The auditorium is the final piece of improvements done throughout the district for the last 18 months. LEE PULASKI | NEW MEDIA

The stage was set as the latest ribbon cutting in the Shawano School District was a bit more theatrical.

District officials gathered Oct. 21 to show off one of the last completed pieces of the $51.2 million referendum from 2024, the auditorium at Shawano Community High School.

"Today's a celebration of vision, hard work, partnership and community," said Kurt Krizan, superintendent. "We are proud to showcase the improvements to Shawano Community High School, and more importantly, celebrate the opportunities that these spaces will provide students for years to come."

Vox Aeterna, one of the high school's choirs, started things off with singing "The Star-Spangled Banner." Once the ribbon was cut, visitors got to enjoy a number of musical pieces performed by the SCHS symphony orchestra.

Improvements to the auditorium include new auditorium seats, theatrical and house lighting, audio and visual system, control booth, scene shop and storage, and a permanent orchestra pit.

Hintz facing 3 sexual assault charges

Bonduel associate principal accused of relationship with student

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

The communities that make up the Bonduel School District were rocked by the news that Kaitlyn Hintz, associate principal for Bonduel Middle-High School, was arrested on charges related to the sexual assault of a minor.

KAITLYN HINTZ

Hintz, 32, is being charged with one count of repeated sexual assault of a child and one count of second-degree sexual assault of a child under age 16; each charge carries maximum penalties of 40 years in prison and $100,000 in fines. Hintz was also charged with child enticement, which carries a maximum of 25 years in prison and $100,000 in fines.

Shawano-Menominee County Circuit Court Judge Katherine Sloma levied a $500,000 cash bond against Hintz on Oct. 21 and scheduled a preliminary hearing for Oct. 27.

The Shawano County Sheriff's Department received a tip Oct. 16 from Speak Up Speak Out that Hintz allegedly had an inappropriate relationship with a female student, starting almost two years ago. According to the criminal complaint, Hintz allegedly communicated with the victim first through Google Teams and then eventually asked for her phone number.

The anonymous tipster reported that Hintz and the victim allegedly hooked up in the school's locker room as well as other places on school property. There were also instances where Hintz allegedly

Crowley holds rally in Shawano

Urges supporters to help turn out the vote

By KEVIN PASSON
Editor-in-Chief

Democratic candidate for governor David Crowley visited Shawano on Oct. 25. His bus tour of Wisconsin stopped at the Shawano Civic Center where he urged supporters to get out the vote in the Nov. 3 election. KEVIN PASSON | NEW MEDIA

Democratic candidate for governor David Crowley and running mate Secretary of State Sarah Godlewski brought their statewide bus tour to Shawano on Oct. 25 to urge supporters to help turn out the vote in the Nov. 3 election.

Godlewski noted the close elections held lately in Wisconsin.

"Scott Walker lost to Tony Evers by barely 1 percentage point," she said. "When you put that across the entire state, it's barely two to three votes per ward."

Both stressed the importance of voting, declaring the Democrats have a chance to win what they called the "trifecta" of the control of the Assembly and Senate, as well as the governorship.

"Imagine what we can do if we all work together," Crowley said.

Crowley, the Milwaukee County executive, said his travels around the state have brought many things to light.

"People are ready to keep Wisconsin moving forward," he said. "People are ready to get to work."

Not everything is positive, he added.

"People are doing everything that they can and working harder than they ever have before, and they're still falling behind," he said.

Godlewski said failed policies in Washington have made life miserable for Wisconsin residents. She said Republican gubernatorial candidate Tom Tiffany is partly to blame.

"We are seeing how wrong the Republicans are leading us when it comes to the direction that they're going to," she said. "We're paying more for groceries, more for gas, more for housing."

She and Crowley intend to make sure residents not only survive in Wisconsin, but the they have the opportunity to thrive in Wisconsin.

Godlewski said Tiffany voted with President Donald Trump and wealthy class 100% of the time.

"They got their tax breaks; we got higher bills," Crowley said. "They got their tariffs; we got higher prices. They got their endless war; we got record high gas prices."

Big donors are buying influence with Tiffany, he said.

"I was always told that if you don't have a seat a the table, you're on the menu," Crowley said."This is why we have to stand up. We need a leader."

The two candidates promised to lower gas prices, invest in public schools to end the countless referendums, improve health care and protect women's reproductive rights, and bring back the Knowles-Nelson Stewardship Fund to protect the environment.

hooked up in the school's locker room as well as other places on school property. There were also instances where Hintz allegedly invited the victim to her home in Green Bay for sexual encounters, according to the criminal complaint.

In an interview with the victim, she initially denied having a physical relationship with Hintz, but then she described sexual encounters that took place in Bonduel, Pulaski and the towns of Green Valley and Angelica. The victim claimed things started getting physical around the beginning of the 2024-25 school year, and she claimed the acts were consensual and that she did not feel coerced.

The victim claimed she and Hintz mutually agreed to end the relationship in June 2025.

According to the criminal complaint, Hintz claimed the victim was having difficulty at home because of coming to terms with her sexuality and that, on one occasion, the victim's family locked her out of her home.

Hintz noted in her first year, there were unfounded rumors about her and two other students, and she acknowledged she was concerned that her sexuality might cause rumors.

Hintz denied having a sexual relationship with the victim in her interview with detectives, although she acknowledged that she did hug the victim on more than one occasion – something that's against school rules. Hintz told detectives she did give out her cell phone number but indicated to the victim it should only be used in an emergency.

Hintz claimed all off-campus meetings and contacts were for conversation, mental health support and safety checks, according to the criminal complaint. She also denied allegations on the tip line that she bought the victim a Nike baseball cap and claimed the victim was stalking her.

However, forensic examination of Hintz's phone disputed Hintz's claims that she was never in a relationship with the victim, including one text message earlier this year that read: "Your girlfriend thinks you're the best, and good night. I love you."

The anonymous tipster said she came forward out of concern not only for the victim but for the fact she has three other family members who will likely go to the school, noting, "If I found out she did this to them and it's because I didn't report it, I would never be able to forgive myself."

Besides the Shawano County charges, detectives were also recommending charges be filed in Brown County for what happened in Green Bay. Besides duplicating the three charges for Shawano County, it was recommended Hintz also be charged with sexual misconduct by a school staff person.

Bonduel School District Superintendent Joe Dawidziak sent a letter to families Oct. 19 that informed them of Hintz's arrest; he noted that Hintz was immediately placed on administrative leave after the sheriff's department informed him of the investigation.

"The district remains in contact with law enforcement and will continue to cooperate fully with the investigation," Dawidziak wrote. "Due to the ongoing nature of the investigation, we cannot share further details at this time. We also want to emphasize the importance of reporting any concerns about student safety or inappropriate conduct. We encourage students, families and staff to contact a school administrator or use the Speak Up, Speak Out reporting system."

Dawidziak said that law enforcement confirmed none of the alleged activity took place on school property and that none of the alleged communications took place on the district's digital platforms.

"We recognize that this news is deeply concerning for our students, families, staff and community," he wrote. "Please know that we take these allegations extremely seriously. The safety and well-being of our students remains our highest priority."

Some in Bonduel are urging people not to judge the actions of one individual as something indicative of the district's culture. A Facebook post by Gehm's Club 117 urged holding out on judging Bonduel in the court of public opinion.

"Sometimes things happen in a small community that leaves us more questions then answers, heavy hearts and concern for our children," the post read. "During this time, please remember what makes our community special. One person's actions do not define an entire school, its students or our community. Now is the time to come together, show kindness, look out for each other and remember our children's well-being is priority. Bonduel is more than a school, a business or a village. It is neighbors. friends, families and a community who looks out for each other."

Previously, whenever SCHS hosted musicals, front-area seating would have to be removed to set up a place for those providing the background music.

The transformation of the auditorium also included new rigging and acoustic shells and treatments. The auditorium has 708 seats, down from the 725 it previously had, to provide more space for people in wheelchairs and make the facility more compliant under the Americans with Disabilities Act.

"An auditorium holds a special place in a school," Krizan said. "It's where students step on the stage for the first time, where musicians share their talents, where performers discover confidence, and where our school community gathers to celebrate achievements and create lasting memories."

Whether it's seeking a passion for the arts or learning to overcome fears, Krizan expected the auditorium to serve students well for many years to come. The space will also foster teamwork and give students a sense of accomplishment, he said.

"Those experiences are an important part of education to help students build confidence, develop creativity, strengthen relationships and discover what they are capable of achieving," Krizan said. "These aren't just improve spaces; they're new opportunities for our students."

Krizan expressed appreciation to students and staff for their patience as the project faced some delays, requiring the celebration to be pushed back from Oct. 5.

"Years from now, we may not remember every detail of the renovation, but we'll remember the performances, standing ovations, the nervous first steps on stage and the moments when students discovered something new about themselves," Krizan said. "That's what makes an investment worthwhile."

Shawano School Board President Christine McKinnies said the project was made possible because of the hard work of the performing arts staff, both past and present. She also acknowledged the Shawano Jazz Foundation and the Shawano Schools Performing Arts Boosters for their work in improving musical and theatrical opportunities in the district.

"All of the events that take place in our newly renovated auditorium would not be possible without the combined efforts of these nonprofits, our performing arts department, our directors and our students, who invest their time and their talents to bring this community incredible performances," McKinnies said.

First veterans breakfast takes place

Event a new CVSO promotional tool

By KEVIN PASSON
Editor-in-Chief

Zak Zuehlsdorf couldn't have asked for a better turnout for the first ever Veterans Connect breakfast event Oct. 22 at Farm Inn' on Main in downtown Shawano.

Zuehlsdorf, Shawano County's veterans service officer, coordinated the breakfast to bring veterans together and then send them out to encourage other vets to visit the office and get the benefits due to them.

"The real takeaway for this event is: 'When you leave this event, I need you to go out and spread the gospel around of our veterans service office and what we're doing for Shawano County,'" he said. "Go tell them the good work that we're doing, and tell them to come see us."

The back room of Farm Inn' on Main was filled with an expected 50 veterans, office staff and a few county leaders.

The sponsor for the breakfast was Twig's Beverage, and owners were presented with a certificate of appreciation.

Floyd Hartwig, Korean War veteran and Purple Heart recipient, started the business in 1951.

"He was recovering in his bed in Japan, and he had this idea of actually starting the bottling company of Twig's," Zuehlsdorf said.

Twig's Beverage is presented with a certificate of appreciation for sponsoring the first Veterans Connect breakfast event Oct. 22, coordinated by the Shawano County Veterans Service Office. From left, are Ben Hartwig; Zak Zuehlsdorf, Shawano County's veterans service officer; Dan Hartwig; and Jake Hartwig.
KEVIN PASSON | NEW MEDIA

Hartwig's uniform and a brief biography of him are on display at the Twig's Museum and Gift Shop in Shawano.

"We appreciate everything everybody ever did for us," said Dan Hartwig, Floyd's son. "That's just a little way of showing our appreciation for what you guys did."

Kelly and Keith Baumann, owners of Farm Inn' on Main, were also presented with a certificate of appreciation for hosting the breakfast and providing the staff to serve the meal.

Zuehlsdorf said the breakfast event is based on what is done each month in Oconto County. There is it coordinated by Ron Christensen and Tanya Gonzalez. Zuehlsdorf attended a breakfast there to get an idea of how it worked.

"I left there knowing that there's a story in each and every one of you and all the veterans in Shawano County," he said.

There are an estimated 2,800 veterans in Shawano County.

Rich Grosskreutz, who also works in the veterans service office, said the next event will be held in January 2027, with details yet to be announced. The plan is to hold the event each quarter.

Deputy won't be charged in fatal shooting

By KEVIN PASSON
Editor-in-Chief

A Shawano County deputy involved in the death of a 38-year-old man in the Town of Green Valley in March has been cleared of any wrongdoing.

The Shawano-Menominee County District Attorney's Office has determined Deputy Cole Vande Hei will not face charges as a result of the death of Jonathan Lupe Sr.

An investigation into the shooting was conducted by the Wisconsin Department of Justice Division of Criminal Investigation. Their investigative reports were then turned over to the Shawano-Menominee County District Attorney's Office.

About 1:41 a.m. March 10, Shawano County sheriff's deputies responded to a disturbance at a residence located in the 2300 block of state Highway 22. Upon entry, deputies located Lupe locked inside a bathroom.

Lupe refused to exit the bathroom and said he had a gun. Authorities reported that deputies attempted to use less-lethal force, but those efforts were unsuccessful.

Lupe advanced toward law enforcement officers with what they believed to be a firearm. During the DCI scene examination afterward, a .177-caliber Crosman Pellet Gun, model 357, was collected.

Vande Hei, with 4 1/2 years of law enforcement service, discharged his firearm, striking Lupe, who was transported to a hospital but later died.

Checks, balances woven into city elections

Safeguards in place to prevent claims of voter fraud

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

With the midterm elections right around the corner, Shawano City Clerk Lesley Nemetz is ready to make sure everything is on the up and up, despite growing calls across the country claiming elections are not free and fair.

LESLEY NEMETZ

Nemetz spoke with NEW Media on Oct. 21 about what the city of Shawano does to make sure there are not incidents like what happened in Green Bay, where duplicate ballots were sent out to voters. She also talked about the checks and balances in place to make sure ballots are all counted and that tallies are correct.

"There's a lot of different steps," Nemetz said. "Obviously, there's the voter portion where people are coming in to register, we're verifying their IDs, we're verifying their proof of residency, all of those things. The voters have to attest that all of those things that they're providing are accurate and legal."

There is a statewide voter system in place that municipal clerks input the information when people register to vote. Having it in one location keeps everything secure and safe, Nemetz said.

U.S. Rep. Tom Tiffany, Republican candidate for governor, talks with supporters at a recent gathering at Golden Sands in Cecil. Tiffany has visited the area a few teams, even before he was chosen as the GOP nominee in August.

GREG MELLIS | NEW MEDIA

Shawano decided in 2024 to utilize all paper ballots for elections instead of setting up electronic voting machines for voters to utilize. Nemetz said other municipalities give their voters the option of using either setup.

"The city used to have both types, but we went away from the electronic voting equipment a couple of years ago," she said. "The state certifies only certain voting machines that tend to be utilized. The electronic voting machines that were available, we didn't like how the output was at the end of the day."

Nemetz added that while it had all of the things needed for elections, the machines made it difficult for her, staff and election workers to maintain adequate recordkeeping, because Shawano has six polling districts in one location. It added time to tallying results, she said.

The city also utilizes a color-coding system used for each district, according to Nemetz, that makes it easier for voters to make sure they're utilizing the correct ballot.

"That way, you get to the right table, you get the right ballot," she said.

Paper ballots are inserted into a tallying machine, where the votes are tallied and making sure ballots have been marked correctly and there are no overvotes or undervotes.

"It's just making sure everything is legit on their ballot, as well," Nemetz said.

Once the polls close at 8 p.m., poll workers run reports from the machines that give the totals for each candidate. All of the ballots are pulled from the machine to verify the number of ballots that is being given on the machine.

"While one team is working on the machines, the other teams who have been there all day are reconciling their numbers," Nemetz said. "Then we come together and take all of that and make sure what they're saying is what we're saying, and everybody matches. There's checks and balances throughout the entire day."

The voting tallies are sent to the Shawano County clerk, where a canvass is done several days following the election, Nemetz said. That review provides additional checks and balances to prevent inaccuracies or fraud.

Once the county is done reviewing the data, it is sent to the Wisconsin Elections Commission.

"I know clerks get called into question about how they are operating," Nemetz said. "I can only speak on what I do and what the city of Shawano does. There would have to be a whole lot of people willing to be dishonest."

On average, there are 30 people working with Nemetz on Election Day, so it would take all of them willing to ignore any potential fraud for it to flourish, and even then, there are observers from both the Republicans and Democrats that watch how things are doing during the 13-hour election cycle. She said many of the poll workers for the city have worked with her in the 16 years she's been with the clerk's office.

"Sometimes, when things happen, and it gets in the news and you hear maybe a clerk sent out extra ballots, there are things that happen," Nemetz said. "We put into place things that make sure we're not sending out things that shouldn't be so that we have a lot of internal checks."

Only one person in Nemetz's office can send out early ballots, and if someone requests another ballot, the employee voids the first ballot to eliminate any doubt of integrity. Voters can request to cancel early ballots up to the third one received, Nemetz said.

Other safeguards in place are requirements to test any voting machinery prior to Election Day, as well as continuing education requirements from the state to make sure municipalities are current on election laws. Nemetz said it's very rare when there are major shifts in election procedures, but she and her staff make sure they are current on what needs to be done to execute free and fair elections.

"Thankfully, knock on wood, things go really smoothly here," she said.

Public records request on MISD funds denied

Attorney claims district doesn't have to respond to inquiries

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

The Menominee Indian School District has denied a resident's public records request regarding over $7 million that was transferred from the district's general fund to capital projects.

Legend Lake resident Gregg Malmstrom sent a letter to Menominee Indian School Board President David Miller on July 20 regarding the transfer of funds that took place during the 2024-25 school year. Malmstrom asked for four things:

• A list of the specific capital projects funded by the $7,088,214 transfer, including each project's scope, cost to date and estimated total cost.

• Board resolutions, including meeting dates and recorded votes, authorizing the transfer and any related budget amendments under Wisconsin Statute 65.90(5), or an explanation if the transfer was made without a formal amendment.

• Why the projects and transfer were not included in the original or amended budget presented at the annual budget hearing, given that the final amended budget still anticipated an essentially break-even year.

• Whether additional reserve-funded capital spending is planned for the 2026-27 school year or beyond, and the district's plan – including any fund balance policy target – for maintaining the general fund balance, which now stands at approximately 27% of expenditures.

Malmstrom said there was an audit from Kerber Rose that flagged the transfer and questioned why there were no details on what the $7 million was used for, which prompted him to ask the district where the money went.

"I've been trying to find out where the fiduciary responsibility is of this board, because I've found that they don't understand what the responsibilities are when it comes to finances," Malmstrom said. "There's a major lack of transparency to the community, especially us, who are the taxpayers and part of the community."

Anthony Steffek, MISD's attorney, denied the public records request, noting that only one of the items involved records, while the others ask for responses to Malmstrom's inquiries. The letter was dated Oct. 6 with a note that the letter was originally supposed to be sent to Malmstrom on Aug. 19, but was delayed due to miscommunication.

"The District will not provide responses," Steffek wrote. "In this regard, please be advised that the Board of Education has no obligation to answer questions posed to it during the public comment periods of their regularly scheduled meetings. Public comment is just that – comment. It is not a forum for discussion between Board of Education members and attendees."

The letter did not address whether board members could respond to Malmstrom's questions outside of the meeting.

Malmstrom disputed Steffek's claim, noting that the district does have a responsibility to the public, especially when large amounts of money are involved.

"I have a right to ask the question. I have a right to receive the information," Malmstrom said. "They have no explanation as to why it's not being released, based on all of the (public record) requirements I put out there."

Regarding the one item that falls into the public record request category, Steffek claimed that "no such documents exist."

Steffek also addressed a school board meeting held Aug. 4 in which he claims Malmstrom continuously interrupted board discussion. He wrote that will no longer be tolerated.

"Moving forward, the Board will not allow any further behavior during its meetings," Steffek wrote. "The first instance of such behavior will receive a warning, and the second instance will result in removal from the meeting, which will involve law enforcement assistance if necessary. Please note that this directive is not specific to you. Any community members violating these directives will receive the same response."

Malmstrom said he interrupted the board's discussion once, and that was to correct a factual inaccuracy. He said there were not multiple interruptions from him, as Steffek alleges, and he is not aware of a policy that allows the board to arbitrarily remove members of the public.

"I understand people have a right to say something during the public commentary section on the agenda, but it was blatantly clear … the information was not a factual statement, and I tried to clarify that," Malmstrom said. "I wasn't belligerent. I wasn't disrespectful. It was just pointing out one thing."

Malmstrom said he plans to keep asking the questions and plans to bring it up during the district's annual meeting Oct. 28. He alleged the district has not been presenting a lot of information required by law at the annual meetings, and he plans to hold the board accountable.

Candidates concerned about tech in schools

Dependency with young children may be doing harm

By NEW MEDIA STAFF

Rep. Elijah Behnke is running for his fourth term in the Wisconsin Assembly, facing a challenge from Shirley Hinze.

Behnke, a Republican who is moving into a home in the Town of Angelica after two years in the Town of Chase, is looking for a second two-year term representing the 6th Assembly District, which includes most of Shawano County, all of Menominee County, and segments of Oconto, Waupaca and Outagamie counties.

SHIRLEY HINZE

Hinze, a Democrat and Shawano resident, had previously challenged Behnke for the seat on the assembly two years ago.

ELIJAH BEHNKE

NEW Media sent questionnaires to Behnke and Hinze to ascertain their stances on topics affecting people in the state of Wisconsin. Their responses to two of the questions follow. Answers to previous questions can be found at www.newmedia-wi.com.

For years, schools have been relying more on technology to help educate children, but now there are concerns the tech is doing more harm than good. What's your view on the issue?

Behnke: I never let my kids play with tablets. We still don't have tablets or the internet while our little kids are developing their brains. For zero to 12, I would have no technology. For 12-14, teach them the basics and then 15-18, make it part of their schoolwork because that could be their job; they could have a desk job. I think it's overused too much currently in our public schools.

Hinze: What we're talking about is AI. I have been reading about parents' dissatisfaction with the use of tablets in schools, how it exposes kids to it. But let's be honest, today's tech has made doing homework easier, saves time and is entertainment, giving already overworked parents some free time. It has come at the expense of kids' mental health (and) is limiting curiosity/freethinking.

Kids learn by example, so if parents are tied to their devices so shall they be. We all have become far too dependent on technology. Can I as an assembly member dictate to a parent how to handle tech in their home with their kid? The answer is no. That would be government sticking its nose in where it doesn't belong.

What issue will be your No. 1 priority if you're elected to the Wisconsin Legislature?

Hinze: My No. 1 priority are my constituents, and they are living paycheck to paycheck right now in Trump's economy. People don't trust the government right now. I will do everything possible to regain that trust by providing financial solutions to help working families and farmers. Health insurance, utilities and taxes that continue to be a drain on everyone's wallet, including my own. Change can only happen if the people elect it.

Behnke: I would say affordability. I'm campaigning on affordability and returning the surplus. We are being confronted by self-driving cars; Tesla's not allowed to be sold in Wisconsin, because there are just two showrooms. AI in data centers is something we have to tackle.

Veterans memorial's future discussed again

Alderman notes veterans groups still discussing where to move it

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

Plans are starting to take shape to renovate the west side of Memorial Park in Shawano, and the city's park and recreation commission got a first look Oct. 21, but much of the initial discussion surrounded the possible relocation of the veterans memorial currently at the Shawano County Courthouse.

Blake Tyson, a consultant from Madison-based Parkitecture, presented the first draft of designs for the segment of the park facing Main Street, showcasing renovated concession areas, improved access and more. He noted that the plans did not include a space for the veterans memorial, because discussions between the city and county had turned to keeping it at the courthouse, possibly relocating it to the new courthouse's entrance when construction is completed.

The veterans memorial set up outside the Shawano County Courthouse could be moved once the new courthouse is built, but the question remains about whether it will be placed in front of the new courthouse or moved to Memorial Park. LEE PULASKI | NEW MEDIA

Alderman Kevin Barkow, who is a representative of the Shawano Common Council on the commission and also commander for Shawano American Legion Post 117, contradicted Tyson, saying that the city's veterans organizations are coming together to discuss the future of the memorial and that it could still be relocated to Memorial Park.

"The AmVets, the American Legion, the VFW and all the service organizations in Shawano will be getting together and discuss where they want to see the memorial," Barkow said. "Right now, the thought is moving it from Main Street is what they want. Memorial Park would be a great place to have it."

Barkow noted the park already has a tree that serves as a memorial for veterans who have received Purple Hearts for being injured or killed in the line of duty. However, that is located in the middle of the park, and Barkow said it might be better for the memorial to find a home on the west side.

"It's a lot better than dealing with all the traffic on Main Street," Barkow said, noting that nothing has been set in stone yet, at least for the Legion.

Shawano County Board Chairman Tom Kautza has previously said he would leave it up to the local veterans organizations to decide where the memorial should go.

Matt Hendricks, parks and recreation director, asked for clarification if Memorial Park is "on the table" for the memorial, and Barkow said again it was.

Barkow said someone needed to reach out to the veterans organizations and let them know if the memorial's future location has already been finalized.

Hendricks noted the plans are far from being finalized, and feedback for the final project is still sought. A timeline for renovations has not yet been set, and the city is still in the process of applying for grants to pay for the work.

The plans are expected to be brought back to the commission in early 2027 after Hendricks meets with the Shawano Youth League and Sun Drop Dayz representatives, and then it could go to the council for formal approval sometime after that.

Tower repairs will cost Shawano County $135K

By KEVIN PASSON
Editor-in-Chief

Members of Shawano County's executive committee agreed to use part the county's 2026 contingency fund to bolster one of the emergency management's communications towers.

The full county board is expected to agree when it meets Oct. 28.

Lt. Chris Madle, also the emergency management director, said approval is given, repairs and enhancements to the tower in Gresham can begin.

"We are anticipating the work being completed by the spring of 2027," he said.

Three towers suffered damage during storms earlier this year. In each case, the microwave transmission antennas were damaged. Microwave transmission antennas need to be replaced at the Gresham tower, Marion tower and one on state Highway 29 between Tigerton and Wittenberg.

"In short, these microwaves are responsible for connecting each tower to each other to ensure radio signals and frequencies are transmitted across our whole system and not just off of a singular tower," Madle said. "Two towers had damage in the spring when ice fell off the tower, and the other was damaged during a hail storm (the same storm system where Neenah got hit with the tornado)."

Damage to the Marion and Wittenberg towers totaled $850,000, while damage to the Gresham tower was $480,000. The insurance claim for the Gresham tower is still in progress, said Nichole Zuehl, finance director.

The county must strengthen the Gresham tower before the microwave transmission antenna can be repaired.

"Motorola is requiring us to fix our tower," said Zuehl said in remarks to the executive committee. "It's not fit to climb."

Matt Hietpas, technology services director, said the tower's height needs to be extended for the new microwave and then made stronger to support the weight of the new dish, which will be higher on the tower.

The cost to extend and strengthen the tower is $135,000, of which $26,221 is available from existing budgeted funds, with the remaining $108,779 proposed to be funded through the contingency fund.

One man dead after two-vehicle crash on state Highway 29

One man died Oct. 20 after two vehicles collided on state Highway 29.

The Shawano County Dispatch Center received multiple 911 calls about 3:40 p.m. reporting a motor vehicle crash on Highway 29 at Hofa Park Drive in the Town of Maple Grove. Deputies responded to the scene, along with personnel from local fire and EMS agencies.

A preliminary investigation indicates that a pickup truck struck a dump truck in the westbound lanes of Highway 29. The pickup truck was occupied by a 38-year-old man, who died at the scene. The dump truck was operated by a 21-year-old man.

The Shawano County Sheriff's Department was assisted at the scene by the Pulaski Tri-County Fire Department, NEW Ambulance, Brown County Sheriff's Office and several other Brown County law enforcement agencies, Wisconsin State Patrol, Shawano County Highway Department, and the Shawano County Coroner's Office.

The names of those involved are being withheld pending notification of family. The crash remains under active investigation.

Superintendent's letter addresses bullying issues

Parents say on social media they're pulling kids from schools

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

Social media is exploding with debate about bullying going unresolved in the Shawano School District, prompting Superintendent Kurt Krizan to send out a two-page letter to parents outlining how officials deal with bullying.

Shawano Let's Talk About It has had at least two posts in recent days from parents who have pulled their children from the public schools because the bullying is out of control.

Pamela Rollins-Hermann, of Black Creek, posted on Shawano Let's Talk About It on Oct. 20 claiming that Shawano's public schools are protecting bullies. She did not specify which school in her initial post, but when another Facebook user asked, Rollins-Hermann said the bullying happened at Shawano Community Middle School and that she has pulled her son out of the school because of bullying.

"Know they will not protect them," Rollins-Hermann wrote. "It's okay to bully other children and get away with it. This is the message the school is sending go ahead and bully others and there are no consequences. Shame on the schools and the adults that allow this to happen."

Murphy Hartwig, of Pulcifer, posted on Shawano Let's Talk About It on Oct. 22 announcing she was pulling her daughter out of Shawano Community High School because of bullying.

"How many parents besides myself are tired of the way they handle bullying, medical issues and more?" Hartwig wrote. "Also when is the next board or PTO (parent-teacher organization) meeting that parents are able to speak at? Something needs to change."

In 2023, the district received unwelcome notoriety after a cellphone video showing an SCMS student assaulting another student and being posted on Instagram. Shortly after that, the school forbade the use of cellphones at the school.

Krizan wrote in his letter that the district uses the Youth Risk Behavior Survey to find out about a variety of issues, which includes bullying and school climate, once every two years. However, the most current results are not available to the district, he wrote.

"When the results become available, we will review the findings and consider how they can inform our prevention efforts, student supports, and future programming," Krizan wrote. "Survey data is one valuable source of information, but it does not replace the need to report individual concerns so they can be addressed when they occur."

Krizan recommended parents to contact teachers and administrators whenever they find out about bullying. Tips can also be submitted via the Speak Up and Speak Out website through the Wisconsin Department of Justice at speakup.wisdoj.gov.

"We cannot address a problem we do not know about," Krizan wrote. "While we understand that families may discuss concerns with one another, it is essential that reports reach the district through an appropriate reporting channel so we have the opportunity to investigate, understand what occurred, and take appropriate action. If you have reported a concern and believe it has not been adequately addressed, please follow up with the building principal or district administration."

Krizan noted in his letter that social media is not the ideal way to develop solutions for individual student problems.

"Social media can provide a place for people to share concerns and seek support, but it is not the most effective way to resolve an individual student situation," he wrote. "Online conversations often lack important context, and the district cannot investigate a concern based solely on a social media post. Public discussions can also unintentionally compromise student privacy or place students and staff in difficult situations."

At the beginning of the letter, Krizan wrote that bullying issues are taken seriously at the district.

"Every student deserves to feel safe, respected, and supported at school," he wrote. "Bullying can have a lasting impact on students and families, and we recognize the concern and frustration that can arise when a child experiences difficulties with peers. As a district, we take these concerns seriously and remain committed to creating a positive school environment where every student feels a sense of belonging."

Hubertus recognized for watershed management

Shanda Hubertus has been recognized for achievement in environmental conservation.

Hubertus has served as president of the Waterways Association of Menominee and Shawano Counties (WAMSCO) since 2014, having been a founding member of the organization. In this leadership role, she oversees daily operations, coordinates communications, and supervises a staff of four and an intermittent intern.

Her responsibilities include managing grant applications and reimbursement documentation, donated equipment, and volunteer waivers; coordinating educational outreach programs; overseeing WAMSCO's mobile education trailer; cultivating and donating tens of thousands of native plants annually for restoration initiatives; and coordinating shoreline and seawall restoration projects. Her work reflects extensive experience in watershed conservation, water quality monitoring, native habitat restoration, and environmental education.

Under her leadership, WAMSCO has received multiple state and international honors, including the Wisconsin Lakes Stewardship Award for Excellence in Public Education and the North American Lake Management Society's Leadership and Service Award for Community Education and Outreach in 2025. She has also received recognition from the Shawano County Land Conservation Department and other organizations for her contributions to conservation and education.

However, her most rewarding accomplishments have been witnessing a shift in landowners' attitudes toward conservation and helping them implement best management practices on their properties. Looking ahead, she hopes to expand unrestricted funding to support larger grant-funded projects without requiring landowners to pay costs upfront, while helping WAMSCO acquire its own property and building and preserve its grassroots approach.

Hubertus' commitment to service is rooted in her early life experiences. Raised on an 88-acre lake in Wisconsin, she developed a lasting connection to water and natural resources. Growing up in a family that adopted eight children with disabilities also exposed her to healthcare and nursing from an early age, helping shape her professional interests and dedication to caring for others.

She earned an Associate Degree in Nursing, demonstrating remarkable perseverance throughout her education. Despite being advised not to return to nursing school while facing mobility challenges that required her to use a wheelchair for five years, she persisted until graduation. This same determination carried over into her environmental work, particularly when she faced discouragement in securing funding and developing an educational program for WAMSCO. Her ability to overcome obstacles has been central to her leadership and success across both professions.

County to borrow $2.5M to balance budget

By KEVIN PASSON
Editor-in-Chief

For the third year in a row, Shawano County is preparing to borrow funds for capital improvement projects, road construction and road maintenance projects as a way to get around state spending limits.

The executive committee voted Oct. 21 — and the county board is expected to adopt the same Oct. 28 — to borrow up to $2.5 million.

"We take it out for a few months, pay it off within a month at very little interest," said Nichole Zuehl, finance director.

She said the money would be borrowed from Premier Community Bank at a rate of 5.5%. The three-month loan would be paid off within 30 days, costing the county not quite $12,000 in interest.

The borrowing for capital projects is a workaround that allows the county to borrow to meet its operational needs without exceeding the levy limits imposed by the state. In the budget, the money is noted as debt service, not operational.

Sperberg named events coordinator at chamber

The Shawano Country Chamber of Commerce has added a familiar face to its team, naming Sam Sperberg as its new events coordinator.

Sperberg officially began the role Oct. 12. She will oversee chamber events while also helping develop new ideas and opportunities throughout the year.

Sperberg has been an active leader in the Shawano community for years, serving on the Shawano Area Young Professionals board since 2019 and stepping into the role of president in 2021. In addition to her work with young professionals, she has been involved with Big Brothers Big Sisters serving as a "Big," holding a board seat and launching the Fun for Kids' Sake fundraiser in Shawano County. Her dedication earned her the Northeast Wisconsin Volunteer of the Year Award.

She has volunteered on the Sacred Heart Trivia Committee for three years and supports Toys for Tots annually through saYPro. She graduated from Leadership Shawano County in 2024, where she now serves on the program's steering committee.

SAM SPERBERG

Following her LSC experience, Sperberg helped launch Shawano's Hometown Heroes initiative and continues to guide the project as part of its steering committee. She also contributes her time and expertise to the Shawano County Progress Summit committee and participates in 100 Women Who Care.

In 2017, she graduated from UW-Green Bay with a degree in business administration and management.

DOT reminds drivers to share road with farmers

They're big, they're bulky and they'll slow down traffic, but experts say motorists have to learn to share the roads with farm equipment this time of year.

The Wisconsin State Patrol is reminding drivers and farm vehicle operators to share the road with the fall harvest underway. This is a busy time of year for farmers, requiring everyone on the road to be alert and patient to prevent dangerous crashes.

There have been 2,053 crashes involving farm vehicles in Wisconsin during the past five years, resulting in 650 injuries and 28 fatalities. Most of these crashes occur in September, October and November, with October being the peak month.

"We are in the middle of an especially busy time for farmers in Wisconsin, and drivers are likely to encounter large, slow-moving farm equipment on the roads," Wisconsin State Patrol Superintendent Tim Carnahan said. "Staying cautious, patient and aware behind the wheel can go a long way in safely sharing the road."

Drivers should always scan the road ahead and be ready to slow down when approaching a slow-moving vehicle. Give farmers extra space and anticipate the possibility that they may slow down or turn into a driveway or field entrance. If you need to pass, do so with caution and only when it is legal to do so. In Wisconsin, it is illegal to pass an agricultural vehicle in a no-passing zone.

Suring stays alive in 8-player playoffs

Eagles advance with 42-22 win over Sevastopol

By GREG SEUBERT
Correspondent

Suring football coach Mitch Taylor and his staff didn't have to think too hard to come up with an offensive game plan for the Eagles in their 8-player playoff matchup with Sevastopol.

The plan? Hand the ball off to running backs Kroix Kempka, Grant Thomson and Dyllan Flynn and let them work their magic.

That magic included six rushing touchdowns — three each from Kempka and Thomson — and Flynn's interception return for another score in a 42-22 win over Sevastopol on Oct. 23.

The second-seeded Eagles will now face top-seeded Wabeno/Laona in a Level 3 playoff game tentatively scheduled for 7 p.m. Oct. 30 in Wabeno.

"We've got it to the point where we're in a good rotation with our backs," Taylor said. "We had to take a step back. We had some injuries later in the season, but now we've got pretty much the full team back."

One of those injuries to Taylor Booth-Stoffregen caused the senior quarterback to miss three games, but he was back on the field against the Pioneers.

The three games he missed with a knee injury were nonconference losses to Valley Christian and Phillips and a Level 1 playoff win over Elkhart Lake/Glenbeulah.

Taylor was happy to get Booth-Stoffregen back.

"I think having Taylor back is a calming influence," he said. "He's a captain and a leader out there and would have been our third guy with a knee surgery, but it was a slight tear to his MCL. Will (Seibert) did a nice job of stepping in for him. He was a little nervous in the Phillips game, because he had to step into that role, but he really picked it up in that first playoff game."

Suring got off to a shaky start to start the game and trailed 8-6 at one point.

The Eagles' first drive ended after three plays and Flynn fumbled the ball on a punt return that gave the Pioneers the ball at the Suring 47-yard line.

After Sevastopol turned the ball over on downs, Thomson capped a 75-yard drive with a 7-yard run and the Eagles headed into the second quarter with a 6-0 lead.

Sevastopol answered on its next drive with a 4-yard run from Ray Johnson and took an 8-6 lead after Johnson added a 2-point conversion run.

The lead didn't last long, however, as Suring scored on its next drive on Kempka's 3-yard run with 4:18 to go in the first half.

Suring started its next drive at midfield later in the half, but the drive ended with an interception. The Eagles had one more chance for points after starting a drive at the Sevastopol 45-yard line following a punt, but Flynn's field goal attempt was blocked on the final play of the half.

Suring scored on all four of its possessions in the second half.

Sevastopol opened the third quarter with a long drive, but it ended after Flynn picked off Bo Tanck's pass and returned it 80 yards to give the Eagles an 18-8 lead.

Thomson's 3-yard touchdown run midway through the third quarter added to the Eagles' lead, but Sevastopol made it 24-14 with Tanck's 85-yard touchdown pass to Johnson.

A 2-yard touchdown run from Thomson in the opening minute of the fourth quarter gave Suring a 30-14 lead and found the end zone again four minutes later after a fumbled kickoff return gave the Eagles the ball at the Sevastopol 37-yard line. Kempka's 19-yard run with just over seven minutes left in the game made it 36-14 and after the Pioneers turned the ball over on downs, found the end zone for the third time with a 41-yard run.

Sevastopol's final points came with less than two minutes remaining on Tanck's 6-yard touchdown run and 2-point conversion run.

Kempka led the Eagles with 164 rushing yards and also led the defense with 11 tackles.

Kroix Kempka ran for a team-high 164 yards and scored three touchdowns in Suring's 42-22 win over Sevastopol.
GREG SEUBERT

Suring will now turn its attention to Wabeno/Laona, which defeated Northwood/Solon Springs 42-0 Oct. 24 in the Rebels' Level 2 playoff game.

"They have a heck of a player up there in Cooper Albrecht," Taylor said. "He's all-state material, a man among boys. (Ryder) Cronauer is a really good player. It's a good team, so we're going to have to play better than tonight."

Taylor said Suring is fortunate to be able to field an 8-player team, unlike other local programs like Gillett and Bowler/Gresham that cancelled their varsity schedules this season because of low participation numbers.

"Our enrollment is going to be well under 100 (students) next year," he said. "We'll be in the 20s again next year for (football players). That's nice, because they know they get a chance to at least play and they're part of the Suring school. We're not combined with anybody."

Having a successful program doesn't hurt, either. The Eagles won the Marinette & Oconto Conference-8 championship and started the season with five straight wins.

Big second halves lift Pulaski, Bonduel to playoff wins

Two area football teams have made it to the second round of the WIAA state playoffs after opening the postseason with a home win Oct. 23.

Pulaski handed Ashwaubenon a 41-3 loss in Division 2, while Bonduel improved to 10-0 with a 35-7 win over Lancaster in Division 6.

While the Red Raiders and Bears kept their season alive, Wittenberg-Birnamwood and Lena/St. Thomas Aquinas Academy ended theirs with a loss. Wittenberg-Birnamwood fell to Amherst 36-0 in Division 5 on the Falcons' home field, while Lena/STAA headed to Oshkosh and fell to Valley Christian 52-20 in an 8-player Level 2 game.

Division 2

Pulaski 41, Ashwaubenon 3

After a scoreless first quarter, Anthony Ficarri opened the scoring for the Red Raiders with a 1-yard run with 3:58 to go in the first half. Ashwaubenon answered with a 48-yard field goal on the final play of the half to cut the lead to 7-3.

Those turned out to be the only points the Jaguars scored, as Pulaski added a 1-yard run from Andre Burnett and a 3-yard run from Bohdan Schmidt to take a 20-3 lead heading into the fourth quarter.

The Red Raiders added three more touchdowns in the fourth quarter on runs of 16 and 3 yards from Schmidt and Bryce VanLannen's 43-yard interception return.

Schmidt and Burnett combined for 312 of Pulaski's 337 rushing yards. Schmidt led the way with 182 yards on 24 carries, while Burnett added 130 yards on 20 attempts.

Pulaski's defense held the Jaguars to 127 yards of offense and had three interceptions, including VanLannen's touchdown.

Division 6

Bonduel 35, Lancaster 7

The top-seeded and unbeaten Bears overcame an early 7-0 deficit and scored 35 unanswered points to beat the eighth-seeded Flying Arrows.

Lancaster took the opening kickoff and drove 85 yards, with Toay Ragatz capping the drive with a 29-yard pass to Lukas Weber with 6:02 to go in the first quarter.

Bonduel answered on its first drive with Quinn Wesenberg's 1-yard

The Falcons added to their lead in the second quarter on a 5-yard run from Nerdahl and a 14-yard run from Cal Lusic that gave the home team a 29-0 halftime lead.

Packers head coach Matt LaFleur won't comment On whether he thought his team's penalties were legitimate. "I don't even want to comment on any of the penalties," he said. "So, it is what it is. You got to play above it. And I thought there were some tough calls, but it is what it is." Quarterback Jordan Love said something similar on the intentional grounding penalty. "Yeah, they said that the ball was short of the line of scrimmage. I thought we had a receiver right there in the area, so it is what it is," he said.

IT'S ALWAYS SOMETHING

Penalties, drops and rookie mistakes plague Packers

By LUKE REIMER
Green & Gold Express

All Green Bay could do was watch as Lions kicker Jake Bates nailed a 22-yard field goal as time expired to clinch Detroit's 20-17 victory over the Packers on Oct. 25 at Ford Field.

While Bates' game-winning kick pushed the Lions to the victory, it didn't look like that way minutes earlier, as with 4:53 remaining in the game tied at 17-17 Detroit head coach Dan Campbell, who is known for his aggressiveness, elected to go for it on fourth-and-one from the Lions' own 24-yard line. Packers defensive back Keisean Nixon stopped Lions running back Jahmyr Gibbs for a two-yard loss, putting Green Bay in the driver's seat with incredible field position.

Green Bay was only able to muster five yards on the drive, settling for a Trey Smack go-ahead field goal attempt. From 35 yards out, Smack's attempt was tipped at the line of scrimmage, causing the ball to sail right, allowing Detroit to take back over, where it marched Kicker Trey Smack struggled against the Detroit Lions. He was 1-for-3 on field goals and made both extra point kicks. In the first seven games, he connected on 11-of-16 field goals and 11-of-13 extra points.

GREEN BAY PREPARES TO HOST CAROLINA

By JACOB WESTENDORF
Green & Gold Express

Green Bay returns to Thursday Night Football with an Oct. 29 home game against the Carolina Panthers.

Packers offense vs. Panthers defense

Josh Jacobs returned to the lineup Sunday but did not single-handedly save Green Bay's run game. The run game was still bad against Detroit. Jacobs led the way with 36 yards on 11 carries.

The offensive line decision making remains head scratching. Kevin Zeitler, who was signed to stabilize the interior, was a healthy scratch. Travis Glover started and struggled immensely.

In the passing game, drops continue to plague Green Bay's offense. Bo Melton and Josh Jacobs each had one egregious drop. Melton's would have been a big play down the field. Jacobs' would have been a potential game-winning touchdown.

The pass-catching group leads the NFL in drops by almost double at this point in the season.

They are sabotaging what has otherwise been a great season by Jordan Love. Love threw two touchdown passes and an interception Sunday in Detroit. He was asked to carry the offense and nearly was able to carry them to a victory.

This week, they're facing a pass rush led by Jaelen Phillips. The big-money free agent signed in the offseason to a deal in excess of $100 million to go to Carolina instead of remaining in Philadelphia. Phillips has battled some injuries this season, but is still second on the team in sacks.

Once the ball is in the air, the Panthers do not have an interception from one of their defensive backs this season. Devin Lloyd leads the team with two picks. The Panthers as a team have just three interceptions this season.

Packers defense vs. Panthers offense

Green Bay's defense did a good job to keep the Lions' offense off the scoreboard for most of their matchup in Detroit. The Lions had been excellent all season at putting points on the scoreboard but were only able to muster 20 against Jonathan Gannon's crew.

That does not mean

Jordan Love threw a 14-yard touchdown pass to Tucker Kraft in the first quarter and a 25-yard touchdown pass to Josh Jacobs in the third quarter. He also threw a crucial interception at the start of the fourth quarter.

down the field for the game-winning field goal.

The tipped kick for Smack caused his second miss of the day, as the rookie kicker finished the day converting on just one of three field goal attempts and making both of his extra point attempts.

"It was just not capitalizing on some premier opportunities right there," said Packers head coach Matt LaFleur. "Great stop by our defense to give us the ball in great field position, and we didn't capitalize on it and missed a field goal."

Through seven games of his rookie season, Smack has missed four field goal attempts and two extra point attempts. When asked if the rookie will continue as the kicker moving forward, LaFleur said yes, with no other comment.

For Green Bay, Sunday's game against Detroit marked the awaited return of running back Josh Jacobs, who had been listed on the Commissioner's Exempt List due to an investigation into domestic violence charges. With Jacobs in the lineup, Green Bay continued to struggle in the run game, totaling 60 yards on 19 carries. Jacobs accounted for 36 of those yards on 11 carries.

The former All-Pro running back was effective in the receiving game, though, as he finished with 55 yards and a touchdown on five receptions. The most important target to Jacobs ended up incomplete, though, as before Smack's second miss of the game, Jordan Love threw a pass down the left sideline in the end zone intended for Jacobs, which bounced off of the running back's hands and landed incomplete.

"I called that play where I dropped the touchdown," said Jacobs. "That's what I told (the team) – for my standard, I like myself 10 out of 10, and that is a play that I have to make. So I said if you want to blame anybody, put it on me."

After the game, Jacobs explained that this being his first game of the season, his on-field play came with a little bit of rust.

"Honestly, it was a weird week for me, because you still have to get all of the timing and everything down," he said. "I feel like I am half a second slower, not to where my eyes should be, but just making the initial reaction. Like a step late – a step late here, a step late there. So there is definitely some rust."

Love finished the game completing 27-of-45 passes for 274 yards, two touchdowns and one interception.

Christian Watson led the Packers in receiving, hauling in five passes for 57 yards. Tucker Kraft recorded 48 yards and a touchdown on four receptions, while Savion Williams chipped in 47 yards on three receptions and Matthew Golden contributed 39 yards on six receptions.

For the Lions, quarterback Jared Goff completed 22-of-32 passes for 303 yards and two touchdowns.

Amon-Ra St. Brown led Detroit in receiving, recording 153 yards on nine receptions. Jameson Williams added 91 yards and caught both of Goff's touchdown passes with his five receptions. Gibbs was the only other Lion who totaled more than one reception as he finished the game with 27 yards on five receptions.

In the run game, Gibbs finished with 116 yards on 29 carries.

The loss to the Lions brings the Packers record to 4-3 on the season. With Minnesota and Chicago both winning during Week 7, the Packers now sit in last in the NFC North but hold the seventh seed in the NFC playoff race.

there are not some reasons for concern. The Packers surrendered more than 400 yards of offense, and were torn apart by Lions receiver Amon-Ra St. Brown.

St. Brown was on the receiving end of 153 of Jared Goff's 303 yards passing. Jameson Williams had 91 more, and the Packers were not as stingy as they had been in recent weeks.

The pass rush was noticeably absent. The Packers only sacked Goff once, and he was largely comfortable in the pocket throughout the game, which led to him being as productive as he was.

While most of the focus is going to be on some egregious roughing the passer penalties that were called, the Packers did not hit the quarterback enough.

Carolina's offense has been up-and-down this season, and they were way down Sunday against the Tampa Bay Buccaneers. Bryce Young threw for 163 yards, one touchdown and two interceptions as the Panthers were blown out by Tampa Bay. The Panthers were only able to muster 13 points.

Their run game was led by Chuba Hubbard, who gained 33 yards on seven carries. A 26-point explosion by the Bucs in the second quarter led to Carolina playing in a game script they do not want to play in.

Carolina's best receiver is Tet McMillan. McMillan was the best rookie receiver in the NFL last year. He leads the team in receiving by more than 100 yards. Their other pass catchers who have given them respectable production are Jalen Coker, Darren Waller and Tommy Tremble. The entire passing offense truly runs through McMillan. If Green Bay can slow him down, they should be able to control the game against Bryce Young.

Special teams

For everything that went wrong during Sunday's game, if the kicker simply makes his kicks, the Packers win the game in regulation. If the kicker just makes one of the two kicks he shanked, the Packers have a shot to win in overtime.

Trey Smack has been up-and-down all season, but his performance against the Lions will be one to forget.

Smack missed two field goals from 35 yards. One was officially blocked, but that still cannot happen.

Smack has missed five kicks in the last three weeks. The Packers are standing by him, but it's going to be interesting to see how much tolerance there is for a rookie kicker on a team that cannot afford to leave points on the field in big games.

Smack is not the only person at fault for why the Packers lost Sunday, but he played a huge role in it.

Missing two chip-shot field goals in a dome is inexcusable. In a league where kickers are better than they ever have been, it's a wonder how the Packers have not figured out a way to replace the ever reliable Mason Crosby since allowing him to leave following the 2022 season.

Carolina's special teams are led by Tracy Smith, with former Packer JJ Jansen taking over the long snapping duties.

Ryan Fitzgerald and veteran Sam Martin handle the kicking and punting duties, respectively.

The return game is handled by committee as David Moore has returned the most kicks this season. The Panthers have not been particularly explosive in this phase of the game.

At left, Brandon Cisse, the Packers rookie cornerback, finished his day against the Lions with seven total tackles (five solo) and two passes defended. Above, after not playing the firs six weeks of the season, running back Josh Jacobs returned in Week 7 against Detroit. He rushed 11 times for 36 yards and caught five receptions for 55 yards and a touchdown. GREG MELLIS | GREEN & GOLD EXPRESS

ON THE HUNT FOR EXPLOSIVE PLAYS

Following the 20-17 loss to Detroit, quarterback Jordan Love talked about the identify of the offense. “I think we’re definitely leaning on the pass right now, and I think we’ve been doing some good things there. There’s still more out there for us in the pass game,” he said. “But I think it always is. We’re trying to hunt explosive plays. And I think right now it’s a little bit of either we got it, or we don’t.”

WHEN TIMBER MEETS PETAL

Birnamwood entrepreneur creates unique floral arrangements

By LYNN ZAFFRANN
Correspondent

Leslie Fischer-Preuss has a passion for creating unique flower arrangements suitable for many occasions.

"Unique" doesn't come close to describing the arrangements because each flower in them is made of wood. The arrangements feature wooden flowers that are hard to distinguish from the real thing. Fischer-Preuss' lifelike floral arrangements are lasting, sustainable and look like real flowers.

Opening her own floral business was a longtime dream that Fischer-Preuss had. It came to be in 2023 as Timber + Petal Floral Studio, based in Birnamwood.

In her arrangements, she uses greenery and fillers that are faux or dried, with the wooden flowers as the stars of the pieces. The pieces are all natural and will last for a long time.

Fischer-Preuss enjoys crafting pieces for weddings. She said that brides can choose the type of flowers that they want, without the cost of fresh flowers.

The bouquets and arrangements she creates for weddings and other occasions last forever.

She also creates arrangements for funerals, which provide a lasting memento and reminder of a significant person in someone's life.

"For funeral flowers, I feel like I have a special calling for that," Fischer-Preuss said.

She said that after a funeral, the flowers die, which she compared to a secondary loss.

"This is a way to remember that special person and have that lasting arrangement to display in your house," Fischer-Preuss said. "I feel that I have a special connection to grievers."

Turnaround time for a funeral arrangement is usually a day or two, but it depends on how busy she might be.

This floral arrangement is made with flowers made from the pith of the Sola tree, which grows in Southeast Asia. The wooden flowers are handcrafted by Leslie Fischer-Preuss, of Birnamwood. Each petal is formed and painted by hand. LYNN ZAFFRANN

Fischer-Preuss has a background in working for a professional fresh flower florist, but she's completely self-taught as a wood flower crafter.

The wooden flowers that she makes start out as a roll of paper formed from the pith of the Sola tree, which grows in parts of Southeast Asia. Fischer-Preuss cuts out individual petals for a flower from the roll and puts them together to assemble a specific type of flower.

The wooden flowers are lightweight, so a finished piece may be lighter than a live floral arrangement.

Fischer-Preuss is also able to get some wood flowers already assembled from a distributor.

"There are some really great small businesses that I support that have these flowers," she said. "One is actually from Wisconsin."

Fischer-Preuss has to dye, airbrush and hand paint each petal to mimic a real flower. She uses rice glue to put the petals together.

"Once I have all of the petals ready to assemble, it takes about 10 to 15 minutes to create a flower," Fischer-Preuss said. "I want them to look real, not fake."

She said that she likes making arrangements that people can enjoy forever. She makes pieces to sell, creating items that appeal to anyone who enjoys floral arrangements. Fisher-Preuss also makes arrangements specific to a customer's wishes.

In addition to selling her arrangements, Fischer-Preuss will rent some of them to her customers, such as swags and centerpieces, for special occasions. This gives customers the chance to display larger pieces for special evens without the higher prices.

Working as a luxury wood flower florist, she doesn't have the expense of refrigerating live flowers, and she doesn't have to worry about flowers wilting or dying.

Arrangements for sale range in price from $10 to just over $400.

"I'm trying to grow my business, but I just want people to feel loved and supported, and if this is a way that I can help and spread that, that's what I try to do," Fischer-Preuss said.

As a business owner, Fischer-Preuss is very customer-oriented.

She said that the floral arrangements she creates are a lasting memento or a lasting reminder of a significant occasion in people's lives. She said that she really

Firari gets WTLL instructor award

Brittney Firari has been named the 2026 Wisconsin Instructional Leader of the Year by Wisconsin Teaching and Learning Leaders (WTLL).

This prestigious statewide recognition honors educational leaders who demonstrate exceptional commitment to improving curriculum, instruction, assessment and student achievement.

Firari, who serves as the Shawano School District's literacy coordinator, has been a driving force behind the district's efforts to strengthen literacy instruction and improve reading outcomes for students. Her expertise, collaborative leadership and commitment to evidence-based practices have helped establish sustainable systems that support both educators and students.

One of Firari's most significant contributions has been her leadership in implementing Wisconsin Act 20, the state's early literacy legislation. She guided the district through the development of comprehensive procedures, assessment processes, instructional supports and personal reading plans designed to ensure students receive the reading instruction and interventions they need to succeed.

Through extensive research, data analysis, professional learning and collaboration, Firari helped position the district to meet the requirements of Act 20 while maintaining a focus on the ultimate goal – improving students' reading abilities and confidence.

Firari works closely with regional educational service agencies, including CESA 6 and CESA 8, to remain informed of research-based practices and evolving educational requirements. She has also fostered partnerships with local parochial schools, Head Start educators, community volunteers and the district's multilingual learner program to expand access to effective literacy practices and resources.

Have an apple or other healthy snack before your next trip to the grocery store. Researchers at Cornell University found that people who ate a healthy snack before grocery shopping purchased 25-28% more produce than those who ate a cookie or nothing at all before heading to the store.

You'll find a variety of apples from tart to sweet and firm to soft to choose from. Purchase favorites or try new-to-you varieties you can find at farmers markets, orchards and retailers this time of the year. Many offer samples and provide recipes and recommendations for the best snacking, baking and processing varieties. Or buy a collection of apples and conduct your own taste test.

Whole fresh apples provide the greatest benefits. Combine them with peanut butter or cheese for a healthy protein snack. Add sweetness and crunch to salads with apple slices.

Extend your enjoyment with proper storage. Use bruised, cut or damaged fruit as soon as possible and only store firm blemish-free apples.

Mature apples store best in temperatures between 32 and 39 degrees with 95% humidity. Providing ideal storage conditions is not always possible. Maximize their storage life by placing apples in perforated plastic bags in the crisper drawer of the refrigerator. The plastic bag helps increase the humidity around the fruit while allowing air to flow through the holes.

Purchase extra apples for preserving. Make them into sauce or apple pie filling for canning. Peel, chop, cook and dry into fruit leathers for snacking. Make and freeze apple pies for a quick and easy dessert you can simply bake and serve when needed.

Set aside a few apples to have fun converting them into apple heads. This Native American tradition was picked up by the settlers and is now a part of American folk art. All you need are a couple apples, 1/2 cup lemon juice, 2 tablespoons salt, a bowl of water, a pencil and a knife.

Mix salt and lemon juice in a bowl of water and set aside. Peel the apple and core if you want to place it on a stick or prefer a long droopy face. Draw the outline of the face then carve the features into the apple.

Soak the carved apple in the bowl of salty lemon water for about 10 minutes. Set on a cooling rack or hang the apples in a warm place to dry. Apples are ready when spongy or leathery to the touch.

Add a few details to the apple head by inserting beads for eyes and rice for teeth. Use it as a head for a doll or place it on a stick and add it to your Halloween decorations.

Take advantage of the apple season to find new ways to include apples in your diet. You'll enjoy a diversity of flavors and the many uses this healthful fruit provides.

More than 100 apple varieties are grown commercially in the United States.

Building healthier future for Shawano, Menominee counties

On Aug. 17, the Shawano-Menominee Counties Health Department facilitated our 2026 Community Health Assessment event at the College of Menominee Nation. Alongside dedicated community members, local partners and organizations, we dove deep into key data spanning our social determinants of health, health behaviors and outcomes, clinical care and the physical environment.

NICK MAU
GUEST COLUMNIST

After thoughtful, open discussion, our community worked together to identify the core health priority areas that will guide our efforts over the next three to five years — mental health, transportation and housing.

These priorities directly reflect the voices, lived experiences and data-backed needs of our residents.

Addressing them isn't just about changing a statistic; it's about strengthening the foundational building blocks of health across our two counties.

Why do these priorities matter?

Mental health and physical health are deeply interconnected. Rural communities across Wisconsin often face unique challenges in mental healthcare access, making broad community awareness and early intervention critical.

When we speak openly about mental health, it normalizes people asking for help without feeling embarrassed or ashamed. Learning what to look for in ourselves and in our neighbors helps communities know when to step in give support before tough situations turn into crises or emergency room visits.

Taking care of our minds also does wonders for our bodies. Feeling well mentally helps people handle daily stress, strengthens the immune system and lowers the risk of serious health problems like heart disease. On top of that, when people feel supported, it's much easier for them to stay active, make healthier choices, and be there for their friends and families.

In rural partially-rural communities like Shawano and Menominee counties, transportation is the key thread connecting people to essential services. Transportation plays a vital role in public health by influencing access to jobs, education, health care, healthy food and social connections.

Public health data consistently shows that lack of reliable transportation leads to missed medical appointments, delayed management of chronic conditions (like diabetes and heart disease) and difficulty accessing grocery stores with fresh foods, according to the Rural Health Information Hub.

Beyond simply getting us where we need to go, transportation shapes the very feel of our neighborhoods. When communities invest in smooth roads, reliable transit, safe sidewalks and volunteer driver programs, it is naturally easier for everyone to stay active, breathe cleaner air and travel safely.

Expanding these options does more than bridge distances; it reduces long-standing barriers to good jobs, schools, and healthcare, bringing the entire community together.

Housing is widely recognized as one of the single most influential social determinants of health.

Adequate, stable housing gives individuals and families a sense of security, stability, control and privacy.

While safe housing provides physical protection, it can also impact child development. Safe, well-maintained housing protects families from structural hazards, mold, lead and extreme temperatures.

Additionally safe, quality housing reduces environmental exposures directly linked to childhood asthma, lead poisoning, accidental injuries and chronic respiratory illness.

Aside from the direct, physical impacts housing can have on health, the financial burden of housing is overwhelming for so many. According to the Office of Disease Prevention and Health Promotion, when households face high severe housing cost burdens (spending more than 30-50% of income on rent or mortgages), their budget for essentials shrinks dramatically.

High housing costs force families to make trade-offs between paying rent and affording health insurance, preventive care, prescribed medications and nutritious food. By stabilizing housing, communities can directly improve a family's financial capacity to stay healthy.

Identifying these priorities is just the beginning. Our next step is to assemble a steering committee of passionate community partners, local leaders and subject-matter experts to develop our Community Health Improvement Plan. By building onto the strengths, skills, and resources that already exist across our communities, we can work together on real, lasting solutions.

Over the next three years, the CHIP will serve as our evidence-based, collaborative roadmap, guiding collective action and targeted investments to measurably enhance the health and well-being of all Shawano and Menominee counties residents.

We invite you to keep an eye on the SMCHD's Facebook page (facebook.com/SMCHD) and county webpage in the coming weeks, where the full Community Health Assessment report will be published.

Thank you for your continued partnership as we work together to build a healthier community for everyone.

Nick Mau is the health officer for the Shawano-Menominee Counties Health Department with a master's degree in public health.

making custom arrangements for her customers.

Her first husband, Jeremy Fischer, passed away unexpectedly and tragically in 2018. They have two children, Kailyn and Beau.

When she remarried in 2022, she was intent on making the floral arrangements for their wedding held in the foothills of the Rocky Mountains.

Her interest in a sustainable floral product led her to making the wooden flowers she used for her wedding pieces, the same wooden flowers she specializes in today. She made her bouquet, her attendants' bouquets and boutonnieres for her husband and groomsmen, in addition to other floral arrangements.

Fischer-Preuss has a bachelor's degree in history and political science. She also has a master's degree in educational leadership with an emphasis in adult education.

She works full time for the Medical College of Wisconsin, placing students in their medical rotations.

The Timber + Petal venture is a side job that Fischer-Preuss fits in between her Medical College position and running around with her children, who are both involved in sports.

She works out of her home in a little studio. Hours are by appointment only.

Fischer-Preuss runs classes for eight to 30 people at her home to learn how to create wood flower arrangements.

Her arrangements can be seen and purchased at Chet and Emil's, 388 Main St., Birnamwood.

Fischer-Preuss will run a workshop at the Birnamwood Berry Merry Holiday Craft and Vendor Fair on Nov. 28 from 10:30 a.m. to noon. The event is held at Chet and Emil's.

Joanne Edwards, a district instructional coach, who highlighted both her professional expertise and the personal qualities that make her an exceptional leader.

"Teachers (and students) love working with Mrs. Firari. She is kind, patient, knowledgeable, organized and trustworthy. These qualities make her an outstanding educator and an asset to our district," Edwards wrote in her nomination.

Edwards also recognized Firari's instrumental role in establishing the district's early literacy systems, supporting teachers in implementing effective reading strategies and using student achievement data to guide continuous improvement.

The award recognizes leaders who champion effective educational practices, foster partnerships, use data to improve learning and demonstrate a sustained record of innovation and improvement.

More drivers slow down, move over for disabled vehicles

A new survey from the AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety found that more than 90% of drivers reported slowing down or moving over the last time they passed a disabled vehicle, tow truck or police vehicle on the shoulder.

However, previous observational research found that only 64% of drivers actually changed lanes or reduced their speed when required. More than one-third (36%) did neither.

The consequences of failing to slow down or move over can be deadly.

More than 2,100 people were struck and killed while stranded or working at the roadside between 2019 and 2023. In 2025 alone, AAA responded to more than 30 million roadside events, and 15 roadside service providers lost their lives in slow down, move over-related incidents. Several of those crashes involved impaired or hit-and-run drivers.

"Drivers often think roadside danger only affects police officers, firefighters and tow truck operators," Nick Jarmusz, director of public affairs for AAA. "But anyone can become vulnerable at the roadside. A flat tire, dead battery or mechanical problem can place drivers and passengers just feet from moving traffic. That's why slowing down and moving over is so important."

A new AAA survey found that drivers understand the risks of being stranded at the roadside. More than half (55%) of Wisconsinites said being struck by another vehicle would be their biggest concern if their vehicle became disabled.

"It's easy to think a roadside stop is someone else's problem," said Jarmusz. "But every driver could end up in that situation. That's why slowing down and moving over is more than a legal requirement. It's a responsibility we share."

Recognizing the dangers faced by stranded motorists, many states have expanded their slow down move over laws to include disabled vehicles and other roadside situations.

Notice of Fall General Election and Sample Ballots
November 3, 2026

Office of the Shawano County Clerk
To the voters of Shawano County:

Notice is hereby given of a general election to be held in the several wards in Shawano County on November 3rd, 2026 at which the nominees for the offices named below shall be chosen. The names of the candidates for each office to be voted for, whose nominations have been certified to or filed in this office, are listed under the title of the office and under the appropriate party or other designation, together with any referendum questions submitted to a vote, in the sample ballot below.

INFORMATION TO VOTERS

Upon entering the polling place and before being permitted to vote, a voter shall:

- state their name and address
- show an acceptable form of photo identification*
- sign the poll book

*If a voter does not have acceptable photo identification, the voter may obtain a free photo ID for voting from the Division of Motor Vehicles.

If the voter is unable to sign the poll book due to disability, a poll worker may write the word “exempt.”

If a voter is not registered to vote, they may register to vote at the polling place serving their residence if the voter provides proof of residence.

Where ballots are distributed to voters, the initials of two inspectors must appear on the ballot.

Upon being permitted to vote, the voter shall enter a voting booth or go to a machine and cast their ballot. The vote should not be cast in any manner other than specified here. Sample ballots or other materials to assist the voter in marking their ballot may be taken into the booth and copied. The sample ballot shall not be shown to anyone so as to reveal how the ballot is marked.

A voter who is a parent or guardian may be accompanied by the voter's minor child or minor ward.

An election official may inform the voter of the proper manner for casting a vote but the official may not advise or indicate a particular voting choice.

Assistance for Voting
A voter may select an individual to assist in casting their vote if the voter declares to the presiding official that they are unable to read, have difficulty reading, writing, or understanding English, or that due to disability are unable to cast their ballot. The selected individual rendering assistance may not be the voter's employer or an agent of that employer or an officer or agent of a labor organization which represents the voter. If a voter is unable to state their name and address, an assistant may also do so for the voter.

Where Paper Ballots are Used
The voter shall make an “X” or other mark in the square next to the name of the candidate of their choice for each office for which they intend to vote. To vote for a person whose name does not appear on the ballot, the voter shall write in the name of the person of their choice in the space provided for a write-in vote. On referendum questions, the voter shall make an “X” in the square next to "yes" if in favor of the question, or the voter shall make an “X” in the square next to "no" if opposed to the question.

Where Optical Scan Voting is Used
The voter shall fill in the oval or connect the arrow next to the name of the candidate of their choice for each office for which they intend to vote. To vote for a person whose name does not appear on the ballot, the voter shall write in the name of the person of their choice in the space provided for a write-in vote and fill in the oval or connect the arrow next to the write-in line. On referendum questions, the voter shall fill in the oval or connect the arrow next to "yes" if in favor of the question, or the voter shall fill in the oval or connect the arrow next to "no" if opposed to the question.

When using an electronic ballot marking device (“ImageCast Evolution-ICE”) to mark an optical scan ballot, the voter shall touch the screen or use the tactile pad to select the name of the candidate of their choice for each office for which they intend to vote. To vote for a person whose name does not appear on the ballot, the voter shall touch the screen next to “write-in” and type in the name of the person of their choice. On referendum questions, the voter shall touch the screen at "yes" if in favor of the question, or the voter shall touch the screen at "no" if opposed to the question.

Spoiling Ballots
If a voter spoils a paper or optical scan ballot, they shall return it to an election official who shall issue another ballot in its place, but not more than three ballots shall be issued to any one voter. If the ballot has not been initialed by two inspectors or is defective in any other way, the voter shall return it to the election official who shall issue a proper ballot in its place.

After Voting the Ballot
After an official paper ballot is marked, it shall be folded so that the inside marks do not show, but so the printed endorsements and inspectors' initials on the outside do show. The voter shall then deposit their folded ballot in the proper ballot box or deliver the ballot to an inspector for deposit and leave the polling place promptly.

After an official optical scan ballot is marked, it may be inserted in a security sleeve so the marks do not show. The voter shall then insert the ballot in the voting device or deliver the ballot to an inspector for deposit. The voter shall leave the polling place promptly.

Raymond Rigsby, Shawano County Clerk

All Shawano County voters will vote for Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Attorney General, Secretary of State, State Treasurer, Sheriff, Coroner, Clerk of Court and three State Referendum Questions. For Representative in Congress District 7 and 8, Representative to the Assembly District 6, 35, and 87 and Referendum Questions in the School Districts of Gillett, Seymour, and Pulaski, voters will vote based on their municipality of residence.

To amend section 10(1)(c) of article V; relating to: prohibiting the governor from using the partial veto to create or increase any tax or fee.

2025 Assembly Joint Resolution 102

To create section 27 of article I of the constitution; relating to: prohibiting governmental entity discrimination.

Whereas, the 2023 legislature in regular session considered a proposed amendment to the constitution in 2023 Assembly Joint Resolution 109, which became 2023 Enrolled Joint Resolution 15, and agreed to it by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses, which proposed amendment reads as follows:

Section 1. Section 27 of article I of the constitution is created to read:

[Article I] Section 27 (1) In this section, "governmental entity" means the state, its political subdivisions including municipalities, the University of Wisconsin System, the Technical College System, any public college or university, any public school district, and any office, department, independent agency, board, commission, authority, institution, association, society, or other body in state or local government created or authorized to be created by the constitution or any law, including the legislature and the courts.

(2) A governmental entity may not discriminate against, or grant preferential treatment to, any individual or group on the basis of race, sex, color, ethnicity, or national origin in public employment, public education, public contracting, or public administration.

(3) This section does not prohibit action that must be taken to establish or maintain eligibility for any federal program, if ineligibility would result in a loss of federal funds to the governmental entity.

(4) Nothing in this section prohibits bona fide qualifications based on sex that are reasonably necessary to the normal operation of public employment, public education, public contracting, or public administration.

(5) If any part or parts of this section are found to be in conflict with the United States Constitution or federal law, the section shall be implemented to the maximum extent that the United States Constitution and federal law permit. Any provision of this section held invalid shall be severable from the remaining portions of this section.

Now, therefore, be it resolved by the assembly, the senate concurring, That the foregoing proposed amendments to the constitution is agreed to by the 2025 legislature; and, be it further
Resolved, That the foregoing proposed amendments to the constitution be submitted to a vote of the people at the election to be held on the first Tuesday of November 2026; and, be it further
Resolved, That the question concerning ratification of the foregoing proposed amendments to the constitution be stated on the ballot as follows:

QUESTION 3: "Governmental entity discrimination prohibited. Shall section 27 of article I of the constitution be created to prohibit governmental entities in the state from discriminating against, or granting preferential treatment to, any individual or group on the basis of race, sex, color, ethnicity, or national origin in public employment, public education, public contracting, or public administration?"

Explanatory Statements as to the Questions

Explanatory statement regarding Question 1:

Under current law, the Governor may partially veto language in a spending bill passed by the Legislature. The veto may result in either more or fewer taxes or fees being imposed and may also result in local government entities being authorized to increase or decrease local taxes or fees.

The proposed amendment would add a new clause to Article V, section 10(1)(c) of the Wisconsin Constitution, providing that the Governor's veto "may not create or increase or authorize the creation or increase of any tax or fee." This language would not only prevent a veto from increasing any state taxes or fees, but also prevent a veto from allowing local governments, such as school districts, to increase their own taxes or fees.

A "yes" vote on Question 1 would vote to amend Wis. Const. art. V, § 10(1)(c) to prohibit the Governor from partially vetoing a spending bill in a way that would create or increase or authorize the creation or increase of any tax or fee.

A "no" vote on Question 1 would vote not to amend Wis. Const. art. V § 10(1)(c) of the Wisconsin Constitution.

Explanatory statement regarding Question 2:

Under current law, Article I, section 18 of the Wisconsin Constitution, like the First Amendment of the U.S. Constitution, protects religious rights. In a declared state of emergency, officials may limit public gatherings, including religious gatherings, so long as religious and secular gatherings are treated equivalently.

The proposed amendment would add a new clause to the end of Article I, section 18, prohibiting the state and local governments from ordering the closure or forbidding gatherings "in places of worship" when there is a state of emergency. That language would prevent officials from forbidding gatherings in places of worship even when other types of public gatherings have been closed.

A "yes" vote on Question 2 would vote to amend Wis. Const. art. I, § 18. The amendment would prohibit the state and local governments from closing or prohibiting gatherings in places of worship during a state of emergency.

A "no" vote on Question 2 would vote not to amend Wis. Const. art. I, § 18 of the Wisconsin Constitution.

Explanatory statement regarding Question 3:

Under current law, both under Article I, section 1 of the Wisconsin Constitution and the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, states and local governments may not discriminate based on race, ethnicity, color, national origin, or sex except under specific circumstances. For race, color, ethnicity, or national origin, discrimination in favor of or against a group is permissible only if the government has a compelling interest and a narrowly tailored remedy. For sex, discrimination is permissible if it serves an important government interest and is substantially related to that interest. Current law also makes distinctions depending on whether discrimination is overt and intentional, or merely a disparate impact of a neutral policy.

The proposed amendment would create a new provision, Article I, section 27, which would prohibit state and local governmental entities from discriminating or granting preferential treatment based on race, sex, color, ethnicity, or national origin in public employment, public education, public contracting, or public administration.

This language appears to impose stricter standards against discrimination than the standards under current state and federal law.

The amendment contains three exceptions. It does not apply if it would cause the governmental entity (1) to lose eligibility for a federal program or (2) to violate federal law. And the amendment's prohibition on treating people differently based on sex does not apply to measures that are "reasonably necessary" to the "normal operation" of public employment, education, contracting, or administration.

A "yes" vote on Question 3 would vote to create a new provision of the Wisconsin Constitution—Wis. Const. art. I, § 18, which would prohibit any governmental entity from discriminating or granting preferential treatment based on race, sex, color, ethnicity, or national origin in public employment, public education, public contracting, or public administration.

A "no" vote on Question 3 would vote not to add Wis. Const. art. I § 18 to the Wisconsin Constitution.

OBITUARIES

JAMES ROBERT 'JIM' ALLBAUGH

Coach James Robert (Jim) Allbaugh, of Shawano (formerly of Richland Center), gave us an "Irish goodbye" on Thursday, Oct. 15, 2026, making a peaceful departure from this world during the seventh inning stretch of Game 4 of the Brewers National League Championship Series sweep over the Dodgers sending Milwaukee to the World Series, which seemed odd as he was mostly of German heritage.

Coach Allbaugh was surrounded by his family, enjoying a great game, after having run the good race of life with a Personal Best time of 80 years, two months and 17.75 days. At his birthday party this past July, he said, "Not too bad for an old guy."

His final "meet" took place at The Cottages-Memory Care where he wasn't quite able to overcome that last obstacle of dementia, but boy did he enjoy his winning team and assistant coaches better known as RNs, CNAs and staff at The Cottages and ThedaCare-Hospice. His team also included his wife, Mary, and kids, Todd, Heather and Mike, along with so many friends, former wrestlers, cross country runners, assistant coaches and former students who made this meet his best race yet.

Jim was born July 27, 1946, in Richland Center, to his parents Robert "Bob" and Marguerite Allbaugh and raised on the homestead dairy farm in Bloom Township. He attended Ekelberry School, a one-room first through eighth grade country school just up the road. He was a 1964 graduate of Richland Center High School, lettering in football, wrestling and track. A solid foundation in wrestling was set by his high school coaches, Vern Peiper, Al Bauman and Norris Hattelstad.

Jim graduated from Richland County Teachers College in 1966 and began his teaching and coaching career at the age of 19 at Ithaca Public Schools. As head coach from 1969-74, his wrestling teams were 66-12-2.

The first junior high wrestling tournament in Wisconsin began at Ithaca. The first Grappalettes Club in Wisconsin, a girls club designed to help promote wrestling, was started at Ithaca. During this time, through summer schools and night classes, Jim obtained his bachelor's degree in elementary education at the University of Wisconsin-Platteville.

In the fall of 1974, Jim was hired at the University of Wisconsin-Richland in Richland Center as health and physical education teacher, athletic director, head wrestling coach and head cross country coach.

In 1978, Paul Nooyen became the first Wisconsin wrestler to win a National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) title at 177 pounds. The team won the Wisconsin Junior College state title, and Jim had the honor of being chosen WJACC Wrestling Coach of the Year.

Jim and over 100 volunteers began a late winter youth wrestling tournament. It grew to be the largest in Wisconsin and the Midwest, with over 1,200 wrestlers from five states and Canada.

While at UWR, Jim was chosen for several leadership positions, and he completed his master's degree in health and physical education at Winona State University in Winona, Minnesota.

In the early 1980s, he joined the Bay-Lakes Council of the Boy Scouts of America as a regional director, where he met the love of his life, Mary, who would go on to become his wife and partner in his coaching endeavors at Shawano where they would make their home. Jim was inducted into the Order of the Arrow, Scouting's national honor society.

Jim and Mary also began The Jukebox: Mobile DJ Service and played countless dances, weddings, reunions and community events across northeast Wisconsin.

During the 1982-83 school year, Jim was the first wrestling coach at the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay; unfortunately, the program was discontinued.

In 1984, Jim was hired by the Shawano Public Schools to teach middle school math and served as head wrestling coach (1984-94) and head cross country coach (1986-98). Jim coached the boys and girls varsity cross country teams, which grew from nine runners to more than 50.

Shawano won five Bay Conference titles and qualified athletes to both the state cross country and state wrestling meets in the same years, 1992 and 1994. This was the only time in school history the same coach accomplished that in two separate sports.

During his tenure as Shawano wrestling coach, promotion of the sport was paramount. An exciting slide, music and light introduction was created to build excitement at the introductions for dual meets. In 1986, he and his staff started the Shawano Holiday Classic Tournament. For the finals, they turned down the lights and developed a Parade of Champions, a format later introduced to the WIAA State Wrestling Finals.

During his time at Shawano, Jim served on the WIAA Wrestling Advisory Board and the Wisconsin Wrestling Coaches Executive Committee from 1986-90. Serving as District 2 Representative allowed Jim to serve Wisconsin wrestling and add input to improve the sport.

Without hesitation, Jim would say being involved with the original group that developed the 7% Rule in weight reduction guidelines was a highlight. Being involved with this committee allowed the Shawano High School wrestling program to be the first to implement this program. The 7% Rule is now the accepted weight reduction guideline for every high school and college in the nation.

Jim received the 20 Years of Service to Wrestling award from the WWCA in 1990. He was named Dedicated Teacher of the Year in 1992 by Shawano Public Schools. Jim spent 38 years officiating WIAA and NCAA wrestling and also officiated WIAA football and volleyball.

His 45 years of teaching, coaching and officiating at levels from elementary through college, from 1966 through 2011, were truly an honor and a blessing.

In 2012, Coach Allbaugh was enshrined in the George Martin Wisconsin Wrestling Hall of Fame. Jim credited John Berndt, Norris Hattelstad, Gary Gutknecht and the Wisconsin Wrestling Coaches Association for developing and working on the nomination. He has since been inducted into the Ithaca Wrestling, Richland Center Wrestling, UW-Richland Outstanding Alumni and Shawano Athletics halls of fame.

Jim is survived by his wife, Mary, of Shawano; son, Todd Allbaugh, of Madison; daughter, Heather (Michael) Galloy, of Eau Claire; son, Mike (Emily) Ulysses, of Portland, Oregon; granddaughters, Addison and Isabel Galloy, of Eau Claire; sisters, Peggy Allbaugh, of Charlotte, North Carolina, and Mary Allbaugh, of Madison; his lifelong best friend, John (Edwina) Melby, of Muscoda; several nieces and nephews; and countless wrestlers, runners, assistant coaches and friends. Coach Allbaugh's family is enormously grateful to everyone for their support.

A celebration of life will be held Saturday, Oct. 31, at Hope Church of Shawano, beginning with coffee, doughnuts and visitation from 9 a.m. until noon. The celebration of life will begin at noon, followed by a light luncheon. Everyone is welcome.

Swedberg Funeral Home and Hope Church, both of Shawano, are assisting the family with arrangements.

To quote one of Coach Allbaugh's favorite songs from Larry Gatlin and The Gatlin Brothers, "If, when you're running, the wind is always in your face – just keep on running, 'cause the wind, the wind is bound to change, bound to change."

"Do you not know that in a race all the runners run, but only one gets the prize? Run in such a way as to get the prize." – 1 Corinthians 9:24

Pat was especially drawn to the mechanical side of farming. He and his dad worked closely together to keep the heavy farm equipment running. Learning directly from his father Pat developed a lifelong mechanical genius and a unique knack for working with his hands that would define his entire life.

He took immense pride in his work, always willing to track down a difficult mechanical problem and fix it right for the family business.

Pat will forever be known for his love of cars and his skills as a mechanic. He was always ready to get his hands dirty and lend a helping hand in the garage He was a true grease monkey at heart. Pat will be remembered for his love of all things automotive and the memories he created with family and friends. He was a man who liked fixing what was broken and leaving things a little better than he found them.

When Pat wasn't wrenching on something in the garage back in the day, he could also be found at a pool table, on a snowmobile or on a dirt bike.

Pat is survived by his siblings, Ron Knitter, Karen Collins, Barbara Knitter, Debra Puckett, Pamela Flees and Bruce Knitter; as well as many beloved nieces, nephews, cousins, extended relatives, co-workers and dear friends.
