGS: Public Health Groundwater Standards are found in NR 140 Groundwater Quality. The concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, poses a health risk and may require a system to post a public notice.
RPHGS	RPHGS: Recommended Public Health Groundwater Standards: Groundwater standards proposed by the Wisconsin Department of Health Services. The concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, poses a health risk and may require a system to post a public notice.
SMCL	Secondary drinking water standards or Secondary Maximum Contaminant Levels for contaminants that affect taste, odor, or appearance of the drinking water. The SMCLs do not represent health standards.
TCR	Total Coliform Rule
TT	Treatment Technique: A required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.

Your water was tested for many contaminants last year. We are allowed to monitor for some contaminants less frequently than once a year. The following tables list only those contaminants which were detected in your water. If a contaminant was detected last year, it will appear in the following tables without a sample date. If the contaminant was not monitored last year, but was detected within the last 5 years, it will appear in the tables below along with the sample date.

PFAS Contaminants with a Recommended Health Advisory Level

Perfluoroalkyl and polyfluoroalkyl substances (PFAS) are a large group of human-made chemicals that have been used in industry and consumer products worldwide since the 1950. The following table list PFAS contaminants which were detected in your water and that have a Recommended Public Health Groundwater Standard (RPHGS) or Health Advisory Level (HAL). There are no violations for detections of contaminants that exceed the RPHGS or HAL. The RPHGS are levels at which concentrations of the contaminant present a health risk and are based on guidance provided by the Wisconsin Department of Health Services.

Typical Source of Contaminant		Drinking water is one way that people can be exposed to PFAS. In Wisconsin, two-thirds of people use groundwater as their drinking water source. PFAS can get in groundwater from places that make or use PFAS and release from consumer products in landfills.

Additional Health Information

If present, elevated levels of lead can cause serious health problems, especially for pregnant women and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and components associated with service lines and home plumbing. Birnamwood Waterworks is responsible for providing high quality drinking water, but cannot control the variety of materials used in plumbing components. When your water has been sitting for several hours, you can minimize the potential for lead exposure by flushing your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using water for drinking or cooking. If you are concerned about lead in your water, you may wish to have your water tested. Information on lead in drinking water, testing methods, and steps you can take to minimize exposure is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline or at www.epa.gov/safewater/lead.

In Memory of our

Memorial Day, an American holiday observed on the last Monday of May, honors men and women who died while serving in the U.S. military. Originally known as Decoration Day, it originated in the years following the Civil War and became an official federal holiday in 1971. Many Americans observe Memorial Day by visiting cemeteries or memorials, holding family gatherings and participating in parades. Unofficially, at least, it marks the beginning of summer.

EARLY OBSERVANCES OF MEMORIAL DAY

The Civil War claimed more lives than any conflict in U.S. history, requiring the establishment of the country’s first national cemeteries. By the late 1860s Americans in various towns and cities had begun holding springtime tributes to these countless fallen soldiers, decorating their graves with flowers and reciting prayers. It is unclear where exactly this tradition originated; numerous different communities may have independently initiated the memorial gatherings. Nevertheless, in 1966 the federal government declared Waterloo, New York, the official birthplace of Memorial Day. Waterloo—which had first celebrated the day on May 5, 1866—was chosen because it hosted an annual, community-wide event, during which businesses closed and residents decorated the graves of soldiers with flowers and flags.

DECORATION DAY

On May 5, 1862, General John A. Logan, leader of an organization for Northern Civil War veterans, called for a nationwide day of remembrance later that month. “The 30th of May, 1868, is designated for the purpose of strewing with flowers, or otherwise decorating the graves of comrades who died in defense of their country during the late rebellion, and whose bodies now lie in almost every city, village and hamlet churchyard in the land,” he proclaimed. The date of Decoration Day, as he called it, was chosen because it wasn’t the anniversary of any particular battle. On the first Decoration Day, General James Garfield made a speech at Arlington National Cemetery, and 5,000 participants decorated the graves of the 20,000 Union and Confederate soldiers buried there. Many Northern states held similar commemorative events and reprised the tradition in subsequent years; by 1890 each one had made Decoration Day an official state holiday. Many Southern states, on the other hand, continued to honor their dead on separate days until after World War I.

EVOLUTION OF MEMORIAL DAY

Memorial Day, as Decoration Day gradually came to be known, originally honored only those lost while fighting in the Civil War. But during World War I the United States found itself embroiled in another major conflict, and the holiday evolved to commemorate American military personnel who died in all wars. For decades, Memorial Day continued to be observed on May 30, the date Logan had selected for the first Decoration Day. But in 1968 Congress passed the Uniform Monday Holiday Act, which established Memorial Day as the last Monday in May in order to create a three-day weekend for federal employees; the change went into effect in 1971. The same law also declared Memorial Day a federal holiday.

MEMORIAL DAY TRADITIONS

Cities and towns across the United States host Memorial Day parades each year, often incorporating military personnel and members of veterans’ organizations. Some of the largest parades take place in Chicago, New York and Washington, D.C. Americans also observe Memorial Day by visiting cemeteries and memorials. On a less somber note, many people throw parties and barbecues on the holiday, perhaps because it unofficially marks the beginning of summer. Courtesy of: History.com

Grandfather Falls, berries and ice cream

Five faves in Lincoln County

Grandfather Falls Recreation Area
N4581 WI-107, Merrill
The Grandfather Falls segment is one of the most popular section hikes of the Ice Age Trail, but it also makes a scenic hike for those who just want a day outing. The hike begins just north of Merrill on state Highway 107. It is a moderately difficult 4-mile hike along the banks of the Wisconsin River.
The falls looks more like a rapids than a traditional waterfall, but it creates an 89-foot drop over a mile, making it the highest waterfall on the Wisconsin River.
Engelberry Farm
N2591 WI-107, Merrill
7 a.m. to 1 p.m. as long as there are berries to pick Locally owned and operated for over 30 years, this is the place to find strawberries.
Look for berries from early to mid-June to early to mid-July.
The season depends on the weather and the berries. Berries can be pre-ordered. The biggest berries are at the start of the season but after the first pick,
the picking is easier and denser.
Call ahead to hear about hours and berries, 715-536-9091.
